New York, Feb. 13.—Numbering of ballplayers, such as is done in football, may be tried as an experiment by one or two National league clubs this year, to aid spectators in identifying the players on the field. The Brooklyn and St. Louis clubs, it was said, both may give the scheme a trial.

MAJORS FORM NEW LEAGUE IN WHICH TO FARM OUT PROMISING PLAYERS

New York, Feb. 13 (By the A. P.) —Edward G. Barrow, secretary of the New York Yankees, tonight announced he had been offered the presidency of a proposed new eight-club baseball circuit to be called the Continental League, and to be formed among eastern cities of the United States and Canada. The project is reported to have the backing of the major leagues.

Mr. Barrow declined to reveal details of the offer made to him or to indicate whether he would accept, but admitted that he had been informed organization plans were well under way for launching the league in 1923.

From other sources it was learned authoritatively that clubs in the new circuit would be established in Toronto and Montreal, Canada; Buffalo, Newark, Baltimore, Brooklyn, Washington and Providence.

Initial playing strength would be given the new league, it was said, by having each major league club pool in players, alloting twenty to each team.

Mr. Barrow has had considerable experience as a league executive, serving for a number of years as president of the old International League. The offer to him to take the helm of the proposed Continental League, it was said, included unusually attractive financial inducement.

The clubs which it is proposed to place in Washington and Brooklyn, would use the grounds of the major league teams in those cities, according to the plan schedules being arranged so as not to cause conflicting dates.

The new league was declared to have been discussed in detail at the National League meeting here today but John A. Heydler, president, denied it had received formal attention.

"I know it is proposed to put a club in Brooklyn and I suppose our park could be used. When we are playing away from home, but I do not care to discuss the suggested league otherwise," Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn club, declared.

The proposed league, if actually put into the field under major league auspices, would, in the opinion of baseball men, amount to a formal declaration of war on the part of the majors in the present draft controversy with the minors. It also would open a direct conflict with the International League, which now is represented in four cities mentioned as likely to hold franchises in the new circuit, and which is one of five big minor leagues that have refused to recognize operation of the draft in any form.

The latest incident in the draft fight has been the flat refusal of these five leagues—the International, American Association, Pacific Coast, Western and Three-I—to accept players released by major league clubs under a provision, made mandatory by the majors, that such players must be subject to draft.

BAN JOHNSON SURPRISED AT NEW LEAGUE

Chicago, Feb. 13.—(By the A. P.)—President Ban Johnson of the American league expressed surprise tonight when informed of the organization of a new eight-club league, which, according to reports, would be backed by the major leagues.

"This is the first I've heard of it," he said.

The American league, he added, would not subscribe to any plan to pool its surplus players and distribute them among the clubs of the new organization.

LANDIS THINKS SOMEBODY HAD A PIPE DREAM

Chicago, Feb. 13.—K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, said tonight he had never heard of plans for establishment of a new eight-club baseball league sponsored by the major leagues when informed of reports from New York that such a league was being formed.

"I never even heard of it," Commissioner Landis said, then burst into hearty laughter. "Sounds like somebody had a drink, ate a piece of mince pie, imbibed stale beer, had a nightmare and then wrote a story" he added.

Sources close to the head of baseball called attention to the baseball territorial rights clause which many thought would prohibit establishment of new clubs in several of the cities that New York reports said were being considered, as clubs are already there.

GRIFFITH IN FAVOR OF PROPOSED LEAGUE

Washington, Feb. 13.—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball club, admitted tonight that he had "been approached" with reference to the organization of a new eight-club baseball league in eastern cities, including Washington, but declined to go into details. He said, however, that the matter had been discussed in major league circles, although he indicated that no steps had been taken even approaching a decision.

Griffith declared that he personally would entertain such a proposition if the new league was run along major league lines and he was not required to forfeit any territorial rights in Washington. He also would insist, he said, upon retaining all rights to his players, in case any were sent to the new league.

"Y" Volleyball Tonight

There will be no admission charge and a basketball game between the Mohican Five and the Y seconds will play during the hour preceding the volleyball.

PLAINFIELD

Within the last two weeks scouting has picked up considerably. There has been a new troop formed of younger girls who were recently the Brownies. This new troop meets Monday afternoon as well as Tuesday evening with the senior scouts for the formal meeting.

The younger troops are giving the seniors a "run for their money" in every phase of their work. On Tuesday evening there was an investiture ceremony at which time two girls received their second class badges, and one girl was made a scout. There are now two big Brownie troops; one being called the Wee Brownies. These are in charge of Miss Edith Birtwistle and are all promising material for scouts later on.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons it has become quite a common sight to see the children march from the grammar school to the Community house for their gymnasium work. The classes have been arranged now so that there are about 75 in each class.

The carpentry and painting classes are progressing and have started now to make bird houses and garden stools for sale.

A new class in basketry has been started for girls between eight and twelve years.

The dressmaking classes are still proving very interesting. The work just at present is the "making over" of last season's dresses and suits. There is a very friendly competition among the ladies to see who will finally produce the most fashionable looking garment.

Since the play, the ladies' gym class has doubled in numbers and enthusiasm. One part of the work is the swimming lesson at the end of the hour and by summer Plainfield will boast of many mermaids. The children are as enthusiastic about swimming as the seniors. At the end of their gymnasium work on Monday and this week there were twenty-seven youngsters in the pool.

DECLARES INVASION OF RUHR MAY SETTLE EUROPEAN CHAOS

Because of its very desperation, the advance of the French into the Ruhr may be the solution of the whole European turmoil, declared Isaac F. Marcosson, the world-traveled journalist, in his lecture Tuesday night at the Slater Memorial in the course under the auspices of the Norwich churches. Germany brought this Ruhr business on herself, he affirmed, but back of the whole chaos that has followed the World war is the fact that the allies did not march to Berlin and dictate peace from there, as they should have done. But somebody got cold feet.

An outburst of applause greeted this statement and Mr. Marcosson was applauded at other points in his lecture, while at times his touches of humorous comment had his audience laughing heartily with him. His lecture covered first in a comprehensive way the European situation and then went on to his assigned subject, The Changing East, which was a sketch of some conditions in Japan and China.

The lecturer was introduced by Rev. Dr. D. A. Pitt of the Central Baptist church.

Peace Conference Greatest Farce.

This lecture, said Mr. Marcosson, would be close to his swan song on the lecture platform.

Referring to the fact that when he lectured here once before it was at the time of the peace conference, he asked why it was that the present maelstrom in Europe existed, why chaos and not conservation had been the by-product of four years of strife, why Europe was trembling on the verge of another war. All the crisis of today had been due to one simple fact, that the peace conference had been the greatest farce that ever stepped into the pages of history, a recipe for ruin and a formula for disaster.

The blame for this all goes to the Big Four—Lloyd George, Clemenceau, Orlando and Wilson—three at least of whom could not see beyond the confines of their own countries, and Wilson could not see the double-cross that was handed him at every turn. There were too many cooks in that pot of peace. It opened a veritable Pandora box of malice and hatred. Four blacksmiths used a meat axe on the map of Europe to chop it up into pieces without regard to economic lines, instead of the skill, sympathy and understanding that were needed to heal the wounds of war. Many new self-determined countries were established, a beautiful piece of impractical ideals, each so weak that it could not stand on its own economic bottom.

Comic Opera Situation.

As an example of these impractical divisions, which brought about situations equal to comic opera, Mr. Marcosson mentioned what happened at the Brenner Pass railroad station in Southern Tyrol, which was given to Italy, although about 14 of the people spoke Italian, and 3,000,000 of the Austrian inhabitants spoke German. The railroad station, which happened to be on the Italian side of the line, caught fire, but the fire department was on the Austrian side, and when the firemen arrived they were held up by the Italian military police to look at the firemen's passports and get them vised. It was night, the passport office had closed, the passports could not be vised and the station was burned to the ground while the Italian police held the Austrian firemen from crossing the line.

German Reparations.

The horrors of peace in Europe today are almost as bad as the terrors of war ever were. The key to all is German reparations, in which the bad feature is that it took the Germans two and a half years to find out how much they had to pay, and in that time there was so much talk about what they could not pay that they came to have the feeling they didn't want to pay. Had the allies dictated peace from Berlin it could never have happened that way, there would not have been all this sidestepping. The Germans, and now the Turks, have capitalized the discord of the allies.

France and the Ruhr.

It is no secret that the Germans never expected the French to get into the Ruhr, at least Stinnes and the other criminal rich did not. The British and the French considered on reparations because the British wisely believed the reparations too big. Had the allies taken an economic survey of Germany, they would not have set reparations that the Germans could not pay, and the French and British are now as far apart as they ever were in 1850, and getting farther apart every day.

Stinnes and the criminal rich have been sending millions of marks out of the country on sales in the Far East, making collections there and leaving the money in banks there, thus keeping the money exempt from German taxation. Germany can pay, but Germany deliberately set out to murder the mark because in its slaughter they could have another argument against paying the reparations.

They have used up all the paper and ink in the country in printing new marks and the German rank and file have lost all confidence in the mark. With this has come a tremendous breakdown in the morale of the nation and you can hire an assassin to kill your best friend or your worst enemy for 50 cents a head. In a short time 369 prominent men have been killed and only one man has got more than two years in jail for it and nobody has been shot.

France Is Broke

France reached the point where she had to do something. She was broke. That was the reason she went into the Ruhr. For four years she had been spending reparations money which she didn't have and there was that great gash of devastated France to be restored. France is the sheriff with a bill to collect by force.

Mr. Marcosson said he had revised his first opinion on the French invasion of the Ruhr and now believed that possibly its very desperation may be the solution of the situation. It will at least prove to the French that they can never expect to collect indemnities beyond the possibility to pay and it will prove to the Germans that they cannot sidestep their obligations to the world.

But it has crystalized the Germans as nothing has done since 1914. Can the Germans fight? If they had the immense stores of hidden arms of which Clemenceau spoke, they would have fought before this, but the French army of 759,000 men is now the finest trained military force in the world. But the French invasion of the Ruhr wipes out any doubt that the future will hold a war of hate of Germany against France.

The Changing East

Leaving the European theatre, Mr. Marcosson proceeded to the second part of his lecture upon The Changing East.

He had gone to China and Japan he said because of the Washington conference at which were written the great disarmament agreement and the document which was to be the magna charter of China.

Are the Japanese supermen?" the lecturer asked, answering his own question by saying that they were the most overestimated nation in the world and the most unsanitary. The whole family of a Japanese bathes every day in the same hot water at the same time, and then puts back their soiled clothes. The Chinese don't bathe, but put on clean clothes. The Koreans do neither.

Where did the idea come from that the Japs were such a wonderful people. It was much like the story of what started the World war. It is said that when Roosevelt visited the Kaiser, at a time when the personal pronoun died a terrible death, Roosevelt saw a review of the kaiser's finest army corps. The foremost American told the foremost Teuton that with such soldiers he could beat the world, and the kaiser believed it.

After Japan defeated Russia we told the Japs they were the greatest little people in the world, and they believed it.

Mr. Marcosson declared that he had never discovered any human feeling in the Japanese. An unfailing index of the character of a people was the attitude of its men towards its women. He had found more respect for womanhood in the heart of Africa than in Japan, where woman were looked upon only as a breeder of children and a beast of burden. Under the most immaculate appearance and suave manner the Japanese is a feudalist and thinks in terms of 1,000 years ago. His heart is an emotional vacuum, but one of the most marvellous things in the world is his love for his emperor. This is his religion. The emperor is a god.

Mr. Marcosson described the difficulty that he had in getting an interview with the emperor, Prince Hiro Hito. When you stand on the doorstep of Japanese royalty you are up against the north pole solidified 25 times. Innate suspicion is a birthright of the Japanese and all other difficult personages he had ever interviewed were as phonographs to the Japanese.

The lecturer predicted that while the king business in Europe is destined to no long lease of life in the future, Japan will be the last of the empires to give up its reigning ruler, so ingrained is the devotion of the people to the emperor. Yet liberalism is beginning to dawn in this aristocracy and it is through the women that this is making its first steps. Within the last three months women have been allowed to attend political meetings, but the same woman will bathe in the same tub at the same time with her husband and in sight of 10,000 people.

Discharging Employes

No employes may be discharged without giving them a retirement allowance, which is the same whether a man has worked six month or 25 years. It is sometimes cheaper for a concern to keep its employes than discharge them. In one case where a steamship company discharged 300 men, the retirement allowance amounted to $3,000,000. That is one reason why Japan's whole economic system is out of joint.

Cannot Fight U. S.

There was never so great a delusion, said Mr. Marcosson, as that Japan could fight the United States. There is no iron or steel in Japan nor is there enough food for its people. With not enough food and no raw materials, the Japanese could not fight us. They got a realizing sense of this when they saw the stupendous economic machine that was built up behind our army in the World war. The Japanese saw the hopelessness of the situation of going to war with us, but they made great capital of this war talk that has given them a grand stand seat in every world conference that has been held.

Sympathy for China.

Quite opposite is the feeling of the world towards China from what it is towards Japan. The Chinese are the most fascinating people on the face of the earth.

Mr. Marcosson spoke of the prevalence of wars in China, where 1,300,000 men are under arms, because every governor has his own personal army, paying his soldiers nothing, so that it is necessary to have a war about twice a year to provide an open season for looting through which the soldiers collect their pay. Every general is a bandit. In the last war 200,000 troops were engaged, a great quantity of powder was shot off into the air, and 32 men were killed.

The lecturer spoke of having been the guest for two days of the prize bandit of them all, the viceroy of Manchuria, who looked like a cross between Machiavelli and Captain Kidd, ruthless and iron handed but low spoken. He had 16 wives and kept a family jail into which he clapped any of his wives or children who became refractory. After a day in jail he said they came out much more amiable.

Sun Yat Sen may possibly be the man to bring this immense wobbly jellyfish nation together. He has been rejected and despised a dozen times, but today he holds the balance of power, and if the United States of China is ever realized it will be through the influence of the idealism of Sun Yat-Sen.

Solvency and Sanity.

Closing his lecture of about an hour and fifteen minutes, Mr. Marcosson said he had gone to China because of the Washington conference, in which the two great achievements had been the agreement for limitations of armaments and the writing of the magna charter of China. But great as was the vision held out by the limitation of armaments, it would all be in vain unless there were another kind of disarmament in the sterilization of the nations from malice, envy, hatred and suspicion. In this spiritual disarmament will the world achieve what it needs more than anything else—solvency and sanity.

OVER 300 BILLS ON LEGISLATURE'S CALENDAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 13.—With the opening of the seventh week of the general assembly, on Tuesday, over three hundred bills, resolutions and petitions have been placed on the calendar by thirteen committees. Some of them will be quickly disposed of in the committee rooms. Others will develop considerable discussion. But then, one cannot always foresee what a bill will develop. The bill heard last week concerning the cutting of brush along the highways, which on the face of it seemed simple enough, when it came before the committee, provoked a long and hard protest. Likewise the bill concerning the sale of arbutus.

Nearly one-fifth of the bills introduced are on the bulletin.

The judiciary committee will have a busy week, for besides the bird control bill which was heard today, on Wednesday the bill establishing a civil service commission will be heard and on Thursday a number of prohibition enactments will be heard. Among them are bills describing penalties, one providing disfranchisement and another providing injunction against persistent offenders.

A bill introduced by Senator McGrath provides that intoxicating liquors shall be defined as wines with 10 per cent. and also with 4 per cent. alcoholic content. Wednesday the continued railroad hearing will be held in the hall of the house. It is expected that the representatives of the striking shop crafts will be present in large numbers. Friday the committee on education will hold a meeting in the hall of the house for a general discussion of educational matters.

Senator Trumbull chairman of the legislative committee on finance, announced in the senate today that it was the intention of the committee to report a bill concerning special exemptions from taxation. After the senate had adjourned Senator Trumbull said the bill would aim at the repeal of special exemptions but not those which were authorized by the statutes. Churches, hospitals and other institutions of a benevolent or charitable character, which are exempted by statute would continue to be exempted.

WASH YOUR KIDNEYS BY DRINKING WATER

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Also Take Some Salts

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Tuesday morning at here home at Connecticut Village, north of the borough, the death of Mrs. Grace Elliott Geldard occurred. She had been ill about ten days. Mrs. Geldard was a native of Lonsdale, R. I., born September 14, 1883, a daughter of Robert and Jessie (Belfour) Mikleyohn. She leaves her husband, two sons, John Wesley, Jr., of Boston, and Charles R. of Danielson, and a daughter, Mrs. Charles Lowry, of Danielson.

Considerable space having been devoted in this column to correspondence discussing the establishment of a Community church in Brooklyn and considering the subject from different viewpoints it would appear that little would be gained at the present time by further publicity. Letters that have been received for publication without revealing the identity of the writers cannot be used in any event and are being disregarded, as is the rule in handling such communications when submitted for use in a newspaper.

At a special meeting the Westfield Cemetery association has voted to purchase land of the Connecticut Mills company lying between the south boundary of its cemetery property on North street and the north boundary of Holy Cross cemetery. Purchase of this land is made at this time in order that the association may be assured of ample area for enlargement of what is known as the South cemetery at whatever time this may be necessary. It is not anticipated, an official of the association said Tuesday, that the newly purchased land will be required for cemetery purposes for the next 25 years.

The Pawtucket High school team comes to Danielson this evening to meet the Killingly High school basketball team in the town hall. Pawtucket has been scheduled to fill vacancies in Killingly's schedule caused by the cancelling by Foxboro, Mass., High school of two games to have been played with Killingly—one here and one at Foxboro. Tonight's meeting will be the first between teams of the schools represented. Killingly anticipates an unusually hard game, for the visitors represent a school much larger than Killingly High and with a consequently larger selection of players with which to build a team. Killingly has been playing in top form for several weeks and the loyal supporters look for the team to keep up its victorious play in tonight's contest.

Water gushed down Franklin street during the noon hour of Tuesday, but not because a long looked for rainstorm had set in. The little torrent was coming from the junction of Broad and Franklin streets, where a motor truck of the state highway department had backed into a hydrant and snapped it off. The broken hydrant received the attention of water company employes later in the afternoon.

If no more memberships are received prior to that time, announcement will be made at the meeting of the Danielson Rod and Gun club at the Central fire station this (Wednesday) evening that 109 men have signed up as members and paid in their fees for a year. The application blanks have been coming in very rapidly during the past 48 hours, and all the sportsmen hereabout now feel assured that the club is going to prove just the medium they have desired for years to promote good shooting and fishing, trap shooting and other kindred diversions. As there is no limitation on the membership, all sportsmen who are interested will be gladly received and it is anticipated that many more will come in before the first of March now only two weeks away.

Danielson again dug itself out of the latest arrival of snow Tuesday morning—about four inches of it. The storm came after midnight and was concluded before daylight with a sharp downpour of rain, but this feature did not endure very long. Patient shovelers, trained to unusual endurance this year, were at work clearing walks soon after daylight. And notwithstanding all of the real winter weather this section has endured at least three men reported seeing robins on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dubuc and child of Mechanic street had a narrow escape from being overcome with fumes and soot from an oil stove, the flames of which ran up too high while it was left unattended for a time Monday morning. The faces of the members of the household were blackened by the soot, which also was deposited throughout the rooms.

One case was disposed of at Tuesday morning's session of the town court, Judge W. Penner Woodward presiding. A Ballouville man was fined $5 and costs for having been intoxicated. His case was the first that Ballouville has turned into the town court in many, many months.

The rush during Tuesday to buy valentines was substantial proof that the pretty custom of sending out such remembrances has not abated with the passing years. Delivery through the mails, when assistance as comic valentines also endorses proof, too, that the morons are not with us and that spoiled children never grow up.

Approximately 1500 people have become members up to the week of Christmas clubs organized by Danielson's banks. This is a generous number than ever before and it was promise of release in early December of close to $1,000 which some are confident that the total will be in excess of that figure. The great majority of this regiment of Christmas club members have been in the receiving line when holiday checks were being handed out in other years and have found the experience so pleasing and the burden of Christmas expense so easily relieved that they are sure fire joiners every year now.

Representatives of the chamber of commerce will meet members of the town school committee at the town hall building next Monday evening according to present arrangements to discuss the matter of heat in Danielson's schools. This subject came up at last week's meeting of the chamber of commerce and what was said about was due to some complaint about cool school rooms on occasions recently. It was suggested that the matter properly should be taken up with the school committee and arrangements have been made to do this.

Constant reports of the surprising number of deer being seen this winter in outlying sections of Killingly and other nearby towns and the rise to specular heights to which the animals are coming from the apparently grounded theory that many were driven out of Massachusetts during the open season for hunting them for a week about two months ago. It was about the time when the increase in numbers was first noted here. Another theory is that the deer from New Englandare moving southward because of their brethren in northern Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont moving south in vast herds from across the Canadian border. At any rate pace between Dan Kelley and Ballouville as trees can be picked down as to indicate a need of at least twenty-five feet looking each there. Wherever the cause, the deer now abound through all the country side, illicit killing of them, accidents that result in their death and other destructive forces notwithstanding.

To date members of Killingly's board of relief have not been called upon to listen to mass pleas for reductions of lists as fixed by the assessors. A few cases have been filed, but they are of a minor nature.

Having no more than opened in the state highways after Saturday's snow storm, state plows had to go out on Tuesday and do the work all over again, as has been the rule since the third of January, when the big snow storm of the season came.

Earl Wood, now managing the Danielson basketball team, promises of the finest teams for appearance here during the remainder of playing season yet seien in Danielson. It is expected that the Cardinals, who have almost a national reputation, will be among the season's playing outfits.

Today (Ash Wednesday) is the beginning of Lent, bringing a period of rest for many who have had a season of gay activity.

Charles T. Tillinghast, who has been ill at his home for several days was reported Tuesday as resting more comfortably.

Henry A. Bascombe of Boston was in Danielson Tuesday on a business trip.

PUTNAM

Captain Remi Delage has returned from West Warren, Mass., where he was called by the death of his father, Remi Delage, who died suddenly last Friday evening. Mr. Delage had been ill with pneumonia only two days. Early Friday evening he managed to get up from his bed, was seized with a fainting spell while leaning against the wall and fell to the floor dead.

Mr. Delage was 63 years of age and a native of the city of Quebec. He had been a resident of West Warren for many years and was engaged in operating a farm of 163 acres. He dealt extensively in cattle in addition to maintaining a dairy herd.

He leaves his wife, two sons, Captain Remi Delage of this city and Henry of Springfield, and three daughters, Mrs. Dora Lapiere of Springfield, Mass., Mrs. Olivine Chicquone and Miss Delia Delage of West Warren.

One of the most important of the Mardi Gras social affairs in this territory was the masquerade given at North Grosvenordale Tuesday evening under the auspices of the American Legion post and its Ladies' auxiliary of that place. There were numbers of unique and attractive costumes. Numbers who attended the ball were from this city, and there was also a large attendance from Webster and from other places in this territory. The dance was a complete success.

The coal famine which this city has felt the pinch of more during the past four weeks than at any other time during the winter has been eased considerably by the arrival here of several carloads of hard coal. This was being distributed Tuesday in limited allotments, so that the available supply may be made to serve as many families as possible. Anticipation is that the coal situation will be less stringent from now on, unless heavy snowstorms come to hamper rail traffic.

Progress continues to be made with the extensive operation the city is carrying out in modernizing its filtration plant at Harrisville, on the route to Woodstock. Pouring of concrete is expected to be completed within a few days. Much of the operations carried on during the winter have been underground. An engineer who is supervising the work was here Tuesday from Boston to inspect what has been done. With the work below the surface level completed, there still will remain the project of building the structure above ground, as called for by the plans. When the work is completed, Putnam will have one of the finest filtering systems in New England, thoroughly modern in every respect and of a capacity sufficiently large to care for all the water this city will need even after a long period of years of growth.

About a score are registered in the evening school recently established at the French River inn at Mechanicsville, the inn being under the management of John Kennedy, member of the Thomson town school committee. The majority of those attending the school are adults and of foreign birth. All are anxious to know more of the English language and of his country and customs than it is convenient for them to assimilate in speaking and reading only a foreign language. The school is to be continued through the remainder of the winter and the spring months.

The big building boom that Putnam experienced during 1922 promises to carry well through 1923. Some of the projects undertaken last year are still far from completion and there are indications that other important building operations will be undertaken in Putnam as soon as the weather permits work that as yet has not been given any publicity. This would indicate that craftsmen in the building trades are to have a busy year.

What some counters describe as the sixth snowstorm, while others declare it the fifth depending on the angle of Sunday's flurry, has completed its work and left four more inches of snow for it to the total the average person was up and about Tuesday morning. The storm came on one of the most dismal days of the season, being accompanied by a heavy rain as a result of which the snow was soaked and heavy. Tuesday marked the end of a week's continuous period of tingling the fair streets of the town, and a score of cases developed during the week.

Thompson town folks had a masque dance and their own Mardi Gras Thursday night in the Thompson town hall. Dancing and a supper were features of the evening, and a committee was appointed to see that a similar event will be added to the social calendar.

Banking heavily on the prospect that there is to be a banner year for sales of new automobiles, Putnam dealers have placed heavy orders for shipments of new machines were being delivered from cars to the local yards on Tuesday and hauled to dealers' quarters. One dealer announces sales of $200,000 during 1922. This agency serves all of eastern Windham county, and most of the consignment into towns outside of Putnam.

Attention of residents in this corner of the state is being called to the fact that the bureau of child welfare with headquarters in the state capitol at Hartford is in a position to place several little girls and boys in homes hereabouts. The children are in need of free homes. Protestant and Catholic children are included in the list of those who are in need of immediate adoption.

Cortez Apples and Hon. Orrin Phelps, all in the general top considered among Woodstock's citizens, are officers of the Quinebaug Valley Fruit Growers' association to be held at Snowdy hall in North Woodstock. The county farmers' association has co-operated in arrangements for this meeting. All who are interested in growing better apples in Windham county have been invited to attend this meeting.

Feb. 22 is set as the date for the annual Ladies' Night of the Methodist church here.

It occurred to an official here Tuesday that the famous blacklist of the days of the past, for years it was kept at the saloon keepers' headquarters and those whose names appeared thereon—men and women, and there were many—were barred from buying liquor and licensed dealers from selling them. The blacklist went into the discard with the coming of prohibition and has become almost a forgotten roster of reckless drinkers.

Following a custom coming down through the ages, there will be a distribution of penitential ashes at the Ash Wednesday eservices at St. Mary's church today. These ashes are formed by burning palms blessed at the high mass of Easter Sunday of last year.

More than ordinary precautions about chimneys are being taken this winter by numbers of property holders in Putnam. The use of soft coal and other substitute fuels, creating unusual amounts of soot, is chiefly responsible for the extra precautions against chimney fires now being taken by many.

Putnam members of the newly formed Danielson Rod and Gun club have been notified of a meeting of the organization to be held in Danielson this (Wednesday) evening.

Mrs. James Deliada, a Danielson patient, was reported Tuesday as resting comfortably at the Day Kimball hospital after undergoing a surgical operation.

The mails were made heavier Tuesday by the addition of hundreds of valentines being exchanged by residents of this city.

Former service men recalled Tuesday that heavy drafts of men were being taken from this district for Camp Devens and other cantonments in February five years ago. Many of these men went to France eventually, while others were held in this country until the end of the war.

Deer are reported taking unusual chances to obtain food in the surrounding countryside. Their usual sources of supply have been continuously covered under heavy snow since the first of the year, and the winter is proving a trying period for them.

Bricklayers employed on one job now under way in Putnam are drawing pay at the rate of $1.15 an hour, which scale compares favorably with the high rates paid here during the war period.

The city's expense account for snow removal this winter will get another boost as the result of the storm of the early hours of Tuesday morning.

The hearing before the judiciary committee on various welfare bills, including commitment of children to county homes, juvenile courts, children born out of wedlock and commitment of children under four were the leading features of the hearing.

Prominent welfare workers from all parts of the state including Ex-Chief Justice Prentice, Bishop John G. Murray, doctors, lawyers and philanthropists gave hearty endorsement to the bills considered.

The bill attracting the most attention was the bill concerning birth control. Mrs. Annie G. Porritt, of Hartford, was in charge of the presentation of the bill. Among those speaking in favor were Dr. P. P. Swett, Dr. Stoll and Chester of Hartford, H. S. Fletcher of Enfield and Robert P. Butler of Hartford.

GIVES LINCOLN ADDRESS AT RADIATOR COMPANY

The regular weekly noon meeting was held Tuesday under Y. M. C. A. auspices at the Richmond Radiator plant, with a large attendance. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts delivered an exceedingly impressive address on "The Paramount Greatness of Lincoln's Character," and spoke as follows:

"There are many reasons why this occasion has been selected. I can [illegible] Americans [illegible] speaking. MARKET WAS ACTIVE.

New York, Feb. 13.—Speculators for the advance succeeded in bringing about another sharp upturn in prices in today's stock market, the broadest and most active of the year. Foreign news developments were encouraged, average prices of industrials moving to new high levels for the year on another series of constructive trade developments which included an advance of more than 1 cent a pound in the price of Cuban raw sugar and the publication of several favorable 1922 earnings reports.

Marking up the call money rate to 6 per cent. in the last hour, as against a renewal rate of 4 1-4 per cent. apparently reflected heavy government withdrawals but it was construed in some quarters as a cautionary warning on the part of bankers against the liquidity of the recent rise in prices. The higher rate caused a moderate reduction in the volume of business, which was at the rate of more than 2,000,000 shares an hour during the active part of the session, and also induced some profit taking sales which resulted in recessions of a point or more in some of the leaders.

Baldwin was the most active of the so-called market leaders, touching 140 and closing at 139 3-4, where it was up 2 3-4 on the day. Heavy support of these shares was based on advance information that the 1922 annual report, issued after the market closed, would show some profits of more than $20 a share on the common stock. Net profits totalled $4,-[illegible] against $6,014,096 the year before. U. S. Steel closed 1-2 point at 107 3-4. But Studebaker, after crossing 140 dropped back to 139 1-4, where it was off 3-8 on the day.

Sugars again led the list of standard issues. The sharp rise in sugar prices and the department of commerce's estimate of a shortage of 726,000 tons in the 1923 crop drawing attention to those prices. Punta Alegre touched 99 1-2 and then dropped back to 98 1-4 for a net gain of about 4 points. Manati closed 3 points higher and Cuban American crossed 37 and closed at 36 5-8 for a net gain of 2 1-2 points.

Strong points were found in virtually every group. American Sumatra Tobacco preferred climbed 3 3-4 points. Republic Steel jumped 2 5-8. North American moved up 3 3-4 points to 117 on rumors of the early announcement of a big cash dividend and gains of 3 to 12 points were recorded by Fruit, United Fruit, American Linseed, Associated Oil, New York Air Brake, Porto Rican nTobacco, Tobacco Products preferred, Remington Typewriter second preferred, South Porto Rican Sugar and United Cigar Stores.

Rails were less active and inclined to ease but St. Paul preferred crossed 30 and closed at a net gain of nearly 1 points on reports of excellent January earnings. New Haven dropped below 19 on rumors that a loan extension was contemplated but this was later officially denied and the stock snapped back to 20 1-4, where it was off 1-4 points on the day.

Business in the time money market was small with brokers offering 4 3-4 per cent and bankers demanding 5 per cent for accommodation. The commercial paper market was moderately active with [illegible] of the prime names commanding 4 1-2 per cent.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was the rise in the pound sterling from 4.66 to 4.68 3-4 cents in response to reports of speculative demand. Demand sterling sold just under 4.68 and francs sold around 6.11 cents as against 6.20 on Saturday.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
by DAVID CORY

UNCLE LUCKY'S VALENTINE.

The rose is red, the violet blue,
Oh, how I love a rabbit stew!
I love it most as well as you:

That was what sly Danny Fox wrote on the valentine he sent to the big, fat hen at the Farmyard, and when she got it on Valentine morning she thought the big red rooster had sent it to her, so she laid a beautiful white egg and then told him to come to her nest and see what she had given him for St. Valentine's Day. Of course, he didn't know that she thought he had sent her a valentine, so he went down to the Three-in-One-Cent Store and bought her a lovely one, all covered with lace and gold hearts.

"Hello, who's this?" asked the old gentleman rabbit.

And now I must tell you what Uncle Lucky said when he got his valentine. He went to the window of his little white house and called to the Yellow Dog Tramp who took care of the Lukymobile in the winter time:

"Come here, you good old yellow dog. And see my valentine.
I love it most as well as you.
Although I'm ninety-nine."

And when the Yellow Dog Tramp saw Uncle Lucky's valentine he said: "Who sent it?"

"Goodness, gracious, meebus!" exclaimed Uncle Lucky. "How do I know? You never know who sends you a valentine, do you?"

But before the Yellow Dog Tramp could answer, the telephone bell rang.

"Hello, who's this?" asked the old gentleman rabbit.

"It's me, Little Jack Rabbit. Did you get your valentine?"

And then the old gentleman rabbit began to laugh and he turned to the Yellow Dog Tramp and said:

"Little Jack Rabbit sent it," and he told what he had just heard over the 'phone, and this made the Yellow Dog Tramp smile.

"I wish I was back in old Vermont,
Safe from worry and harm;
But it's many a day since I went away
From my home on the dear old Farm."

And then the Yellow Dog Tramp wiped his eyes and went into the garage and polished up the Luckymobile until it looked like it just came out of the paint shop.

Well, by and by, Uncle Lucky came out of the front door and down the road and, by and by, after a while he came to Rabbitville, where he went into the Three-in-One-Cent Store and bought a valentine for his little rabbit nephew. Then he hopped away to the Old Bramble Path as fast as he could, for it was getting late and he wanted to get there before Mr. Happy Sun went to bed in the purple west and in the next story you shall hear what Uncle Lucky did when he reached the Old Bramble Patch.

LABOR CONTROVERSY AIRED AT THE RAILROAD HEARING

Representatives of Striking Shopmen Claim That the Strike is Responsible for the Present Condition of the Freight and Passenger Service on the New Haven Road—Resent Charge of Sabotage—Mr. Bardo Told of Supplies Disappearing in Order to Cripple Operation—Declared the Shopmen "Had Sacrificed Themselves on the Altar of Trade Unionism".

Hartford, Feb. 14.—The present [illegible] Mr. Swinnerton replied to Mr. Bardo regarding conditions on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was held up as the "most glaring example of railroad mismanagement in the striking shop crafts on the system the United States."

The chairman speaker of the hearing was Mr. Buckland in rebuttal to a long of a resolution of inquiry into the conduct of assertions made by Schlesinger, freight and passenger service of the company.

Representatives of the striking shopmen declared that the strike was responsible for present conditions, the "sabotage" has not been preached or resorted to as charged by General Manager A. Bardo two weeks ago and that a compromise along the lines of the Baltimore agreement was possible and if accepted would enable the road to rehabilitate itself.

At the previous hearing Mr. Bardo and Vice President L. G. Buckland presented the road's view of conditions, the former asserting that the company was recovering from the strike of last September and that in the other four months conditions were almost normal. The shopmen's side was briefly presented and rested mainly on a prepared statement by George Soule, acting a history of the negotiations before the railway labor board.

Today, Henry T. Hunt of New York a former member of the labor board and former mayor of Cincinnati read a statement regarding the labor troubles among the railway employes since the close of the war. He declared that the hostility between the men and the managements of roads was not a natural one but had been brought on by pressure upon managements to pay dividends. He also declared that the shopmen had obeyed the orders of the labor board but the railroads had not.

Mr. Hunt said that the people of New England were being scourged in order that the Pennsylvania shop system might be carried through. He advocated the working out of an agreement along the lines of the Baltimore pact.

Mr. Buckland replied that the Pennsylvania's holdings were only about 50,000 shares out of 1,700,000. He said that the New Haven road opposed the shop policy of the Pennsylvania and had never followed it.

State's Attorney Allen of New Haven told the committee's information, the memorandum of Federal Judge Thomas in issuing a restraining order against the striking shopmen, affidavits used in the application for the order, a copy of a conversation with John C. Ready, chairman of the system federation in which a proposal was made to prevent disorder among the strikers, the records of the trials of two strikers convicted on their own confession of murderous assault with confinement of Judson Wolfe and two letters which figured in the trial of Ernest Schleifer of New Haven.

The two Schleifer letters were written in 1917 and had reference to Alexander Berkman, later deported as a radical and to the Mooney case. Mr. Alling said at the trial and deposed under that Schleifer said he wrote the letters which were on stationery of the Industrialist.

Mr. Schleifer then rose and declared that the interstate commerce commission had the information of smeared in hearings lowered nuts and other things and had brought the road. "The fact is" said Schleifer "the sabotage charge of Mr. Bardo has fallen through and has not been proved. I am trying to break the strike by making this and increasing me or being an accident. The New Haven road is in such a fix that it [illegible] no until [illegible] of the men. A [illegible] charged to me and to [illegible] war upon the railroads."

Schleifer then read a statement regarding a conference made by Mr. Soule and Mr. Ready two weeks ago. He again referred to the large increase in purchases of water gauges, babbitt and brake shoe keys to show that supplies disappeared in order to cripple operation. He concluded by saying that the shopmen had sacrificed themselves on the altar of trade unionism.

The gauge of hope is the long-distance sight of success.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

In the interval of 25 years, another battleship Maine has been built, served its time as "pride of the navy," and been condemned to the scrap heap as obsolete.

One hundred and seventy-five years ago today was born Jeremy Bentham, celebrated as the founder of philosophy of "the greatest happiness of the greatest number."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

People who visit photoplay theatres admit, by their very presence in the playhouse, that they welcome the thrill that comes with an adventurous story; the appeal that is inherent in the romantic tale; the interest that is found in the plausibly entertaining narrative. All these elements are abundantly present in Irvin V. Willat's production for Metro, a picturization of the famous sea story by Ben Ames Williams entitled. All the Brothers Were Valiant, which is the feature at the Breed theatre today, Friday and Saturday. It is a brilliant picture, vastly satisfying to all who admit that they're still young enough to be able to enjoy sheer romance and excitement. A cast, numbering among others Lon Chaney, Billie Dove and Malcolm McGregor, enacts the important roles in a manner that is certain to win the commendation of picture-goers. Be sure that you see this unusual photoplay; you'll regret it if you don't.

Movie Chats and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Fine Vaudeville Onens at Broadway Today.

The B. F. Keith vaudeville at the Broadway for the last half of this week will surely meet with the approval of all for it is one of a varied kind.

The feature attraction is The Wiesan Troupe, featuring a whirlwind acrobatic novelty. This aggregation consists of a woman and three men.

Charles Reader is called The Syncopated Xylophonist and renders some fine music.

Blackwell and Tanner appear in Financiers to Romance, a comedy skit.

Lamey & Pearson offer their comedy, A Tale of Two Cities.

Joe McFarlan & Johnny Palace appear in Volumes of Harmony. They offer twelve minutes of genuine assortment.

Irristibly strong in its appeal and unlike anything heretofore presented on the screen is the Goldwyn production of Remembrance, written and directed by Rupert Hughes and showing for three days at Broadway theatre.

For the first time in the annals of motion pictures the father of a family has been made the principal character in a story of such depth and sincerity and truth to life that it cannot leave the spectator unmoved. What Mr. Hughes did for the mother in The Old Nest he has done for the father in Remembrance, and the result is the most genuinely worthwhile picture that has come to the Broadway theatre in many months.

Crossroads of New York, Opens at Strand Today.

Following the stupendous success won by Molly O, Mack Sennett has produced another feature picture in dramatic comedy vein. The Crossroads of New York, which is being released through Associated First National Pictures, Inc., and will be the attraction at the Strand theatre starting today.

As his aides in making The Crossroads of New York the producer has assembled many of the artists famous in his former line of endeavor. F. Richard Jones, who directed Molly O, is the director for this picture. The cast includes in addition to George O'Hara and Kathryn McGuire, who play the leads, Eddie Gribbon, Billie Bevan, Charles Murray, Del Farley and Mildred June, all well known performers of the Sennet studios. Then, too, there are Noah Beery, famous for his portrayal of heavy types; Herbert Standing, veteran character actor; Ethel Grey Terry and Ben Deeley.

The short subjects will include the latest "Ham" Hamilton comedy scream, entitled, No Luck and an up-to-date Kinogram news weekly.

Interdenominational Prayer Meeting.

JEWTRAW SMASHES ANOTHER WORLD RECORD, SKATING IN SNOW STORM

St. John, N. B., Feb. 14.—Charles Jewtraw, of Lake Placid, N. Y., smashed another world's record today on Lily lake here and did it in a snow storm. In a driving finish with Charles Gorman, of St. John, and Harry Kasky, of Chicago, the speed king of the Adirondacks eased out a victor in the 220-yard new and lowered the world outdoor record to 4 seconds. Only a few inches separated Gorman and Kasky, who finished in a dead heat for second place. The time was 19 3-5 seconds.

Junior and women's events made up the rest of the day's program. The races were contested on a six lap track. An interesting feature of the record-breaking final of the 220 was that F. J. Venet, premier of New Brunswick, was named the referee for the race. He used keen judgment in the decision that the record would go.

Joe Moore, of New York and William Steinmetz, of Chicago, did not get into the points in the first day.

The summaries:

220-yards: Won by Charles Jewtraw, Lake Placid; second, Charles Gorman, St. John; third Harry Kasky, Chicago. Time 19 3-5 seconds, a new Canadian amateur record.

440-yards—women: Won by Gladys Robinson, Toronto; second, Rose Johnston, Chicago; third, Alice Howard, St. John. Time 48 seconds.

440-yards 12-year-old boys: Won by Jack Shea, Lake Placid; second, Harry Smythe, St. John; third, Ray Murray, New York. Time 47 seconds.

220-yards—14-year-old boys: Won by Carl Parody, Lake Placid; second, George Bowles, St. John; third, Walter Miller, St. John. Time 21 seconds.

220-yards—16-year-old boys: Won by Eugene Shea, Lake Placid; second, D. A. Myles, St. John; third, Robert Maxwell, St. John. Time 24 seconds.

Three-quarter mile scratch: Won by Harry Kasky, Chicago; second, Duke Donovan, St. Paul; third, Charles Gorman, St. John. Time 2:19 4-5.

Half-mile—16-year-old boys: Won by Logan, St. John; second, Snodgrass, St. John; Sheffield, Lake Placid. Time 1:34 2-5.

NEW BOOK REVIEWS HARVARD'S PART IN COLLEGE ATHLETICS

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 14 — The part that Harvard played in preventing soccer from becoming the football game of American collegiates, the time when baseball was a game in which the catcher, bloody and half blinded, looked like a badly mauled boxer; days when rowing was a disreputable college sport; and the development of track athletics as an outgrowth of rowing, are described in "The H. Book of Harvard Athletics," which was issued yesterday.

The book, compiled by graduates of the college, who were specialists in their undergraduate days and since, contains statistical stories of Harvard's participation in the past 70 years in these sports, in hockey and in lawn tennis. With it are 32 photographs of every Harvard team with only two exceptions. The changes in equipment and costume are striking.

The stand which Harvard took against the type of football being played in 1872 by Columbia, Princeton, Rutgers and Yale is described by Morton Prince of that city, a member of the class of 1875. Harvard, playing a game under "Boston rules" resembling the football of today, declined an invitation to attend a meeting of the intercollegiate football association tendered by Yale, because the other colleges insisted on a game of virtually all footwork.

"If Harvard had not refused to join the association it is highly improbable that the modern game played, the American rugby, would ever have evolved," Mr. Prince wrote. "Instead, all the universities, colleges and schools today would be playing association rules, practically soccer."

The ancient rivalry between Harvard and Yale finally induced a compromise that led to the acceptance of the rugby rules, he added. President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot contributes in his account of "rowing in the fifties" the statement that "it would never have occurred to the Harvard crews to use the Harvard crew because it was not a reputable thing to belong to that crew. The boats in those days were used, both spring and fall, as a means of bringing home members of the crew who did not return sober from an evening in Boston." Boating was the first organized sport at Harvard, he said. The Harvard crew of 1858 of which Dr. Eliot was a member wearing crimson handkerchiefs bought at a store in Boston of which Dr. Eliot's brother was a member, established crimson as the college color, although the book brings out the fact that for a time magenta was substituted for it.

"Baseball as played today is entirely different from the parent game of nearly seventy-seven years ago," declares William T. Reid, '01, former coach, who writes that the single feature of that game which has survived in its original form is the "distance of ninety feet between the bases."

New names for the various positions have crept in, bare hands have been slipped into gloves, the catcher of the caloused hand and scarred face and fingers has been supplanted by the modern knight with mask, protector, shin guards and mitt and the pitcher with his limited repertoire of delivery and overload of work has been freed and oddified. The ball has been improved and standardized and the bat limited in length, size and material.

A New York daily in reviewing the first game that saw the Americans played in New York, pays the visitors tribute to their cool and courteous conduct, without commending at the highest terms the ability, spirit and countenance of Flagg. With both hands used up, a battered face and a half-blinded eye, he stood up to his post unflinchingly as if he had been candidate for the traditional burning deck."

How the catcher's mask made its first appearance in a Harvard game in 1877, batting coach Percival C. Thayer, the Harvard captain, says the mask used in fencing also was described.

"NO LOAFING FOR OLD JOHN SN OWSHOVEL"

PROPOSED LEAGUE SETS BASEBALL WORLD TO TALKING ON POSSIBILITY

New York, Feb. 14.—Baseball's chief topic of discussion today—the proposed Continental or Inter-Allied league, reputed to be in process of organization in eight eastern cities of the United States and Canada and to have major league approval if not actual backing, developed a diversity of opinion in baseball circles here and throughout the country.

A air of mystery was cloaked about the actual organizers of the project and a majority of baseball men, particularly in the face of denials issued by high officials of the game, were skeptical in their views of a new league's feasibility. One or two significant developments, on the other hand, lent some further color to the proposition.

Chief among these developments was an informal conference held by John A. Heydler, president of the National league, with most of the club owners of the senior circuit, who remained in the city after yesterday's schedule meeting.

Mr. Heydler declined to divulge details of the meeting, but it was said that Barney Dreyfus, president of the Pittsburgh club, disclosed the fact that he had been approached by sponsors for the new league and asked to join Montreal interests in barking a franchise in that Canadian city.

That similar interests also had made overtures to club owners in Washington and Brooklyn, two other cities mentioned as part of the new circuit, also was indicated but their identity remained unknown.

Charles H. Ebbets, Brooklyn president was known not to be opposed to permitting the use of his park by the new league club, providing the National league schedule which gives his club 19 Sunday home dates during the summer was not interfered with. Clark Griffith, Washington magnate, also was quoted as leaning favorably toward the project.

Colonel T. L. Huston, part owner of the New York Yankees, expressed general approval of plans for a new league which would afford an outlet for major league material. Otherwise there was little official comment, the majority of club owners declining flatly to express their views.

Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, who admitted last night that he had been offered the presidency of the new circuit, would not comment on it today nor indicate whether he would accept such an office.

Meanwhile, it was pointed out that as originally outlined last night, league organizers would encounter practically insurmountable obstacles should an attempt be made to invade International league territory, unless an avowed intention of warring on the latter organization, as a result of the present draft controversy, was made. Baseball observers, however, were inclined to hold the view that there was no necessity of drastic action against the two minor circuits which have opposed the draft, although recognizing that an important issue exists, of which no solution is in sight.

As revealed last night from apparently authoritative sources, it was planned to put clubs in the two cities mentioned and in Montreal, Washington, Brooklyn, Providence, Toronto, Baltimore, Buffalo and Newark. The latter four cities already hold International league franchises.

NORWICH MEN'S REUNION HELD IN NEW YORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

New York, Feb. 14.—The Norwich Society of New York held their annual reunion at La Marguerite restaurant, 12 West 45th street. There were 45 present. The dinner committee had arranged for a large private dining room and the tables were prettily decorated with flowers, ferns and cut. The former Norwich men gathered at the room sometime before dinner so that they had a good chance to talk over old times and different happenings when they lived in Norwich. It seems the society is getting more interesting each year, as the membership is increasing and the members now make a good deal of pride in their society.

Reginald Reynolds who was chairman of the dinner committee, had a roll of colored cord at each plate with a card printed. Below "cord" Keep your string on Norwich.

Harold Thresher who handles Colgate & Co.'s advertising, had a wool, and box of Colgate's soaps at each plate. The boxes were filled with fancy soaps. Austin Colgate of the Colgate Co., attended the Norwich Free Academy.

William B. Klein of Fleischmann's Yeast Co., had a cake of Fleischmann's yeast at each plate.

The Norwich society sat down to the following menu:

Grapefruit Celery Olives
Tomato Soup
Fresh boiled mackerel Rolls
Roast Stuffed Chicken
Brown Potatoes Peas
Waldorf Salad
Ice Cream Punch Macaroons
Demi-Tasse
Cigars Cigarettes

Harry Kent sent an old picture showing the Norwich harbor, a very old print, which was hung on the wall.

President Albert S. Bard presided at the meeting and said he was glad to see so many members there and was glad quite a number of new members had come into the society. The president said he had received a telegram from Mayor Otto S. Waters saying the Salvation Army was making a drive to money in Norwich so the Norwich society voted to contribute $100, which they handed to the treasurer to send to Norwich so as to be the first on the Norwich list as contributors to the Salvation Army building fund.

The nominating committee, Edwin C. Ely, Howard C. Russ and Frank L. Potter, then presented the names for officers for the ensuing year, who were duly elected: William B. Klein, president; Harold Thresher, vice president, Fred R. Lewis, secretary; William B. Gaylord, treasurer; executive committee, James A. Albertson, Charles A. Beach, John S. Kennedy, Edwin C. Ely, William McNamara and Dr. James Somers.

President Bard then introduced George S. Chappell formerly of New London, now an architect in New York, the author of "Dr. Traprock." Mr. Chappell gave a very interesting talk upon The Cruise of the Kawa and My Northern Exposure, which was illustrated by lantern slides. After "Dr. Traprock's" talk the new president, William B. Klein, took the chair and after a few remarks Roger Reynolds gave several cornet selections, and remarks were made by Francis P. Bent, Charles Storms, Arthur P. McWilliams, Richard Royston, Myron Allyn and J. T. Riordan. It was suggested that the members some time this coming summer take a trip to Norwich.

Those present were Albert S. Bard, Edward Harlan Miller, Hugh F. McLaughlin, W. T. McNamara, James W. Parrell, William T. Duncan, H. W. Kelsey, Frank A. Lester, William Osmond Mosely, Irving A. LITTLE JACK RABBIT By DAVID CORY

Jack Rabbit Gets Valentine.

Well, when Uncle Lucky, with the belated valentine tucked under his arm reached the Old Bramble Patch, he hopped softly up to the front door of the little house where Little Jack Rabbit lived and put the valentine on the front door mat and after ringing the bell three times and a half, he hopped behind the rain barrel to see who would come to the door.

And who do you suppose did? I suppose you'll say Little Jack Rabbit, and if you do, you're right, for in a minute, the little rabbit opened the door and when he saw the valentine on the door mat, he said: "Hurrah! Somebody's sent me a valentine."

And then, he looked all around to see who had, but of course, he didn't see anybody but Charlie Chickadee picking dried berries off a bush just a little ways off.

"Did you leave this valentine?" asked the little rabbit.

"No, I didn't," said Charlie Chickadee, "but I know who 'did,'" and he cocked his head, first on one side and then on the other, and then he winked his eye nearest the rain barrel but still the little rabbit didn't know any more than he did before.

"Who did, then?" he asked.

"Well," said Charlie Chickadee.

"If I should tell you, I much fear, That Mr. Lefthindfoot would hear. And hop around the big rain barrel. And end my pretty little carol."

And then, naughty Charlie Chickadee flew away, just in time for Uncle Lucky hopped out from behind the rain barrel and threw a snowball at him, but it didn't hit him. Oh, my, no. But it let somebody and whom do you think it was. Why, Old Danny Fox who was peeping through the brambles and when Uncle Lucky saw him, he pulled Little Jack Rabbit inside the house and closed the door with a bang and pressed down the latch.

"Ha, ha," said the old gentleman rabbit. "I'm glad Charlie Chickadee made me angry" and then, dear, little Lucky began to laugh and pretty soon he laughed so hard that one of the pearl buttons on his pet waistcoat flew off and hit the orange bird on the end of her tail. Wasn't that wonderful? Well, I just guess it was, but of course, Uncle Lucky was a good sport and had pitched on the Rabbitville baseball team when he was young.

Well, after that Mrs. Jack Rabbit lady love and made some carrot tea and taken the hot biscuits out of the oven, Uncle Lucky sat down in the rocking chair by the south window in the kitchen where the geraniums blossomed all winter in a big greenbox, to read the Bunnytown Star and when he had read for maybe an hour he fell asleep and dreamed he was just eighteen and was sending a valentine to a pretty lady bunny, and in the next story you shall hear about the Big Brown Bear.

JURY IS DELIBERATING ON HIGH SEAS MURDER

New York, Feb. 14.—The federal court jury considering the case of Captain George H. Jones of the shipping board vessel Cherokee, which Lieut. Lauren Baxter, charged with murder of Harry C. Baxter, a passenger, on the high seas, ended this today.

The case went to the jury after Judge Winslow had denied a defense motion to dismiss the indictments on the ground of insufficient evidence. The captain was also charged with assault, illegal confinement and of inflicting cruel and unjustifiable punishment on Baxter.

Captain Jones admitted he had ordered Baxter, who was in irons, removed from the boat by a rope when the prisoner was alleged to become violent and declared he had ordered the carpenter to measure the pantryman for a coffin, to frighten him.

Witnesses testified they had seen Captain Jones kick and strike the sailor while he was in irons.

The defense maintained that the ship's crew had mutinied against the captain, and charged the ship's doctor for failing to testify against Captain Jones in Baxter's confession.

THE GERMAN SUPER-GUN WAS 118-2 FEET IN LENGTH

Washington, Feb. 14.—By the A. E. F. Ordnance statistics credit the German super-gun that pounded Paris during the war with a range of 81 miles, as compared to the super-gun's maximum range of American battleships' naval guns. The German projectile for which figures are given, however, was 5.91 inches in diameter and weighed but 234 pounds as compared with the 1,400 pound, 14 inch monster used in the American guns.

The report describes the German gun as constructed "from a combination of both metallurgical and ordnance principles."

Compared with the American 14 inch naval gun, the German super-weapon was 118.2 feet in length against 50.7 feet developed 467,250 foot pounds muzzle energy against 85,000, weighed 343,000 pounds against 150,000, had a muzzle velocity of 4,767 feet per second against 2,300 maximum elevation of fifty-five degrees as against 30 and had an average life of 50 rounds as compared with 200 rounds for U. ANNIVERSARY OF MAINE SINKING.

It may be hard to realize it but it was 25 years ago today that the Maine was blown up in Havana harbor, the news of which startled the country and with the conditions in the islands and the growing feeling resulted in the declaration of war two months later.

The anniversary is not of the kind that calls for a celebration. Such an event with the frightful loss of life is not what is generally the basis for observance. Even what it was that sent the Maine to the bottom has never been established. The inquiry that was made resulted in the report to the effect that it was from the outside, rather than from within, and suspicion has been left to determine the rest.

There are many other dates, such as the San Juan hill fight, the naval engagement when the Spanish fleet was destroyed or the magnificent run of the Oregon around Cape Horn to participate in that fight, which attract attention in connection with that war.

The Spanish-American war has been referred to repeatedly as an unpleasantness. Nevertheless it is impossible to belittle it in any such manner. It was a war in which just as true sacrifice was displayed as in any other and those who went through it and live are justly entitled to full honor.

It was a war that brought to light how unprepared the nation was. It glaringly revealed the bad sanitation connected with army operations as then conducted, even though it showed the patriotic spirit that prevailed when it came to national defense. But for the sinking of the Maine there would probably have been no Spanish war. What conditions might have been in Cuba and the Philippines today but for that clash is a victory no one likes to imagine.

That which marked the beginning of the conflict may not be the proper subject for anniversary observance but it was nevertheless an event which is not going to be forgotten soon. "Remember the Maine!" is certain to linger long in memory.

PINCHOT'S START.

The attention which the nomination of Governor Pinchot in Pennsylvania is attracting is the natural result of the manner in which he has tackled the problems in that state.

He is known as a worker and a man who does things. His efforts with the unbelievable intention of putting through or knowing the reason why. His impression by the average and the wholehearted interest that he displays. His policies do not end in advertising for the purpose of accomplishing things but his accomplishments has long preceded, and to put into operation reforms which have been too long delayed.

Because he undertakes this big job and demands certain results does not necessarily mean that he is certain to get them. Nevertheless it is apparent that he takes the job with the determination to know the reason why. He is in earnest in his ambitions and there is such a thing as scoring a hit because he does it. That is why he creates such a favorable impression. That is why he gains such following and that is why he will succeed if success is possible.

Governor Pinchot has insisted that there must be an overhauling of the state finances and the great amount of needless expenditures must be stopped. He is equally firm on the question of enforcement of the laws. The state machinery is getting a thorough overhauling and he has called a conference of the governors of states for the purpose of considering the important question of road building. This is a matter which may seem to reach beyond the borders of the state but there is no doubt that there is much of value in it for Pennsylvania despite its good roads.

As a state executive Governor Pinchot is making an impressive start. Whether he can maintain the standard or the Keystone state and hold true to form is the question.

THE NORRIS BILL.

Whether it is possible to get through congress at this period of the session a constitutional amendment that will change the date of inaugurating the president and of the meeting of congress remains to be seen. What must be regarded as an excellent step in that direction, however, is the overwhelming vote of the senate in favor of the Norris bill which would do that very thing.

This piece of legislation is in response to a demand for overcoming objections which arouse serious criticism every time they develop. Under its provisions the inauguration of the president would take place on the third Monday of January. This wouldn't overcome the question of weather conditions, which those who have urged a change in the inaugural date have desired to improve, but it would bring it much nearer to the election date.

The amendment would also provide that congress would meet annually on the first Monday in January, thus doing away with the both-session short session of congress which permits of much political mischief and is not conducive to speedy congressional action.

It is a long time that the present method had been followed, and year each short session brings forth its wail of protests, especially when the election of the previous November makes possible the continuance in office for this entire short session of those who have been defeated at the polls. It rankles because congressional districts have called for changes and yet are unable to put them into effect until more than a year after the decision has been rendered, unless a special session of congress is called.

What the house will do with the bill at this date is problematical, but even though congressional approval is given it will have to be ratified by three-quarters of the states. The start it gets in the senate, however, is auspicious.

WHAT INDEPENDENCE MEANS.

It was some years ago, but not so long that it has been forgotten, that this country found itself cut off from chemicals and dyes. Because Germany upon which almost full dependence was placed was prevented by the war from supplying the demands. We were in a bad situation, and most people know by the experience with poor dyes what this country was obliged to face.

It was a situation that called for the insistence upon a change, and that change was the development of the dye industry in this country. Whatever thought had been given to it in the past had been dispelled by the knowledge that no new industry of that character could expect to survive in this country against the German competition. It was incumbent upon us to make ourselves independent, and by the aid of the protection which was obtained by the war large investments and extensive experiments were made with the result that it was shown that the American dye industry was not only a possibility but a highly desirable thing if we were not to be kept at the mercy of outsiders.

What the establishment of that independence meant is again brought to the front now with the Ruhr district of Germany, in which the chemical and dyemaking plants are located, crippled by present conditions. Happily we are not dependent upon Germany for our dyes, but the present situation adds new and convincing emphasis to the importance of seeing that our independence is not undermined. The American dye industry could not have been wrecked. That we are not left high and dry for dyes now or at some other time will be to the credit of those who insisted upon the proper protection of the industry.

STATE POLICE.

Gradually is the value of state police being recognized, not only for the service that they render in checking communistic ructions because the demand for it before these days in order to deal with present day conditions.

Out in Indiana a state police force is urged because of the rural districts. It is said that a criminal can escape if there is no force [illegible] It is recognized that the county [illegible] the state can maintain only [illegible] forces, but [illegible] cannot successfully [illegible] constabulary.

In the state of Indiana, [illegible] force is being urged to [illegible] country. Lawlessness [illegible] themselves with automobiles, [illegible] can be put to [illegible] the wrong of those who violate [illegible] It is thus believed [illegible] more protection [illegible] the state which are [illegible] larger safe.

The idea of a state constabulary is being regarded in a different light than it formerly was. And this is particularly true after it has been seen in operation and the good results noted. A force that is ready for service where needed without a lot of red tape and delay is an asset to any state. Counties can be quickly accessible to the lawbreakers with ease. They should get the protection the state constabulary call for.

Connecticut cannot fail to be much impressed by the service that the state force has rendered since inaugurated.

KIND ADVICE

Dorgene said the honest business man respectfully attempted an explanation, good-natured. I guess I've got to get ready. I don't want to go over to Bailey's and sit in that blamed old card club at all. I wanted to stay home tonight and finish that exciting novel 'The Blush of the Bloom,' and I've been counted out of it."

"Well," said the practical wife of the honest business man, "you didn't want to go why did you say you would when he asked you?"

"Huh?" said the honest business man, bewildered. "Why, what can you do when a person springs a thing like that on you so suddenly? 'Say,' said Bailey, 'if you haven't anything on tonight come on over and take Hookins' place in our game—you can come, can't you?' Just like it. No time to think or anything, sort of assuming I'd come and what the dickens could I do. I'd like to know?"

"How you men ever get around without a constant caretaker (or each one of you, is beyond me," the practical wife sighed, shaking her head and putting in thirteenth at the same time. "It's a lucky thing that most of the family invitations fall into the woman's hands instead of the home, or there certainly would be no use in living."

"Since the fashion of using the telephone for nearly everything in the way of a party list has become general a woman has learned to think quickly, because, if she doesn't she is lost. It was worse in the days when they would call up and begin like this: 'Hell! What are you doing Wednesday night?' And in one second you either had to say you were doing nothing or that you had an unbreakable dinner engagement on gold plates, served by two butlers.

"I tell you it was a strain. In that one second you had to guess who was talking and what on earth she was about to ask you to do, and whether you couldn't 'yes' or hedge, either because if it was some one you really liked you would risk giving the snap away. You knew you had to be spontaneous. Why a woman in those days had to be a blend of Talleyrand, Disraeli, Richelieu and the man hairdresser who assure you that you certainly are not too old to have your hair bobbed!"

"But that habit sort of fell into use, was abandoned by mutual consent because it was such a boomerang.

"Still, there remain plenty of things to occupy your intellect when the phone rings. "Hello" says a honeyed voice, "this is Mrs Gaswick. How are you?" 'Oh, good morning!' you counter in a deep, sweet voice as deliberately as possible while a convulsion takes place in your spine. 'The Case of a Woman' your thoughts gallop. 'Now, it's a wonder I've got to get out of it because the last time we dined there I bored her to death, and he raged all the way home like a bwana. He'll never stand for another and [illegible] other hand [illegible] to go, I'll [illegible] and get to new dress [illegible] Maybe [illegible] Dorman may be a bit short to help the association for having bracelets for Easter little pet does thank you, she knows [illegible]

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reply of L. S. R. to Criticism.

Mr. Editor: I notice in the replies to my former letter that I am not quoted correctly. I said I had been a searcher after truth for 35 years and that revelation had cleared up all doubts. I did not refer to John's Revelation but of truths that have been revealed to me. Neither is it my opinion, nor do I write to "suit my views." I write what I receive and nothing else. There are original children of Jehovah in body also original children of God in body. I am an original child of God—that is my sustaining Spirit is an original child of God the Eternal Father most high. And I know that Christ was the sustaining Spirit of Jesus. Jesus was to have been the immortal indestructive body for the Christ Spirit to be incarnated in; the Christ would have walked the earth to this day an immortal; an everlasting witness of the victory over death and the grave. But the Virgin Mary who was a daughter of Jehovah disobeyed the will of the Eternal Father which turned the Immortal Jesus into a mortal; the same disobedience prevented the Christ Spirit from incarnating. The power of God was with Him He was crossed was gone. Jesus [illegible] power. This power in Jesus [illegible] there was a miracle to be performed; that is why so few miracles were performed. How is it that in Matthew 19:17th verse Jesus said these words, "Why callest thou me good? There is none good but One that is God: but if thou will enter into life keep my commandments." In the [illegible] same as [illegible] when Mary spoke to Jesus He denied her. 'Woman what have I to do with thee.' He knew she had failed the Father most high. There are [illegible] cross in order [illegible] one [illegible] Satan [illegible] ever has and [illegible] temptations to mortals on earth. Jehovah [illegible] over the air and deals with mortals in spirit and in body. The Supreme Ruler is the supreme overseer over all of these mentioned and deals with mortals in spirit and with the ambassadors over the different countries. When Jehovah wishes to communicate with the Eternal Father he calls on the Supreme Ruler and the Supreme Ruler calls on Jehovah God [illegible] of the universe. And [illegible] on the throne. [illegible] the deals [illegible] to speak to [illegible] the Supreme Ruler [illegible] Jehovah God [illegible] Eternal Father. The Christ that was with Jesus is to be re-incarnated in the United States to be the forerunner of the Supreme Christ and preach His coming in glory. The drunkard and the sinner must have a Saviour, a shepherd, a teacher to preach divine law to him; but sinners are saved by forsaking sin and living in obedience to divine law as laid down by the Eternal Father.

All Scripture has been a sealed Book from the hour it was written; the true interpretation is hidden in the third dispensation when the seal [illegible] opened [illegible] possess [illegible] deeds unto [illegible] The [illegible] were able to show with a reasonable degree of certainty the [illegible] of Jesus [illegible] Where a [illegible] established business proposition [illegible] up annually a reserve for bad debts, responsible [illegible] to meet reserve [illegible] Where a [illegible] or [illegible] in addition commissions may be [illegible] charged against the reserve and [illegible] the two methods for the year 1921 must use the same method for the year 1922 unless permission [illegible] secured from the commissioner of internal revenue.

A taxpayer using the reserve method should include in the return a statement showing the balance of his charge sales for the business transactions for the year, the beginning balance of such reserve, the amount charged against the reserve, the amount of bad debts [illegible] the reserve, the amount [illegible] recoveries on account [illegible] charged against the reserve, and the balance at the end of the year.

Bad debts [illegible] a deduction only for the year in which they are ascertained to be worthless and charged off the books of the taxpayer. The taxpayer should attach to his return a statement showing the property on account claimed for a debt [illegible]

CHANGE OF LIFE LOSES TERRORS

For Women who Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Pa.—"I took your medicine through the Change of Life and it did wonders for me. I was down in bed when I started to take it, and weighed 95 pounds. I had hot flashes and was so nervous and weak that everything would get black and I could not see. I would sit and cry and did not know what I was crying for. Since I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel younger than I did ten years ago, and my friends all tell me I look younger, and I owe it all to the Vegetable Compound. I do all my housework for a family of seven now. I will be glad to answer any woman who writes me in regard to my case."—Mrs. JOHN MYERS, 55 Union St., Greenville, Pa.

Many letters similar to this have been published testifying to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They are sincere expressions from women who describe as best they can their feelings before and after taking this well-known medicine.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

...continuing about March 1, if plans are perfected, shipments aggregating 1,000 fresh eggs a day will go out of Windham, New London and Tolland counties to Providence, where the Farmers' exchange is to accept all the eggs received from eastern Connecticut.

The egg shipping combine is being brought about as the result of a recent meeting of poultrymen at Willimantic, and one of Killingly's best fowl and successful poultry growers said Wednesday that he knew enterprise that the shipments will reach 1,000 a day from the outset. The combination represents 10,000 hens, which are laying a lot of eggs.

Many towns will cover the entire territory represented by the membership of the new organization and collect the eggs for shipment into Rhode Island. Some of the most enthusiastic members of the new association said confidently that as its membership increases there will be days during the year when as many as 20,000 eggs a day will go out of eastern Connecticut into the Rhode Island market.

Twenty thousand hens by no means represents the total number owned in eastern Connecticut, but it is a highly agreeable block and the establishment of such a market for local consumption could surely have the effect of increasing the total poultry supply hereabouts. If this occurs, there is no law against anyone keeping their own little hens and getting eggs at cost.

What the poultrymen are striving for is a sure market at profitable prices, and to any one familiar with egg values this is a worthy object. They are engaged in trying to put their business on a sounder basis.

It is said that the Providence market can very easily absorb all of the eggs sent into it from eastern Connecticut at all times of the year.

It would appear that some of the road building projects provided for in this year's business now pending are destined to be at least temporarily saved because of the tremendous amount of money the state is being called upon to spend in carrying out established enterprises and proposals pending many months ago. The set back, will worry some of the Windham county members who have introduced bills providing for hundreds of miles of state highways in this part of the state. It will be recalled that the session of 1921 passed only one of all the special road building measures introduced, that bill providing for the construction of the recently completed road between West Thompson and North Grosvenordale. Governor Templeton last year directed the attention of the legislature to the need of limiting its appropriations to keep them within the carrying power of the state's finances.

This appears to be about to turn out as one of the weeks of the winter when only a very little hard coal may be recorded as received in Killingly. However, shipments of the early part of the month temporarily relieved the situation and many cars were supplied from these shipments are provided for until March 1 at least. Unusually severe weather with practically no breaks since the first of the year has made this pressure for fuel heavy.

Some soft coal has arrived this week, the Attawaugan company being numbered among the concerns obtaining several carloads.

The meeting considered by-laws drawn up since the first meeting was held December 5 seems to be founded when restocking operations are underway, talked about trap shooting plans for next season and other matters of interest to the club, the membership of which was in excess of 125 Wednesday evening.

One of the plans the club hopes to promote in the near future is a banquet at which it is honed to have Commissioner J. W. Titcomb as a guest and speaker.

At the present time the Windham county jail has only 10 occupants, a small number as has been at the jail for any one time in the past years. The jail has accommodations for 100. The largest that has been housed in years.

The Service battery basketball team won an interesting basketball game at the state armory Tuesday evening from the Danielson Texas. The latter team made up of players who know the game, but have played little if any, during recent years. The score was 30 to 25, and a gallery of battery members watched the contest with glee, for it was strenuous enough to satisfy anyone. Allen, junior Fournier Bartlett and Wood made up the Texas team. Houghton, Cook, Burton, Bowers and Ennis played for the battery.

At the present time the battery's ranks are nearly filled up, there being 64 enlisted men on the roster and three officers. [illegible] recruits would put the battery at peace time strength allowed.

PUTNAM

Severe winter weather and attendant hard traveling conditions were blamed for two automobile accidents reported to the police here Wednesday. At West Thompson Tuesday night a touring car driven by Bartley Grenia of this city crashed into the rear end of a motor truck used in meat delivery service and driven by Kazimierze Dyszkewski, also of Putnam. Grenia claims that he could not stop the truck because the windshield on his car had become obscured by frost. The damage to the truck, according to the report received by the police, is about $50. The touring car also was seriously damaged. No one was injured in the crash.

On Main street Wednesday afternoon a truck owned by A. J. Benoit and driven by Emile Lavoie sideswiped a closed car driven by Dr. Marguerite Bullard. The physicians car was only slightly damaged. This accident is said to have been due to ruts in the snow and ice that covers the main thoroughfare of the city.

Today the police probably will interview the driver of a car that left its machine standing in the middle of the street and informed another driver that came along and asked him to turn out a bit so as to make it possible for another car to get by under the hard driving conditions to go around and not talk so much about it. The police regard this as a flagrant case of hogging the road when there is not by too much room with snow piled up on all side.

The Service battery basketball team won an interesting basketball game at the state armory Tuesday evening from the Danielson Texas. The latter team made up of players who know the game, but have played little if any, during recent years. The score was 30 to 25, and a gallery of battery members watched the contest with glee, for it was strenuous enough to satisfy anyone. Allen, junior Fournier Bartlett and Wood made up the Texas team. Houghton, Cook, Burton, Bowers and Ennis played for the battery.

At the present time the battery's ranks are nearly filled up, there being 64 enlisted men on the roster and three officers. [illegible] recruits would put the battery at peace time strength allowed.

WEAK AND RUN-DOWN

After Serious Operation
WINCARNIS
Restores Her Strength

"Not long ago my daughter was obliged to undergo a serious operation which left her in a dreadfully weak and run-down condition. She had no appetite and was as white as a sheet. She really looked as if she had no blood left in her. She was also very nervous.

The doctor had given her some medicine to build her up but she did not seem able to get her strength back. In fact, her improvement was so slow that it had me mighty worried.

I heard about Wincarnis and got her a bottle. It worked wonders. She began to improve right from the start. It was simply wonderful how quickly she regained her strength and put on weight, and how the color came back to her cheeks."

FRANCE IS MAKING STRIDES TOWARDS AIMS IN THE RUHR

Nine Trains of Coal and Coke Are Leaving the Occupied Area Every Day for Belgium and France—Coal and Coke Also is Being Sent Out by Barges by the Way of Strasbourg—A Plan for Creating New Money for Use in the Occupied Territories Has Been Completed by French and Belgian Experts—26 Rhineland Officials Have Been Expelled for Disobeying French Authorities.

Dusseldorf, Feb. 15.—(By The A. P.)—Rapid strides toward realization of France's aims in the Ruhr, are being made daily, according to announcements from the occupations headquarters, in which it is pointed out that from eight to nine trains of coal and coke or approximately 5,000 tons, are leaving the occupied area every twenty-four hours for Belgium and France.

These trains are entirely manned by French civilian railway workers imported for the purpose, and in addition there are some 1,000 vacant cars in the process of familiarizing themselves with the operation of the German lines.

The French maintain that the Rhine traffic also shows marked improvement coal and coke being sent out regularly in barges by way of Strasbourg. Twenty-five steamships in all have been requisitioned and manned by French and Belgian sailors, and the river fleet now has also hundreds of barges many of which are already loaded with fuel.

The French put great hopes upon his movement of coal by water. It is admit that the system is not yet working as smoothly as it should within a short time.

In addition, the French are maintaining five daily passenger trains from Mayence to Duesseldorf, some of which carry Germans having special permits granted by the French.

Even within the newly occupied territory freight trains are running. These are mostly composed of coal and coke cars, but when the occasion arises the French also transport miscellaneous freight for the Germans, and shift cars of food wherever they are needed by the population.

OCCUPATION OF THE RUHR DISCUSSED IN THE HOUSE

Washington, Feb. 15.—Occupation of the Ruhr was attacked and defended today in the house.

Representative Knutson, of Minnesota, the republican whip declared France was seeking to dismember the German republic and render it harmless both from a military and economic standpoint and that the time had come for America to break its "long silence" with reference to the occupation.

Representative Butler, Pennsylvania, chairman of the naval committee who had yielded Mr. Knutson time in which to make his address told the house that he in no way concurred with the Minnesota member had said.

"My sympathy is with France," he declared, "and I hope she can collect every dollar that is due her."

Representative Vinson, democrat, Georgia, made a like announcement, declaring he had a brother whose blood was spilled on the battlefields of France.

"I am for France and always will be for France," said he.

Mr Knutson, who delivered a prepared address, asked how much longer the United States was going "to stand aside and permit the violation of the promises made at the time of the armistice."

President Wilson said we were not fighting the German people," he contended, "and yet the children of Germany now are undernourished because the allied have taken their cows. Almost everything produced in Germany since the armistice has been taken from them."

Mr. Knutson said the German people, which was greater than that of France was causing great concern to the French.

Replying later to Representative Knutson, Representative Bulwinkle, democrat, North Carolina, who served in the World war told the house that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll and the others of that white-livered, yellow-streaked race will applaud and say the American congress is in favor of it.

He declared that the Germans had "cowered and crouched during the war and after" humbly cut their throats and asserted that now they had delivered to the people of occupied Germany a dish sugar coated in double cross.

Representative Black, democrat, Texas, wanted to know what was for Mr. Knutson occupied in the republican house organization.

"Oh, I know that he is the majority whip," replied Mr. Bulwinkle, "but I know why he does not stand for those on this side of the house. I am the Anglo-Saxon son of [illegible] and one of his ancestors [illegible] Mr. Knutson's ancestors [illegible] was [illegible] from Norway."

Premier Theunis of Belgium, who will take a definite decision upon it.

TO EXAMINE BOOKS OF HUDSON COAL COMPANY

New York, Feb. 16.—An examination of the books of the Hudson Coal company, subsidiary of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, and producer of about one eighth of the country's supply of anthracite coal, will be the next step in the interstate commerce commission's inquiry into coal distribution problems, it was announced today.

The commission concluded its session here [illegible] announced [illegible] Washington. [illegible] Monday that investigation will be made into the books of the company, which has been the target of general criticism because of the alleged efforts to cooperate in the coal investigation otherwise. Witnesses said that the only large coal operator in Pennsylvania refused to cooperate.

Willingness of the company to show its books was announced today by Walter C. Noyes, counsel for the Delaware and Hudson railroad after a telegram from A. P. Lane, fuel administrator of Maine, stating that companies declining solution of the coal shortage had been read into the record. Similar announcements were made yesterday by officials of the administration of New York and Pennsylvania.

FIRE LOSS IN ARMOUR PLANT PLACED AT $2,500,000

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Fire which has been raging for more than forty hours in the plant of Armour and company here, last night threatened the destruction of the South Omaha stock yards when several walls collapsed, spreading the flames to the wooden sheep pens. A change in the direction of the wind intensified the destructive fury of the conflagration.

The fire started early Wednesday morning in a nine story Armour building from a defective elevator motor, according to plant officials, and tonight the blaze was declared the most destructive in the history of the industry.

The loss tonight was estimated at approximately $2,500,000.

Twenty-one fire companies, comprising the entire forces of Omaha and Council Bluffs, after a thirty hour battle with the flames reported this afternoon that they believed the fire under control, but the collapse of the burning walls and a shift in the wind tonight spread destruction to new ground.

The most severe weather of the winter added difficulties to the task of the firefighters.

Upward of 1,000 men have been thrown out of work by the fire.

FINAL ARGUMENTS IN SCHLEIFER CASE TODAY

New Haven, Feb. 15.—Final arguments in the case of Ernest Schleifer, union leader charged with inciting striking shopmen to commit violence, will be heard in the city court here Saturday morning. The case thus far is one of the longest in the history of the city court, being continued ten times and heard seven over a period of three emonths.

Today's hearing was considered largely with the admissability of three letters written by Schleifer in 1917 and produced by the city attorney as evidence of Schleifer's "radical leaning". Judge Jacob Caplan, overruled the objection of the defense counsel and admitted the letters as evidence.

Several witnesses called by the defense testified that Schleifer had not made statements attributed to him by federal and city detectives.

MANUFACTURERS OBJECT TO PROPOSED TAX CHANGE

Hartford, Feb. 15.—There was more work in committee rooms this afternoon than in the short session of the general assembly earlier in the day.

Before the finance committee appeared a delegation from the Manufacturers' association of Connecticut to oppose a bill drawn by Tax Commissioner Blodgett which would change the law under which miscellaneous corporations are taxed. The principle of the bill was the separation of the state tax from the mechanism of the federal tax, the commissioner claiming that as the federal government is five years behind in its accounting and settlement, the state should not be compelled to wait that length of time to obtain final adjudication of the state tax which is paid by that class of corporations.

Before the [illegible] committee a number of bills were called for hearings which would do away with the personal tax, but no one supported them. One bill would exempt policemen, constables and bailiffs from the personal tax, just as firemen and national guardsmen are exempted. Police officers in Hartford and New Britain spoke for the bill. No one opposed it. The speakers rejoiced to the fact that the state treasury would not miss the tax paid by about 1,800 policemen, apparently unaware that the money from personal taxes goes to the towns and not to the state.

In the legislative session the proposed civil service bill was rejected in the house on an unfavorable report.

WILLIMANTIC

BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
Church Street Telephone 1061

"Jack" Oguschewitz, who conducts an automobile repair shop on Main street was sentenced to fifteen days in jail with execution of the sentence suspended when he pleaded guilty to the charge of operating a motor vehicle while his driver's license was suspended. Oguschewitz received a severe warning that another violation of the law would mean that the sentence would be put into effect. He paid the costs of the court which amounted to $6.15.

Judge Foss presided over the police court session. Prosecuting Attorney Harvey stated that he understood that the man had driven his car from the curbing in front of the Windham National bank building, across the road into his garage and that the act was technically wrong and a violation of the law. Officer McLean, who made the arrest in the case stated Tuesday night was not the only occasion upon which Oguschewitz had driven a car since the suspension of his license. The officer testified that he had received a number of complaints in regard to the accused driving a car without a license.

Oguschewitz explained that he never had driven a car until Tuesday night, since his license had been suspended. He said that his license had been suspended for sixty days and the time would be up on March 17.

It was stated after the court session that the matter was again to be brought up before the motor vehicle department. The incidents in the case date back to the evening of July 16, 1922, when Thomas F. Shea, proprietor of the Elite Restaurant, No. 829 Main street, was knocked down, run over and badly injured by a car driven by Oguschewitz on Main street.

In the early hours of Thursday morning burglars broke into two stores in the European block on Railroad street, conducted by the Dennehy Brothers and Harry J. Blanchette. The cash registers in both places were rifled. About $70 was secured from the Blanchette store and $1.50 from the Dennehy store.

The manner in which the breaks were made testified that they were daring ones. The burglar or burglars entered the building through the unused hallway between Michael Longo's fruit store and the Dennehy brothers' store. The latter was entered by smashing in a door leading from the hallway. Footprints showed that the burglar or burglars had then continued on over the ash pile in the rear of the store and between the Harrington and European blocks.

Entrance was made into the Blanchette store by breaking in a window in the rear wall of the pool room used as a ventilator. The window was boarded up inside of the room, and fastened with a stick and catches. After forcing the catches the intruder then crawled through a space about 12 by 15 inches and into the store.

Frank Melvin discovered the burglary in the Blanchette store when he opened up the place for the day's business. On entering he felt a cold draft and saw a package of cigarettes and a dime on the floor. When he went into the pool room he saw the broken window.

Indications that burglars had entered in the Dennehey store was discovered when the door leading to the hallway was found open. The police were informed of the matter and an investigation is being carried on.

The authorities are of the opinion that the burglars are residents of this section and that they knew considerable about the layout of the stores. Their purpose was undoubtedly money as gold watches and other valuables which were in the show case of the Blanchette store, were left untouched. Aside from money a few cigarettes were taken. The intruders apparently made an attempt to extinguish the electric light which is kept burning in the Blanchette store as a number of the wires on the ceiling of the pool room were cut by pliers but the right one was not found, however, and the light still burned in the morning.

The investigation led to the looking of premises at the New York Lunch in the same building which is owned [illegible] persons or heard anything unusual [illegible]

The will of the late Guilford Smith was presented for probate Wednesday. It was made April 28, 1919, by Judge George E. Hinman, and witnessed by Eva Collins, Frank H. Foss and George E. Hinman.

The will appoints H. C. Lathrop and William A. King, executors. It gives Mrs. Smith the home place, furnishings, etc., and sets aside as a trust fund out of which [illegible] annually and at her death becomes the property of her nearest relatives.

The testator bequeaths the [illegible] to various beneficiaries, among the following:

M. C. A.; $5,000 to the Foreign Missionary society; $5,000 to the Congregational Mission society; $5,000 to American Miss society; $5,000 to Connecticut College, New London; $5,000 to the Card Home for the Aged, Willimantic; $5,000 to the Grenfell association, Labrador missions; $5,000 to St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic.

The remainder of the estate is given to Mrs. Smith. The estate will probably exceed $600,000.

Plans have been accepted for the proposed addition to the Natchaug grammar school and it is believed that the congestion there will be remedied this year. The special building committee consists of Fred D. Jordan, Charles W. Hill, Mrs. George B. Spencer, Michael F. Sullivan, William H. Latham. The acceptance of the plans is under the condition that they are within the $80,000 which amount was appropriated as the cost. The architect stated that there is little doubt that the addition can be built within the $80,000 appropriation.

At the next meeting of the school committee the matter of insurance in regard to the Windham Center school will be taken up. It appears that although the school is being used it has not been officially accepted by the town, the school committee or the state board of education.

The plans accepted are the choice from those presented to the building committee by seven architects and call for a two story brick structure with basement, which would stand north and south joined at the southwest corner of the present and will leave a clear exposure at the south, east and west sides. The lines are to conform with those of the present building. The interior will have a kindergarten in the basement of the new addition and four class rooms on each of the second and third floors, each 24 by 29 feet. Connecting the kindergarten and other departments in the basement, will relieve congestion in the main building and will in reality provide ten additional rooms instead of the eight planned for. There will also be a good sized assembly hall, boys' and girls' playrooms, nine foot corridors on both floors and commodious sanitary toilets. The Metropolitan Agent is a friend to the families he visits and helps them in case of sickness.

17,000 Agents visit the homes of 17,000,000 Industrial Policyholders weekly—telling them of the value of sanitation, fresh air and sunshine.

Among the useful booklets distributed by the Agents are those telling how to buy food, how to care for food, how to cook food, how to provide wholesome, nourishing food for the least money.

ARTHUR STAFF MAKES CLEAN SWEEP OF SKATING RACES AT SARANAC LAKE

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Arthur Staff, Chicago, won every race on today's program of the American professional outdoor speed skating championship meet on Pontiac rink. The bitter cold and high winds forced many entrants from competition and slowed the races considerably. Staff won the half-mile in 1:20 3-5, the one mile in 3:51 2-5 and captured the three mile in a close finish in 9:14 4-5. Bobby McLean, Chicago; Everett McGowan, St. Paul, and Edmund Lamy, Saranac Lake, divided the second and third places. Staff now has 145 points in the meet. McLean is second with 85, Lamy is third with 70 and McGowan, fourth with 60.

Staff won the half-mile race with apparent ease, finding no close competition until the bell lap when McLean gave him a fast brush, but fell and failed to gain even a place. In the one-mile race, Staff, Lamy and McLean skated away from the field, fighting for position down the stretch and making a close finish. Inches separated the skaters as they crossed the tape.

Dr. Gilhooley, Cleveland, set the pace in the three-mile race and won the lap prize. He failed to maintain his lead however and fell out place. Lamy started a sprint when within two laps of the finish mark, but found he was too strong for him and soon vanquished the lake to Staff. McLean, the Montreal boy, threw his skates on the last lap and swept down the stretch in third, which required the judges decision to determine the winner and which was the brilliant event of the day.

The 440-yard and five-mile races are scheduled for tomorrow with the possibility of a hurdle event. Weather indications held no promise of better conditions tomorrow, the high wind continuing and the mercury dropping rapidly.

The summaries:

One-half mile: Won by Arthur Staff, Chicago; second, Everett McGowan, St. Paul; third, Edmund Lamy, Saranac Lake. Time: 1:20 3-5.

One mile: Won by Staff, second; Bobby McLean, Chicago; third, McGowan. Time: 3:51 2-5.

Three mile: Won by Staff, second, McLean; third, McGowan. Time: 9:14 4-5.

Point scores: Staff 145, McLean 85, Lamy 70, McGowan, 60.

THREE MILE COURSE RETAINED AT POUGHKEEPSIE

New York, Feb. 15.—The board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing association today decided to retain the three mile distance for the varsity eight race at the regatta to be held June 24 on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie.

Prior to today's meeting, the stewards were deadlocked on the question of distance, Cornell and Pennsylvania favoring three miles, while Syracuse and Columbia expressed preference for a four-mile race. Syracuse, however, swung over today to the three-mile forces and cast the vote for the longer distance made by Columbia was decided by a vote of 5 to 4.

The stewards decided against the freshman four-oared crews, but discussed favorably a proposal to inaugurate an intercollegiate race between the freshman eights. Walter M. Teague of Columbia, chairman of the board, was instructed to examine into the practicability of holding such an event and report back to the stewards.

Rowing has grown rapidly, it was pointed out, among high and preparatory schools, particularly in the east and has resulted in the organization of an interscholastic rowing association. The stewards will co-operate with the interscholastic association if it is decided to include a school race in the regatta.

The Pacific coast, it was said, may be represented again in this year's race over. The University of Washington is anxious to take part, but its entry will depend upon the outcome of the championship races on the Pacific coast, in which California also is a factor. The University of Wisconsin has under consideration an invitation to send its varsity crew east.

The stewards it was announced, will discuss a plan, advocated by Pennsylvania, to arrange a series of events for girls' rowing crews and high school eights instead of the present program of three races for freshmen, junior and varsity eights.

Chicago, Feb. 15. Boxing which for the last six months and more has caused Chicago to suffer a severe setback in public favor, and which has been responsible for the loss of thousands of dollars to the city through the cancellation of conventions and other events because of the unfavorable publicity, will be cleaned up, if orders issued today by Chief of Police Morgan Collins are carried out.

The orders, the result of a conference in the Chief's office with Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson, Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas Green and Commissioner of Public Welfare Robert E. Williams, direct that police shall see that no boxing bouts are held in the city unless the promoters first obtain sufficient evidence to present to Mayor Thompson the mayor directs Chief Fitzmorris to issue orders to all commanding police officers to prevent future matches.

NORWICH'S HIGH SCHOOL SITUATION.

[illegible] selection for the [illegible] will be explained to the people a condition that calls for thoughtful attention and wise action.

Though the Academy has provided the facilities of a high school since [illegible] the time has come when the demands upon its equipment are greater than it can supply. It is overcrowded this year and the situation is certain to grow worse unless [illegible] restrictions are established different provisions are made for [illegible] vocational [illegible]

[illegible] has come for Norwich tuition fee [illegible] Academy and thereby permit the trustees of the institution to build the needed addition and to increase the teaching staff, or to secure a site [illegible] entirely new high school that will not only take care of the present requirements but provide [illegible]

[illegible] half to three-[illegible] dollars. In addition [illegible] ment funds to a [illegible] million dollar plant established for the education of the children of Norwich [illegible] who pass the requirements [illegible] needs more room and service. Through its service a high education has been made [illegible] to the children of Norwich [illegible] a year, in recent years [illegible] the expense [illegible] to $120 to $150.

The Academy trustees are willing [illegible] provide additional educational facilities and continue to give all Norwich children the benefit of the tuition [illegible] endowment for them [illegible] to meet the situation [illegible] through the [illegible] increase in tuition, what [illegible] will be obliged to spend for [illegible] ipment.

[illegible] cause is bound to be [illegible] less than that which would be attached to the establishment of a new high school, the probable cost of which will not run under $1,000,000.

[illegible] has been very fortunate [illegible] than a half century in the [illegible] which has obtained high school education for its children. Those advantages are not being withdrawn. They are to be available in the future as in the past, but inasmuch as the Academy is not financially able to extend its plant and equipment without the assurance that the town will aid in meeting these new obligations, the townspeople are to be called upon to give expression to their desires concerning what shall be done to remedy [illegible]

[illegible] is a matter in which the whole town is interested. It involves the important matter of education and the important question of additional expenditure.

What will be cheaper, and what on the whole seems to be the better proposition, is for the town to stand back of its educational plant which is already doing business effectively and will permit the meeting of the high school obligations in the [illegible] with [illegible]

FIGHTING DRUG EVIL.

[illegible] the [illegible] efforts [illegible] ...ting drugs [illegible] the statement [illegible] was made by no less an individual than Assistant Attorney General [illegible] United States that up to [illegible] ...rong methods of regulation [illegible] ...ent have been attempted. He [illegible] the position that the move under the Harrison drug act to police the whole nation was an impractical step. He believed it was a problem in every community and that the [illegible] profession should give its [illegible] He doesn't understand to [illegible] that the evil should not be [illegible] ...ll of the country is organized [illegible] ...e believed [illegible] ...e resolution urging the president to inform other nations in [illegible] ...mailing of production is possible of great results.

From time to time there have been indications that the Harrison drug act was not accomplishing all that had been expected of it. It has been [illegible] ...ry on the illicit traffic [illegible] ...and yet it can hardly be [illegible] ...ious failure. What [illegible] ...the distribution of [illegible] ...provisions must [illegible] ...ceptional, and on the [illegible] ...hand it has served to call attention to the widespread [illegible] ...of [illegible] ...have upon the nation if permitted to go unchecked.

Even though it may not have accomplished all that was expected of it, it has been educational. It paves the way for further action. It has demonstrated what could be done by such legislation and what could not, if we accept the statement of the attorney general.

There can be no such thing as discouragement in dealing with this evil. If the results are not what they should be and the situation calls for different methods they should by all means be adopted. Progress through elimination is none the less sure even though it may be slower. When it comes to fighting the drug evil there can be no such thing as failure.

PLANTING TREES.

Much will be said in approval of that favorable report made in the general assembly this week concerning the planting of trees along the sides of the new highways constructed by the state highway department, where such are warranted.

This is a move that is being made at slight expense for the beautification of the highway system, and done at the time the road is under construction will involve little or no additional work.

Planting of trees in this way is in keeping with the movement which has been inaugurated by the American Tree association which has for its object this year the planting of one million trees throughout the country, and its purpose will be to continue the plan through each succeeding year. William Harris Vincent.

The death of William Harris Vincent occurred Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Mary E. Bushnell of 47 Washington street, where he had lived for the past six years, the greater part of which he suffered with sickness. Mr. Vincent was known throughout Norwich as the popcorn man, for until 1916 from the age of 19 years he had been engaged in the business of making popcorn.

He was born in Portsmouth, N. H., August 26, 1850, the son of the late Joseph and Phebe Vincent, and came to Norwich at the age of 19 years, after receiving his education in Portsmouth. Immediately on arriving in Norwich he entered the employ of the Connecticut Popcorn company, then conducted by the late Caleb Noyes. At the death of Mr. Noyes the business was purchased by Mr. Vincent and he ran it until 1916 when he sold out to the Grover-Caron Co., which conducted it until recently.

Mr. Vincent was married in Norwich to Miss Emily R. Charlton, June 6, 1872. Two children came to this union, Mrs. Grace Boyer of New York state, and a son, who died in Boston, six years ago.

Mr. Vincent was a man upright and honest in all his dealings with his fellow men. He was a member of the First Baptist church and in his early life took interest in church activities. In his death Norwich loses a valuable citizen. He is survived by a brother, Herbert Vincent of East Longmeadow, Mass., a nephew and nieces in New Hampshire, and a nephew, Elmer Fogg of Hartford.

Stanley Cubanski.

The funeral of Stanley Cubanski was held Monday morning at 7.30 o'clock from his late home 19 Sherman street, with a large attendance present. There were many beautiful floral forms. Rev. I. V. Maciejewski, pastor of St. Joseph's church, conducted the service at the house. Requiem mass was celebrated at St. Joseph's church at 8 o'clock. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal service was read by Peter Sroka. Six members of the St. Joseph's society acted as bearers. Shea & Burke had charge of the funeral arrangements.

CHIEF STANTON CANNOT BE FUEL ADMINISTRATOR

At a meeting of the fire commissioners held Thursday evening at the office of Chief Howard L. Stanton at Central fire station, it was decided that the chief of the Norwich fire department had sufficient duties at the present time and it would be impossible for him to fulfill the duties of the office of assistant to the state fuel administrator. A copy of the decision of the board is to be sent to Superintendent Robert T. Hurley at Hartford by Anson Grover, chairman of the committee.

At the present time Chief Stanton is holding the offices of chief of the Norwich fire department, superintendent of the fire alarm and telegraph system, fire marshal, building inspector, clerk of the board of fire commissioners, clerk of the board of the pension fund commission, and has charge of granting all permits for buildings and alterations on old buildings in Norwich. It is considered that these positions are all that any man can hold and anything additional could not be done in any satisfactory manner.

At the present time Chief Stanton, like the other men in the department is sleeping at headquarters, and goes home but once a day, at noon for dinner. The department and the chief stand ready to give the people of Norwich fire protection 24 hours a day, with men at hand to direct and although there is perhaps a need for a fuel administrator in Norwich, the commissioners feel that Chief Stanton and his men owe it to the city to give their all to prevent any losses by fire.

This winter when people are burning soft coal, wood or almost anything as a substitute for coal, the commissioners feel that the fire department will be doing a fine work if fires in the city are kept at a minimum.

Norwich is under a dual government, and Chief Stanton has power only in the city, and as fuel administrator could only work in the city and not in the town, where there are many families.

It was the consensus that the people are being taken care of as well as possible and were receiving good service under the administration of Martin L. Jensen as fuel administrator here, although he has not had any powers to work with.

Norwich is a city of hills and hills and this winter especially, the job of the chief is a difficult one and requires all his time, and as a matter of protection, even though it was felt that something should be done to get the coal to the needy, the commissioners felt that their action in refusing to allow Chief Stanton to serve as fuel administrator was justified and that the people as a whole in Norwich would back them up in their stand in the ...The fire commissioners are Anson Grover, chairman; Edward J. Crooks and William Aldrich. Mayor Milo R. Waters also attended the meeting of the commissioners, in his capacity as ex-officio on all committees.

FUNDS ON HAND OUTGROWN, BACKUS HOSPITAL TO ASK COMMUNITY HELP

In a two-hour meeting held Thursday afternoon at the William W. Backus hospital, attended by the board of trustees, the hospital staff and friends of the institution, the financial situation of the hospital was thoroughly gone over and it was decided that the time had been reached when the hospital must make an appeal for funds.

The imperative need of the hospital is for an adequate nurses' home, for which it was decided to make an appeal and start a campaign in the not distant future for $150,000.

Thirty years ago when the hospital was opened it was well endowed, but it has long ago outgrown the original endowment. This has become increasingly evident to the management as the years have gone by and has been borne in upon them with redoubled force in the last few years especially.

Without an adequate force of nurses the hospital cannot perform the service which the community expects. Without proper quarters for the student nurses, the hospital cannot get young women to enter the nurses' training school. These young women must have the right kind of living accommodations. Unable to offer these to prospective student nurses, the Backus hospital has found in the last few years that it could not get the student nurses, and it is evident that the number of nurses is a direct measure of the capacity to render service. Shortage in the nursing staff means crippling the hospital just so much, so that the conviction has been forced home upon the management that a new and adequate nurses' home is the answer if the hospital is to do all for the community that it expects.

One thing that had been under consideration had been to turn the isolated ward into an annex for the nurses' home; but that would have deprived the city and the town of the advantages of an isolated ward when it was needed, and the trustees were unwilling to take that step.

Right at the present time conditions at the hospital furnish a concrete illustration of what the shortage in student nurses means. Thursday night there were 80 patients at the hospital and it has already been necessary to hire three outside graduate nurses to help out the pupil nurses. Thursday a scarlet fever case was sent to the hospital by a Norwich doctor for which the hospital has to hire outside help which will cost it $40 a week, which would be unnecessary if there were enough pupil nurses in the training school. As the hospital management points out, all this would be unnecessary if there were a nurses' home that would make suitable living accommodations for the pupil nurses, who would then be attracted in sufficient numbers to handle the ever increasing demands made upon the hospital.

When the hospital was originally endowed it had plenty of money, but that condition has long ago gone by, the management points out, although there has been an impression among the public that it had abundant financial resources. The demands upon its services have grown to such a large extent in the last few years that they are far beyond the ability of the hospital to meet them on its present capacity. More people than ever before are seeking hospital services and they come from every class in the community, without regard to race, color or condition. The cost of materials and supplies have grown at an increasing rate in the last few years, adding new difficulties to the situation. Very few, even of the highest paying patients, meet the expenses of the actual per capita cost of the administration of such an institution. All this has added to the difficulties and brought on demands that the original bequests are inadequate to provide for.

At times conditions at the hospital are so crowded that it is impossible to get a private or semi-private room or find a way to accommodate even one more patient in the wards. Many patients are treated at less than cost.

The Backus hospital is one of the best equipped of its kind, handling surgical, medical and obstretical cases in which it has made a record for turning out the finest kind of work. Some of the most satisfactory surgical results are credited to its staff, which in some weeks has had as many as four successful Caesarian operations.

In the appeal for funds in order that it may continue and enlarge its indispensable services not only to this community, but to all the surrounding territory, the hospital management is satisfied that it will be a call for aid for a cause which is unquestionably the most worthy of any for which is unquestionably the most worthy of any for which a public appeal could be made. No modern community can exist without such service as the Backus hospital renders here, day in and day out. No class is debarred from receiving its benefits and no class will be debarred from giving it aid now in its time of need. In the appeal and drive it is expected that every class, every organization and every source will be reached, not only in the town of Norwich but in the communities for miles around from which patients come for the trained and expert service that the hospital renders.

OBITUARY.

Daniel J. Brown.

After an illness of only a few hours Daniel J. Brown of 6 Summer street, well known machinist and pistol mechanic, died Thursday night at the Backus hospital. Mr. Brown was in the best of health, seemingly, Thursday morning when he started to work in his shop on the lower floor of the home. About 10 o'clock he complained of not feeling well, and medical aid was summoned. Two doctors held conference and it was decided that an operation was necessary. He was taken to the hospital where the operation was performed successfully and at 5 o'clock he was removed to the ward. His strength failed, however, and death came about 7 o'clock.

Mr. Brown had never been ill a day in his life but some years ago while operating his boat on the river something went wrong with the engine and while cranking it, the handle of the crank flew around and struck him on the body, this old injury being the cause of his illness on Thursday.

Mr. Brown was born in Barkhamstead, now a part of Hartford, on June 5, 1837, and when six years of age came to live in Norwich with his parents, Isaac and Nancy Brown, and made his home in Norwich during the remainder of his life.

When a young man he learned the trade of a mechanic and became an expert in his business. For years he worked as a mechanic or machinist in the old Pistol shop, Hopkins & Allen, in Colt's at Hartford, and in many other pistol and arms factories. About fifty years ago he entered business for himself and conducted the business at his home until the day of his death, being known as expert and thorough in his work.

When boats were first run by gasoline engines, Mr. Brown purchased an engine and had his boats out on the Thames river, the first gasoline propelled boat in this part of the country. People used to watch the boat and it was the talk of the town. Later for many years he ran a fish boat between Norwich and Block Island, making a record catch of 600 bluefish on one trip.

He always spent his summers at Fishers Island where he owned considerable buildings, this being the main enjoyment of his life. Every year on June 8th he would be at his cottage on the island and had planned to continue this habit in the coming summer, to make it 48 consecutive years he had done so.

He was a staunch republican and had voted on every occasion since reaching voting age, and cast his first ballot for a president of the United States, for Abraham Lincoln, the republican candidate. He never solicited any office in politics and belonged to no societies. He was a member of the Congregational church and was interested in activities of that church.

Mr. Brown was twice married, his first wife being Miss Phoebe Lewis of Rhode Island. On Sept. 27, 1902, by Rev. George Soure of Greenville he was married to Jane E. Phillips of Jewett City, who survives him. Mr. Brown was the last of his immediate family, and besides his wife leaves one nephew, Dr. Brown of New York state.

Those who knew him had only the deepest of respect for him. In his shop on Summer street he would not allow swearing nor smoking, and had neither of these habits himself. In the death of Mr. Brown the community loses an old and respected citizen, and his family, a true helpmate.

Mrs. Chauncey C. Pendleton.

After an illness of about three weeks, Cynthia E. Main, beloved wife of Chauncey S. Pendleton, died on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at her home in Preston. During her illness she was tenderly cared for by her family.

She was born in North Stonington January 22, 1853, the daughter of Seth Main and Mary Woodward Main. When a young woman she moved to Preston where she lived for 66 years.

On March 27, 1873, she was united in marriage to Chauncey C. Pendleton at Preston, and of this union there were four children, Mrs. Jesse Crary, George A. Pendleton, Joseph B. Pendleton, and Mrs. Ernest Pereau. There are also two brothers, Appleton Main of Poquetanuck and Leonard Main of North Stonington, and one sister, Mrs. Herbert Barlow of Buffalo, Mass., and seven grandchildren, Cynthia Crary, Charles and Florence Pendleton, children of George A. Pendleton, and Ernestine, Ernest, Chauncey, and Wilfred Pereau.

Mrs. Pendleton was a member of the Preston City Baptist church and always took interest in the affairs of the church. She was a loving wife and mother, a kind neighbor and helpful neighbor. News of her death came as a shock to her many friends who extend their sympathy to the family in their time of deep sorrow.

Mrs. James E. Comstock.

News was received by relatives Thursday of the sudden death of Lucy Allyn, wife of James E. Comstock of Quaker Hill, at St. Andrews, Florida, on February 11th. Mr. and Mrs. Comstock had left Quaker Hill early in the winter to spend the winter in that southern city.

She was born in the west half of the ... at Uncasville. She is survived by her husband, James E. Comstock, one sister, Mrs. Prudence Hammond of New London, three brothers, Henry Allyn of Toledo, Ohio, John Allyn, of St. Louis, Mo., and Frank Allyn, now living in the west.

She was a member of the Quaker Hill Baptist church and was well known in that section. There are many friends left to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Marshall Jewett.

(Contributed.)

It has been very consoling to her many friends to hear and read the various tributes to Mrs. Lillian Brown Jewet, beloved wife of Marshall Jewett, of 58 Church street, Norwich, whose unexpected death from heart failure caused relatives, friends and neighbors such keen sorrow.

Mrs. Jewett was essentially a home maker, devoting her best efforts toward the comfort, happiness and welfare of those nearest to her. ... she proved equally eminent in those patriotic and benevolent organizations to which she belonged, giving of her time, talents and ... whenever and wherever called upon to advance their ... a social, fraternal or financial way.

As a wife and daughter she was most affectionate and devoted. Realizing how dear to her aged father, Leander Brown, an honored Civil war veteran and esteemed member of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., was every matter pertaining to the patriotic organizations of his country, she put heart and soul into their welfare, never sparing time and effort when any project was proposed to aid these bodies or societies.

She was a skilled needlewoman doing exquisite work, and as has been said, her hands were never idle, but always engaged in some useful occupation.

To the little company of friends whom she admitted to her hospitable home day after day, she was ever kind and sympathetic, and in cases of illness or trouble her words and her deeds proved the goodness and generosity of her heart. To many far and near, the announcement of her death brought deep personal sorrow, since each one felt that it was a real friend who has passed on to her reward. The messages of condolence which members of the family have received from many cities are the best proof that Mrs. Jewett's kindness and goodness have left their impression upon the memory of those who have spent pleasant hours as members of her home circle.

Others will cherish tender thoughts of her deeds of charity in numerous ways, and will be added to the true company of kin, intimate friends and neighbors who sorrow for one whose quiet, earnest life has revealed so far in its influence for helpfulness and good.

FRIENDS NOW

Our friendship now is gold without alloy—
I let him talk to me about his boy,
The older lad (I think they called him Jack)
Who went away to war and ne'er came back.

Before that day he always seemed to be
Abashed and diffident in front of me.
Yet somehow to our conversation came
A mention of that absent soldier's name.

Whereat he dropped all timidly a word
In confidence—and eagerly I heard
The thing he said. He ceased. I said, "Go on."
He spoke as one whose diffidence is gone.

Looking away from me, he talked so low
I had to stoop to catch his voice's flow.
Unfolding sacred chronicles that lay
Deep in his heart, in rose-leaves swathed, and bay.

"Come in some time," he begged, "and see the note
He left when he embarked upon the boat"—
Our friendship has been gold without alloy
Since thus he talked to me about his boy.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

North Wind and Big Brown Bear.

The Big Brown Bear was fast asleep in his cave on the windy hill. While Mr. North Wind came blowing by

"Oh his snowhorse, Breezy Bill. So, he stormed and whistled, "Hello, Mr. Bear,
How long are you going to stay asleep there?"
But the Big Brown Bear never moved a paw,
So, Mr. North Wind blew open the door.

"Goodness me," yearned the Big Brown Bear, "who's breaking into my cave?" and he gave a dreadful growl and closed the door and after that he went to sleep again, for it wasn't time for him to go out in the wood and look for honey and other food.

"Ha, ha," laughed Mr. North Wind, "let me see where I'll go next."

So, he blew through the Shady Forest, whistling loudly, but he never woke up Chippy Chipmunk fast asleep in his little house under the roots of the Old Chestnut Tree. Nelther did he wake up Granddaddy Billfrog asleep in the mud at the bottom of the Old Duck Pond. No, Sirree, it wouldn't be the loud voice of Mr. Chilly North Wind who would call all the sleeping four-footed little people of the Shady Forest to come out of their snug places. It would be the gentle voice of Miss South Wind when the Springtime came.

"Gracious me!" said Mr. North Wind, "I guess I'll go over to the Old Bramble Patch and see Little Jack Rabbit. So, across the Sunny Meadow went Mr. Chilly North Wind in his big snowhorse, Breezy Bill, but the little rabbit heard him coming and wouldn't open the door and after Mr. North Wind had howled through the brambles and piled the snowdrifts high around the little bunny's house, he turned away and went over to the Farmyard.

"I guess I'll blow down the chimney of the old farmer's house," he said to himself, but when he did the soot flew into his eyes so he went away, but before he did, he turned the weathercock around on top of the Red Barn.

"Gracious me," said Mrs. Crow as she chewed her cud in the shed, "I'll be glad when summer comes and the Sunny Meadow is covered with grass. I'm chilled to the bone," and she shuggered her tail, although there wasn't a fly around, let me tell you. No, Sirreebob.

And just then, Mr. Sharptooth Rat looked in and said:

"I haven't seen Little Jack Rabbit for a long time. Do you think the little rabbit is sick?"

"Don't you bother me, you old robber," said Mrs. Cow, "when I'm not looking you eat up all the corn. I'll tell the farmer some day and maybe he'll set a trap for you."

But Mr. Sharptooth Rat only laughed for he knew too much to get caught in a trap and in the next story, if Mr. North Wind doesn't blow the ribbon off my typewriter I'll tell you some more about Little Jack Rabbit and his friends.

HAVE HEARD NOTHING FROM DR. JOHN H. EVANS

Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Evans of Washington street have received no word during the past six weeks from their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. John H. Evans and Mrs. Evans, who are in the Near East.

Dr. and Mrs. Evans sailed from New York one year ago today, (February 16) to engage in Near East Relief work. The steamer Megali Hellas, which conveyed the Near East party, there being five others besides Dr. and Mrs. Evans, was scheduled to arrive at Constantinople seventeen days later, or about March 5. Owing to severe wind storms, the steamer was one week and one day overdue, having arrived at the destination assigned, March 13.

For a short time Dr. and Mrs. Evans were located at Tiflis, which is about one-half way between Constantinople and Erivan Armenia, where the greater part of the year they have been located at the latter place. Dr. Evans is a member of the executive committee of the board of near east relief, district director, medical director, and sanitary officer for the whole Caucasus district. Mrs. Evans, who is a very capable and faithful helper to her husband in his work, is engaged in the executive work of the orphanages. They expect to be absent from this country for another year.

Dates of Ash Wednesday and Easter

Ash Wednesday has come on Feb. 14 before, in 1877, 1872, 1866, and will also fall on date in 1934 and 1945, in this century. Ash Wednesday came on Feb. 22 in 1882, 1871, 1860, and will come on that day in 1928, 1939 and 1950, in the 20th century. It does not follow that Easter will come on the same date in all the years on which Ash Wednesday falls on a given date, as leap years make Easter come a day earlier. Thus in 1860 Easter came on April 8, because February had 29 days, but in 1871, Easter was on April 9, as there were but 28 days in February. Although in both these years Ash Wednesday was on Feb. 22.—Boston Globe.

REPLICA OF STONE IS EXHIBIT IN COURT CASE

A plaster cast replica of the stone which Mrs. Catherine L. Bell fell and X-ray pictures of the break in two bones of her left forearm were feature exhibits in the superior court here Thursday in the trial of her suit against the City of New London for $10,000 damages. The accident happened near her home in Prest street about 7 o'clock on the evening of Oct. 17, 1920.

Mrs. Bell testified to the circumstances of the accident and Timothy Danaher, who lives in Prest street, told of the aid he gave Mrs. Bell after her fall. Dr. Joseph M. Carney exhibited the X-ray pictures and testified to the medical treatment given Mrs. Bell and to the extent of her injuries.

In the cross-examination of Mrs. Bell it was brought out that she had been given help by the Associated charities and by the charity department of New London.

Mrs. Nellie Danaher of Prest street, living in the same house with Mrs. Bell, testified to bathing Mrs. Bell's arm with hot water after the accident, then going out to see the stone over which Mrs. Bell had fallen. Mrs. Danaher said the stone was a short distance from an electric light pole and she had noticed it before. There were roots of trees in the sidewalk, which was a narrow one. The tree roots made it narrower. Mrs. Bell suffered a great deal after the accident, was unable to dress herself or do washing, and Mrs. Danaher helped her as much as possible in a neighborly way. Mrs. Bell has done little of anything since the accident and has been assisted by charity. At present Mrs. Bell is able to wash dishes by putting the pan down low but she can't do anything to earn money.

George Guest of Groton was called to the stand, testifying that he had been employed for 23 years as a sculptor with Reid Lyon, Pratt & Boston. He told of work in sculpture at the Congressional library, on battleships and other places that he had done, and described how casts are taken with plaster of Paris.

A replica of the stone on Prest street, which had been taken by Mr. Guest Wednesday, was offered as an exhibit.

Attorneys for the city objected to this being offered as a reproduction of conditions at the time of the accident. The attorneys for the plaintiff withdrew the exhibit temporarily, but recalled Mrs. Danaher who described the stone on the night that Mrs. Bell fell and on Wednesday when she saw it. She said the conditions had not changed at any time.

Judge Brown ruled against the introduction of the exhibit now, and the plaintiff's attorneys rested her case at this point.

Attorneys for the city began their case by calling to the stand Kenneth M. Holmes of the New London highway department, who explained a plan of the Prest street section where the accident in Mrs. Bell case took place.

He was on the stand when court adjourned to continue the trial this (Friday) morning.

PRESTON BROS. MAKING IMPROVEMENTS IN BUILDING

Preston Bros., lessees of the Strand building, 203-211 Main street, are making alterations in the building which will add another store on the Main street front by taking some space from the westerly side of their own store and eliminating a doorway and stairway which formerly led to a rooming house upstairs.

The new store will be 12 by 35 and will be occupied by Smith's Pharmacy which will move from its present location at 206 Main street. The pharmacy store has already been leased by a woman's specialty store.

The entire second floor of the building, except for part now occupied by a dentist's office, which will remain, will be made into fine showrooms for Preston Bros., and the upper part of the building will be occupied for their showrooms. An inside stairway on the easterly side of the hardware store will lead to the show rooms on the second floor.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre.

Ben Ames Williams' famous story, "All the Brothers Were Valiant," is made the basis of an unusually thrilling and entertaining photoplay, shown for the first time in Norwich at the Bread theatre, where it began a run of three days. It is a love story in the elements which [illegible] a big feature, and the enthusiastic [illegible] which greeted it at the initial presentation yesterday is proof that it is destined to enjoy the greatest popularity.

The story has everything that a good picture should have; it has, in addition, the extremely capable direction of Irvin V. Willat, one of the best producers of this type of story; it has a Metro cast of real excellence, numbering players of exceptional skill and it has been provided with an adaptation which retains — even heightens—the force of the written narrative.

Mr. Williams' yarn is a modern "Treasure Island," with the exciting situations emphasized. There is a thrilling whale hunt; the killing of three pearl fishers; the enmity between two brothers; the attack of savages on a white man, a mutiny on board ship; and, finally, an effective last-minute reconciliation between two brothers.

Such is the stuff of which this fine Willat production is made. In his skilful hands it becomes an engrossing picture, holding the interest unfailingly from start to finish. It is by all odds the best sea story which has been presented at the Bread theatre.

Lon Chaney adds to his considerable reputation through his handling of the role of Mark Shore, a crafty seaman. Malcolm McGregor is his brother, courageously loyal to his trust as captain of the whaling schooner. Billie Dove gives a charming sympathetic interpretation of the role of Priscilla, the wife of Joel, to whom Mark makes unwelcome advances. Other expert portrayals are provided by W. H. Mong, Curt Rehfeld, William H. Orlamond, Robert McKim, Bob Kortman, Otto Brower, Leo Willis and others.

"Are All Brothers Valiant," will be shown again today and tomorrow at the Bread theatre as the feature attraction and other pictures on the bill include Ruth Roland in "The Timber Queen," the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy.

Sennett Special Pleases Strand Patrons.

One always looks for unusual angles in Mack Sennett's special pictures and one always finds them. Such a thing as runaway horses, skidding automotive vehicles, Broadway first nights and precipitous falls over a cliff are usually an event for one picture. When all of them are combined in a single feature they make pretty good material not only for the critic but also for the average patron of the cinema.

The evolution of the picture is full of surprises in its original treatment and can be counted on as a novelty for the legions whom Mr. Sennett numbers among his followers. Incidentally it boasts no less than twelve featured players — surely a record. They are George O. Hare, Kathryn McGuire, Noah Beery, Ethel Grey Terry, Charles Murray, Billy Bevan, Mildred June, Eddie Gribbon, Dot Farley, Ben Deeley, Wyndham Standing and Robert Cobb.

The latest Hans Hamilton comedy, "No Luck," was a treat, an Educational Kinogram closed the show.

ALL INSURANCE RECORDS BROKEN

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company broke all records in volume of business done in the year 1922, according to a report published today. The amount of new business placed on the books exceeded the phenomenal year of 1920 and was far in excess of what had been [illegible] Those owners of the company's policies will certainly reflect improved conditions.

Particularly significant is the fact that [illegible] increased [illegible] thirty-eight and a half million dollars during 1922, reaching the total of $540,964,301. The assets of the company increased $144,267,200 and at the end of the year stood at $1,259,850,525. The mortality increase notwithstanding compared with the previous year, and the total number of claims paid was 346,270. The average of one claim paid every 24 seconds of each business day of eight hours, or just about 1,000 a day during the year, including Sundays and holidays. The amount paid to policy holders averaged $906.92 as against [illegible] during 1921.

Along with this great increase of the business side, the welfare work done by the company, in behalf of the health of its industrial policyholders, kept pace. Metropolitan nurses made more than two million free visits to sick industrial policy holders during the year, the total number paid since this service was inaugurated to over fifteen million. The company has distributed altogether two hundred and seventy-two million booklets on hygiene and prevention of disease and this, in connection with the general activities which are widening each year on the part of all official and semi-official health organizations, has resulted in extending the life expectancy of industrial policyholders by eight and one-half years since 1911.—See ad.

Maria Ivogun, Prima Donna Soprano

Maria Ivogun, a Hungarian, brought to this country by Mary Garden for leading roles with the Chicago Grand Opera company, has been acclaimed by Chicago, Boston and New York papers as a great singer and at the early age of eighteen made a sensation in European opera houses, the like of whom one would have to go back to Jenny Lind's debut to find.

This is her second season in America, where she is filling successful engagements in a large number of our leading cities.

Still in her twenties, of personal beauty and gracious manner, with a lovely, bird-like voice, Miss Ivogun captures her audience with a charm that is irresistable. In good American phraseology, she has been termed by one of her friends in this country "an all-round sport, with people ready to enthuse over her wherever she goes." She is a fine horsewoman and plays tennis in our most approved Palm Beach manner. She is also known as one of the best dressed women on the stage, thus bearing out in a material way the essentially feminine quality, which is the secret of the shimmering beauty of her voice—a voice rich in its power of yearning pathos, impassioned playfulness of caditine.

Miss Ivogun sings in New London at the Armory on February 22. This is the last number of the Arts' Concert Series given this year by Connecticut college and anyone who notices in other columns of this programme is sure that the evening may be kept free for all who wish to hear the most attractive number of the year's programme.

The concert promises fine singing. The Boston Herald of recent date says: "Above many singers she proves herself a musician." While the New York Sun, referring to her appearance at Carnegie hall in concert with the New York Symphony, refers to the lovely, limpid quality of her voice which accompanies her delightful coloratura effects and lends new grace to hail her as "bird-like spirit."

The Vaudeville at the Broadway Theatre

A fine variety of B. F. Keith vaudeville was presented at the Broadway theatre each and every one being a fine attraction.

Opening the bill with Charles Kaufer, called the Syncopated Xylophonist, the audience was treated with some fine popular selected and fine music.

Lamey and Pearson followed in the offering called "A Tale of Two Cities." This offering is a combination of humor, singing and dancing.

Blackwell and Taylor scored heavily with their skit called Flashes to Romance. This skit is full of laughs and good singing.

Joe McFarlan and Johnny Palace appeared in a singing episode which they called "Spasms of Harmony."

Weigan and Troupe appeared in a whirlwind acrobatic novelty. Their offering was very well received.

Renewed belief in the high destiny of the motion picture, in its ability to enliven the imagination and touch the heart is aroused by watching Goldwyn's new Rupert Hughes picture, "Remembrance," shown at last night at the Broadway theatre for the first time. It possesses in abundance those qualities usually looking up screen entertainment—truthful presentation of real human beings who behave as ordinary people do. Character is not sacrificed to a highly spiced plot or to rapidity in the succession of incidents, although "Remembrance" is not lacking in story interest or in the dramatic punch of events.

NEWSPAPERS CONSOLIDATE AS EXPENSES INCREASE

Pittsburgh, Feb. 17.—Announcement that the Pittsburgh Leader, republican afternoon paper, has been sold to the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times, Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph, Pittsburgh Press, Pittsburgh Post and Pittsburgh Sun was made by A. P. Moore, editor and publisher today. With the last edition this afternoon the Leader publication ceased.

The discontinuance of the Leader follows the announcement by the Pittsburgh Dispatch this morning that it had been sold to the same papers and would no longer be issued.

A statement by the buying papers said

"The permanently increased cost of the chief raw material necessary to newspaper production—newsprint paper—of equipment for quick news gathering and of the extension of the news field to embrance the entire earth, demands heavy financial outlays and calls for large forces of specially trained reporters and editors and highly skilled men of the printing crafts. On the other hand, the steady improvement in the machinery for rapid typesetting, picture-making and newspaper printing and the distribution has made it possible for fewer newspapers to supply the public demand."

Berlin, Feb. 16.—(By the A. P.)—Chancellor Cuno, in an address before the agricultural council today predicted a prolonged struggle in the Ruhr, but declared: "We will not leave the straight path on which we have entered."

Germany's power, he asserted, did not consist in power of arms but in something more effective, namely her passive resistance over which no power in the world would be able to triumph."

Alluding to the necessity of insuring a food supply for the population, he branded speculators in bread as "traitors to the fatherland."

The German government will march at the head of the German people in their fight against the occupation of the Ruhr as long as the people back it up, declared Johannes Becker, minister of economics, in addressing the federal coal commission today.

RESCUE VESSELS MEET FOG AND HIGH SEAS

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 16 (By the A. P.)—Fighting their way through blinding fog and huge seas, rescue vessels tonight continued their search off the Vancouver Island coast for the British freighter Tuscan Prince, missing since early yesterday, when her wireless flashed a last message:

"We are breaking up fast. We are going to drown."

Off shore, in the vicinity of Esteran Point, Vancouver Island, and south from Cape Flattery along the Washington coast, searchers sought traces of survivors of the wreck or bodies of members of the crew.

After a day of conflicting reports and rumors there was "nothing definite to report."

A "large steamer," said to be a Japanese steamer, driven ashore near the north entrance of Barclay sound, Vancouver Island, at first believed to be the wreck of the Tuscan Prince, was late today partially identified by coast guard headquarters here as the hulk of the steamer Nika, burned off Umatilla reef yesterday.

Rumors that the officers and crew of the Tuscan Prince had landed safely near Estevan Point were denied by wireless station there.

Shipping men here expressed the opinion that the Tuscan Prince had foundered. While continuing search for the missing vessel the coast guard cutters Snohomish and Algonquin were attempting to take off from the beach at Carmanah Point, Vancouver Island, the twenty-three members of the crew of the steamer Santa Rita, wrecked there yesterday.

Clerical Defense By Mrs. Lillian Raizen

Accused Sighed and Wept as She Told of Events That Led to Murder of Dr. Glickstein.

New York, Feb. 16.—Mrs. Lillian S. Raizen—sighing and weeping, today spent three hours and 57 minutes on the witness stand at her trial on a charge of having murdered Dr. Abraham Glickstein in Brooklyn a year ago.

She told a halting story of a woman's betrayal, a woman's anguish, a woman's plea for the wedding ring a woman's shot—a halting tale drawn from trembling lips at the terse command of the court to "stop crying" and "speak so the jury can hear."

In tears, too, were Charles Raizen, the defendant's husband who took the stand for her yesterday, and members of the Glickstein family, seated among the spectators. Several times Supreme Court Justice Cropsey was forced to adjourn court until the defendant could regain her composure.

When she was testifying as to her knowledge of the shooting and during her cross-examination, Mrs. Raizen pressed her handkerchief so tightly to her lips that her words were inaudible.

"Talk louder—you can talk louder if you want to," almost shouted the judge.

"If you want the jury to hear your story, you had better talk and stop crying," he repeated in a few minutes.

At the conclusion of her cross-examination, Mrs. Raizen, who had been

The charge against Shaw and the other four involved the sale of "5 [illegible] of whiskey to bootleggers.

J., for conspiracy to violate the enforcement law.

Moulton in Chittenden county court today. Otherwise a new trial will be awarded. Crew Was Rescued—Numerous Reports of Sinking and Distressed Vessels.

New York, Feb. 16.—The British auxiliary schooner Dorin, Providence to Nassau, Bahamas, has been abandoned 50 miles off Atlantic City and her crew rescued by the Lamport and Holt steamer Vasari, according to wireless reports received today. The Vasari is due to arrive tonight at Hoboken.

[illegible] lifted into the vessel [illegible] seemed waiting was lifted from it but after [illegible] examination was ended, she was able to take [illegible] the spectators without assistance.

The morning was spent by defense counsel, Albert Conway, leading his client through her story of having been attacked by Dr. Glickstein while a young girl, or other attacks after her engagement to Raizen and of his almost hypnotic power over her.

Finally the story was brought up to the time of the shooting, when she returned to Brooklyn from Florida and entering the doctor's private office, a revolver hidden in a fur piece, killed him.

"What did you have in mind then?" her attorney asked.

"Nothing in particular," she replied. "After I got to the waiting room, I felt as if I had to go ahead. I had to get to the door.

"With the door opened. I remember that I walked in, and said: 'Do you know I am dying?'

"The doctor didn't say anything to me. I heard something. I did—I did—I heard something. I heard—"

Here she again broke down. She was not asked what she had heard.

"Next I was wandering around the house," she continued. "I telephoned to everybody."

"Did you, in the doctor's office, realize the nature and quality of the act you were doing?" her lawyer asked.

She made no answer.

"What act did you do there that you didn't know was wrong?" Justice Cropsey asked.

"Oh God, God, God, please help me. I didn't know I had the gun with me."

In cross-examination she was asked:

"Did you ever ask the doctor to marry you?"

Hesitating at first, she finally said in a loud voice:

"Many, many, many times."

"I said to Dr. Glickstein: 'I want you to honor the sin you brought to my soul by marrying me.' I told him I wanted him to marry me even if he divorced me the very next day."

Mrs. Raizen said Mrs. Glickstein sympathized with her, "because she suffered too." She added the physician once had promised to marry her after he put his wife in an asylum.

Asked if she ever threatened to shoot the doctor, she replied:

"I never did, Mr. Gallagher, don't say that to me.

"I didn't hate the doctor. I admired him as my father's friends, and for the great knowledge he had. There is no real hate in my make-up."

Mr. Gallagher then produced a letter, written by the defendant to the Hubbar Hardware company in Jacksonville, Fla., saying she was touring the south alone, and inquiring the price of a revolver, with a noiseless attachment.

"The doctor had my honor," shouted Mrs. Raizen. "I wanted it back, and he wouldn't give it to me—and I took it."

SPLENDORS IN MORTUARY CHAMBER OF KING "TUT"

Luxor, Egypt, Feb. 16.—(By the A. P.)—Opening of the mortuary chamber in the tomb of King Tutankhamun today showed the sarcophagus of the Pharaoh to be still in the same position in which it was placed by his mourners more than 3,000 years ago.

When the exploring scientists, after removing the delicate seals broke their way through the masonry of the inner chamber door, they were confronted with splendors which, upon the first cursory examination, appear to surpass even those of the ante chamber which have held the interest of the entire world.

The exploring party, headed by Howard Carter, exclaimed with amazement at finding the center chamber, which is about fourteen feet square, occupied by an immense gilded canopy, richly inscribed.

The canopy was closed, but there is a door, an dthe opening of this revealed inside what is undoubtedly Tutenkhamun's coffin. For the present, however, this was left undisturbed. A canopic jar, which probably contains the heart and other internal organs of the king, was found inside the canopy.

One feature of the discovery in the inner chamber was a magnificent statue of a cat, richly painted, which has stood sentry over the dead pharaoh through the centuries he had lain there. The chamber is filled with splendid furniture, in orderly array. It also holds several superb gold chariots, an exquisite ivory and ebony box and many beautiful alabaster vases.

"Marvelous! I congratulate you!" exclaimed Professor Breasted to the Earl of Carnarvon, when the earl and Mr. Carter and the other members of their party emerged from the tomb.

SENATE APPROVES BRITISH DEBT FUNDING SETTLEMENT

Vote Was 70 to 13—Bill to be Returned to the House With Amendment Providing That Settlements With Other Nations Must Have the Approval of Congress Instead of the President—No Change Was Made in the House Plan for Funding the British Debt of $4,604,000,000 Over a Term of 62 Years at Reduced Interest.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Congressional approval of the British debt funding settlement virtually was completed tonight when the senate passed the house funding bill.

The bill was returned to the house for adjustment of amendments not relating to the plan for funding the British debt of $4,604,000,000 over a term of sixty-two years at reduced interest, but providing that settlements with other debtor nations must have the approval of congress instead of the president. The vote was 70 to 13.

The opposition consisted of four republicans, Senators Borah, Idaho, France, Maryland, Lafollette, Wisconsin, and Norris, Nebraska, and nine democrats, Ashurst, Arizona, Gerry, Rhode Island, Heflin, Alabama, Hitchcock, Nebraska, McKellar, Tennessee, Reed, Missouri, Trammel, Florida, Walsh, Massachusetts, and Walsh Montana.

The vote was not reached until after [illegible] o'clock and after a continuous session of eight hours and a total of four days of debate. The bill was passed a week ago today by the house after one day's discussion and goes to conference with a certainty of enactment before congress adjourns. Chairman McCumber of the finance committee, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, a member of the finance committee and also of the allied debt commission, and Senator Williams, democrat, Mississippi, were appointed as the conferees for the senate.

Only two important senate amendments are in dispute between the senate and house. These are the amendment of Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, providing for approval by congress instead of the president of the funding agreements with other nations, and one by Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, providing for appointment of three democrats on the allied debt commission. Both were adopted by the senate without record votes. The Robinson amendment was accepted by administration leaders but they opposed that of Senator Harris and said it would be dropped out in conference if it threatened to delay enactment of the legislation.

The attacks in final debate today, as well as in previous discussion, centered on the reduced interest provided in the British settlement. This is 2 per cent. for the first ten years and 3 1-2 per cent. thereafter. Opponents rallied finally upon the amendment of Senator Hitchcock, dc., democrat, Nebraska, proposing that Great Britain should pay the same rate paid by the United States upon its securities averaged each year.

[illegible] the interest fight, Senators Reed, democrat, Missouri, and McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, prominent among the opposition, refraining from offering similar amendments. Senator Reed said the vote on the Hitchcock amendment made it apparent that [illegible] intended to "swallow" the [illegible] as it stood.

Fourteen democrats and seven republicans supported the Hitchcock amendment.

Opponents of the funding agreement argued that they constituted a cancellation on part of the British debt and [illegible] a burden, estimated at $1,665,000,000, based on the 4 1-4 per cent. rate on Liberty bonds, to the American taxpayer. The advocates of the bill denied that cancellation was involved, declaring the opposition argument "preposterous" and [illegible] that the British agreement was fair and the best that could be obtained.

The battle was waged all day before crowded galleries with flights of oratory. Probably the most dramatic speech was by Senator Glass, democrat, former secretary of the treasury, who painted in fervid colors a picture of the British and allied services in the war against the common enemy. Senator Glass said "if British funding agreement was "a sound economic proposition and eminently fair so far as the interests of the United States are concerned." He and other champions of the bill stressed that the agreement would stabilize and improve world conditions and open the way to funding agreements with other debtor nations.

GEN. CRONKHITE PROMISES SHOCKING REVELATIONS

Washington, Feb. 16 (By the A. P.)—Revelations which "will shock the conscience of the country" were promised tonight by Major General Robert Cronkhite, war commander of the Eighth division, in his first public statement regarding the circumstances surrounding his recent enforced retirement from the active roll of the army.

Repeating his charge that he was taken out of active service because of the attention he was giving to investigation of the death of his son, Major Alexander P. Cronkhite, accidentally killed in 1918 at Camp Lewis, Washington, the general asserted that in what he had done he was only performing the duty to which I was assigned by the president." He had been given no opportunity, he added, to place the true facts before the authorities, and, contrary to established regulations, had been denied even the right of appearing before a retiring board.

"The facts in this whole unfortunate affair, when they come to light," he said, "will shock the conscience of the country, and unless something happens to me they surely will come to light."

A senate investigation into the case already has been requested by Jennings C. Wise, who served in the Eighteenth division as a lieutenant colonel, and by others of General Cronkhite's friends. Tonight no decision on the request had been reached by the senators interested, although action on the nomination of a successor to General Cronkhist still was being withheld at the request of Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, in whose state the Eighteenth division trained.

During the day Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, to whom Colonel Wise addressed his request for investigation, replied to the colonel's letter with a promise that the case would receive careful consideration. Senator Reed added, however, that he had not yet decided whether to present a resolution of inquiry.

FRENCH AND BRITISH SILENT ON NEGOTIATIONS

London, Feb. 16 (By the A. P.)—M. Le Troquer, French minister of public works, and the members of the French mission who have been consulting with the British cabinet on the question of transportation control in the Ruhr, Rhineland, etc., left for Paris tonight, maintaining to the last complete silence as to the outcome of the negotiations. Similarly, no statement of any kind came from the British side.

The situation at the conclusion of today's conference was so delicate that neither party ventured comment, although it is known the session was a failure inasmuch as the French proposals [illegible] which provided that they be accorded the privilege of running trains on the main lines in and out of Cologne—were not accepted.

The conference was wrecked on the same rock as attempts to solve the reparations problem, that is, the impossibility of separating economic from political questions. The French spokesman came to arrange what the French regarded solely as an economic proposition, only to find himself immediately involved in the political implication of his demands, namely, that acquiescence by the British government would bear the aspect of approval of the French action in the Ruhr.

E. MONT REILY RESIGNS AS GOVERNOR OF PORTO RICO

Washington, Feb. 16 (By the A. P.)—The resignation of E. Mont Reily as governor of Porto Rico was received at the White House early today, coming but no announcement was made concerning it, although they were very free and candid that it would be [illegible]

The text of the acceptance of resignation was made public at the White House following part

Hon. Warren G. Harding, President of the United States.

"On account of very serious injury which in the states as well as Porto Rico prostrated me and I have been [illegible] for [illegible] I have been compelled to resume my official duties. My physicians inform me [illegible] will be several months before I can recover, and I must have complete change and rest, free from all care. Thus being the case I feel that I should resign and look after my health first.

"I would like my resignation to become effective April 1, believing that by that time I will be able to travel and if I am not can be taken to a hospital here until I am able to do so. In offering my resignation I cannot do so without expressing to you and Secretary Weeks my appreciation of the [illegible] and support, you have [illegible] given to me in my arduous [illegible] trying work here.

"A delegation composed of men of all political parties called on my secretary yesterday requesting that I withhold my resignation until you could be communicated with. I was notified them my resignation was irrevocable. Ninety per cent of the people of the island are for you and the things you stand for and pleading that no backward step be taken in Porto Rico. Americanization of the island must be continued. The ground fought over by your administration must be held, and where the outposts have been attained they must never be withdrawn.

E. MONT REILY

That several men have been considered informally in government circles for the governorship in the event of the Reily's resignation.

Among these are Major General Clarence R. Edward retired, who commanded the 26th Division overseas and previously had served as chief of the bureau of insular affairs of the war department and in [illegible] Philippines and other possessions.

WILL BE NO EMBARGO ON ANTHRACITE EXPORTS

Washington, Feb. 16—The proposals for an embargo on anthracite exports, especially to Canada, has been carefully considered and definitely abandoned, it was said today at the White House. In the view of high government [illegible] there is no [illegible] to believe that [illegible] no material [illegible] which [illegible] of New [illegible]

The proposal that a federal commission be authorized to investigate the subject of war supply also has been dropped. President Harding is known to have opposed the proposal before prominent members of the senate and house, but the reaction in both houses was said to have convinced him it would be unwise to press for action.

Judging from the coal now in the process of transit, it all of the coal that for Willimantic dealers, arrived this week there would be plenty for all customers, but some of the coal has been on the way here since January 15, and there is no way of ascertaining when it will arrive.

A good illustration of the slowness in the railroads in handling the coal is given by one dealer who called the Hartford Division of the New Haven railroad in regard to four cars of coal (two) soft and two hard. The soft coal was in the Maybrook yards, one hundred miles distant. The hard coal was in the Maybrook yards, one hundred miles distant. The hard coal was in New Haven. The dealer was notified that the soft coal would be started at once. Three days later the soft coal arrived. The hard coal was not received until five days later and the shipments have been in East Hartford since Saturday of last week but have not yet arrived in Willimantic.

Orders placed Friday morning for coal and shipped the next day have been received within the past week.

Two automobiles collided Friday noon at the junction of Valley and Jackson streets. The accident caused much excitement, although no one was injured and but little damage was done. The collision took place between a car which was being driven by Henry Farra of Mansfield, and which was traveling south on Jackson street, near the junction of alley street, and a Chevrolet truck owned and driven by Morris Bronerwine of No. 232 Main street, Norwich, which suddenly shot out of Valley street extension from the east. Both men saw the danger. Farra mounted a three-foot snowbank alongside of the curbing and Bronerwine turned sharply to the left, striking the Farra car broadside and smashing the running board and fender on the left side of the car. But slight damage was done to the Norwich truck.

Chief of Police Daniel Killourey happened along at the time and Bronerwine acknowledged that he was to blame for the accident and agreed to settle for the damage. Both men have sent in reports of the accident to the state motor vehicle department.

No arrests have as yet been made by the local police in connection with the burglary of coal dealers' offices in the block, Thursday morning. It is known that a number of these young men who have been in the habit of frequenting Railroad street, were brought to the police station and examined but they accounted for their whereabouts at the hour when the breaks were made. It was also found that the measurements of the footprints taken in the snow in the rear of the stores coincided with the size of the shoes of some of the young men. Many are of the opinion that the recent burglar or burglars are the same persons who broke into the Murray Boston Store some time ago.

A wide circle of friends and neighbors mourn the death of Henry W. Dunham, who was a life-long resident of the town and who found many opportunities to show kindness to his neighbors, especially in their time of need. Mr. Dunham had lived in this village many years as care-taker at the L. D. Brown estate and later at the O. A. Perry. Several years ago he purchased the residence of the late Mrs. Lucy Cross, where he made his home with his sister, Mrs. C. I. Hobby. For several weeks after Mr. and Mrs. Hobby and family left to spend the winter in Virginia, Mr. Dunham lived alone at the home. EAT AND GET THIN

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertions if you are likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, 1652 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a slim, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave off the athletics, but take your little tablet faithfully, and without doubt that flabby fat will quickly take up its place where it may belong instead of your natural self neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

TREMAINE GETS DECISION OVER CURTIN, WHO QUITS CLAIMING FOUL

New York, Feb. 16.—Carl Tremaine, Cleveland heavyweight, was awarded a referee's decision tonight over Danny Curtin of Jersey City, when Curtin quit cold in the sixth round of their scheduled ten-round match in Madison Square Garden, claiming he had been fouled. Referee Patsy Haley said he did not think a foul blow had been struck.

Following the abrupt ending, Tremaine had the better of a furious milling. The Clevelander set out in the ring pound with a two-fisted assault, driving Curtin to cover. Curtin, however, met his shifty opponent squarely [illegible] once rocking him with a right to the jaw.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Cold in the Old Bramble Patch.

The Old Farm pump is frozen tight—
It must have happened in the night
When Mr. North Wind, fierce and chill,
Came blowing down the icy hill.

Goodness me! When the kind-hearted farmer got up in the morning after Cocky Doodles had sung his cock-a-doodle song, and went out to pump some water, he couldn't get any. No, Siree.

There was a big icicle hanging on the spout and the water wouldn't come out, so he cracked it off and went into the kitchen to get a pail of hot water, and after he had poured it down the old pump, the water came out of the spout and Mrs. Cow got a drink of water although she was provoked to wait until the clock had struck half-past eight.

And, oh dear me! It was just as cold ever at the Old Bramble Patch where Little Jack Rabbit lived and Lady Love had a dreadful time getting breakfast, for Mr. North Wind kept blowing down the chimney and sending the ashes all over the floor and this made Lady Love dreadfully anxious, because she liked to have her kitchen spick and span and [illegible] her food [illegible] sizzling pots.

Well, after breakfast was over, Little Jack Rabbit hopped out doors, for he wasn't afraid of the cold. Oh, my, no, his little white fur overcoat kept him as warm as toast and just as he was going to hop along the little path, he saw Charlie Chickadee and Jerry Junke flying here and there in the Old Bramble Patch.

"You don't mind if we eat up the old dried berries, do you?" asked the little chickadee, for there isn't much to find when the ground is covered with snow.

"Eat all you wish," said the rabbit and then these two little winter birds stuffed their pockets full of dried berries to take home and when they could find no more, they flew out on the Sunny Meadow, where the fluffy grass stalks stood out above the snow, and picked off the little grass seeds and after that they flew away.

So, the little rabbit hopped along and by and by, after a while, he came to the Old Chestnut Tree where Chippy Chipmunk lived in the summer time in a hole under the big spreading roots, but Chippy was no where to be seen. Oh, my no. All summer and all fall he had been busy storing away nuts and grain in his little storehouse down under the ground where it was warm and safe from Mr. North Wind and he had something to nibble on till Miss Spring came with the whispering breezes.

"Oh, dear, I'm very lonely,
My friends are all asleep,
In hollow trees or burows, warm,
Safe from the snowflakes and the storm.
I cannot even hear them creep,
For they are snuggled up asleep."

And then the little rabbit hopped away into the next story, which I will tell you tomorrow, if you are good and help your father saw the wood.

Mr. Farren was born in Fair Haven, the Farrens being one of the oldest families there. His father was Roswell B. Farren of the old firm of Farren Brothers, manufacturers of spring beds, and his mother was Emma Neale Farren. He is survived by one brother, William H. Farren of New Haven.

Mr. Farren was a member of the Pilgrim Congregational church. He was always keenly interested in Fair Haven politics, having served as ward chairman of the old 14th ward. SNOWY WEATHER CUTS STORRS HENS' PRODUCTION

[illegible] the thirty odd snow storms [illegible] winter has gotten next to the [illegible] the laying contest at Storrs, [illegible] week there was a little help. They came through with five dozen [illegible] eggs than the week before. The total production, to be sure, was [illegible] [illegible] a decrease of previous [illegible] the production [illegible] is [illegible] upward. With the longer days, [illegible] weather should now mean an [illegible] number of eggs and, [illegible] time until May when [illegible] production is reached. Dur[illegible] [illegible] Leghorn pen [illegible] Mary Mortimer, L. I., was [illegible] a total of 54 eggs [illegible] Rhode Island Reds en[illegible] Percival Farms, Roxbury, Mass., and Hill Farm, North Dana[illegible] Mass., were in second and third places with 45 and 44 eggs respectively.

W. H. B. Kent's pen of Barred Rocks from Cazenovia, N. Y., Lady [illegible] White Wyandottes from [illegible] England, a pen of R[illegible] entered by E. Newell Schuyler of Pom[illegible] River, Conn., and James O. Le[illegible] Leghorns from New Paltz, N. Y., all tied for fourth place with [illegible] each.

[illegible] laying season is now at hand, most poultrymen believe in better feeding. A bulletin from the Missouri Experiment Station says it is a mistake to set the first hen to go broody in the spring. The best hen is one that lays during the winter months and usually she is the last to go broody in the spring. This is about the time the winter layer goes broody the winter loafer begins laying. Setting the first broody in the spring means then that a good winter layer is set on the eggs of a winter layer eggs and as a result the good winter layer spends three weeks incubating the eggs and perhaps six weeks brooding the chicks. In other words, the good hen has spent about nine weeks raising and brooding chicks from the poorest eggs while none of her own have been used for incubation.

FIRST REPORTS IN CAMPAIGN FOR BOY SCOUTS SHOW $1,200 RAISED

The drive of the Boy Scouts of Norwich for $5,000 got off to a fine start Friday, and when the team captains and their workers met at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the office of Scout Executive F. A. Benton returns showed that to date over $1,200 had been turned in through the mail campaign and through personal subscriptions.

Returns of pledge cards for contributions to the Boy Scouts campaign are coming in in a gratifying manner, and Treasurer Arthur E. Storrs asks that all people receiving cards send them in as quickly as possible that the check in headquarters can be speeded up, and Norwich go over the top before the end of the campaign.

This quota of $5,000 is needed to meet the expenses of the handling of the greatly increased number of scouts. The scouts in Norwich in 1921 numbered only 80, but in 1922 the numbers increased to 160, and at the present time there are 288 scouts in Norwich, with the numbers increasing steadily, it being certain that [illegible] scouts will be working in Norwich before the end of the campaign.

The team captains and workers at the meeting Friday afternoon pledged themselves to put Norwich over the top in the campaign and eagerly took subscription cards to use in the personal canvass. It is expected that the goal of $5,000 will be reached before the close of the campaign, showing that citizens of Norwich are interested in the scouts.

The team captains and workers are to meet with Campaign Directory Hempstead Johnson Monday afternoon [illegible] o'clock at Scout headquarters for further reports.

WARREN LEE GOSS, NEARING 28 WRITES ANOTHER BOOK

Warren Lee Goss, of Rutherford, N. J., a former Norwich resident, who will be 88 at his next birthday, has completed another book, to be on the market in June or July.

Mr. Goss, author of [illegible] war stories, in later years stories for boys is widely [illegible] this latest work will have special Norwich interest, for the reason that a number of its characters were Colonial folk of this town and several of the [illegible] laid in Norwich. Historic records that Washington, after cleaning the British out of Boston, marched his army to Norwich, embarking here on sailing vessels for New York.

Mr. Goss, when writing his newest tale, had in mind the fact that the present generation is forgetting the glorious history of this country and it was to revive or impart such knowledge that he tells the interesting story.

A Memorial Day orator in Norwich in recent years stated that the New England soldiers fought the Battle of Bunker Hill, and that Virginians fought the Battle of Yorktown. In truth, the latter battle was fought by French troops and northern soldiers [illegible] makes no mention of any Virginian troops under Washington in that contest. Lafayette probably had a few; but, as he wrote to Washington while luring Cornwallis to Yorktown:

"I am too weak to be beaten!" Consequently, there could not have been many even then in his army.

Mr. Goss, whose "Soldier's Story" won high praise from critics here and in England, followed his experiences in the Civil war, aims to keep close to the known facts of history, even while writing entertaining fiction for young readers. He is an honored member of Ridgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., of Norwich, and his associate members will be interested as will be the reading public at large in his latest story, said to be unusually vigorous and forceful.

HEARINGS ARE SET FOR COMMITTEES NEXT WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 16.—On Tuesday next, in the senate chamber the joint committee on constitutional amendments will hold a hearing on the proposal to extend the age limit of judges. It has long been felt that it was unwise to remove a judge by the present limitation of 70 years, when he was in full possession of mental and physical power.

The committee on fish and game has scheduled hearings for two days next week.

On Tuesday they will have before them bills concerning Sunday hunting, concerning special permission for hunting on Sunday; amending an act concerning penalties for Sunday hunting and an act concerning snaring of game.

On Wednesday they will consider bills concerning close season, trapping of fur-bearing animals and trappers' licenses.

The use of the house chamber has been granted to the committee on railroads. It is understand that the abolishment of the one-man trolley cars will be considered.

APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE TO STATE HOSPITAL

Members of the appropriations committee of the general assembly were on a trip to New London Friday. They left the capitol about 10 o'clock and were to visit the state farm for women at Niantic in the afternoon and also the White Beach Sanatorium for Children at East Lime, also taking a view of the military camp ground at Niantic. They returned to New London in the evening and dined at th Mohican hotel and were the guests of Senator Ernest E. Rogers at a theatre party. Today (Saturday) they will visit the Mystic Oral school at Mystic and the Norwich State Hospital, returning to their several homes Saturday afternoon.

WHAT NEW YORK CRITIC THINKS OF LAMOND

Frederick Lamond, the pianist, who was heard in concert at Slater hall here last Friday evening, gave the same programme in New York city Thursday night.

To the [illegible] writer of [illegible] also, it will be of interest to know how the [illegible] New York Times regarded Mr. Lamond's playing.

The Times said:

Frederic Lamond, the British pianist, who, returning to New York after some twenty years played with the Philharmonic Society a short time ago, gave a recital last evening in Aeolian hall. It was a noteable occasion, even in this season crowded with the offerings of great pianists. Mr. Lamond's style is individual, his own. He is an artist who seeks the highest things, and whose interpretations are the result of a great artist's devotion to mastering and possessing himself of the meanings and intentions of great composers.

Mr. Lamond has the reputation of certain austerity of style. When he appeared here twenty years ago, it was more noticeable than it is today. His style has been hellowed and enriched; and in his playing last evening there were the finer perceptions of many kinds and shades of beauty.

He began with Brahms' variations [illegible] athemic of Paganini's, one of the masters most [illegible] and difficult works itself regarded often as austere, a grim entertainment in moving the chessmen in many contrapuntal gambits. But Mr. Lamond showed that it was not so. He mastered the technical difficulties of this music in a way that enabled him to show an inner spirit of geniality, an artistic significance not easily uncovered in its maze of complex rhythms and difficult figurations.

Why Mr. Lamond has a special reputation as a Beethoven player was to be perceived in his playing of the 'Appassionata' sonata of that master, a performance that was not the obligatory exercise of [illegible] but one that [illegible] and its passion—and at the same time the force of them both. On the same level was his playing of Chopin's sonata in B flat minor. The sonata was delivered with power, even with vehemence; not, perhaps, with has varied a palette of tonal colors as some will bring to it, but with a wider variety of expression. That variety did not include a [illegible] of [illegible] becoming [illegible]

The other pieces on the [illegible] by Glazunoff and Liszt, Mr. Lamond was very much applauded by an audience of large size.

WATCHED FOR SUSPECT IN JEWELRY BURGLARY

New London police were on the lookout Thursday at the request of the Norwich police, for a man named Charles Spencer, alias George Bates, who is suspected in connection with the burglary at the Ullea jewelry store on Nov. 23, when a panel in the show window was broken and a quantity of jewelry from the window was stolen.

It was thought that Spencer was planning to visit New London but he did not arrive at the time and in the manner he was expected.

Pretty Valentine Party.

A valentine party was held Friday at the home of Miss Sadie Schwartz of 35 Perkins avenue, 20 guests being present. The hostess received many beautiful presents, and the evening was enjoyably spent in playing Valentine games. Dancing was also enjoyed. The house was decorated in Valentine colors and each guest received a pretty valentine. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

FINANCE COMMITTEE GAVE PERSONAL TAX HEARINGS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 16.—Today the finance committee held hearings on Representative Schatz bill which abolishes the personal tax; the Rogers bill which exempts those who served in the Home and State Guards; the Moore bill which provides that the list of those subject to a personal tax shall be lodged in the office of the town clerk and that he shall publish notice that is open for inspection; and the Hyland bill, that abolishes the offices of boards of relief and places their duties upon the boards of selectmen.

Mr. Hyde of Brooklyn appeared and spoke in favor of the bill introduced by him favoring taxing jail property.

Windham county has taken valuable property in Brooklyn where the jail is located that at a moderate valuation is worth $25,000 and the town receives no tax from the same. He argued that it was not just that the town should be deprived of this tax and that it should be included in the grand list and assessed against the county.

At the hearing before the committee on military affairs on Wednesday Chairman Fenton specially commended Representative Lillibridge of Norwich, for his clean and combatant for an appropriation for a close manner in which he presented [illegible] and repairs to the Norwich state armory. Mr. Fenton said that he had the facts well in hand and knew what he was talking about.

CHURCH WOMEN MEET IN PRAYER FOR MISSIONS

A large attendance of women from the different churches of the city were present at the union service for the inter-denominational day of prayer for missions which was held in the parlors of the Osgood Memorial parish house on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A cordial welcome was extended by the committee, Mrs. Frank H. Fuller and Mrs. Henry D. Johnson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fuller conducted a [illegible] of prayer and praise entitled The Light of the World and also led the devotional exercises after which a group of selections from the scriptures was read, namely, The Woman Who Gave, by Mrs. R. Daniel Tuck; The Woman Who Prayed, by Mrs. Allen Latham and The Woman Who Loved, by Mrs. L. A. Hurlburt. Mrs. Edward J. Graham read a selection amplifying the quotation from President Harding that "Service is the supreme commitment of life." Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve offered prayer which was followed by [illegible] [illegible] Baptist church after which Mrs. J. Harlow Graham read a passage from Revelation. A prayer by Miss Susan Hyde was followed by readings by Miss Louise Hyde on the [illegible] If your map has less than the world upon [illegible] of cardboard.

During the service several solos were sung by Mrs. Henry E. Church with Miss Barbara Allen accompanist.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.

THE FIRST BLUEBIRD.

Jest rain and snow! and rain again!
And dribble! drip! and blow!
Then snow! and thaw! and slush and then—
Some more rain and snow!
This morning I was 'most afeared
To wake up—when, I jing!
I seen the sun shine out and heerd
The first bluebird of spring!—
Mother she'd raised the window some;
And in across the orchard come
Soft as angel's wings,
A breezy, treesy, beesy hum,
Too sweet for anything!
The winter's shroud was sent apart—
The sun burst forth in glee—
And when that bluebird sung, my heart
Hopped out o'bed with me!

MY VIEW.

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care;
I would be strong, or there is much to suffer;
I would be brave, or there is much to dare;
I would be a friend of all—the foe—the friendless;
I would be giving and forget the gift;
I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up—and laugh—and love—and live.

The Things Divine.

These are the things I hold divine;
A trusting child's head laid in mine,
Fresh brown earth and wind-tossed trees,
A taste of grapes and the drone of bees,
A rythmic gallop, long June days,
A rose-hedged lane and lovers' lays
The welcome smile on neighbors' faces,
Cool, wide hills and open places,
Breeze-blown fields of silver rye,
The wild, sweet note of the plover's cry,
Fresh spring showers and scent of box,
The soft, pale tint of the garden phlox,
Lilacs, blooming a drowsy noon,
A flight of geese and an autumn moon,
Rolling meadows and storm-washed heights,
A fountain murmur on summer nights,
A dappled fawn in the forest hush,
Simple words and the song of a thrush.
Rose-red dawns and a mate to share
With comrade soul my gypsy fare,
A waiting fire when the twilight ends,
A gallant heart and the voice of friends.

RECIPE FOR MUSK MELON CAKE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Just kindly greeting to you all on this beautiful morning. As I look out over the fields of snow, they look like gems of gold as the sun shines upon them, reminding me of the wonderful handiwork of God. Hope all the sick ones will be better soon. Glad to read of Fringed Gentian's return home from the hospital. Am anxiously looking for her letter in our columns. Although we have never met yet, some how the Corner brings us near together. It is rightly named "Social." Wish to thank all the sisters who have sent me cards during the time I have been shut in. Am in sympathy with Canterbury Belle this cold weather.

Necia: Glad to hear from you through the column. Miss the meetings at the Buckingham this winter.

Queen Elizabeth: Hope your sickness will be better soon.

Golden Glow: Hope to see a letter from you soon in the Corner page.

These old hymns are fine. Would add, "Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing," and "There is a Fountain Filled With Blood," as my two favorites. My sainted mother used to sing them to me years ago.

Have tried the prune cake recipe. It was fine. Will send one for Musk Melon Cake: Two-thirds cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, the whites of two eggs beaten light; cream all together; add one-half cup milk, one teaspoon baking powder, flavor with vanilla. Put in pan and spread rule, using yolks of two eggs, pour over white and bake in moderate oven.

Yours for the Corner.

ANSWERS THE CALL, AND CALLS FOR OTHERS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I think it about time I answered to the roll call. So here I am. First I want to thank a Social Corner member for the pretty calendar. It's good to be remembered.

I also wish to thank the sisters who remembered my daughter with cards and flowers while in Hartford hospital. She is at home now with me and gaining each day.

What a good old fashioned winter we are having! It reminds me of my school days when we plowed through drifts to go to school, some drifts more than our heads.

Remember Me: Where are you? Why don't I hear from you? Are you [illegible] since we spoke about the fall.

I have missed Lucy Acorn's letters. Is she among the living?

The Chief Sister: Where are you? Snowed in?

Althea: I am thinking of you.

Who some one tell me how to care [illegible] Twenty-two [illegible] to the [illegible] Corner. There are [illegible] cousins up. I find it needs lots of water.

Where are the Lebanon sisters? I don't see many letters from Chicago No. 3. Where is the next meeting?

Why don't you come and see us, sometime?

Thanks for the Corner.

KEEP THE LETTERS COMING.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: [illegible] to many minutes [illegible] been in the [illegible] No doubt they [illegible] A piece of huge cheese [illegible] and [illegible] the makers? [illegible] I quite understand Pollie's letter of Feb. 10th in the Corner page as Mrs. E. F. D. has been our better half since July 20th, 1876. I was glad to read her letter and to know she will soon [illegible] her Social Corner garden in cultivation. The suggestion of Calla Lily was a good one. It will never tell just how old the members are and will be the means of many receiting birthday cards.

Not for many years has there been such good sleighings in New England as this winter for many weeks, but the jingle of bells and the jolly party of young people of days gone by are no more. The state roads are scraped bare of snow as soon as fallen to give automobiles the right of way they should have as they pay taxes to build and keep in repair good roads.

The Corner page was well filled last week, which must have been pleasing to the editor as well as the Corner members. Keep the letters coming; make them pleasing every day and every way.

RURAL DELIVERY (Nov. [illegible])

GREETINGS FROM SISTER READY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: As there is such a loud call for all the older writers I suppose I may as well come in. I am only one year younger than the Corner is old. I trust I have the Social Corner smile. I have often been told a smile will let you in where the knocker is never known. I think we ought to give freely to every one, what costs so little. "If you please," or "I thank you," backed up by a pleasant smile costs not a cent and may often help lift a burden, some one is trying to carry. I have been a shut-in for almost nine weeks. But when I get started I hope to make up for lost time. We have plenty of snow and some to spare if any one feels slighted.

I had a caller from my old home town last week and it did seem good to see some one from home. A friend who has stood the test in time of trouble and sadness. She said we did not have as much snow down here to up her way. We feel quite satisfied with what we have. I presume it is safe to say if it snows one more day we will be quite used to it.

Tomorrow the sun may be shinning although it is cloudy today. All those that are in trouble and have sickness in the family, and to those who have lost dear ones, I extend my sympathy.

Best wishes to all, from

SISTER READY (July 6.)

"DO NOT WEAKEN, SISTERS."

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I am sending in this letter to help fill the Corner page this week, as last week the page was not quite filled, as there were advertisements on our page. Two weeks ago the letters filled more than one page. Do not weaken, sisters, but keep on writing. As one sister said: "It seemed like old times to see so many of the old writers sending in letters again. So let's try and not be called slackers.

Did not know as I would get time to write this week on account of sickness in my home as Mr. Clover is sick in bed with the grip but the doctor said when he called today he might sit up a while tomorrow if it was a pleasant day.

I want to thank the editor for the yellow slip. I was very much surprised to think I won a prize. Many thanks for it. I have laid it away. Perhaps I may get more some time to add to it.

Twice Twenty: I was glad you had a letter in last week. I always look for your letters as it seems good to hear from that locality. Hope you and yours have kept well this winter. I wish you had sent in your pork cake recipe as I think they all will be worth trying. So you want me to name the cake, do you? I see it was quite a complicated. I should call it a hit or miss cake, or a variety cake. I bet it was good and rich.

Just Me: I have not made any pork cake as yet. When I do hope I shall not have acute indigestion. If I have real good luck shall try it again and bring one to the Corner so most of you can sample it. Do not know you by your penname so wear your yellow with pen name on it and I will see you get a bit of it. I am sure I ought to have good luck out of the seven recipes as they say seven is a lucky number. Thank all who sent in the recipe.

Scottie: I do not think [illegible] troubled with the rheumatism. Hope it may be repeated at the next meeting which is our anniversary.

Golden Glow: What a nice time we had at the last meeting! Hope you will not be snowed in and can be with us. How about lobster salad? Do not be late like little Johnnie.

Bumble Bee: I hear you have had sickness in your family. Hope they are all well by now. This has been a real winter with lots of sickness.

Calla Lily: Was glad to see you back again. I think the collection was a grand idea. Hope it will not be forgotten next time.

Sweet Fannie: Hope you enjoyed the sunshine box. Hope you are on the gain. How I wish I could get down to see you. The snow will soon be gone I hope. Love to you.

With best wishes for the Corner.

REUNION OF SCHOOLMATES ON BIRTHDAY.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank the kind sisters who remembered my birthday by sending me cards and greetings. The thoughtfulness which prompted sending them was greatly appreciated. As a little celebration of the day, it was spent with some of my schoolmates of childhood days. The visit was very much enjoyed, but not quite complete as our Groton friends, who were planning to be with us, were unable to come because of sickness.

I was much pleased with a calendar received the 9th. It was directed to Jordan road, but should have been sent to Windham road as we have not been living at Jordan road for nearly seven years. Thanks to the sender.

Hoping to see all the dear friends in our Corner soon, I am

THINKS LEGISLATURE CAN END BUSINESS TO ADJOURN BY MAY 1

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, Feb. 16.—Representative Darbie of the judiciary committee said today that they expected to be through with the hearing by the middle of March and he could see no reason why final adjournment could not be made by May first.

The house was called to order at 11.15 by Speaker Nickerson, with one-fourth of the members in attendance.

Prayer was offered by Chaplain Coolidge. After calling the house to order the speaker called Representative Darbie of Killingly to the chair and left to join the appropriations committee on their visit to the state institutions in New London county.

Petition on Fuel

A petition was received from John Williams and others representing the employees of the Yale & Towne Mfg. Company of Stamford that the assembly take such steps and to enact such laws as may be necessary to provide adequately for the protection of all persons who are users of coal or who are dependent for their physical comfort and well being upon an adequate supply of fuel.

Favorable reports from the judiciary committee on a number of judgeships were received and all were passed. Among them was those of S. Victor Prince as judge and Lewis M. Crandall, deputy judge of the police court of New London.

Trees on Highways.

When the bill on the calendar started for action, providing for the planting of shade trees along newly built highways was reached, Leader-Buckley objected to its passage as it carried an appropriation and moved that it be referred to that committee.

Mr. Brainard, chairman of the roads, rivers and bridges committee, explained that this has been practiced by the highway department in the past, and that this bill validated his action.

The objection of Mr. Buckley was withdrawn by Mr. Fenton of Willimantic and the bill was then sent to the appropriations committee.

Favorable report of committee on insurance, amending charter of Home Insurance company was passed. The bill amending the charter of Bridgeport Trust Company was laid on the table for further consideration.

[illegible] amending the charter in the city of New Britain as to the judges of the city court was passed.

Other bills received from the senate were by concurrent action, referred to other committees.

Senate Bill No. 74, concerning attendance at schools from the Swedish Orphan Home, that seventy-five per cent of per capita cost should be paid by the state, and Senate Bill 416, providing that the highway commission should place memorial stones for the Connecticut veterans of the world war along the state highways were sent to the appropriation committee.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am 68 years old and I doctored for rheumatism and since I came out of the army over 40 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for medical advice and I have taken almost [illegible] Add, until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; the hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I can go again in active business and can write with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change. You might just as well assert to me that a fire will not burn to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of the blood and body. It took Mr. Ashcroft 70 years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of the rheumatism, other disorders and recover strength on Tuinal Mysteries now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over 30 years to the chemical study of this trouble. If any reader of The Bulletin wishes a copy of Mr. Ashcroft's booklet containing facts worth dollars to any rheumatic sufferer, simply send a post card to Herbert T. Ashcroft, Chemist, No. 236 D Street, Hollywood, Mass., and you will be promptly [illegible] and [illegible] copy of this [illegible] and this [illegible] and opportunity to some afflicted friend. Judge Brown ordered his charge to the jury in writing, following the arguments which had been made by attorneys [illegible] Morgan and Tenney Walker for the plaintiff and Attorneys C. [illegible] McGuire for the defendant.

Judge Brown directed that the twelve men be taken out to supper in charge of Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton, that they return for further consideration of the case after they had dined. In charge of the deputy sheriff the jurors had supper at the Wauregan house, returning at 7.40, when they were again locked in the jury room.

Browning of Franklin told the court they had no way of getting home because of the lateness of the hour. Judge Brown directed Clerk Parsons to arrange to have the men stay at the Wauregan house over night and then adjourned court to next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock [illegible] for their term. They were paid by Clerk Parsons [illegible] the court room.

MILK BOTTLE THIEVES OPERATING IN CITY

When someone wins easily it is called "stealing milk away from a baby," but when someone steals real milk from the doorsteps of houses in the city, the thing is no longer a joke and the guilty party should be prosecuted. This is the way some people on Broadway and on other streets in Norwich feel today, for during the past weeks numerous complaints have been heard of thefts of milk from doorways.

Some of the milkmen of the present day get around before families are up and leave the milk in bottles or the porch. This fact is known to someone who evidently is an early bird, and many of these milk bottles never remain on the porch until the purchaser takes them in for use.

The theft of milk bottles has become a serious problem and the people are looking to the police for protection against this trick of petty thieving.

SETTLED $3,000 SUIT OUTSIDE OF COURT

The case of Mrs. Paul Zahn against Harold H. Callahan, both of this city, in a suit for $3,000 arising from an automobile accident, has been settled out of court. The case was assigned for trial before Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court in New London Wednesday but it went off the list.

The plaintiff sued to recover damages for injuries to her left ankle, right shoulder, knee and thumb, which she received on the evening of Oct. 11, 1921, when she was struck by the defendant's automobile while she was crossing Main street in Norwich.

Attorneys Davies and Arthur M. Brown represented the plaintiff and Geary, Davis & Keefe appeared for the defendant.

GAVE SURPRISE FOR TWO MACCABEE MEMBERS

A large number of the members of the W. B. A. of the Maccabees gathered recently at the home of Mr. Schling of Boswell avenue, when a surprise party was tendered Mrs. Clara Barton and Miss Madeline Mann. During the evening various games were enjoyed, after which the party sat down to a dainty repast served by the hostess. The members gave Mrs. Schling a rising vote of thanks for her hospitality.

On behalf of the members Lady Commander Mrs. Louis Manchester presented Mrs. Barton a handsome boudoir lamp and to Miss Mann she gave a beautiful handbag. Although both were taken completely by surprise, they managed to thank the members for their fine gifts.

WIFE WANTED FREEDOM, HUSBAND GETS DIVORCE

James A. Nigrelli of New London told Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court there Friday morning that his wife, Victoria Mussanti Nigrelli, formerly of Gorton, now supposedly of Brooklyn, left him because she was "disgusted with married life and wanted to be free." Nigrelli made the statement in testifying in a divorce action which he brought against his wife and the decree was granted. He said that he had asked her to come back to him but she had refused. They were married on Oct. 30, 1919. He was given the custody of a minor child.

Leo L. Cella of Stonington proved to the court that his wife, Mary G. Cella of Woonsocket, has committed adultery, and he was granted a divorce. Cella and his wife were married on July 5, 1920, and he alleged that she began her misconduct on Nov. 1 of the same year and continued at divers times.

NEW MACHINERY ORDERED FOR THE FALLS CO.

Arthur C. Brown, the well known agent of the Falls Co., left the city Friday on an extended business trip through the middle and north west.

The Falls Co. is one of the few northern cotton mills which disposes of its output direct to the consumer and has been very successful in so doing. At the present time, new carding machinery has been shipped by the machinery builders and will be installed upon its arrival.

New equipment of automatic looms has been ordered and is expected to be in operation this coming spring.

The Falls Co. is one of a string of several cotton mills operated by Z. H. White and Kenneth B. White, of Willimantic, Mass., with executive offices at Willimantic.

Mr. Brown for the past few months has spent most of his time at the Willimantic office of the company.

THE DAY FOR BIG VALUES

DOLLAR DAY

The Biggest Shopping Event of the Season For Eastern Connecticut

ONE HUNDRED PROGRESSIVE MERCHANTS OF NORWICH ARE CO-OPERATING IN ANOTHER BIG TRADE EVENT SATURDAY, FEB. 17TH — BARGAINS AS ADVERTISED AND SEASONABLE MERCHANDISE AT SAVING PRICES ARE THE SLOGANS — THOUSANDS OF EASTERN CONNECTICUT PATRONS WILL CROWD NORWICH STORES TO LIMIT CAPACITY SATURDAY, DOLLAR DAY.

One hundred live and progressive merchants of Norwich have once again combined for the purpose of giving the shopping public of Eastern Connecticut another Dollar Day. Saturday, February 17th, is the date set for Dollar Day, which will, without doubt, prove the biggest shopping event of the season for the eastern part of the state. "Norwich Dollar Day" needs no introduction to the public, for it has time and again proven its worth as a money saver for the thousands who visit the local stores on that day. Since the idea of Norwich Dollar Day was conceived by the progressive merchants of the city, the buying public for miles around Norwich have heartily welcomed the advent of Dollar Day with its more than worthwhile reductions in prices.

The thousands of men, women and children who have crowded the stores of Norwich on similar events in the past have been convinced beyond a doubt that "Bargains as Advertised" are found in every store. And they are well aware that "Seasonable Merchandise at Saving Prices," one of the slogans adopted by Norwich Dollar Day merchants, is a fact and not a myth.

It is not necessary to say that the merchants of Norwich will live right up to the prices they advertise. Everyone who has ever visited Norwich on Dollar Day knows rock bottom prices and high quality goods are to be found in every store that joins in the movement.

The merchants of the Dollar Day movement are asking you, the buying public, to unite with them in making this event one of the biggest and most successful events of its kind ever held in Norwich. Read the advertisements in this issue and notice the big cuts in prices. See what a dollar will buy you on Dollar Day and see what a dollar will save you provided you take advantage of the bargains offered.

Norwich Dollar Day will mean a saving to every family in all of New London, Windham and Tolland counties, for there will be bargains and plenty of them for men, women and children.

High quality, the best that can be found, and a wide variety of goods are offered, while bargains such as cannot be found in stores even in the largest cities are revealed in these columns.

STANDARD OPENING HOUR FOR ALL DOLLAR DAY STORES, ANNOUNCED AS 9 A. M. SHARP. OUT OF TOWN PATRONS ARE GIVEN EQUAL CHANCE WITH RESIDENTS OF NORWICH TO SHARE BENEFITS OF BIG BARGAIN OFFERS—NORWICH STORES PREPARING FOR BIG RUSH WHEN DOORS ARE THROWN OPEN SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 17TH.

The Norwich merchants have agreed among themselves not to open their doors for business on Dollar Day, Saturday, February 17th, until 9 A. M., this is in order that the city buyer will have no unfair advantage over the suburban patron. This will give the out of town patrons an opportunity to get to Norwich in time for the opening of the stores.

If the stores were to open at an earlier hour in the morning some of the out of town patrons would not be able to be on hand and would undoubtedly feel that they would lose out on a number of the best bargains. A standard opening hour means fair play for everyone.

There is one more thing for the shopping public to bear in mind on the regulations for Norwich Dollar Day, which practically all subscribers to the Dollar Day Movement have adopted. This is that no mail or telephone orders will be received for the Dollar Day offerings. The reason is obvious. The Dollar Day plan is a movement to benefit home patrons, but at the same time advertise the opportunities and advantages offered by Norwich as a trading center for Eastern Connecticut. Unless the people come to the city and visit the stores, much of the advertising value of the day would be lost.

Moreover, many of the Dollar Day special offerings may be limited in quantity and it would scarcely be fair to permit the patrons to order by telephone some of the best values in the stores, resulting in disappointment to customers who might have, at great personal inconvenience, come to the city in order to be on time at the opening hour for the particular purpose of securing some of these advertised goods.

Put the Norwich Dollar Day date down on your calendar, Saturday, February 17th. Come early for the bargains that will be placed on counters of the merchants promptly at 9 o'clock that morning with adequate forces of obliging clerks ready to help you see that your wants are filled.

Make your visit to Norwich not only one of business but of pleasure as well. Invite your neighbors and friends from surrounding towns to visit Norwich on Dollar Day.

As a final word, remember that every dollar saved is one dollar earned. You cannot afford to miss this opportunity to get double value for your money.

Geese Are Good Watchers.

Added to its other virtues, the goose has alertness. Let a stranger approach the yard where geese are being kept and the geese will be the first to give the alarm, even preceding the barking of the watchdogs. History records that in 388 B. C. the shrilling of geese saved Rome from surprise and capture by enemies.

25 PERISHED IN FIRE AT THE MANHATTAN STATE ASYLUM

Three Heroic Male Attendants Lost Their Lives While Endeavoring to Rescue Patients From the Flames—Seventy Inmates Had Been Carried to Safety When a Huge Water Tank Crashed Through the Ceiling Completely Blocking the Corridor That Led to Safety—Blasts at Hell Gate Had Previously Rocked the Buildings, Creating Among the 6,338 Patients a Sense of Impending Doom—There Were About 1,600 in the "Main Building", Which Was Destroyed—Bodies of Three World War Veterans Identified.

New York, Feb. 19 (By the A. P.)—A terrific blast, set by dredgers in Hell Gate last night, rocked the buildings of the Manhattan State hospital for the insane on Ward's Island on the East river and set the 6,338 inmates cowering and wailing with a sense of impending doom.

Attendants calmed them and got them to bed, but before morning the doom fantasied by the disordered brains had come true for 25 of the maddest. They had been burned to death in a fierce fire that swept the west wing of the main building. Three heroic attendants died with them, perishing in the last to rescue them from the flames.

Hospital authorities and City Medical Examiner Norris, who rushed to the scene, agreed that the blast not only had been a warning of impending doom but in all probability had been the immediate cause of the fire. The blast, according to their theory, caused a break in the insulation of electric wires in the attic of the building. A short circuit, they think, did the rest.

The fire was discovered at 5:06 o'clock by Michael Campbell, an attendant in ward 42, in which all the fatalities occurred. His calm heroic work and that of James Hill, attendant in charge, and Patrick Billings of Hartford, Conn., George A. D'Emo and George F. Reiss, the three attendants who were burned to death, prevented a far greater holocaust.

Campbell manned a hose line and fought back the flames, while the others, directed by Hill, ran up and down the 200-foot top floor corridor, rousing the patients with the cool order.

As fast as the maniacs—declared by Superintendent Nathan Heyman to have been the most dangerous on the island—could be marshaled from their rooms, they were marched in orderly procession to the fireproof dining hall, far from the scene of the fire.

Water Tank Blocked Corridor.

Seventy of the 92 inmates of ward 42 had been led or carried to safety when a huge water tank in the blazing attic crashed through the ceiling, completely blocking the corridor that led to safety and filling the hall with flames and smoke.

City firemen, battling their way past the blazing debris, brought out several struggling, screaming maniacs, and several who had been overcome by smoke while dressing for the "breakfast" call. Most of the dead were found in their rooms and corridor beyond the water tank. Several were believed to have been carried down and burned beneath debris when the floor collapsed.

Seventeen bodies of the inmates and one being that of an attendant, had been recovered tonight. In addition, two charred bones had been found which were believed to be all that was left of some of those unaccounted for.

Three World War Veterans.

Among the five bodies which had been identified tonight were those of three World War veterans who had been suffering from shell-shock. They were Vincent del Bene, Frank Fromberg and James R. Hines, all of New York. The other identified were Solomon Applebaum and Nathan Cohen, also of New York. Attempts to identify the others was abandoned tonight. Most of the remaining bodies were badly charred and it was believed many of them never would be positively identified.

The building in which the fire occurred was the so-called "main" building, an ancient brick and wood structure, designated on the letter E. It is three stories high and had accommodations for a maximum of 2,200 patients. There were about 1,600 in it this morning when the fire was discovered and of these about 300 were serious cases cared for by the flames. They were the occupants of the huge west wing.

The 92 patients housed in ward 42, on the third floor, where the fire broke its way, were described by Dr. Heyman as violent, immediately confined men, any one of whom might suddenly have turned with slaying fury in his own upon his keepers.

But so coolly did the attendants work that only in a half dozen cases at the most were there instances of struggles against, or attacks on, the attendants and nurses.

Magnificent Work by Rescuers.

The rescue was magnificent work, and in scores after he had been carried through the burned wing and out into the open, Dr. Heyman declared, "It was little short of a miracle that the death toll was kept from running into the hundreds."

While the rescue work was being carried forward, the flames burst through the roof of the building and lighted up the entire island. Screams of the terrified patients nearest the flames roused the population of the madman's isle.

Attendants in buildings far removed from the danger zone had almost as strenuous a time preventing madmen's and madwomen's panics as those at the actual scene of the blaze.

Firemen Worked in Zero Weather.

The battle against the flames was hampered by two obstacles. One was the bone-chilling weather in which the firemen worked. The other, and most serious, was the extreme difficulty in getting apparatus to the scene.

Ward's Island, that pathetic little bit of land in the East river, just opposite East 116th street, and just below its famous sister, Blackwell's Island, has only one department of its kind. But the ferryboats which ply to and from it are too small to bear heavy equipment from the efficient Manhattan force.

The city force, forsaking its engines, fire towers, hook and ladder trucks and hose wagons, went to the fray with no equipment but a few lines of hose which could be transported on the tiny ferry. Fireboats which responded to the alarm had to lay hose lines nearly a half mile long before they could pump water on the fire.

But, despite their handicaps, the city force and the island force succeeded in confining the fire to the two upper floors of the west wing, when hospital officials were fearing the whole main building would go up in flames.

Dr. Heyman declared he had repeatedly sought from the state authorities additional fire protection for the hospital, and that he had called in vain again and again on the city authorities to station additional equipment there.

Inadequate Fire Apparatus.

The island's fire department consisted of ten men and a chief, he said, and the equipment, aside from hose lines in the various buildings, was limited to one ancient horse-drawn engine and a hose cart, loaned by the city.

The auditorium of the hospital was destroyed by fire two years ago, while it was crowded with inmates, but no lives were lost.

Michael Campbell, the attendant who discovered the blaze, told Superintendent Heyman the first warning came about 5 o'clock, when an electric light suddenly went out. He immediately began an investigation, and while he was still searching for the cause of the trouble another brace of lights flickered out. Glancing upward, he discovered that in one spot the metal ceiling was red hot.

He immediately summoned James Hill, the attendant in charge, and hurried up to the attic with a hose line. Then while he played water on the blaze, which he found already had gained great headway, Hill and the other attendants began their frantic efforts to get the madmen out. The "All out for breakfast" call worked like a charm, and many of the inmates were rescued before the flames burst through the ceiling.

From then on the work became more difficult, as some of the patients became excited and cowered in their rooms refusing to budge. The attendants dragged some of these out bodily, risking every minute an attack by the crazed men.

Hill was well down the main corridor, heading a group of patients to the dining room, and the other three attendants were at the end of the hall, coaxing other inmates out, when the water tank crashed through the ceiling.

Trapped in Dense Smoke.

Even then the trapped men might have been saved but for the dense smoke, Dr. Heyman said. There is a fire escape at the extreme end of the corridor. But the victims—attendants and patients alike—apparently were unable to grope their way to it through the smoke.

Lieutenant McDonough of the city fire force and Hoseman Burns plunged down the smoke-filled corridors and brought out two or three inmates. But soon they were compelled to withdraw from the roaring furnace which the corridor had become and abandon the trapped to their fate.

Meantime, firemen outside in the freezing weather were pouring ton after ton of water on the blaze, while others, taking their stations in the corridors of the west wing, fought the blaze, yielding foot by foot as it raced toward them. A dozen of those outside suffered frozen ears, fingers and toes, while all were covered with icicles.

The top floor of the three-story wing had been laid waste, and the second floor badly damaged, before the firemen, aided by firewalls with which the building is divided, were able to check the advancing flames. The fire was not completely extinguished until noon, when it had raged for more than seven hours.

Checked Up Survivors.

Long before that time, however, the hospital authorities had established, with a fair degree of accuracy, how many lives had been lost. As each patient had his regular seat in the huge three-story dining hall, it was a relatively simple matter to check up the absentees. This check disclosed the 22 missing patients, while a roll call of attendants showed that three from ward 43 were missing.

Dr. Heyman said there was little doubt that all the missing were dead. A thorough canvass of the island disclosed no patients at large, and Dr. Heyman pointed out that the only means of escape would have been by plunging into the icy waters of the East river, in which case they surely would have perished.

Perhaps several days will lapse before it will be known whether the five missing patients and two missing attendants are to be discovered in the ruins. The debris is so thoroughly frozen together by the mass of water poured on the blaze that it will be a slow and difficult task removing it in a search for bodies.

Meanwhile, several official investigations are being pressed.

PROPERTIES AND FILMS DESTROYED BY FIRE

New York, Feb. 18.—Properties and films of an estimated value of $1,000,000 were destroyed today in a fire which razed a three-story Harlem building occupied as studios by International Films and the Cosmopolitan Productions Inc.

Many valuable objects of art, borrowed from famous collections by the film companies for use in plays of mediaeval days, copies of many costly film plays and the entire wardrobes of the actors and actresses employed, were destroyed.

The aged watchman, who discovered the fire and sounded the alarm, risked his life in an attempt to save a monkey and a parrot, caged on the top floor. He managed to bring both to the street, but the parrot, its feathers singed off, died while raucously squawking "Fire!"

OBITUARY.

Frank E. Blakeman.

Stratford, Feb. 18.—Frank E. Blakeman, judge of the Stratford town court, widely known throughout Connecticut for his activities in the state grange, died at Hartford hospital early this morning at the age of 65 years. He had been sick four weeks, having been stricken with a heart attack in Hartford while attending the winter exposition.

Judge Blakeman was for four years head of the Connecticut State Grange, holding the post of master. He held other state offices in the grange and at the time of his death was a member of the executive committee of the organization.

In 1903 and 1904 Judge Blakeman was representative from Stratford in the state legislature. He was a member of the Stratford board of education for a period of fifteen years, during 12 of which he was secretary of the board. He was a trustee of the Stratford Library Association, and was a member, and at one time chairman, of the board of trustees of the Congregational church.

Besides serving his native town in many offices, he was president of the Patrons Mutual Fire Insurance company of Middletown, a member of the Connecticut State Board of Agriculture, a member of the board of directors of the Connecticut Temperance Union, past president of General Silliman Branch, Sons of the American Revolution, and one of the delegates to the national congress from Connecticut, representing the Sons of the American Revolution.

Judge Blakeman was born December 21, 1857. Besides his widow, he is survived by two brothers, Colonel Selah G. Blakeman, of Shelton, and Carlos D. Blakeman, of Stratford, and one sister, Mrs. C. C. Wells, of Stratford.

The Stratford judge was a member of one of the oldest families in the town. The Blakeman ancestral line in America dates back to 1639, in which year Rev. Adam Blakeman took up his abde in Stratford, being one of the three men who founded the town.

French Are Breaking the German Boycott

Are Arresting Storekeepers Who Refuse to Sell—Are Reaping a Harvest in German Marks.

Essen, Feb. 18.—(By The A. P.)—The increased resistance of the German officials and a more hostile attitude generally by burgomasters and other municipal authorities throughout the Ruhr has been felt by the French during the past twenty-four hours.

On the other hand, the boycott against the French which had been instituted by the stores and restaurants in Essen and elsewhere appears to be losing strength, apparently in consequence of the strong measures adopted by the French. The French on Saturday met the boycott in Essen by sending out two motor trucks in charge of two officers with a detachment of men.

These trucks started by making a round of the stores. At the first place entered a soldier tried to buy chocolate. The storekeeper refused to sell. An officer then had the proprietor of the store arrested. The trucks moved on to two other places, where the same process was repeated.

Their arrests were viewed by crowds of the townspeople and the news spread quickly. Consequently before the French buying expedition had proceeded very far the boycott seemed to have been suddenly called off, for stores resumed selling to the French.

The boycott in Recklinghausen also has been called off. The stores there, which closed upon the approach of the French, now are reopening.

The French are beginning to reap a little harvest of German marks. Yesterday when they entered Gelsenkirchen detachments were quartered on Rhaus and railroad station, seizing a total of 110,000,000 paper marks, on of which sum the French paid the fine of 100,000,000 marks imposed upon the town by the French as a penalty for recent wounding of two French gendarmes.

In Trier the Jews have seized the strike fund of 250,000,000 marks, supposedly sent by the German government sources to aid the German railroad men who are refusing to work. This money will be applied to the expenses of the French and Belgians in the operation of the railroads in the Rhineland.

Two of the worst accidents since the French and Belgians undertook the operations of the railroads occurred early today. A locomotive of Hallhausen crashed into a passenger coach carrying French civil railroad workers, killing two and injuring eleven of them. Three of those injured are in a serious condition. One Belgian railroad man was killed in a collision between Belgian and French trains at Uhefeld.

The French authorities today denied a story of the Wolff Bureau, the semi-official German news agency, that French troops fired on rumors of the Prince Regent mine near Bochum. The French say the Germans locked out from the mine a guard of French troops sent to supervise the loading of coal cars. The French dread a few shots into the big wooden gates, which the Germans immediately opened.

PRESIDENT OF RHENISH PRUSSIA IS EXPELLED

Duesseldorf, Feb. 18.—(By The A. P.)—Dr. Gruetzner, president of the Province of Duesseldorf and of Rhenish Prussia, was expelled from the occupation area today by order of General Degoutte, on the charge of having written what was considered an impertinent letter to General Beaunsaun, the Belgian commander of the Duisburg district.

Dr. Gruetzner was the highest German local government official remaining in the Rhineland, his position being comparable to that of a governor of a state. His expulsion, therefore, has caused a sensation. He is highly respected by the Germans, who look their troubles to him and he has been acting as intermediary on important matters for the French authorities and the German government at Berlin.

Dr. Gruetzner wrote to the belgian general a few days ago protesting against the imprisonment of President Jarres of Duisburg after a Belgian court-martial. The letter alluded to the French and Belgian troops as "bandits" on German territory. The French authorities arrested Dr. Gruetzner this morning. He was taken to the frontier in the afternoon by French officers, and there released. It is understood that he will proceed to Berlin.

"The Lithuanian government has telegraphed the league of nations reporting the facts and asking it to take the necessary steps to prevent an extension of the conflict."

Mrs. Raizen Guilty of 2nd Degree Murder

When the Verdict Was Announced the Convicted Woman Crouched in Her Chair and Shuddered.

New York, Feb. 18.—A verdict of guilty of second degree murder was returned by a Brooklyn supreme court jury today against Mrs. Lillian S. Raizen, who shot and killed Dr. Abraham Gluckstein in his Brooklyn office Dec. 16, 1921. Mrs. Raizen's defense was that the physician had ruined her life and that she was driven to insanity through fear of him.

The jury, picked from a special panel of 100 men of "super-intelligence," and instructed to try the defendant "with their heads and not their hearts," returned the verdict after deliberating 12 hours and 15 minutes.

When the jury was given the case at 11 o'clock Saturday night the defendant, sobbing, was led to the prisoners' room. She fell asleep, her head resting on her aged father's shoulder. She spent a restless night, however, awakening numerous times and asking if the jury had reached a verdict. Receiving negative answers, she prayed aloud.

Then after the long wait came the word. Mrs. Raizen seemed to sense the verdict, twice falling to her knees to pray while on the way to the court room.

When the verdict, which carries a sentence of from twenty years to life imprisonment, was spoken by the foreman, the defendant stared blankly, then crouched down in her chair and shuddered. She made no audible sound. Throughout her trial she had been subject to spells of violent weeping. But there were no tears in her eyes as she stood up in the bar to answer the standard questions required by law.

Mrs. Raizen's father, Charles Schaeffer, and her brother, who sat on the first bench, wept bitterly with their arms about each other. A few seats away were relatives of the slain physician. They left quietly as Mrs. Raizen was being led from the court room to the prisoners' chamber. The defendant's husband, Charles Raizen, arrived after the verdict was announced. He hurried into the chamber and took his wife in his arms and attempted to cheer her. She was then taken to Raymond street jail to await sentence.

Dr. Gluckstein was busy with a number of patients Dec. 16, 1921. The waiting room outside his private office was filled with women. A woman, carrying a fur piece in her hand, came in, but shown for a moment, then gained admittance when the physician came to the door.

A moment later there was a shot and a scream and the woman warned from the private office to the street. The waiting patients, frightened at first, called police, who found the physician dead on the floor.

Several days later Mrs. Raizen surrendered to the police and confessed. She said she carried the pistol under the fur piece. She had come from Florida, where her husband sent her, especially to have "an understanding," she said, with the physician, who had wronged her when she was a girl, and who, against her will, had continued his improper relations.

She declared she was afraid of him, because he held a strange influence over her.

She had confessed her relations with the physician to her husband and had been forgiven.

When funeral services were being held for the slain physician his grief-stricken mother dropped dead. A sequel to this tragic event came four months later when the physician's widow jumped to death from a window of her home.

Mrs. Raizen is 30 years old. She testified during her trial that Dr. Glickstein first became intimate with her when she was in her teens.

REVIEW OF FINANCIAL AND COMMODITY MARKETS

New York, Feb. 18.—Another sharp upturn in stock prices which carried the averages to new high levels for the year and only slightly below the high marks of last year, a new high record for sterling exchange at $4.69 1-8 since the "peg" was removed in March 1919 and a sharp rise following a severe break in raw sugar futures, were the outstanding developments in this week's financial and commodity markets.

Stock prices were bid up briskly apparently on the theory that domestic conditions are sufficiently encouraging to warrant at least several months of business prosperity, regardless of what happens abroad. The principal constructive stock market developments during the week were a continuation of record car loading, further advances in the prices of copper, zinc, sugar, crude oil, rubber and steel products, publication of statistics showing more than 25,000,000 cotton spindles in operation for the first time and relative easiness of money rates with an enlarged demand for funds for commercial purposes.

The approach of sterling exchange to parity reflects the steady improvement in the British trade balance, the rise being influenced also by the satisfactory progress being made in the British debt funding negotiations. The sharp recovery from the extreme low of .0020 to .0035 in German marks, despite another huge weekly increase in circulation which carried the total above the two trillion mark, obviously is the result of German government manipulation. Other exchanges were slightly reactionary.

The slight firming of money rates in this center was due to the heavy demand for funds for stock market operations, brokers' loans again being estimated as high as $2,000,000,000. Time money is now on a 5 per cent. basis for all maturities. Commercial paper holds steady with the best names commanding 4 1-2 per cent.

FOUR OCEAN LINERS WERE BATTERED BY HUGE WAVES

Crushed Lifeboats and Bent and Twisted Rigging Gave Evidence of Encounter With a Terrific Storm That Continued Since Wednesday—Bulwarks Were Sheathed in Ice—The Bulwarks of the Berengaria Were Swept Away by a Huge Comber—A Five Masted Schooner Was Abandoned 38 Miles Northeast of Nantucket Lightship.

New York, Feb. 18.—Swept and battered by huge waves encountered in a terrific storm continuing since Wednesday, four big liners limped into port today with bulwarks sheathed in ice. Crushed lifeboats and bent and twisted rigging gave mute evidence of their desperate encounters with the elements.

Captain W. R. D. Irvine of the giant Cunard liner Berengaria, telling the story of his battle with wind and sea, said that since Wednesday the Berengaria had been fighting her way through huge seas, driven by a heavy gale. Snow, rain and sleet, combined with the big waves, held the ship back, but the roughest weather was encountered yesterday.

Oblivious to the danger, passengers were dancing and singing in the big ballroom when suddenly a huge comber swept away the bulwarks. The Berengaria trembled and was brought almost to a standstill. The entire crew was ordered out to clear away the wreckage, cutting away with shovels the torn and twisted steel while their waves and to inflame.

The ship's master, Captain Irvine said, came into port today damaged by the storm and several lives have been lost. The liner's log, he declared, will show the full extent of the disaster. Except for suffering from cold and exposure, it was none the worse for the experience and immediately noticed the harbor as that he was safe.

A wireless message later gave word from the Government ship that the Santine had been abandoned by her crew, that the sea was washing over the decks, and that the schooner was sinking fast.

The Acushnet reported that she was anchored in the vicinity of the sinking ship and that she would remain there until dawn.

COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS DISPEASE DR. P. S. GRANT

New York, Feb. 18.—Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York and the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant of the Church of The Ascension today again came to grips over Christian doctrines.

Dr. Grant, preaching on "The Religion of Main Street," attacked the attitude of the American small town toward the controversy which broke out between him and the bishop after the rector in a sermon had questioned the deity of Christ. The small town, he asserted, was narrow in believing that the doctrines of the Christian church comprised a clear-cut and dried proposition.

Bishop Manning, preaching at the Church of St. John the Evangelist, on "Called Into the Fellowship of His Son Jesus," declared that doctrine was not to be "pooh-poohed."

Referring to the newspaper account's of his controversy with the bishop, and the editorial comment thereon, Dr Grant said he had found the press for the most part very fair. He thanked the newspapers of the country for "the intelligent manner in which the matter has been treated."

But, the rector said he was surprised to find that comment which indicated a narrow and unliberal view toward religion came mostly from smaller places.

"Nobody cares about the theology of ministers. It's their economic opinions that count. Under these circumstances, what the small town needs is the fresh air of independent thought.

"The country stores are complaining that their business is being taken away by the houses that sell goods by mail; the country ministers are complaining because people would rather stay home and listen to a sermon by radio.

"The country newspapers may likewise take notice," he said, "that the time may come when the city newspapers may be delivered by airplane to every country town.

"For the most part these small newspapers are standpat papers controlled by the interests that control the town. Who knows, perhaps, the time will come when the news will be transmitted by radio. It ought not to be so difficult, because after all it's only a few columns."

Just at the end of the sermon, an unidentified man in the congregation was stricken with apoplexy and removed to a hospital.

Bishop Manning in his sermon declared that "being a Christian means more than being a philanthropist or a humanitarian."

"It's nonsense, the talk we hear of doctrinal belief," he said. "Truth is important as it is the very Lord Himself. If we are to have an intelligent religion, we must know what we believe and why be believe in it. Doctrine is not to be poohpoohed. We need to think more carefully about Jesus Christ.

"While doctrine has its necessary place, it is not the whole of being a Christian. Forms and ceremonies have their place in religion but that is not all religion means. All should be followers of the Lord Jesus Christ.

"To be a Christian one must have faith in Christ, knowledge of Christ, fellowship with Christ and obedience of Christ. Without prayer no one is in relation with God. Prayer is simply speaking to God right out of our hearts.

"All should worship and pay public tribute. One of the great helps of being a Christian is the help of the sacraments. Another is the holy communion. These things are the gifts of heavenly help."

W. H. ANDERSON CLAIMS CONSPIRACY TO "GET" HIM

Yonkers, N. Y., Feb. 18.—William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, charged today in his annual presentation at Central Methodist Episcopal church that there was a conspiracy on foot to "get" him and the league board and reduce the league to the status of a "kept" concern.

He declared that the wet forces were attempting to put across repeal of prohibition laws by throwing up a "smoke screen" around his alleged financial irregularities to hide their move. Mr. Anderson said that the conspirators had made representations to the district attorney's office regarding him in their campaign to oust him and disrupt the Anti-Saloon League. He said, however, he did not question the sincerity of the district attorney in investigating the charges.

"I do not intend to be crushed, run out, intimidated or silenced by any bunch of wets, whether rich or poor, silk-stockinged or rough-neck, or any set of pseudo-drys who want to do dry work in a manner that is acceptable to the wets," he said.

The wet propagandists, he said, had deliberately misstated the amounts contributed by the Rockefellers to the league. He said that they had never contributed $100,000 as had been asserted and said that Raymond Fosdick, legal representative for the Rockefellers, had indicated the intention and effort to change the policy of the league and to eliminate him as superintendent.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND IN CABIN IN THE WOODS

Lakewood, N. J., Feb. 18.—Mrs. William Wallington Massee, wife of Professor Massee, director of the Massee school for boys at Stamford, Conn., and her 7 year old daughter Mildred, who disappeared from a local hotel yesterday afternoon, were found tonight in a cabin in the woods about nine miles from Lakewood by a searching party from the hotel.

Mrs. Massee said she and her daughter had gone searching for a winter flower when they became lost in the pine woods, where they passed the night. Early this morning while searching for a path leading out of the woods they came across a cabin, she said, the inhabitants of which were out. There they passed the day waiting for rescuers, she said.

Lakewood officials said they had been unable to reach Professor Massee.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
21 Church Street Telephone 1068

The local merchants met with much success on Dollar day Saturday. Residents from the city and miles around were attracted to Willimantic by the fine assortment of bargains and the buying was heavy throughout the day and evening. Many were so loaded down with bundles that they resorted to jitneys, and the latter reported a rushing business for the day.

Although cold, the weather was ideal for shopping, and a number of the stores were crowded as soon as they opened at six o'clock. The purchasers found large quantities of goods from which to pick, and they also found the prices cut in good measure, for it is the plan of the local merchants to share their profits with their customers on Dollar day, and also to bring people to this city and let them find out what a progressive city Willimantic really is.

H. W. Standish had his usual novelty window filled with packages which sold at $1, and some of which contained articles valued at as high as $30.

It cannot be exactly stated just what lines of business made the most sales, as business was rushing in all stores and at all times.

Two extra officers were on duty Saturday to handle the heavy traffic.

A special meeting of the directors of the Willimantic welfare bureau will be held Monday night at the office at 138 Valley street. The principal business to be conducted will be the election of officers, which was postponed from the annual meeting held last week. At this meeting a permanent secretary will be chosen to replace Mrs. Ora M. Clark, whose resignation took effect Feb. 1st. The officers and directors are of the opinion that a woman having all the necessary qualifications for welfare work, including that of a knowledge of nursing, should be chosen.

Mrs. Clark was first identified with the organization during the closing months of the war in the nursing department. She was appointed secretary when Hattie Childs resigned, in the late winter of 1919. At the time of her appointment as secretary Miss Elizabeth Anderson was appointed her assistant, and her duties were mostly investigating cases of need among the poor of the city, and doing clerical work. Miss Anderson has always been most faithful in the performance of her duties and is highly recommended by many of the directors.

For one year Miss Anderson has been filling the position of visitor with increased power and has worked hard for the success of the bureau. She is now a candidate for the position of permanent secretary and feels confident that she can perform the work. The salary of the secretary for the past three years has been $900 a year.

Alack Sarnofsky of No. 75 Chapman street has concluded that he has some enemies. Shortly before 3 o'clock Saturday morning one of the sheds on his property was destroyed by fire, the second happening of this kind during the past year. Engine company No. 1 responded to a still alarm and when the truck arrived on the scene one of the structures, measuring 25x15 feet, was totally destroyed, and the firemen confined their efforts to saving another nearby shed which was in danger. Fifty gallons of chemicals were used in fighting the flames.

Assistant to Chief Henry J. Kelley stated that he believed the fire was the work of an incendiary due to the fact that it started in a remote corner in the interior of the building.

Michael J. Tubridy, one of Willimantic's best known business men, died early Saturday morning at Saranac Lake, N. Y., after an extended illness of over three years' duration. Mr. Tubridy was employed by the Malley Dry Goods company of New Haven for a number of years and eight years ago he came here with his family and opened up the Tubridy-Weldon company store at No. 750 Main street. During his illness the store was conducted by his wife, who survives him. There are also a son, Joseph, and a daughter, Marion Tubridy.

The remains arrived in this city Saturday night and were taken to his late home at No. 73 Maple avenue.

Frederick Backus, 67, of North Windham, died Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Hartford City hospital following an operation. The deceased had been a patient in the institution for six weeks. He was born in Windham and had lived in that town all his life. His occupation was that of a farmer, but he retired from active work a number of years ago. Mr. Backus made his home with Charles F. Spencer of North Windham for several years. He leaves three brothers—Edgar of Baltic, Mass., Charles of Foxboro, Mass., and Walter Backus of South Windham, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Barstow of Mystic.

The funeral of Eugene Brainard Walden was held at 62 North street at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. Harry S. McCready officiated. The remains were conveyed to the Willimantic cemetery, where they were placed in the receiving vault. Funeral arrangements were in charge of the Jay B. Shepard estate.

Mrs. Emiline Vickers died suddenly at her home in Hampton Friday afternoon. Medical Examiner Dr. Hagan was called and upon viewing the remains pronounced the cause of death to be cerebral embolism and as no secondary cause chronic endocarditis. Mrs. Vickers was the widow of James Clay Vickers and she was born in Hampton April 25, 1818. Surviving are several nieces and nephews.

Traffic was held up for several hours when an oil tank car was derailed and the back of a caboose was stove in Sunday morning about 7.30 on the eastbound track of the Central Vermont railroad. A freight train ran into the rear of another which was stopped in the local yard opposite the brick row, some distance east of the roundhouse.

A freight train bound for Willimantic was stopped on the track, when through some error another freight train, bound for Providence, came up in the rear. The engineer of the oncoming train applied the brakes, but a collision could not be avoided and the engine plowed into the rear of the coach, forcing an oil tank car off the tracks.

No one was injured and the damage to the caboose was slight. The wrecking crew was called to the scene but it was after 12 before the tracks were cleared and the derailed car placed back on the rails.

The transportation of fuel over the New Haven railroad continues to be slow. Saturday morning the firm of Hillhouse & Taylor informed Chief of Police Killourey that they had a consignment of cordwood, a carload lot, which had been held up in Hampton for the past 15 days. They had often requested its delivery, but without success. Chief Killourey laid the facts before the local officials of the railroad and he was assured that the wood would be delivered in this city during the day.

The two carloads of coal for a local dealer which had been held up in the New Haven yards arrived in this city Saturday forenoon—after being just two weeks on the road.

The teachers of the Natchaug grammar school recently entertained 35 members of the Teachers' association of the town of Windham at the school building. The committee in charge of the arrangements consisted of Miss Hattie Jacobs, chairman, the Misses Frances O'Neill, Isabelle Gibson, Elizabeth Branch and Mrs. Charles H. Caswell.

The affair was well carried out in the form of a valentine party, and the rooms were beautifully decorated in red hearts and valentines. Cards were given out for the progressive games at 16 tables.

A feature of the evening was living pictures in valentine settings, with songs. Charles H. Caswell was master of ceremonies and as Cupid at valentine's door, with the Misses Isabelle Gibson, Magdeline Hewin, Elsie Chamberlin, Elizabeth Branch, Olive Johnson, Mildred Hueres, Ruth Willet, Lauretta Curran, Helen Lark'n and Edith Collins.

Mrs. D. Everett Taylor won a prize for the largest number of hearts, candy being in a box. Refreshments of valentine motif were made by a committee consisting of Virginia Harman, Camille Wheaton and Lois Holman. Miss Susan Smith was at the dead letter office window.

Miss Phyllis D. Smith of Hartford played the leading feminine role in "Within the Law" at Connecticut Agricultural college, Saturday evening, when the Dramatic club presented that play as a climax to the mid-winter festivities. The dance Friday was well attended. Russel A. Palen '23, headed the executive committee and Thomas F. Donahue '24, was in charge of the decorations. The patrons and patronesses were President Charles L. Beach and Mrs. Beach; Professor Arthur G. Skinner and Mrs. Skinner; Dr. Leslie C. Dunn and Mrs. Dunn; Dr. Howard D. Newton and Mrs. Newton, and Dr. Henry K. Benlinger.

Under the terms of the will of the late Wealthie Harries, who died within the past year, the First Baptist church of this city is left a legacy of $500 in trust and in the care of Trustee W. N. Potter, the interest to be used in the purchase of music for the church. In the event of a new church being built the principal is to be used for the purchase of a memorial window to the parents of the deceased, Ezra and Cynthia A. Stiles. The deceased was the wife of James Harries of this city.

A number of local people recently attended the play, Miss Marmaduke's Reign, staged by the Andover Girls' club in the town hall of that place for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid society.

Mrs. E. E. Parent of Valley street recently tendered Miss Edith Goss of High street a miscellaneous shower in honor of her approaching marriage to Raymond P. Taylor of Lebanon. Miss Goss received a number of retty and valuable gifts. A luncheon was served by the hostess. Among those present were, Misses Virginia and Camilla Haggerty, Theresa Shea, Margaret Ronan, Elizabeth McCabe, Rose Gingras, Leona Cloutier, Nellie Connaughton and Mrs. Eugene Roy.

Flapjacks

Flapjacks in the morning!
Mother walkin' miles
Just to keep 'em goin'
On our pastes in pies,
Sausages and gravy;
Coffee something grand.
In the farmhouse kitchen,
Breakfast beats the band!

In the farmhouse kitchen,
Cookstove burnin' good.
Batter on the griddle
Fryin' as it should!
Syrup in the pitcher
Made from sugar brown;
Mother turnin' flapjacks
In her gingham gown!

Mother turnin' flapjacks!
Greaser on the pan!
Dippin' out the batter!
Theres a stack again!
In the farmhouse kitchen,
Wishin' o'er and o'er
We had rubber tummies
So's we'd hold lots more!

Daddy Knows

Let us dry our tears now, laddie,
Let us put aside our woes,
Let us go and talk to daddy,
For I'm sure that daddy knows.
Let us take him what we've broken,
He it heart or hope or toy.
And the tale may bide unspoken,
For he used to be a boy.

He has been through all the sorrows
Of a lad at nine or ten;
He has seen the dawn of morrows;
When the sun shone bright again;
Oh, more times than I can tell,
And has often known the aching
That a boy's heart knows so well.

I am sure he well remembers,
In his calendar of days,
When the boy hears was December's
Though the sun, and flowers were Mays.
He has been a boy, laddie,
And he knows just how it goes;
Let us go and talk to daddy,
For I'm sure that daddy knows

He will put aside the worries
That he has many times gone through,
For the great ones and the worries
At the call of
He will help us
And the tale
For he used to be a boy.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

There are three kinds of people in the world—the wills, the won'ts and the can'ts. The former accomplish everything they attempt; the won'ts oppose everything and never get anywhere and the can't make a failure of life in general. To which do you belong?

The boy or girl who says "I will" and goes ahead and accomplishes whatever he or she attempts is on the road to success. These boys and girls make successful men and women. They are the kind of boys and girls the world wants.

The "won'ts" go through life in a slipshod way. They are lazy and indolent. They fail to take advantage of opportunities which are thrown their way and later on in life wonder why other with fewer advantages, leave them far behind in the business world.

The "can'ts" are the people who haven't enough confidence in themselves to even try. Whenever they meet a new problem they give up even before they tackle it. It looks hard, they are discouraged right at the start and they side-step by saying, I can't.

The world would get along much better if there were more of the "wills" and fewer of the "won'ts" and "can'ts". Just imagine what kind of a place old Mother Earth would be if everyone said I won't or I can't! We would have no government, no mills, no factories, no books, no telephones, no telegraph, no trains, no ocean liners; in fact we would have none of the many things that make life worth living.

It is the "wills" who have given all these things to us. No matter how hard a problem is, no matter how impossible it looks, they never get discouraged. They say, even in the face of tremendous odds, "I will," they stick at it, and the result is success. Don't be a "won't" or "can't". Be a "will."

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

Thrift

Dear Uncle Jed: There seems to be a great deal of discussion going on just now about "thrift," so I thought that I would write my version of it.

Thrift! 'Tis a small word; but ah! such a strong meaning! Thrift can mean the saving of nations! When the great World war was on, didn't we learn the real literal meaning of thrift? Ask the government! Why, nearly every one in the United States bought either war savings stamps or Liberty bonds; and naturally some of these people had to stint themselves a little more than usual to do it. Thus it happened that some of us, for the first time, realized the vast importance of thrift.

Anyone wishing to succeed should practice thrift; for thrift is a most valuable asset to success; whether the man or woman wishes to enter business, political work, church activities, editorial work or literary work, anything and everything, thrift is essential.

For instance—Anthony P. Kelly, now a renowned writer had a hard time beginning; he took up newspaper work reporting on the Chicago American, and civil engineering on the Southern Pacific railroad. With an empty wooden cracker box for a table, and a candle for illumination, he beginner wrote his first stories in [illegible] after the day's work with an engineer corps.

He wrote a film version of "The Man of the Hour," for which he was paid $750. Rather gratifying remuneration for a man who had been working as boss of a Mexican section gang for twelve dollars a week! Soon he was working for a salary and royal basis that guaranteed him $30,000 for nine months work.

This for the man who began with a wooden cracker box and candle and practiced thrift. For he must have struggled very hard in the beginning but three cheers for thrift; It always wins!

King Phillip's Park

Dear Uncle Jed: One day as I was out riding with my uncle, aunt and two cousins we went along a road, where there were trees on both sides. We rode about half an hour and then came to a place that was covered with large pines. It was King Phillip's park.

We rode on and saw many prettily built houses. This was in the month of July, 1922. There were all kinds of flowers growing and blossoming. The [illegible] flowers that were then blooming were the crimson and pink ramblers.

After riding for some time we came to a long bridge. After crossing it we came to Duxbury beach. Here we spent half an hour wading and walking up and down the beach.

An Original Composition.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my own composition. I did it in school. When it was finished my teacher, Henry Lee, said it was worth sending to Uncle Jed.

So I am sending it to let you see the kind of work we do in Gurleyville. I am in the eighth grade, 12 years of age and my name is Joseph A. Douda.

On the eighteenth day of November, 1863, a special train left the capitol at Washington, D. C., with the judges of the supreme court, the general of the armies and the staff, Mr. Everett, an orator, the president and his cabinet. The president was a tall awkward man with rough clothes, and his name was Abraham Lincoln.

Early the next morning the train arrived at Gettysburg. At nine o'clock President Lincoln and his members went on an open platform. Mr. Everett's turn came first, his speech was good and long, and he did not speak against either the cause of the North or the defense of the south.

Next came President Lincoln to interest the the audience. He began with: Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, and then he paused, for he did not want to speak against any side, and then he continued, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the preposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in the great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure.

The day before I had my first motorcycle ride which I thought very exciting but not as much as chasing deer. Hoping all the W.de-Awakes have had the pleasure of seeing deer this winter.

An Amusing Incident.

Dear Uncle Jed: The teacher gave me an A on this composition, so I thought I would send it to you.

It was during a night last winter that I and my sister had a most amusing incident happen to us. There was a violent rain and wind storm, which caused a violent rattle of windows.

That night I had a great fear for burglars as there were only my sister and I in the house. My sister had fallen asleep, but I still lay quite still and after many weary minutes, fell asleep thinking of burglars.

In the middle of the night my sister and I were both awakened by a terrific crash. We both screamed. It was positive a burglar had broken down the door of our room and waited further action on the part of the intruder. About five minutes of agony passed for my sister and for me. Hearing no more of the burglar I gathered enough courage to get up and turn on the light. The door was as I had left it and everything else was in perfect order. I went to bed again but neither my sister nor I slept peacefully that night. At every little noise we would move or jump.

At last morning came and we learned to our great amusement that the cause of the noise the night before was a large bough which had blown off a tree and had struck the side of our house.

A True Story About a Dog.

Dear Uncle Jed: Some times our teacher tells us stories at school and one that she told was about a dog named Lad. I liked it so well that I want to tell you and the Wide-Awakes about Lad.

One night a burglar came to Lad's home. Lad thought that the burglar had come to play with him. The burglar took out of his pocket a glass cutter, and a flashlight. He then cut the glass, put his hand in and opened the [illegible] went under the seat in the [illegible] mistress and [illegible] kept their money and silver and [illegible] took his bag. The burglar slowed down to pick up the bag but it was gone.

Laddie went to close to the burglar with the [illegible] bag. The burglar stooped to pick up the bag but it was gone. [illegible] the burglar saw [illegible] with fear like his master does.

The burglar saw that it was getting light. So he took a revolver out of his pocket to shoot Laddie. The [illegible] Laddie's shoulder. Cutting Down Trees.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to you for the first time. Last winter my father sold some trees to a man who owned a railroad. The trees were to be used as railroad ties.

One Saturday morning some men came from the sawmill and began to cut down the trees that were marked. They came every day for two days. The next day there was a snow storm. In the woods the snow was almost a foot deep and it was hard to get into the woods.

The next day after school my brother and I went into the woods and marked all the logs with blue chalk. We got our feet wet and had to change our shoes.

Two or three days afterward the men came with large sleds. They cut a path through the woods and hauled out four or five logs at a time.

Once or twice the sleds nearly turned over. We had a great deal of fun watching the men doing their work. I expect to write more stories at other times.

My Visit to Springfield.

Dear Uncle Jed and the Wide-Awakes: One crisp October day about two years ago I was thinking about getting up when my mother called and said: "Come, hurry and get up if you want to go to Springfield today." Well, I didn't stop to think any more about getting up, but I hopped out of bed and dressed in my best clothes. By 8 o'clock we were ready to start out on a long, cold ride. I was on the back seat of the car, all alone, as only three of us went.

One of my cousins I went to see had some pictures that were supposed to be colored, so I colored them. That night I went to bed early, but the next morning I was up early. We had breakfast at about 7 o'clock. I spent the morning reading fairy stories and coloring pictures. That night after supper we went to the moving pictures. There was vaudeville also.

Two Crows.

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there was a nest of two crows in the woods. When they could walk I went and got them. I brought them home and put them in a box and fed them. One of the crows died some time afterward.

One day when I let the other out the rooster broke his leg. Then I put him in his box. A long time after that I let him out. He went away and did not come back for two or three days. Then he came back and I shut him up and the next day I let him out again. He flew away and never came back.

Skating.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time that I have ever written to the Wide-Awake circle. I am going to tell you about skating.

In back of our house there is a place where you can go skating. I am learning how to skate now. My two little sisters, Mary and Janet, can skate good. But my other sister is lame and cannot skate. It is very slippery, but good skating. Last week it was nearly all gone, but we put water on it and it froze and is good now.

Mr. Dagenais cleared the snow off last week. He said that if he found his skates he would come out and skate some day. It was very nice of him to come out and sweep it all off for us.

Some children are over there skating now. I like to skate. I wish I knew how to skate good.

Some Winter Fun.

Dear Uncle Jed: The first snow we had was so deep that we had to wait till it got packed down; but when it got packed down it was fine sliding on Scott Hill.

One moonlight night we got up a party to go sliding down hill. There were about 16 of us. I had a double ripper that would hold four people. There were about eight flexible fivers on the hill.

One day we had an accident. One of the fellows got hurt. He was thrown from his sled to the ground and scratched his face. It is a very good winter for sliding.

"Honest Abe."

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell about Abraham Lincoln. He was born on Feb. 12, 1809, in a log shanty on a lonely little farm in Kentucky. The people of Illinois, who knew all about him, liked best to call him by the title they had first given him, "Honest Abe Lincoln," or, for short, "Honest Abe." He was a tall and awkward boy. His eyes were black and his hair was black. His home was made of rough logs and limbs of trees. It had no doors and no windows.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Herman Bronkie, Brasco, pilot, will be in Waterbury almost every day now until the season opens.

Gene McCann has signed a Bridgeport semi-pro named Jim Walters who is rated as a fast outfielder.

Rip Conway threatens to jump the Hartford team and play independent baseball but Paddy O'Connor says he isn't worrying.

Claude Jonnard and George Walberg, young pitchers, and Ralph Shinners, outfielder, have returned signed contracts to the Giants office.

Teddy Hauk has signed a Hartford contract and, despite reports to the contrary, will probably play with the Senators this season.

Jim Clarkin has left for Daytona, Fla., for his annual vacation before the opening of the baseball season.

Van Alstyne, the Pittsfield hurler, has signed a contract for 1923. He won nine games anad lost four last season.

Zip Sloan and Moosejaw Swaney, Hartford twirlers, are holdouts. Both claim they have attractive offers from the Cantohn Terminals, a fast semi-pro team.

The signed contract of Fred Schleibner, star first baseman purchased from the Little Rock club of the Southern association, was received Saturday by the Brooklyn National league club.

The United States will send a team of twelve fencers to London this year to defend the Robert M. Thompson Trophy in a series of international matches with British swordsmen on July 20, 21 and 23.

Benny Karr, Cliff Best and George Dumont, pitchers, and Johnny Rink, infielder, of the Boston Red Sox have been released outright to the Atlanta Club of the Southern Association.

Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, has received an offer from a British promoter of $37,500 to meet Ted Kid Lewis in a 20 round bout in London for the championship.

Joe Ritchie, the Brooklyn batter, who the Ridgewood club wanted to match against Johnny Drew in New York, has been matched to fight Eddie Brady of Brooklyn in a main bout at Brooklyn.

Lou Bogash, the Bridgeport middleweight, is laid up at the Bridgeport hospital with strained muscles of the right side and shoulder. Bogash will have to take a long rest and his bout with Andy Kid Palmer, at Brooklyn, has been called off.

Efforts of the Brooklyn National league club to obtain Louis Fonseca, Cincinnati infielder, were called off Saturday, it became known, when August Herrmann, president of the Reds, refused to consider a proposal to trade Fonseca for Leon Cadore, right-handed pitcher.

Newark of the International league is hot on the trail of Harry Riconda, the third sacker whom the Athletics bought from New Haven. Riconda is going south with the Athletics and if he doesn't make the grade, he'll probably go to Newark for further seasoning.

Frankie Jerome, the Brooklyn bantamweight, who recently beat Larry Goldberg, has been ordered to take a long rest. His physicians say he is overworked. Huckie Hutchinson, the Scotch bantamweight, overworked himself so that when he was stricken with pneumonia recently he didn't have the strength to fight the disease.

Bad hands will prevent Georges Carpentier from meeting Battling Siki for months, the former European champion said at St. Moritz. Doubt that he will even will meet his conqueror was expressed in his statement that "there isn't much interest in another bout with him."

The Sailor Byron-Solly Green fight is off. Matchmaker Nick Harney was forced to cancel that bout when Green's manager came on from Montreal and said that a cut over one of Green's eyes was in such shape that it would be impossible for him to do justice to himself or the fans.

Ray Schmandt, the young first baseman, will not be with the Brooklyn club next season. Schmandt was included in the deal that sent Hi Myers, the outfielder, to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for Jacques Fournier, the veteran first baseman. Schmandt, however, only figures as a pawn in the trade.

The Brooklyn Baseball club of the National league announced recently the release of infielder William J. McCarren, who was recalled from Jersey City last fall, and Jim Murray, lefthanded pitcher, on an optional agreement to the Bridgeport club of the Eastern league.

The arrival of Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory at Cannes, France, recalls finds Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen playing in greater form than ever. The French tennis star reached the third round of the women's singles here without losing a single game. Great interest being expressed in the two great rivals at the Monte Carlo anad Mentone tournaments.

Marty Shay is a by-word with the fans of the national pastime who in the summer follow the doings of the Eastern league. The diminutive short-stop, who will help in keeping the Worcester club near the top of the league standing, is quite a youngster, being but 26, at which age a baseball player is considered to have reached no more than his prime.

Batterymen of the Cincinnati National league club will depart March 3 for Orlando, Fla., the spring training camp, for an extra week of conditioning. The remainder of the team will leave March 10. The first practice game will be with Cleveland Americans at Orlando, March 15.

After playing 1,350 games in eleven years with the White Sox, Catcher Ray Schalk is still a headliner in big league backstopping.

Boston Red Sox players are being traded so rapidly nowadays that Hub fans are not given time enough to get acquainted with the team.

With $80,000 as prize money to the winners, the stag bowlers doubtless will do their "durndest" at the A. B. C. tournament in Milwaukee next month.

Looks as if Charley White made a record forfeit payment when he was set back $2,500 for being 12 ounces overweight in his recent bout with Rocky Kansas.

Miss Marion McCartie, one of the speediest runners among New York's fair athletes, is a daughter of Charley McCartie, a star of the cinder path some years ago.

A puzzling question that remains unanswered: "Why is Rube Benton allowed to play in the American association and at the same time called ineligible by the National league?"

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

WHEN THE NORTH WIND BLOWS

All the creatures, fur and feather
Cuddle close this snowy weather;
Timmie Chipmunk neath a tree
In his home as safe can be.
Squirrel Nutkin, when it grows
Puts his head beneath the clothes
Of his little wooden bed
In the Oak Tre overhead.
And within the Bramble Patch
Little Jack Rabbit drops the latch
Every one's almost asleep
Waiting for the Spring's first peep.

Chilly, Mr. North Wind blows from his home at North Pole, making his snow horses whirl over the Sunny meadow and along the Old Rail Fence. The Babbling Brook is covered with a coat of ice and the Farmer's Boy skates over the Old Duck Pond, but Grandaddy Bullfrog doesn't hear him for he is sound asleep in the mud, way down deep where the ice never forms.

Timmie Meadowmouse makes little tunnels under the snow for he is so small he cannot walk over the snow drifts. But Danny Fox, that sly old robber sneaks over the snow leaving his footprints to tell you where he has been. Sometimes they lead to the Shady Forest and sometimes to the Farm where Cocky Doodles and Henny Penny take a walk on the sunny side of the big haystack. The Weathercock on the Old Red Barn swings back and forth and wishes it was Spring.

Busy Beaver swims under the ice in the pond and then comes back to his little house, the front door of which is below the ice and in the upper room he has stored away twigs and things to eat till Mr. Spring Sun melts the ice and tells all the flowers it is time to bloom again.

All the birds have gone to the Sunny South except a few. Charlie Chickadee and Downy Woodpecker don't mind the cold weather. They flutter here and there and eat the dry seeds which still hang on the tall meadow grass or the dry berries in the Old Bramble Patch.

Mr. Peter Possum and his family have curled up in a warm, hollow stump and the big Brown Bear is snoring in his cave.

The earth is clad in snowy white
But all the trees are bare
The farmer reads his almanac
Within his old arm chair.
And Mrs. Cow, inside the shed
Upon the manger rubs her head.
And if you listen, you can tell
How many times she rings her bell.
For she won't take her collar off
For fear she'll get the whooping cough.

And the next time I'm going to tell you something about Danny Fox who lives in the hillside beneath the rocks.

Morgantown, W. Va., Feb. 18.—Morgantown coal operators advised of a coal shortage in New York and the New England states, have offered to ship fuel to that region but the offers have been rejected or unanswered officials announced here tonight.

U. S. NATIONAL BANKS IN COMMANDING POSITION

Washington, Feb. 18.—American national banks occupied "a more commanding position" at the time of the last bank call than at any time in more than two years, according to a statement made today by Comptroller Crissinger, of the currency. The statement added that, aside from the position of the national banks, the last call indicated "greater activity in industrial pursuits" in virtually every line of effort.

The aggregate resources of 8,225 reporting national banks on the date of the call, December 29, last, amounted to $21,974,957,000 an increase of $1,044,854,000 over the aggregate resources of the same banks on September 15, the date of the previous call. The total represented an increase in aggregate resources for the year of 1922 of $2,031,215,000, a figure of itself regarded as sufficient proof of renewed industrial and commercial progress.

The board also passed a resolution requesting national officers of the union to take a similar stand.

WONDERS OF THE TOMB OF PHAROAH TUTENKMAMUM

Luxor, Egypt, Feb. 18. (By The A. P.)—Each day adds to the wonders disclosed by further explorations in the tomb of the Pharoah Tutenkhamun. In addition to those of Howard Carter who has charge of the excavation two years of work are needful in the examination, registration, photographing and treatment of the treasures, which are described as magnificent and unprecedented in the annals of Egyptology. There is practically no limit to the wealth of gold that were found in the tomb as it is the excavators declare the remainder of the season is preparing for removal of the objects now under treatment.

In the fourth chamber which is as big as the chamber room, untold riches are piled high, those including a great golden chest innumerable boxes and jars with vessels alabaster boxes and two beautiful little statuettes of the kind standing on a lion, heavily guarded and about a foot high. On the ground alongside the chest a number of paddles were found belonging to several model boats; these paddles are about four feet in length.

The children in this honey were not set up as first reported but had been taken apart, like those discovered in the first chamber.

WOMAN FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH IN WHITEHALL, N. Y.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Feb. 18. Miss Alice Davis, 72 of Whitehall, this morning was found frozen to death in her home. A coroner's investigation revealed that there was no coal in the house and that the woman's attempt to start a fire with green wood had failed.

Residents of Fort Edward, Whitehall nad other communities in the Fourth district, have notified Charles B. Kilmer of this city, fuel administrator, that they will seize coal from passing railroad cars or in yards unless relief comes shortly. Plans made to seize coal in this city yesterday were postponed with the arrival of six carloads, which today is being delivered in small amounts.

At Ballston Spa emergency deliveries of coal in bags are being made from the one carload which the Delaware and Hudson railroad released with promises of further assistance when the city fuel administrator seized three carloads bound for Canada yesterday.

Emergency trains bearing 20,000 tons of anthracite which the Delaware and Hudson railroad officials promised George W. Goethals, state fuel administrator, were en route to northern New York, had not been heard from tonight, fuel administrators said.

JEWETT CITY

Professor Geer's singing class closed with a concert Friday evening with as good a number present as could be expected under weather conditions. The class gave four numbers which were interspersed with a group of songs by Mrs. Olive Adams Potter, contralto, of Norwich, and by Mr. Geer, who was especially invited to sing, also a duet by Mrs. Potter and Mr. Geer. Mr. Geer had with him Henry Brynan, a violin player of much promise, with whom the audience were very much pleased. All responded to hearty encores. The work of the class was highly complimented which reflects much credit on Mr. Geer as director. In closing Mr. Geer made a few remarks, thanking all those who had in any way helped him to make the affair a success.

With a few well chosen words, W. P. Holmes of Pachaug presented Mr. Geer a bouquet of carnations, and also Mrs. Richardson, a sum of money for her faithful service as pianist. The hall was beautifully decorated with streamers of red and green crepe paper and paper hearts by those interested in the success of the evening. A nickel lunch was served by the committee, also oldtime pies, after which dancing was enjoyed for a short time, the Pachaug orchestra furnishing the music with Mr. Brynan assisting.

TIME FOR A DECISION.

Just how much opposition there is to bringing this shipping bill to a ... is not disclosed by the number who voted in the senate to prevent the return of the measure to the Ex. of unfinished business, the place of ... advantage from which it may be possible to get action upon it one way or the other.

Here is a bill that has been hanging fire for a year. There is opposition on the ground that a subsidy of ... kind was never favored, and such opponents are unwilling to give it consideration under greatly changed conditions. It is a piece of legislation in which the president is deeply interested. He had repeatedly urged action upon it, and in his last address to congress he pressed for a decision one way or the other. He has pointed out what an advantage it would be to the nation, what a move for economy, and asked that it be not killed by delaying action upon it but if there is an unwillingness to approve ... let it be known by an adverse vote.

It seems that the responsibility for ... should be assumed. President Harding has ... that ... administration to be ... for that ... Those who are opposed ... are pointing out that the government ought not to go into ... for such ... purpose but they are unwilling to permit ... to come to a vote. From that very situation the opponents are certainly not following a course that wins support for their views.

The ship subsidy, or the bill which has made with the merchant marine has been battered and buffeted too long, and it is time that the senate permitted it to come to a decision.

For that reason it is a ... step that we are to have ... ships ... that this work is ... It has been established ... that ... violate the ... limit ... British and ... Inasmuch as the ... of making these alterations ... to the ... would be a distinct ... to have ... the work ... originally started.

The chances have not been taken ... or approved for the purpose of defeating the objects of the agreement. There will have no advantage ... proposed by the other nations, but there will ... advantage ... not proposed now, though ... adding to our capital ships. Nevertheless the idea to make sure before going ahead is not only a good idea but a capital example.

MEMEL AND VILNA.

... going to be satisfied ... half of its desires, or is it going to make further trouble in insisting upon having the whole loaf" ... Memel with ... to make ... the Vilna district after a council of ambassadors has defied against it.

... sible is all the outgrowth ... that ... The ambassadorial council ... Lithuania believed ... give Memel as the ... But it was not ... only one that was seeking it, for ... and Russia also ... for the same reasons. As ... they believed ... was going ... to ... other Lithuanian ... it, the proper thing was to give it to Lithuania.

Just because it was successful in getting Memel does not necessarily mean that it also ought to have that neutral territory between Lithuania and Poland containing Vilna. This is where trouble seems most likely to follow, since there has been much feeling shown between the two peoples because of this district and Lithuania gives indication that it is not going to be satisfied to abandon its claim to Vilna just because it has received Memel, although it apparently expects Poland to yield against the advice of the judges.

This gives the ambassadorial council a chance to demonstrate whether it can keep the flag of peace waving in that part of the world, where the acquisition of territory hasn't been entirely disregarded, and where fight is quickly shown when things do not go to suit.

THE PERILS OF THE DEEP.

Unusually severe conditions have been experienced by those who went "down to the sea in ships" in the past several months. Many have been the shipwrecks, numerous the cries for help and frequent the reports of abandonment.

Those ships which have successfully come through the storms have brought reports of experiences that were thrilling and even though such may be commonplace the captains have insisted that never before had they seen the like in their long careers.

Storms have unquestionably raised havoc on the high seas, and the loss of lives and property has been heavy. And still navigation is today surrounded by its greatest safeguards. Not so many years ago it would have been impossible to communicate with shore and make appeal for assistance because fuel was exhausted, machinery was out of order or the ship had sprung a leak. Today we are acquainted with what happens on water as well as on land. If the vessel in trouble is not equipped with wireless it can invariably get in touch with one that is.

And not only is it possible to get help and needed advice in case of emergencies but there are today vessels which wait in readiness to go to the assistance of those in distress, carry them supplies, give them towing aid, rescue those whose vessel was abandoned and in many instances clear the ocean of those derelicts that are a menace to navigation.

There are dangers at all times on land and on water. There are preventive measures that can be taken and there are those who are ready and willing to aid, but the great help that cannot be lightly regarded is the ability of those in trouble to communicate with those who are ready with a helping hand. Some terrors are greatly lessened because of this fact.

WHERE TROUBLE LIES.

From Pennsylvania comes a report to the effect that outside workers at the collieries kept at their labors in zero weather in order that others might have fuel with which to keep warm.

This may seem a bit considerate on the part of these workers, but if the miners had taken a different view during the summer and kept at work while their disputes were being adjusted there would be no such suffering on the part of the people and no such shortage of coal as exists today.

It is perhaps natural to blame the present day conditions upon transportation troubles and to claim that more fuel would be available if the railroads could handle it, but there cannot be overlooked the fact that the coal would have been at the point of consumption months ago and the railroads would be in a far different state of efficiency as to motive power at the present time if the deplorable conditions had not been created by the strikes. It was fully understood at the time that conditions which are prevailing would result and yet that was not sufficient to move those who were determined to carry out their plans at the expense of those depending upon coal and transportation. Thus it isn't the present day difficulties that are to blame, but those which had their being in the days when it would not have been necessary to handle coal in zero weather that others might get fuel to keep warm.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

No one has predicted a blizzard in the next few weeks but there is no telling how the winter plans to wind up its diary.

The sugar manipulators are at work again. And if they get caught short they'll want the government to pay their losses.

The man on the corner says: Congress is bound to get a cussing but there are many times when it could put prevention to good use.

The appearance of the big league baseball schedules means that it will not be long before you can make your vacation arrangements.

Those Pennsylvania strikers who lost $205,000,000 in wages last year probably are kicking because their funds are so low and times so bad.

Digging his way out of the coal situation is a different proposition for General Goethals than putting a ditch across the isthmus of Panama.

Those who are consoling themselves with the fact that each day brings us that much nearer to spring are still encountering robust weather.

Now that it has been claimed a college girl could get a complete outfit of clothing for $30, it can be expected there will be a great rush to prepare for commencement.

Profits on chewing gum jumped nearly 100 per cent the past year. How much will the jaws of the chewers have to be geared up to accomplish the same thing this year?

The terrible effect of a beneficial tariff was painted in glaring colors by those who hoped to block it. Reports which show it has not restricted imports must be a horrible disappointment to them.

When Governor Templeton declares he isn't against normal schools as such but is against expenditures at this time, which are not absolutely necessary, he voices the sentiment of the taxpayers of the state.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Hot cornmeal mush can be improved by a grating of cheese over it.

Never stir rice, as it causes it to fall to the bottom of the vessel and burn.

Corn oysters are served with powdered sugar, honey, sirup or chili sauce.

No starch should be used in washing except that which is thoroughly cooked.

Face veils can be stiffened with gum arabic if they become limp.

Doesn't the candle fit the stick? Then dip the end into hot water. It will become soft and may be molded to fit.

To keep ink from spreading when marking clothes, first trace with a heavy pencil and then go over the pencil mark with the ink.

If the painter gets too vehement with his brush when painting around the window, don't waste time scolding. Steel wool will take the spatters off.

Last year's summer dresses make neat kitchen curtains. Gingham, striped calico, or unbleached muslin may be used. They should not be heavy in weight to obscure the light.

To keep the kitchen sink fresh and without odor from the waste pipe, use cooking soda and hot water poured into the pipe once or twice a week.

To remove the cork from a bottle if there is neither knife nor corkscrew at hand, stick two safety pins diagonally through the cork opposite each other. Pull on the upper part of the pins and the cork comes out very readily.

If grease is spilled on the stove, sprinkle with salt. This will prevent any odor of burning grease.

Have you noticed that your ecru mop has an inclination to become matted? If, after using it, you will brush it with an old whisk-broom instead of shaking it, the mop will always be clean and fluffy.

Always place a folded towel in the bottom of your dish-pan when washing fine glass or china. It saves breakage.

An ordinary steel nut-pick is a handy kitchen tool. It can be used to remove the tops from milk bottles and to remove the rubber rings from jars of peanut butter.

THE SKIDDING RUGS.

One of the principal objections to the use of small rugs in homes where hard wood floors are laid is the tendency of the rugs to slip under the weight of a person walking on them, and thereby become the cause of possible injuries.

An entirely new idea designed to obviate slipping rugs, has recently been tried out with results that have been highly gratifying. It is based on the well known clinging qualities of rubber and as adopted consists of a mat or base of net-like fabric made of cotton or other fibres combined with rubber and intended to be attached to the under side of the rug by sewing loosely.

FOR OBSTINATE CORK

Accidents often happen to the corks of the extract and other small bottles in the kitchen and when we are in a hurry the cork is obstinate and must be ... out with a fork. Buy some small screweyes and fasten one of these in each of the corks. They can be changed as the bottle is emptied and you will be pleased at the time and trouble saved by this novel cork puller.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Very little ammonia in a basin of hot water is all that is required for washing hair brushes and clothes brushes. These should be washed regularly once a week.

If you decide to curl the hair, be sure you do so all over the head. Nothing odder or more unnatural exists than tight waves in front and straight hair in back.

There are reasons for keeping the nails well polished. A good gloss will redeem even an indifferent manicure, while nails that are well shaped, well polished and smooth around the edges will make even the homeliest hand attractive.

The whole secret of beauty-sleep is a deep, sound, dreamless slumber. Whether it takes place before or after midnight, or even in the daytime, makes little difference, the important essentials are comfortable rest in a pure atmosphere. It is unwise to indulge in a larger meal than a cup of hot milk or cocoa and a few biscuits within an hour before retiring to bed, but this small refreshment is a comforting inducement to sound sleep, and prevents the uneasy dreams which are sometimes as much the result of hunger as of a too recent heavy meal.

SOME PLANTS THAT DO WELL INDOORS

The rubber plant will stand the confinement of a room admirably, being especially suited to a bay window. There are also several members of the palm family which will thrive in the house and in positions unsuited for ordinary plants. The best varieties for a room are the Phoenix and Kentia and the Cocos.

Of the flowering plants the aloe is especially suited to a bright, sunny window and when the orange-red tubular blossoms are open against the gray-green spiny leaves the effect is very good. This plant does not require much water. The ecivia maniata is a charming plant throughout the year and will produce bunches of orange-red flowers if properly cared for; florists claim that one of the secrets of success is to grow the plant in the same pot year after year, provided, of course, the soil does not become sour, for established plants full of roots will bloom annually and care should be taken not to over-water.

The flowering cactus blossoms freely indoors and flourishes in a sunny window when given plenty of water. The Mexican pilreus with rich scarlet blossoms is the variety most easily obtained, though the flesh pink and creamy white blossoms of other varieties are lovely.

FOR BRIDGE LAMP.

Lamp shades for the bridge lamp are nice made of parchment. Plain parchment shades can be bought and decorated. If you can sketch a figure or flower, sketch on the shade and then paint. Otherwise buy a transfer and draw over the figures with a heavy pencil to transfer to the shade. Any artists' supply shop will tell you what paint to use on parchment shades. Bind the shades in gold gimp.

FURNITURE FABRICS.

When purchasing material for upholstering purposes avoid long, loose threads on the surface. Select a close weave, preferably of smooth texture, and your furniture will wear longer.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Ribbon and bead trimmings are seen on the new spring models.

Black flat crepe braided in white soutache makes a striking street costume for early spring.

Narrow bands of white fur trim the neck and cuff lines of the dark crepe dresses.

Wide Irish lace is used extensively to trim lingerie of triple voile and crepe.

Delicate lavender, blue with a hint of gray in its coloring and a new tint between flesh color and apricot are among the colors exploited in silk lingerie.

New silks for midseason reproduce in color and designs the characteristic patterns of hand-blocked and batik silks.

Silk draperies held in place with large choux of the material are a feature of several new frocks.

Challis is a frabric which is used by a number of smart designers for southern frocks.

Beige caracul collars an unusually beautiful cape for southern wear. The material is a heavy silk, with an Egyptian design forming a deep border.

Bandanna handkerchiefs, so popular for neckwear and girdles, are now used effectively as drapes for hats. They are tied in characteristically careless fashion.

Bindings of silk and ribbon are used on folds and hems on the new gowns and suits for spring, often it is the only attempt at decoration.

Elaborate dinner frocks are made of printed georgette in Paisley patterns outlined in bright colored beads.

Skirts of pleated crepe de chine are very popular now with sweaters and monogrammed blouses. One sees a number of separate skirts also of wool.

Grey is to be a very important color this spring particularly in blouses. It is combined with bright colors and is heavily trimmed with cross stitch or peasant embroidery.

Nothing apparently can disturb the vogue of the small embroidered hat. The hat of all-over flowers or foliage is also popular now in bright colors.

SMOCKS AND TUNICS.

Few things have had a more widespread influence upon the fashions of this decade than the oddly beautiful handiwork of peasant folk of Europe and the primitive art of India. There is a compelling beauty about these curious designs and crude contrasts of color.

Children's clothes especially lend themselves to the decorative handwork copied from the smocks and tunics of simple peasants, and there is a quaint charm about the city frocks and coats and uncommon smartness.

TAMS FOR CHILDREN.

Tams and sailors for children this season are trimmed with ribbon bands which, instead of being laid flat as formerly, are made as follows: One-inch tucks are placed at intervals of two inches along the band, and the corners of the tucks are turned backward to make a V. This additional ornamentation to the band lends added charm to the hat.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

Add a little borax to the water in which the kitchen towels are washed. It removes the dirt and grease, makes them a good color and acts as a disinfectant.

If the busy mother will wash the baby jackets or the children's sweaters in the usual way and then put them in a clean pail and set in a warm place to dry, they will be like new. Turn them often and shake a little as they dry.

Never sprinkle pongee to iron. Roll in a towel while wet and iron when still damp.

To iron men's soft collars, begin at the points and press toward the center of the back. This will prevent the unsightly wrinkles that are usually seen on the home-laundered collars.

If you burn an article ironing it, wet the goods and apply cornstarch to the burned part, rubbing it in well. Allow this to dry and all traces of the burn will have disappeared.—The Designer.

COUCH CUSHIONS.

For a long, low couch half a dozen different styles of cushions will be seen. A large thick round one will be in vogue of printed martine silk, gorgeous crimson and green and purple and black designs on a white ground, with a lining of crimson velour and gold tassels; near this will be a small circular cushion, flat on top, scarcely larger than a baker's hat; this in emerald green brocade with a narrow band of gold gimp around the edge.

At the second end of the couch a barrel cushion will be placed, possibly of pale purple-rose silk, fluted at the end and held with a black jet buckle, and over this will be a very large black cushion of curious black silk, the tone of a stovepipe; a huge rope of gold is couched around this with black wool and at one end there is a mammoth gold tassel fastened on with a heading of many colored embroideries.

RATTAN CHAIRS.

When chair bottoms of rattan become loose and baggy stand them in a tub and pour two or three kettlefuls of boiling water through the woven rattan. Do this on a bright, warm day and set the chairs out in the sun. In a few hours the bottoms will be as tight and straight as when they were new.

BRAID POPULAR.

Some of the suits displayed for the gaze of people going south are of flannel in bright sports shades. These suits are frequently trimmed with the braid which is to be so popular on spring costumes, but sometimes they are oddly and attractively trimmed with leather applique.

SMART FOR SKATING.

Short astrakhan jackets combined with plaid skirts are smarter for skating costumes. The jacket collars are high enough to cover the ears. The skirts show a plaid not only big, but brilliant.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Miss Helen M. Hill, president of the League of Advertising Women, began to write advertising in her spare time.

At a recent murder trial in Jackson, Ky., a woman deputy sheriff was appointed to search women spectators for firearms.

The women of the state of San Luis, Mexico are given the franchise under a measure adopted by the state legislature.

Dr. Ellen C. Potter, named commissioner of public welfare in Pennsylvania, is the first woman in that state to hold a cabinet position.

Mrs. Edna B. Perkins and Mrs. Charlotte H. Jordan, Cleveland society women, will attempt to cross the Sahara desert unaccompanied.

Mrs. S. M. Ralston, wife of Indiana's new United States senator, delights in caring for her blooded chickens, of which she has several hundred.

INSTEAD OF ASHES.

Sawdust sprinkled on the slippery front walk is not nearly as injurious to the parlor rug as the customary ashes or salt.

USEFUL IN CLEANING.

Steel wool will clean brass, nickel, tin, aluminum, glass, agate and iron wares, kitchen floors, either tile, wood or linoleum and tubs.

RECIPES.

Mock Pumpkin Pie: Add one-half cup of graham cracker crumbs to two cups of hot milk. Beat two eggs slightly; add one and one-eighth teaspoons each of cinnamon and nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoon of ginger, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of all-spice, one-eighth teaspoon of cloves, two tablespoons of molasses and one-fourth cup of brown sugar. Combine the two mixtures and pour into a pastry-lined pie pan. Bake for ten minutes in a 450 dg. F. oven, then reduce the heat to 325 dg. F. and continue the baking until the center is firm—about thirty minutes.

Bread Rarebit: Soak one cup of stale bread crumbs in one cup of milk for fifteen minutes. Melt one tablespoon of butter in a double boiler, add the soaked crumbs, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne pepper and one slightly beaten egg. Cook until egg thickens, stirring constantly, and remove from the fire. Add three-fourths cup of grated cheese and beat until cheese melts. Pour on hot toast or crisp crackers and serve at once.

Crackers may be purchased especially for making into crumbs, but by saving the broken and crushed ones which are always found in boxes a goodly supply soon results.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Losses From Casualties or Theft.

Losses arising from "fires, storms, shipwreck or other casualty or from theft," are deductible whether or not connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his dwelling or automobile is destroyed by fire he may deduct the loss for the year in which it occurred. Damages done to a home by direct action of a storm constitute a deductible item. Allowance must, of course, be made for any insurance received.

The term "other casualty" within the meaning of the revenue act means one arising through the action of a physical force of nature, for example, In case of a collision between a ... flood or frost.

truck and an automobile used for pleasure or convenience, the owner of the truck may claim a deduction for damages, provided at the time of collision the truck was being used for business purposes. In such a case the amount expended by the owner of the truck for its repair is deductible from his gross income not as a loss sustained from an "other casualty" but as an ordinary and necessary expense paid or incurred during the taxable year in the carrying on of a trade or business. The owner of the pleasure car, however, is not entitled to such deduction. His car was not being used for business, nor was the loss sustained by "other casualty" as defined above.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. A loss for embezzlement is also deductible.

As a general rule, deductions for losses are allowed for the year in which sustained. In exceptional circumstances, however and in order more clearly to reflect income, the commissioner of internal revenue may permit a deduction for a loss other than in the year in which actually sustained. The taxpayer must account on his return for the loss in the period in which sustained. If he desires to deduct the loss as for another period he must attach to his return a request for consideration by the commissioner, together with a complete statement of the facts upon which the request is based.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

At thirteen to sell newspapers in the streets of New York, at thirty-four to draw royalties on ten million wireless sets all over the world—such is the record of William Dubilir, the electrician and inventor. His latest achievement is to patent a plug which does away with wireless aerials; his earlier ideas are not less wonderful. As a boy he went to school for eight hours a day, and worked for another eight hours. At the age of eighteen he started as an electrical bell fitter. He progressed until at the age of twenty-two he received an order to erect a wireless station for the czar of Russia. He then took up his headquarters in London and invented his condenser which he used on every wireless set in the world. Nothing has done more towards the progress of wireless than this one device, which has brought its inventor fame and fortune.

Wives of Famous Men

Anne Isabella Milbanke, Wife of Lord Byron.

A tragic affair was the married life of Lord Byron, great English poet, and his wife. The latter was Anne Isabella Milbanke, a "paragon of only daughters," as her husband styled her, the child of a prominent knight. The fault, without a doubt, was for the most part with the man, for it is hard to believe that any woman could have long remained happy as the wife of the handsome, unstable, moody young poet.

The very circumstance of their courtship and marriage did not augur well for the future. Anne, to begin with, was only one of a long series of women with whom Lord Byron was in love. It is told of him that when he decided to marry he discussed the matter with a friend, Byron favoring Miss Milbanke as a potential wife, the friend suggesting another young woman. Heeding the friend's advice, he proposed to the other girl, who refused him, so he turned to his original choice.

"You see," Byron is alleged to have said to his friend, "that after all Miss Milbanke is to be the person. I will write to her." Which he did, and they agreed that the letter was such a masterpiece of English it would be a pity not to send it.

So she became Lady Byron, and it is not hard to understand why such a marriage did not turn out well. At first they were happy, the poet declaring:

"I still think one ought to marry upon lease; but am very sure I should renew mine at the expiration, though the next term were for ninety and nine years."

Within a year they were at war. Their temperaments were totally unsuited, they were the last word in incompatibility. Anne was not possessed of the mentality to adequately cope with this temperamental genius, with his passionate anger and his wild gambling, to say nothing of his sentimental excursions. She had her faults, too. For instance, she could not see the worth of his poetry, and constantly asked him when he was going to stop writing verses, and she often broke open his desk, leaving wreck and ruin in her path.

"Any woman could manage my lord," Bryon's valet is credited with having said, "but my lady."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

ESSEN.

Essen, whose name is known around the world because of its association with the Krupps and the building of the old Germany's great engines of war, and to which the French marched because reparation payments were not made, is the subject of the following communication to the National Geographic Society of Frederick Simpich:

"'Boom' towns of mushroom growth are not peculair to America, as the startling rise of Essen plainly proves. Though founded away back in the ninth century, it slumbered along for hundreds of years, an obscure, unimportant hamlet. Even as late as 1520 it had hardly more than 10,000 people. Then the Krupp boom—the rise of the greatest machine-ship the world has ever seen — struck it, and today the city houses half a million.

"Set in the heart of the coal-fields, crowded with endless industrial plants whose tall chimneys belch eternal smoke and fumes, the great workship fairly throbs with power and energy. The roar and rattle of ceaseless wheels and the din of giant hammers pounding on metal seem to keep the whole town atremble.

"Here every form of iron and steel article is made, from boys' skates to giant marine engine shafts. Curiously enough, even some of the smoke, or the fumes from the smokestacks, is caught and converted into a gas that furnishes more power to run the mills.

"And to the $5,000 or more men on his pay-roll, the name of Krupp is above that of kings. And indeed no industrial enterprise anywhere has ever shown a more astonishing development, reflected more dramatically the result of human concentration, or achieved a wider notoriety among the nations of the world.

"More than a hundred years ago the first Krupp set up his small, crude shop and began to make by hand the tools, the drills and chisels, used by miners, blacksmiths, and carpenters along the Ruhr and the Rhine. He also made dies for use in the mint of the government. Within 30 years, due to the old ambition for expansion, Krupp tools were known and used as far away as Greece and India. Here, about this time also, spoons were first rolled from one solid block of metal by an odd-looking machine invented for that purpose.

"Then came the great era of mass production in steam-engines, hammers, steel tires for railway cars, cast-steel shafts for river and ocean steamers, and finally that astonishing output of guns and armor plate which brought the militaristic nations of the world to buy at Essen.

"The daily roar of artillery at the proving grounds, where each new gun was tested, added to the din of whistles, rushing trains, and rattling gears, made prewar Ruhr probably the noisiest place on earth.

"It is noisy enough now, but the great guns are silent; Krupp makes them no more. The big lathes that once made guns for every nation, from Chile to China, now turn out shafting for marine and other engines. Boxcars for Belgium, car wheels for South America, and whole tram-line systems for the Dutch East Indies were some of the orders being filled when I saw these giant works a few months ago.

"You can picture the size and scope of this colossal plant when I tell you that, literally, the coal and iron come in at one end of the flock of factories and emerge at the other in the form of finished locomotives, with steam up for testing, or as plows, all painted and ready for the farm, or as the finest nickeled instruments and tools.

"Aside from its truly amazing industrial aspects, with its singularly adequate welfare institutions for aged and crippled workmen, Essen is only an overgrown German factory town — somber and smoky. It is the sort of place you like to see—once."

Awarded Five Million By British Courts

Mrs. Ida M. French, daughter of the late Robert J. Wynne, former American Consul-General in London, and U. S. Postmaster General on S. S. Majestic, arriving at New York. Mrs. French confirmed the reports that the English courts had awarded her five million dollars in the settlement of the estate left to her husband, with whom after a separation she had become reconciled during the war.

Stories That Recall Others

Tall Men Needed.

While walking down the street one night with her daddy, little Thelma became interested in a fire alarm box on a pole. She had seen fire alarm boxes before and had been told that in order to send in an alarm it was necessary to first break the glass.

So after studying the situation for a moment she said: "It takes tall people to send in an alarm, doesn't it?"

Different Estimates of Pie.

A business man, forced to take many of his meals downtown, and as the result inclined to be favorably impressed with his wife's cooking, invited two of his youngsters to take lunch with him one day. This was a treat to the youngsters who were in the habit of eating at home all the time.

When the pie was served the proud father said to the children: "This pie isn't anything like the kind that mother makes, is it?" And to the father's horror and the amusement of the others about them one of the children replied: "No, father, it's much better."

DECLINING TO SELL FOR SEASIDE ADDITION

The legislative appropriation committee has been notified that the owners of McClimon Point in East Lyme will not sell the property to the state for the construction of a new plant to replace the Seaside Sanatorium at Crescent Beach for treatment of bone tuberculosis in children. The owners will fight against condemnation of the property.

A bill to appropriate $100,000 for the acquisition of the McCook property directly west of the present site, is now pending in the legislature.

Mr. McCook transmitted to the appropriations committee a request that he be given an opportunity to be heard on the bill before any recommendation concerning it is made to the legislature. Governor Templeton has let it be known that he does not approve of the plan to deprive the McCook estate of property which has been in the family more than half a century and he will do what he can to prevent it.

The state farm for women, for which an appropriation of $620,700 has been requested and the Niantic Camp Ground, for the replacement of buildings at which $100,000 has been requested, were visited Friday by the appropriation committee.

Of the appropriation for the state farm for women, $323,700 is for new construction desired to make room for 100 more inmates and for educational facilities.

There are now 85 adults and 36 babies at the farm.

Saturday the committee visited the Mystic Oral School for the Deaf and the Norwich state hospital. The Mystic school has asked for an appropriation of $150,000 for new dormitory and $225,000 for maintenance for the next two years and the Norwich state hospital has asked for $740,000 for construction and $1,100,000 for maintenance.

ELLAL GOES TO JAIL ON POISONING CHARGE

Benjamin Ellal, 16, of Preston accused of poisoning a mare on the farm of McClimon Bros., in Preston, last month, was presented at the Norwich state hospital Saturday morning before Justice of the Peace V. P. A. Quinn and was bound over to the criminal superior court. In default of $1,000 bail he went to the Norwich jail.

Ellal had been under observation for two weeks at the Norwich state hospital as a result of which he was declared mentally responsible.

A demurrer for him was entered at the hearing by his attorney, T. M. Shields, and Justice Quinn offered to place the bail at $500 and allow the young man to remain at the state hospital. Ellal said he would rather go to jail. Upon the evidence offered by State Policeman M. E. Sterling probable cause was found and the young man was bound over.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. BIEBER, 3039 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3227 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

OBITUARY

John W. Savage.

John W. Savage, one of the oldest residents of Taftville, died at his home on Hunters avenue Sunday afternoon about 4.30 o'clock following a short illness with pneumonia. Mr. Savage was taken ill a little over a week ago and was apparently recovering from his sickness when complications of the heart set in which caused his death.

Mr. Savage, who is one of the best known residents of Taftville, was born in Westford, Mass., on May 17, 1849. He came to Taftville in August, 1871, and since then has made his home here. During the greater part of his life he has been engaged as a teamster for the mills in this section and had the distinction of being the first man to cart a load of finished cloth from the Ponemah Mills. For the past few years he has been employed by the U. S. Finishing Co.

His wife died in May, 1910, and he is survived by eight children, Miss Mabel J. Savage, Louis J. Savage, Miss Annie M. Savage, William M. Savage, Miss Laura M. Savage and Mrs. Timothy Dwyer, all of whom live at home. Mrs. William H. Bransfield Schenectady, N. Y., and Leon C. Savage of Providence, R. I. He also leaves one grandson, John W. Savage of Providence, and a niece, Miss Lula Savage who lived at his home. He is also survived by three brothers, Patrick of West Chelmsford, Mass., John of Haverhill Mass., and William of Westerly, and one sister, Annie of Swansea, N. H. There are several other nieces and nephews.

In the more than fifty years during which Mr. Savage had lived in Taftville he had gained a wide acquaintance there and his death will come with a sense of personal loss to many outside of his relatives and more intimate friends. He was industrious, conscientious in his employment, a lover of his home where he was a faithful and considerate husband and an affectionate father, who will be sorely missed from a happy family circle.

Mrs. Charles Hull.

After an illness of about one month Harriet M. Sherman widow of Charles Hull, died Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at her home on Canterbury turnpike. She was born in Norwich 84 years ago, the daughter of Captain William Sherman and Harriet Leach Sherman, and had made her home in Norwich practically all her life. About 61 years ago she was united in marriage to Charles Hull who died about seven years ago in this city. Of this union three children, Mrs. Everett Whitmarsh of Norwich, Mrs. E. T. Grant of Norwich, and a son, Gardner Hull, who left Norwich about 15 years ago. Surviving there are also two grandchildren, Roy Whitmarsh of this city, and Mrs. Walter Ellison of South Manchester, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Holt of Norwich.

Mrs. Hull did not belong to any organizations but loved her home, in which her life was centered. She was a loving mother and wife and a real sister. Those who knew her best extend their sympathy to her family in their hour of sorrow.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING CONFLICTS WITH CONCERT

There seems to be a difference in opinion as to the wisdom of the town selectmen in calling the special meeting on the high school situation for Friday evening of this week. One citizen in particular, evidently speaking for others, mentions the fact that the selectmen in picking out the date for the meeting did not look ahead or they would have seen that Friday night was the date for the concert at the Academy, one of the course being given under the auspices of the Academy Musical Course Series.

About 600 citizens of the city have tickets for this entertainment and will of course wish to attend. The tickets cost $2 and if by attending the town meeting, one of vital importance to them, they forfeit their money it seems a burden on them they should not be asked to share.

This person stated that as education is one of the most important things in our community it does seem that the selectmen should have picked out a date when the largest possible number of voters could attend the meeting and vote upon this question.

RUBBISH FIRE SPREAD TO HOUSE AND BARN

The fire department had two calls in seven minutes Saturday night, the first at 8 o'clock to 61 Williams street, where a man named Beckwith had left a rubbish pile burning and the wind had carried the fire to a barn near by and also set fire to the residence.

Seven minutes after this call there was another by telephone to 100 West Thames street to a chimney fire at the residence of Frank A. Bill.

BROADWAY TABERNACLE PASTOR SHOWN TO LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

Even the things which we cannot realize are possible with God, said Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D. D., LL. D., of New York, in his address on the text, "With God all things are possible," delivered Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church.

Although the night was one of the coldest Norwich has experienced this winter the church was filled and the people listened eagerly for the message brought to them by Rev. Dr. Jefferson, pastor of Broadway Tabernacle, New York, one of the great men in the ministry of America. The address was first of a series of six to be delivered at the Central Baptist church this week, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, through a fund provided by the late Miss Louise Sturtevant, who desired that once a year the Y. M. C. A. bring to Norwich a notable speaker to arouse religious activities in the city.

The sermon of Rev. Dr. Jefferson in part was as follows:

In the Bible is that wonderful message, "With God all things are possible." Many have heard it, have read it or have seen it, but it has never stirred up within them the thought of what it really means. It has never swept them on to any revolutionary action, yet it was one of the greatest sayings of Christ. We have read it and have been left cold, because we have never understood just what it means.

What does it mean? If it means that God is omnipotent, then it is only commonplace for we know that God can do everything. But to me it doesn't mean that God is taking the credit, it means that he is talking to man, a certain man as you will remember. The disciples were shocked when Christ uttered those words to the man who, he had said, could never enter the kingdom of heaven. When he spoke those words. With God all things are possible, he was speaking of the mightiness of man, who by linking up, taking the hand of God, could accomplish anything.

Is this so? I can think of many things that a man cannot do even though he follows God. He cannot jump off the Woolworth building and stop in the air half way down and wait for friends to provide something soft to land upon. No, this isn't what God means. These ideas are silly ideas of man, one of the many foolish things we think of and know are impossible. God is incarnate wisdom, he can't think of foolish or silly things. When he says that "with God all things are possible," he doesn't mean foolish things, he uses his wisdom, and means all things that are reasonable, desirable, and, according to the divine plan. This is a scientific statement of all things that ought to be things that are rational coming from the divine mind of man linked with God.

To a child all things are possible; that's why they ask so many questions that to us seem unreasonable. The child takes everything for granted. A child assumes that the grownup knows everything or can find the answer for his question. Every child thinks we speak the truth, he knows we can do so, and that we are good. You don't find a child delighting in reading of murders, divorces, or such trash. The child mind wants books of imagination, he wants the story of the bean stalk that grows to heaven. In child books animals talk they should talk, and the child knows they can talk. Magical things can happen according to children and they like the authors who tell of magical happenings. Every child is with Alice in Wonderland, that's where a child lives. Blessed is the child heart that believes all things possible.

After the child age comes the golden age, from 15 to 25 years. Find a man fifty or seventy years and what is he thinking of? The days of youth, 15 to 25, the golden age. The days of the age when most things are possible, a dozen roads face him and he can choose any of them. A dozen doors are open to him, and there are a dozen life tasks ahead. That is the pain of the golden age, the difficulty of choosing the road, door and task.

By and by the roads get fewer, there are less doors, and less tasks and as a man passes thirty and then forty, the doors that once were open are closed forever, and there are tasks he cannot do.

Life is a silken curtain for the child, the wind blows and it opens to show more beauty. Later it is like the roof of soft clay, where we can leave our impression. Later in life it hardens and becomes sort of a prison, there is little distance to move, that's the way life comes out at last.

That's why we tire so easily. There are few doors, few paths, and few tasks for us. Soon the time comes when there is only one for each of us and then comes Christianity, and says, "Ye must be born again." You must become a child again to enter the kingdom of heaven, you must go back to the days of imagination, the days of the many doors, paths, and tasks, where you were free.

If you don't like things about your home, you can change them, things in your town or church may not suit you and you change them. You yourself become disgusted with yourself, hate yourself, and you can by trying change yourself. All things are possible when linked with God.

Never before has the world seen so many despondent people as now. The outlook today is certainly worse than it was last year, and last year the outlook was blacker than in the year before, and that year than the year previous. People can't bring themselves to believe in anything. You tell them the truth and they look at you with eyes of doubt. How many people are there that believe that wars will be done away with. You hear men on all sides saying that men have always fought and always will fight. Christians say that too, and they have no right to be called Christians for saying so. They may have been baptised, may partake of the bread and wine, but that doesn't count if they are unbelievers. They have yet to be born again. Do you believe that a man can be born again? Christ taught that and sent his followers out to all lands to proclaim that fact. No matter what the past of a man may have been he can be saved, the savage that dringa the blood of his victim from the skull of another victim can be born again.

Where the heart is filled with love no evil can last forever. War in all its devilry must some day meet the heart's tenderness and sympathy, prevailing in the human race and then, war must go. War will go when we believe it will go, but first we must raise a generation of men who believe in God.

Before the world war we were taught that the day of sacrifices had passed. The war taught us this was not so. Thousands of sacrifices were made on foreign fields by men who wanted to crush out a great evil. Old women knitted for boys 3000 miles away, whom they had never seen, a sacrifice. Mothers sacrificed their sons. All fathers and mothers are filled with sacrifice and through them the fountains can never run dry, their children must have it.

If we can harness that spirit of sacrifice to the chariot of peace that is now given readily to the God of Mars, peace would come. The spirit of sacrifice for ages has always been given to the God of Mars. When men have been asked to go to the fields of blood to fight evil. They have willingly answered, yes. The God of Mars has demanded this sacrifice, and men have learned to follow the call.

The God of Peace has never demanded such sacrifice, but there is a need now and if men would answer that call for sacrifice for peace, then peace shall come.

All sorts of people bind themselves into one bundle for common strength. Nations group together for aid. Whoever expected to see the soldiers of France lined up with the soldiers of England fighting for a common cause. If 100 years ago people had said this would be done, everyone would have doubted it. But we saw English fighters under the direction of a French commander. America, that had been taught to keep away from entangling alliances, went in. What are entangling alliances when a country sees its duty? Those two great things came from the war but there is a third. A nation worshipping a deity not recognized by Christian nations, lined up with non-believers in the fight against wrong.

Can we count on non-believers to fight with us against wrong? I say yes, they will fight for right every time, you can count on them to come in on the side of right. We are getting the same thing in the days of peace. Our religions are coming closer and closer together and some day all will be one, fighting for right. We doubt it, but must say to our cynical friends, be still, with God all things are possible. Isaiah's great saying is to come true, nations will learn war no more.

It was Thomas Carlyle who said that belief can change a nature, that if you had the belief you could change your nature, drop off those habits that are civil.

There are many Christians who have no fire in them. When they were born again the light was placed on their forehead and a song in their heart, they are filled with enthusiasm. Many, however, never talk religion because they are not enthusiastic. You do not follow Christ unless you are enthusiastic, for he taught religion and you could if you wanted to.

Then therefore there are three things this lesson teaches us and they are the following: First, that you all can do more than you are doing, second, that you can do more than you think you can do; third, that you can do more than you or anybody else in this whole world could measure or conceive of. By putting your hand in the hand of your Heavenly Father you can walk over everything that may seem unbelievable.

Previous to the inspiring sermon of Rev. Dr. Jefferson there was singing and Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the church, led in prayer. The welcoming address was by James F. Macpherson, president of the Y. M. C. A., who explained how it was possible to secure Rev. Dr. Jefferson for Norwich, and what a pleasure it was for the Y. M. C. A. to have such a man honor the association by his presence in Norwich for six evenings. By agreement it was announced that only two collections would be taken during the week, one Sunday night, the second on Friday, the closing night, the collection to be placed back in the fund for bringing other notable speakers to Norwich in future years.

Rev. Dr. Jefferson was met at New London Sunday afternon and brought to this city by automobile by President Macpherson and General Secretary Edwin Hill of the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Charles W. Gale courteously tendered her car for the trip from New London.

SENDS $50 CHECK WITH LETTER TO FIREMEN

Chief Howard L. Stanton has received from Arthur H. Brewer of 57 Broad street a grateful letter of appreciation for the work the firemen did in putting out a chimney fire at his home last Friday afternoon. Mr. Brewer accompanied his letter with a tangible and substantial expression of his gratitude in the shape of a $50 check which will be added to the firemen's pension fund.

CHIEF STANTON SPEAKS TO SOUTH MANCHESTER FIREMEN

Chief Howard L. Stanton was a guest Saturday evening at the annual banquet of the South Manchester Hook and Ladder company and spoke upon the topic Fire Fighting, having first place on the program after the introduction by Toastmaster Fred Van Ness. The other speaker was Capt. Harry Haynes upon Jungle Adventures in India.

Ten Don'ts to Prevent Fires.

One of the practical fire prevention measures furthered by the banquet was the distribution of printed cards bearing the following Ten Don'ts to Prevent Fires:

1—Don't fail to insist that your electrical inspector secures a permit and inspection for any new electrical wiring. You help to pay the salaries of the inspectors. Why not have something to show for your money?

2—Don't use pennies for fuses. There used to be a practice of hanging a monkey wrench on the safety valve. This has become unfashionable.

3—Don't use or handle electrical appliances such as a vibrator, heaters, etc., while sitting or standing in the bathtub. It is unwise to smoke or use fire near open gasoline tanks or fumes.

4—Don't leave the electric flatiron connected to the circuit and go to use the telephone, visit with the neighbors or to call at the grocery. It costs $100 for the fire department to make a run, even for a smoking ironing board.

5—Don't use paper shades or other inflammable material or decorations about electric lamps.

6—Don't use lamp cord wiring in your homes. It is unsightly and unsafe. The underwriters' committee, which recently made a survey of a city, stated that 40 per cent. of the so-called electric fires originated from defective cords.

7—Don't permit the "handy man" or the incompetent workman to do your wiring. There are some electrical contractors in the town, with the best of competent wiremen that have operated in Manchester during the past five years.

8—Don't forget at any time that good competent workmanship and first class materials used in the installation of electrical wiring make the best and safest job of work.

9—Don't overlook the fact that your electrical contractor is perfectly willing and glad to furnish service and be called upon for suggestions for your wiring job. Some of them may prove useful.

STEAMER CAPE COD RAN AGROUND AND FLOATED EASY

Steamer Cape Cod of the Thames River line added a touch of excitement to the city Saturday by running aground in the harbor a few hundred feet from her dock and freeing herself in the ice overnight. She did not get loose and reach her dock here until Sunday morning about 11 o'clock, after her companion steamer, the John M. Worth, had ordered and broken the ice around the ice bound boat.

Under command of Capt. Charles Pettigrew the steamer left New London for Norwich about 7 o'clock Saturday morning. She had a good load of freight and was making good 15 feet. It was 5 in the afternoon before the steamer finally received this harbor. It was a continuous programme of backing up and ramming ice all the way up the river, making an unusually slow trip. The struggle with the ice cost the boat an her copper sheathing on both sides of the bow and the sharp cakes even cut into the wood of the hull.

The ice in the channel was about 6 or 7 inches thick and double that along the sides of the channel where it had not been previously broken by the passage of the Cape Cod of the Worth.

When the Cape Cod stuck fast her crew was able to walk ashore over the ice in the harbor.

The Worth proved a much better ice breaker than the Cape Cod and had no difficulty in plowing around through the ice in any part of the harbor. After this boat had helped liberate the Cape Cod, both made fast to the dock and were unloaded. The Cape Cod was re-loaded with freight for New York and left her dock at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, expecting to get down the river before dawn. She had a hard struggle to get turned around in order to head down the river and stuck fast once or twice before she finally worked loose and started for the mouth of the river at the end of an hour of effort to get turned around.

HOLY CROSS PROFESSOR PREACHES LENTEN SERMON

Rev. John Pyne, professor of psychology at Holy Cross college, preached the first evening Lenten sermon Sunday at St. Patrick's church, holding the close attention of a large congregation as he spoke upon Temptation, from the three temptations which the devil offered to Jesus.

The lesson from the first, the preacher said, where the devil invited Jesus to show his power by making bread from stones, was that man should not be led aside to ignoble things but should choose the higher good. When Jesus was invited to cast himself from the pinnacle of the temple, he was tempted to the sin of presumption, thinking they can do things and escape danger where others have fallen. Don't court danger, don't court temptation, don't fall into the sin of presumption. The third temptation, when Jesus was offered the wealth of the world, comes to us in the form of the offer of all material things, if we will bend the knee to Satan. We may feel that it does not matter what we do, that no one cares, that it concerns only ourselves, but angels came and ministered to Jesus when he had resisted this temptation, and they are watching over us to see if we can withstand. They are ready to encourage us, they are hoping we will do the right, and they will minister to us when we conquer this temptation of the devil.

The service closed with vespers, which were sung by Rev. Rocco Guerrito.

A musical service which had been planned for had to be given up because of the organ being out of order.

AFTER NORWICH MAN AND PLAINFIELD GIRL

Duped by her husband, Benjamin Saunders, formerly employed here by the Central Vermont railroad, into assisting him into an elopement with Miss Ethel Mildred Borden of Plainfield, the late Mrs. Johanna Mildred Beswick Saunders, daughter of Mrs. Beswick of 24 North Thames street, told a story before her death about a month ago in this city, that has sent the police of the United States and Canada on a search for Saunders and the Borden girl. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Borden of Plainfield.

The search has been on for 18 months ever since Saunders and the Borden girl disappeared from Montreal where the three had been living together ever since September 1921. No trace of the fugitives has been discovered.

According to the story told by Mrs. Saunders, she and her husband in an automobile arrived at the Baltic

HOW TO PUT A "KICK" IN IT

—A tip for "wets" and "drys!"

We are all liable to feel "out of sorts" at times—need something with a "kick" in it to clear the brain, brighten the eye, put "pep" in the system.

Best way to do this is to take—with, or without, a "chaser"—that harmless yet thoroughly efficient family medicine, Beecham's Pills.

"Two for adults and one for children" is the phrase of health that has meant good digestion and a clear system to countless healthy, happy people the world over for the past 80 years.

NORWICH WAS GASLESS CITY SUNDAY MORNING

Norwich was a gasless city for most of Sunday morning, and families that used gas stoves had to adopt all sorts of expedients in order to get breakfast or start the dinner cooking. By 1 o'clock the gas was turned on again from the city gas plant and thereafter there was no more trouble.

The gas was cut off from the entire city about 7.30 when the main supply line from the storage tank at the North Main street works became so clogged up that the 20-inch pipe wouldn't deliver enough gas any longer to keep the city supplied. The extreme cold weather with condensation of tar in the pipe was to blame for the stoppage.

As soon as the stoppage was discovered, the gas was switched on through another line, but as the supply had then been cut off for some time, General Manager C. W. Taggart did not consider it safe to restore the gas without due notice to all parts of the city that could be reached. He at once got out about 20 men to circulate through the city and notify householders that the gas would be turned on again at 1 p. m.

Many families that used gas stoves did as one housekeeper managed with her dinner. The roast was sent out to a neighbor's kitchen range, the vegetables were cooked on a kerosene heater that was helping out in the front hall, and the coffee percolator was sent on the electric grill.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

[illegible] much that was reminiscent of the old days Saturday when horsemen from far and near gathered at John Floodis place on Furnace street to attend a "hoss" sale. It has become something of an institution in eastern Connecticut. John, a master of hoss talk, is honest to goodness facts when he gets down to brass tacks. He has to toss a line of conversation as one would find among horsemen between the Atlantic seaboard and what they used to call the Texas Panhandle and the horsemen trust him. So they came out Saturday and bought in out of a lot of 47 horses as they ran before the auctioneers' block where J. Carl Witter and his brother N. A. Witter of Providence, presided. It was the first horse sale of the pre-spring season, and makes a bale of courage to get that down to a period when zero seems to be a too weather mark and ten below just a fair average temperature.

John was around the place peppering up the horses and handing out a line of talk that would win him a million a week in Wall street. The horses at the sale were representative of every section of eastern Connecticut and of places in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. It really was an important sale and proved to be a very successful one.

Reserve your seats today for musical comedy, Miss Bob White Orpheum, tomorrow and Wednesday evening.—adv.

Snatched out of the path of a trolley car under which he appeared about to be a victim an Attawaugan man showed small consideration for his rescuer in Main street just after 5 o'clock Saturday evening, nor was he any more gracious to one who volunteered to aid him in conducting what looked to be a very important suit case to a place of safety and seclusion. He loudly proclaimed that he had money—and it was evident that wasn't all—and that he was perfectly competent to navigate his own course. He did listen to persuasion, however and eventually was bundled into a public service car, meanwhile carefully attached to his suit case, and started northward. It so happened that he escaped the vigilance of the police.

Though Postmaster Raymond Allen, Assistant Postmaster Earl E. Crowlow and several clerks and carriers from the Danielson postoffice will be in Hartford Wednesday there will be no interruption of service at the postoffice. The city carriers will make the usual morning delivery and the rural routes will be covered by a substitute carrier. In addition to the postmaster and the assistant there who will go to Hartford are clerk Bernard F. Casey, Rural Carrier Arthur W. Lowe and City Carriers Harold Greene, Frank Young and Marvin Rice. They are to attend a conference of postal workers to be addressed by Postmaster General Hubert Work and the first assistant postmaster general, and practically every postoffice of first and second class and many of the smaller offices of Connecticut will be represented.

The only restriction in service at the postoffice will be in the money order department, which will be open for business only from 7 to 9 a. m. Postmaster Allen asks the co-operation of the public in making possible as good service as possible in order that the postal men may have an opportunity to attend the important conference.

On Thursday Washington's birthday, the postoffice will be open only as a holiday schedule and will close at 10:30 a. m. for the day, although the lobby will remain open. The rural service will be suspended on Thursday.

Under the storm of winter particulars in this territory are getting itchy. Some people riding along the new highway toward South Killingly saw a bear in the brush beside the road. One was in a small tree the other standing on the snow. When the driver stopped the car the pair ridge on the ground picked up his axes or whatever immediate implements of ledges have for ears and strutted toward the machine. This included the driver who threw a piece of frozen snow at the imagined bear. Whereupon the bird showed fight, ruffled up his tail feathers into a formidable spread and ruffled the feathers about his neck until he had the look of a draper wearing a summer fur.

Aman in a Cadillac came along and said he might shoot the partridge. This made the partridge immediately angry and he made some long right back at the man, but no one in the crowd quite got what it was—apparently in some ornithological language. At this the other partridge lost its nerve and flew out of sight, rather chunky of snow covered at the militant partridge were readily ducked and met with an advance toward the ear Whereupon he ground lost its nerve and clambered back in the sedan and pulled down the curtains. In a hard winter like this one never can tell what a fighting partridge may do and safety seemed better than valor. But it is strange how a bird will or will not make a fuss.

Saturday at his home in the Horse Hill district, funeral services for Edward [illegible] were conducted by Rev. [illegible] pastor of the Pentecostal church. A ladies' quartet composed of members of the Pentecostal church sang at the services. The body was placed in the receiving tomb at Westfield cemetery. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements. The bearers were Raymond Hammond, George Miner, Julius Rauneville and Harry O. Ware.

Robert Stott, 59, is dead at his home in Attawaugan. Mr. Stott, a native of England, has been a resident of Attawaugan for several years. He is survived by two daughters. Mrs. Stott died about ten years ago. The body is to be taken to Fall River for burial.

PUTNAM

The annual city meeting will be held the first Monday in March in the municipal building. So far as at present appears no special appropriations are to be asked for by the common council which is soon to meet to make up the annual city budget. During the past year there have been extraordinary expenses in the purchase of a motor driven hook and ladder truck and special appropriations for sewer, extensions and sidewalks and curbings. The appropriation for the sprinkling of streets comes up at a special city meeting at a later date. The heavy snow fall of the winter will cost the city at least a thousand dollars.

State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatrick spent the week-end with Mrs. Gilpatrick in New York city.

An effort is being made to organize a Rotary club in Putnam. Judge Frank Foss of the Willimantic city court was in Putnam Thursday discussing the possibilities of a club here. Judge Foss is an enthusiastic member of the club in home city.

Attorney Charles L. Torrey, secretary of the town school committee, has charge of the new manual of physical education for elementary grades in the public schools. In 1921 the general assembly passed a law providing for instruction in physical education and health in all grades exclusive of the kindergarten. The manual was compiled as a course of study in compliance with this law and no expensive apparatus or highly trained special directors are necessary. The courses outlined include formal exercises, marching, gymnastics, postural education, playful or recreational activities, story plays and mimic exercises, games, singing games, folk dances and rythmatic steps, athletics, stunts and contests, water sports and winter activities. It is understood that two and a half hours a week will be required for the new educational branch and it may possibly mean making the school day a bit longer. The subject will come up for discussion at a meeting of the school board this (Monday) evening.

Saturday afternoon and evening saw a pretty and vivacious scene at Odd Fellows' hall on Pomfret street when people in all walks of life in Putnam and surrounding towns gathered for the annual valentine tea under the auspices of the woman's board of the hospital. Money was spent freely at the attractive booths and a good sum was realized by the board to be used for hospital purposes. The annual event is held at this time of year in commemoration of the birthday of the late Day Kimball to whom the hospital is a memorial as he was born on St. Valentine's day. The younger set enjoyed dancing in the evening, music being furnished by Sammy Walsh's orchestra of Providence. Mr. Walsh is a former Putnam boy and was greeted by many old friends.

The schooner Natalie, missing since January 22nd and believed to have been sank with all hands on board, was captained by Patrick J. Kelly. Mr. Kelly was a brother of Miles W. Kelly, compositor in the Putnam newspaper office. Mr. Kelly had not seen his brother in some years.

Mrs. Robert Farley Clark of Boston has sent a check for $50 to be added to the fund to build a nurses' home at the Day Kimball hospital. The fund has reached a total of $4,-455. It is estimated that to complete the work as desired $10,000 will be needed.

One of the recent civil actions returned in the superior court is one of George M. Richie vs. Charles C. Brown, both of Ashford. The plaintiff seeks to recover $75 a ton for five tons of hay which he claims the defendant refused to deliver to him when he demanded it as his property.

Ex-Mayor Judge Lucius H. Fuller, the past week concluded 35 years continuous business in Putnam. Judge Fuller has been a prominent citizen of Putnam for half a century and has been identified with many public movements to better the city.

With its treasury replete by the recent campaign for funds the Putnam Country Club is considering plans for next season. Among the matters under advisement is taking over the property now used for club purposes and possibly adding to it by the purchase of a contiguous tract of land to the south on which is a house which has been occupied by the caretaker. It is also possible that a sun parlor will be added to the club house. The recent campaign not only brought in about five thousand dollars in money but served to bring the beneficial pleasures to be derived from membership in the club before the public and it is believed that this will be evidenced by an enhanced membership this season. The club year begins the first of May.

Funeral services for Mrs. Alexander Varbedian, who died at the Day Kimball hospital Friday afternoon, leaving a husband and seven small children, all girls, was held from the home on Walnut street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A sister of Mrs. Varbedian, recently arrived in this country from Armenia, had been in Putnam but a short time visiting Mrs. Tripp. Miss Tripp, Miss Mendell, Mrs. Darrow, Mrs. Paine, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Thayer.

A pleasure musical program followed: Little Poppoose, Sherwood, The Cars Are Flashing Lightly, Gendel D. A. R. quartette: Etude No. 2, Burgmuller, A Little Love Song, Mathews, Emily Pike: Minuet in G, Beethoven, Margaret Burton; Little Boy Blue, Florence Joyce: Thank God for a Garden, Theresa Del Riego, My Sweetheart, W. H. Lewis, Miss Helen Bowman: Prelude, Rachmaninoff, Berceuse, Ljunsky, Janet Paine.

The hostesses served cake, salted nuts and tea.

At her home in the Mechanicsville district, Mrs. Bridget Skivington, wife of Marcin Skivington, died at midnight Friday. She was a native of Ireland, but had lived the greater part of her life in this country and before coming to this town 27 years ago was a resident of the town of Canterbury. Mrs. Skivington fell a few weeks ago and broke her leg, an injury that was largely contributory to her death. She leaves her husband, a daughter, Miss Annie Skivington and two sons, John of Providence and Michael of this town. Mrs. Skivington was a member of St. James' parish.

Mrs. Varbedian, whom she had not seen in 15 years.

Preceding the adjourned town meeting for the purpose of laying a tax, there will be a special meeting on petition of voters in the town of Thompson next Friday afternoon, to discuss the matter of clearing the highways of snow and to see if the town will appropriate $500 to purchase a strip of land to enlarge the playground at the schoolhouse in district 16, North Grosvenordale. There has been considerable criticism by farmers on side roads that the snow has not been properly removed to allow them to get to the trunk highways in automobiles.

The town has an appropriation of only $100 for the work and the selectmen have sent plows over the roads and opened the roads to horse drawn vehicles. The winter has been unusually severe in the matter of snow fall, much and often, and perhaps a similar situation will not exist again in some years but nevertheless the people interested want to be ready for what may come and do not want repetition of this winter's conditions.

Lively argument is expected when the matter is brought before the meeting, those living in the outlying districts claiming that as taxpayers they are entitled to every consideration while the opposition will point to the large expense that scraping all roads will entail.

Samuel Diamond has returned from a three weeks' visit in New York.

Mrs. A. D. McIntyre and daughter, Jane, Grove street, spent the week-end in Boston with Mrs. McIntyre's son, Allen McIntyre.

Over 400 shares in the 15th series of the Putnam Building and Loan Association have been subscribed for. This is over twice as many as were sold during the sale of the 14th series.

Physicians report that there is much illness in the city. Grip and grip colds predominate with some cases of pneumonia.

Miss Isabelle Byrne, superintendent of the Cloane Maternity hospital, New York, is convalescing from a recent illness at the home of her mother, Seward street.

Mrs. Clara Williams, Tayers street, is visiting her daughter, Miss Bernice Williams Cambridge Mass.

A. D. McIntyre, Grove street, left last week for a business trip that will take him through the Virginias.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Babbitt have gone to Miami, Fla., where Mr. Babbitt will engage in business.

One of the prettiest bridge whists of the winter season was given by Mrs. W. H. Mansfield, Friday afternoon, at her home on Grove street. Five tables were in play. The first prize, a gold pencil, went to Mrs. E. H. Snow; the second, an ivory toothbrush holder, to Mrs. K. T. Phillips and the consolation prize, a nigger head, from what looked like a fortune pretrading but proved to be a tape measure, went to Mrs. G. W. Gilpatrie. A luncheon was served at tables decorated with carnations and narcissus. The favors at each place were handmade roses. To suggest St. Valentine's day just past red hearts adorned the top of each individual plate of salad.

T. B. Rhodes of Thompson is in Kearnsburg, N. J., where he was called by the death of his sister Mrs. Anna Rhodes Brown. Mrs. Brown is well remembered by the older citizens of Thompson as she lived there years ago.

Putnam merchants have organized a new feature to draw business. Saturday, March 24th, will be observed as Spring Opening Day. All stores will hold annual spring openings simultaneously and will have complete displays of new spring merchandise. To lend zest to the event there will be a contest among the business houses to see which in its line can arrange the prettiest and most complete displays.

Curtains of show windows will remain drawn until a certain hour when all will be dropped simultaneously. Judges, to be selected, will then go about selecting the most attractive two displays in each line and will award a blue ribbon as first and a red ribbon as second prize. The Spring Opening Day is something entirely new and unique in Putnam and is sponsored by the merchants' committee of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce.

Aldesman Eugene Dumas, while on the way home, Friday evening, saw a man lying up against a fence on Providence street. The man was without an overcoat and was nearly weak with cold. The alderman took the man to the police station and after being questioned by Sergeant Laird he said that he had been working on the piece of sewer construction that the city has under way and that he was hurt while at work. He said his name was John Buckley and that his home was in Boston.

Saturday morning closer questioning of the man, who had somewhat recovered, developed that he was not hurt while on the job but that he had fallen while on the way to work. He had walked down the track of the New Haven railroad and when he fell his back struck the rail. It was learned that he had worked in Thompson and had a little money coming to him. Captain of Police Renie Delage, got in touch with the man who owed the money and he came to Putnam Saturday noon and paid it over. He said that Buckley was a good worker and was a sober man. The amount of money collected Buckley to pay his own fare home to Boston.

WESTERLY

Mrs. Sardinia L. Crandall, wife of Ira B. Crandall, died at her home on Grove avenue early Sunday morning after a lingering illness. She was nearing her 77th birthday.

Mrs. Crandall was the daughter of Stillman Hall and Lydia Wells Hall, being born in Little Genesee, N. Y. She was married to Ira B. Crandall April 27, 1870, and shortly after her marriage came with her husband to Westerly where the couple have resided since. Mrs. Crandall was a member of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church, the Ladies' Aid society of the church, and also a member of the Monday club.

Dr. John Champlin of Westerly was Friday elected a member of the Penal and Charitable board of Rhode Island, this name was put up by Senator Dutson of Westerly and Senator McGrane of Providence nominated Thomas V. Clancy also of Westerly as a member of the board. Dr. Champlin defeated Mr. Clancy by a vote of 13 to 12. With the investigation of conditions at Howard which are to be taken up in the near future it is expected that the members of the board will have more work on their hands than ever before.

A large crowd of Westerly people gathered in front the Rhode Island hotel, Saturday at 5:45, to watch George Polley, "the Human Fly," climb up the side of the fifty-story building. Many were thrilled by his daring. He came here as a guest of the Merrill Post, No. 18, American Legion.

The Westerly Light and Power Company have announced that they are to employ an expert to make a test of the wiring in all the houses and business blocks that are using power from this company and the Mystic company. Elmer R. Sherman has been engaged by the Westerly company to do the work. All new work will be inspected and the old work repaired where in the opinion of the expert it has become unfit for use.

William B. Livingston of West Broad street has reported to the police of the West Side that his house was entered by robbers late Saturday night. He noticed the break after his return home from town. Entrance was made to the house through a dining room window where a plate of glass had been broken and removed. Nearly all of the house had been apparently ransacked by the intruders in their effort at plunder.

Rev. Daniel Sullivan, S. M., of the church of the Immaculate Conception of High street has taken the place of Rev. Fr. Bartley of Narragansett Pier for a few days.

Michael F. Foley, son of Jeremiah Foley of Chester avenue, died last week in Elizabeth, N. J., at the age of 38 years. Mr. Foley was formerly employed on the street cars in Westerly, as a conductor, and also worked on the Norwich and Central Village line.

Announcement was made Sunday morning by Rev. Thomas Larkin, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, that within two weeks there will be a committee from the National Catholic Civic club to meet the men of the parish for the purpose of organizing the men of this parish into a body to affiliate with the National Catholic Welfare organization. There will also be a reorganization of the St. Vincent De Paul society by representatives of that body from Providence.

Merle Doughty, Jr., young son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Doughty of Mechanic street, was severely injured and narrowly escaped death Saturday afternoon when the sled on which he was sliding collided with an automobile owned and driven by Harry Bricker of the West Side. Mr. Bricker, who was driving his car down Mechanic street, was unable to see the boy coming down hill from a side street and the accident is said to have been unavoidable.

Charles Mudge, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mudge of High street, who has been serving in the 63d Service Squadron, A. S., U. S. A., located at France field, Panama, is visiting at the home of his parents. He expects to receive his discharge from the service April 1st.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"Dangerous Age" Has Married Life Theme—Now Playing at the Strand.

"The Dangerous Age," produced by John M. Stahl for First National release, will be today's attraction at the Strand theatre. Based on absorbing story by Frances Irene Reels, it is declared to be an exceptionally thrilling photoplay and contains a theme that has a universal appeal. No expense or effort has been spared in the filming to make it an offering of distinctly high calibre.

The picture has a splendid cast, comprising Lewis S. Stone, Ruth Clifford, Edith Roberts, Myrtle Stedman, Richard Tucker, Helen Lynch, James Morrison, Cleo Madison, Lincoln Stedman, Edward Burns and the exotic "Dellorica."

The cast can be termed "all-star" in the fullest sense of the phrase, for its members are acknowledged to be among the best players in the field of the motion picture. Each has been selected because of his or her peculiar fitness for the role, and all have a considerable following among the millions of motion picture fans in the country.

Mr. Stahl, determined to make this the best of all his pictures to date, spent several months in the actual filming and a considerable period of time editing and cutting the negative. The result is one of the most captivating screen offerings in the history of the silent drama.

This is Mr. Stahl's fifth production since he assayed production under his own name, for the Louis B. Mayer enterprises.

"The Dangerous Age" will begin a three-day engagement at the Strand theatre starting today.

The short subjects include a Christie comedy called "In Dutch" and a Screen Graphic.

These pictures are full of practical helpful suggestions that an interested poultry raiser can put into practical use for his personal benefit. The electric incubator and its operation throughout the entire incubator period are shown—then you will have an opportunity to see how best to set a hen, nest her, feed her, and in general give her the care she requires in order to secure maximum results.

The exterior arrangements of the laying and breeding houses, sanitation and ventilation is another subject that is treated in an understandable and helpful way.

Some standard bred to perfection specimens of the popular breeds of fowl will also be shown and the amount of feed each bird consumes per year and what it should consist of. The cost of raising young chicks and producing a pound of grain which is of great importance at this time of the year and also interestingly shown.

"Miss Ivogun is a charming personality and she won her hearers with her lovely voice. The high tones are unusual."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mae Murray Great in "Jazzmania."

The latest Metro picture starring Mae Murray is by far the best that this unusual star has made. "Jazzmania" is its title and it won frequent outbursts of spontaneous applause at the Breed theatre yesterday, where it was shown for the first time yesterday. Miss Murray's most ardent admirers agreed that her new picture is superior in every way to "Broadway Rose," "Fascination," or "Peacock Alley," extraordinarily successful as these have been.

No one can possibly say of this photoplay that it follows the beaten track. It is one of the most original stories seen on the screen in a long time. Its originality lies in the fact that it combines many familiar situations in a novel manner. "Jazzmania" has the flavor of the best Mae Murray pictures in one; yet it is totally different from anything she has yet done.

The film is the contribution of Robert Z. Leonard, who presents and directed it, to the vogue of costume plays. The greater part of the action takes places in the tiny kingdom of Jazzmania, but it shifts to different parts of the world—to Paris, Monte Carlo and New York. In this manner the quaint customs of the inhabitants kingdom are contrasted with the modern civilization of the leading cities.

Miss Murray plays Queen Ninon, a pleasure-loving, piquant personality who escapes from her kingdom to avert a revolution and then returns to it when her people need her.

"Jazzmania" was written by Edmund Goulding and made by Tiffany Productions, Inc., of which M. H. Hoffman is general manager. Metro Pictures Corporation is exclusive distributor.

Rubarb Vaseline in "Mud and Sand" and the Pathe News make up the remainder of the bill.

Stellar Program at the Broadway Today.

A real banner program is scheduled for the Broadway theatre the first half of this week which includes five acts of B. F. Keith vaudeville and a special feature photoplay, "Rich Men's Wives."

The feature attraction on the vaudeville bill is The Warwick Lee Trio who offer a musical novelty; Ruge & Joe Rose call themselves Aerial Humorists for they have a laugh in every move they make; Eddie & Earle appear in a whirl of variety dances; Harry Watkins calls his offering not an act but an event in vaudeville, offering ten minutes of Grotesque Conversation; Herton & Bonnie Gaylord & Co., appear in a fine comedy called Two Corking Girls.

"Rich Men's Wives," the new Preferred Picture, made under the direction of Gasnier, now playing at the Broadway theatre, is a study in marital contentment, insofar as the average wife is concerned. To the woman who married a man of wealth it will prove to be a reflection of her own daily existence.

To theatre-goers in general "Rich Men's Wives" will provide enjoyable entertainment that is out of the ordinary run of things and will reveal some of the best acting the screen has known, contributed by such favorites as House Peters, Claire Windsor, Baby Richard Headrick, Gaston Glass, Rosemary Theby, Myrtle Stedman, Mildred June, Charles Clary, William Austin, Martha Mattox, Carol Holloway and others.

Gasnier displayed all his well known technical skill in directing "Rich Men's Wives." Many of his scenes are marvels in screen reproduction, especially those that represent the actions of the swagger society set around whom the Frank Dazey-Agnes Christine Johnston story is written.

COLLEGE CONVOCATION

The presence at Convocation at Connecticut college on Tuesday of Dean Charles Reynolds Brown, Yale university on his subject, Abraham Lincoln, one of his notable lectures, should insure a keen sense of appreciation and a hearty response on the part of the public and friends of the college.

The committee regard themselves most fortunate in being able to place Dean Brown on the program, a favor sought from year to year.

In addition to his activities as dean of the Divinity school of Yale, he has functioned as special lecturer at several of our most prominent colleges including Cornell and Leland Stanford, Jr., universities; and is the author of several well-known books.

The public are invited to attend this lecture.

Many a man who wouldn't sell his vote has found a $2 bill that was lost by the wise candidate.

STATE HOSPITAL FINANCIAL NEEDS BEGINS SERIES OF MEETINGS

The members of the legislative committee on appropriations were at the Norwich State Hospital on Saturday for the purpose of inspection and consultation with the trustees of the institution.

Leaving New London after breakfast at the Mohican, they visited the Oral School for the deaf and dumb at Mystic for the same purpose and boarded Norwich soon after eleven o'clock, where they were met by the trustees, Costello Lippitt, president of the board, Henry H. Gallup, Dr. James J. Donahue, Judge Arthur F. Libby, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Treasurer and Doctor Franklin S. Wilcox, superintendent.

The visiting committee consisted of Senator Ernest A. Rogers, chairman, of New London, House Chairman Luther M. Keith, of Putnam, Representatives Pierpont of Ridgefield, Brackett of Willington, Allyn of Waterford, Tyler of Middlebury, Shepherd of Portland and Mrs. Vinton of Mansfield. With them were Theodore C. Waldo, secretary of the committee and Miss Squires, stenographer. Lieut. Governor Bingham, Speaker L. J. Nickerson of the house and John M. Wadhams, chairman of the state board of finance.

An executive session was held at which the requests for additions, alterations and repairs were discussed and by which the committee was enabled to obtain a clear and comprehensive knowledge of the conditions. At its close a personal tour of the building was conducted by Supt. Wilcox was made. The committee was taken to the refrigerating plant which Dr. Wilcox explained has outgrown its capacity. The machinery is old and about worn out, some of it being second hand when installed.

With the increase of buildings and patients that are being cared for, now numbering 1,720, an increase of eighty-six since July 1, 1922, and with fifteen hundred quarts of milk to pasterise and cool each day, and to protect the supplies, it was absolutely necessary that the plant should be renewed on an enlarged scale. The power plant was visited where the automatic stoking boiler was inspected with interest by all. It is desirable that some of the other boilers which are nearing the end of their usefulness should be replaced with new ones of this type. It was stated that by their use a great saving was made in the cost of labor and fuel, the saving paying big interest on the initial cost. The kitchen and other locations for which appropriations have been asked for were visited and their needs explained.

Lieutenant Governor Bingham showed interest, visiting many parts of the institution that the others did not, including the barns, piggery, root cellars and physicopatric wards. He gave close attention to the requests of the institution as explained by Dr. Wilcox and the trustees. After the inspection the party returned to the residence of the superintendent where they were entertained at a dinner by Doctor and Mrs. F. S. Wilcox, including the specially invited legislative guests of the committee, and Mrs. Martha C. Mitchell of Norwich, member of the state board of public welfare, and Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, of the Norwich Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

WELL KNOWN WILLIMANTIC PHYSICIAN DIES AT HARTFORD

Willimantic, Feb. 19 — Dr. John Weldon, one of Willimantic's oldest and most highly respected practitioners died Sunday morning at a Hartford hospital after a few days' illness with pneumonia. The deceased who was 64, is survived by one son, John Weldon Sr., two brothers, Thomas and Robert J., of South Manchester, and two sisters, Mrs. James [illegible] and Mrs. Catherine Donohue of Hartford.

The death of Dr. Weldon, who had a wide practice here will be regretted by many friends and patrons. He was the family physician for numerous families and most kind and helpful in his advice whether of a medical nature or domestic matters.

Dr. Weldon came to this city about [illegible] ago, [illegible] successful business in his offices in the European block at the corner of Main and Railroad streets. Later he married Mrs. Belle Skinner Smith and he opened offices in the Hanover block on Union street. He became the wooden block at 748 Main street and practiced his profession there for a number of years. A [illegible] after the death of his first wife, Dr. Weldon married Miss Annie Avery and to them was born one son, John, Jr. Upon the death of his second wife he married Mrs. Belle Waldon and at that time he went to Mount Vernon, N. Y., where he became attached to the Fordham university for a number of years, returning to practice in Mount Vernon and eventually returning to this city.

Some years ago he purchased a block at 748 Main street and his offices have been located there since that time. Dr. Weldon was the real founder of St. Joseph's hospital and it was through his efforts that the institution was opened. Besides being the owner of a number of large buildings, Dr. Weldon was for some time the junior member of the Tubridy-Weldon company at 148 Main street. Dr. Weldon was a member of the Willimantic, County and State Medical society. He was also a member of the Knights of Columbus. Before coming to this city Dr. Weldon was a surgeon for the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company.

The remains were brought to this city late Sunday. Funeral arrangements are not yet completed.

SAYS FALSE ACCUSATION DAMAGED HIM $30,000

Guiseppe Viola of New London has brought suit against Concetta Poretta, also of that city, for $30,000 for defamation of character and slander as the result of his arrest recently on an allegation by the defendant that he was the owner of a still discovered during a fire at 43 Belden street on Feb. 9. Viola in his complaint alleges that on Feb. 9 a fire was discovered burning in the attic room of the third floor of the property owned by Domenico Gillopiardi at 43 Belden street and leased by Mrs. Poretta, and that in the course of their duties the police discovered a still there. The defendant made accusation to Sergeant Hicks and Policeman Frank Filopena and Policeman Clyde Murphy that Viola was the owner, possessor and operator of the stills, in consequence of which he was arrested, presented in court, and was compelled to furnish a bond of $500 for appearance on Feb. 12. The plaintiff alleges that the accusations of the defendant were false and upon trial of the case Viola was discharged on the recommendation of the prosecuting attorney and a nolle entered in the case.

Viola claims that the defendant made the accusations from motives of malice; that there was no reasonable or probable cause for the prosecution; that he is a law-abiding citizen of the United States; that he is president of Christopher Columbus lodge, Sons of Italy, an Italian-American organization, and that he has occupied a position of esteem and respect in the estimation of his fellow citizens of all faiths and particularly in the esteem of Italian friends and acquaintances.

In connection with the accusations of the defendant, and the arrest, the plaintiff says that he has been held up to ridicule and contempt and that he has suffered from loss of sleep and impaired body and mind, requiring physician's care, and that he has been compelled to pay substantial moneys in conducting his defense.

FOUND INFANT'S BODY WEDGED IN ICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Stonington, Feb. 18 — George Keller, who went to the shipyard to see if everything was right at 5 o'clock Saturday night, noticed an infant's body wedged in the ice on the south side of the old railroad wharf in Stonington harbor. Dr. William H. Gray, medical examiner, was called and the body was removed to undertaking parlors. The baby was wrapped with old newspapers and tied with a cotton string. The sex could not be determined. Coroner Desmond of Norwich was notified and an autopsy is to be held today (Monday).

DECISIVE VOTE AGAINST FEDERAL EDUCATION DEPT.

Word has been received by the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, which is one of the fourteen hundred business organizations connected with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, that the referendum just taken by the National Chamber resulted in a decisive vote against the creation of a federal department of education.

Two other propositions likewise dealing with the question of extending the federal government's interest in education were included in the referendum. The three propositions submitted to the chamber's membership, and the vote on each follow:

Do you favor the creation of a federal department of education with a secretary in the president's cabinet? For: 447 1-2. Against: 1281 1-2. Opposed.

Do you favor enlarging the present federal bureau of education? For: 598. Against: 1069. No decision.

Do you favor the principle of federal aid to education in the states on the basis of the states appropriating sum equal to those given by the federal government?

For: 576 1-2. Against: 1103 1-2 Opposed.

Since the chamber can be committed only by a two-thirds majority of the votes cast, no decision was reached on the second proposition.

The three questions were submitted to a vote of the business organizations after the Chamber's committee on Education had made a long study of the Towner-Sterling bill and other proposals that have been placed before congress. Majority and minority reports were made by the committee.

The majority members of the committee opposed a new departure of education and federal aid, but they expressed their belief that the present federal bureau of education should be enlarged. The minority members advocated a new department of education. Together with federal aid as proposed in the Towner-Sterling measure. A separate memorandum was prepared by one member of the committee who differed in some respects from both majority and minority reports in that he opposed a federal department of education, but advocated federal aid for some purposes, such as removal of illiteracy and promotion of a more widespread understanding of the principles of the United States government.

The two reports and the separate memorandum were sent out to member organizations that those voting might have the opportunity to go thoroughly into all sides of the subject themselves. Those who signed the majority report were: James J. Storrow, banker, of Boston; Frank J. Loesch, lawyer of Chicago; John G. Lonsdale, banker, of St. Louis; Henry S. Pritchett, educator, of New York, and Henry D. Sharpe, manufacturer, of Providence, R. I. The minority report was signed by Thomas E. Finegan, superintendent of public instruction in Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Ira Couch Wood, director of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial Fund for Child Welfare, Chicago. The separate memorandum was prepared by R. Goodwyn Rhett, of Charleston, S. C.

ESSAY CONTEST PRIZE WINNER SENDS THANKS

The following acknowledgment has been received by the Chelsea Savings bank from the first prize winner in the prize essay contest, Miss Marion Browning, Norwich:

Chelsea Savings Bank, Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sirs: The announcement of the awarding of the Chelsea Savings Bank prize was more of a surprise to me than anyone else I think. Though I had written an essay, still I had not thought of really winning a prize.

While I am very much pleased to be the winner, I cannot help feeling sorry for the others who probably tried as hard as I did to win.

I thank very much those from whom this most unexpected gift came and wish them to know I appreciate it. It will always be greatly prized by me as well as a big incentive to start practicing real thrift.

Very truly yours,

MARION BROWNING

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach-sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like, 15c and 30c.

MAX HANOVER WORKING HARD FOR BOY SCOUTS

The Norwich Council, Boy Scouts of America, have been fortunate in having the cooperation of a new council member, Max Hanover. He has been of great assistance in the mail campaign and in publicity work especially in securing the placing of the large scout campaign sign on Main street.

Mr. Hanover is a man of boundless enthusiasm in all projects of helpful service, a man of great vision, and of capacity for hard work. The council and scout executive appreciate his good advice and counsel. His efforts have been [illegible] and he has aroused enthusiasm in others with whom he has come in contact.

MAX HANOVER.

One local supporter of the Boy Scout movement says:

"The time has arrived in America when all good men must put their shoulder to the wheel and push more especially so, during a period of retrogression, when the machine of society has as it were, 'slipped a cog.' This is a critical period in the history of the world and we may say it is due to the moral atmosphere following the world war, or what not. The situation, however, is hopeful and America is going to continue its steadfast stand for right living, training of youth and manhood, and produce in the generations to come a fine moral fibre that will do honor to the pioneers who made the republic possible.

"Leaders are needed now more than ever and Mr. Hanover is a man of that stamp."

TWO SONS CUT OFF IN NOYES CRANDALL WILL

Alleging unkind treatment, the late Noyes Billings Crandall of New London, cut off his sons, Lewis and Robert Crandall, with the sum of one dollar each. The estate is bequeathed to another son, John C. Crandall of West Mystic, and a daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Ross of Woodbury, N. J.

The will was offered for probate Saturday morning, Judge Arthur P. Anderson of Groton sitting in place of Judge Arthur B. Calkins, who has an office with Lewis Crandall. Attorneys William Belcher and Nathan Belcher appeared for Mrs. Ross, and Attorney Charles B. Waller for Lewis Crandall. Attorney Waller announced that the will would be contested on grounds that the testator was of unsound mind when he executed it.

Thirty days are allowed in which to appeal from the decision of Judge Anderson, who admitted the will. There was neither evidence or argument offered Saturday morning.

After providing for the payment of debts the testator sets aside the sum of $250, the income from which shall go toward the care of the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The personal belonging [illegible] furniture, jewelry, etc., are bequeathed to the daughter.

All the residue, both real and personal, is to be divided into halves, one-half to go outright to Mrs. Ross, the daughter.

From the second one-half the sum of $1,000 is given outright to the son, John C. Crandall, and the remainder of the one-half is to be kept intact and said son John to receive the income therefrom during his life. At his death the principal goes to the daughter.

The sixth clause in the will reads as follows: "I have not forgotten the fact that I have other children other than those heretofore mentioned, viz., Lewis Crandall and Robert Crandall, who had had of my property and estate all that I desire them to have and on account of the unkind and shameful treatment from them, I will bequeath to each of them the sum of one dollar, and I further order and direct that no child or children by adoption or otherwise or representative of my said sons, Lewis and Robert, receive any beneficial interest from my estate.

All inheritance tax or taxes to be taken from the principal. John C. Crandall and Mrs. Charlotte Ross are named as executors, and were confirmed by Judge Anderson.

FREEMAN IN FAVOR OF EARLIER CONGRESS DATE

Congressman Richard P. Freeman of this district and Congressman James P. Glynn of Winsted have expressed themselves as in favor of Senator Norris' proposed constitutional amendment to advance the meeting of congress to the first Monday in January instead of 11 months later, in December and the inauguration of the president to the third Monday in January instead of March 4.

Congressman Freeman says: "I look very favorably on the Norris amendment. I hope it can be passed at this session."

Congressman Glynn: "I think the change would be a good thing because it would make congress more responsive to the wishes of the people."

MURDERED IN CALIFORNIA, WAS KNOWN HERE

Earl Remington, 36, wealthy electrical engineer, murdered at his Los Angeles home early Friday, was well known to many people in this city. He was an old friend of Joseph's Hall family on Broad street, and was best man for Oscar Engelhardt at the latter's marriage to Mr. Hall's daughter, Miss Ethel, in this city a number of years ago. Mr. Remington's last visit to this city was in the fall of 1922.

He formerly resided in New York and when the family moved west Mr. Remington located in Los Angeles. His mother died about two months ago, and he leaves his wife and one sister. Mr. Remington was president of the Remington Safe Co., vice-president of the International Electric Protective association and had a wide reputation as a bank designer. He was also an expert aviator.

First reports by the Associated Press said that death was due to shotgun wounds, but later examination disclosed that there was a wound of a stiletto in the heart. A woman is being sought in connection with the murder which occurred in a wealthy residential section, where Mr. Remington made his home.

GARDNER LAKE ROAD HEARING WILL ATTRACT

On Wednesday of this week the committee on roads, rivers and bridges of the general assembly will hold a hearing at the capitol at Hartford on the bill introduced by Mrs. Rogers of Salem, making the old Essex turnpike from Norwich to the Connecticut river, a part of the highway trunk line system. This is a project that is of great importance to the people of this vicinity. Every one who has traveled this road to Gardners Lake knows the terrible condition of the road. This road if built will open the way to some of the most beautiful sections of Connecticut, including Gardners Lake where many residents of Norwich have summer cottages, and where there are large summer camps conducted by Y. M. C. association from New York and other [illegible] in this state.

It will also pass the state park established at the "Devils Hop Yard" which is visited by thousands of visitors every year. It it expected that a large number from Norwich as well as from the towns between here and Connecticut river will be present to advocate the passage of the bill.

In the city court Saturday morning a Polish resident was charged with making trouble in his home. He was given good advice, and was placed on probation for six months. He paid costs of $1 for an interpreter and the same amount for the services of the automobile that brought him to the cooler.

A man from Stafford Springs who had been drunk twice in as many days paid a fine with cost amounting to $18.50.

NORWICH DOLLAR DAY ATTRACTED BIG CROWDS

Despite the cold weather of Saturday the stores in the city holding Dollar Day reported a fine day's business. When prices are down and there are hundreds of bargains offered the buying public people cannot be kept at home by a little thing like cold weather. There was a good sized crowd of shoppers awaiting the opening of the stores and from the opening hours until time for closing at night the clerks were kept busy waiting on the trade and aiding in selecting the bargains, as advertised.

Practically all the stores had extra help for the day, and they needed them. Bargains were piled high on counteres, all plainly marked, to save time, and the people were quickly served. In many stores specials for the day only were quickly bought up and markdowns became necessary on many lines of tock, not at first included in the sale of the day.

POETRY

BLESSED BE HIS NAME.

I have a Friend, whose faithful love
Is more than all the world to me.
His higher than the heights above,
And deeper than the soundless sea;
So good, so pure,
So strong, so true,
Before the earth received its form,
He loved me—Blessed be His name!

He held the highest place above
Adored by all the sons of flame.
Yet, when His self-denying love
He laid aside His crown and came
To reign the poor,
And at the cost
Of heaven's rest, and earthly fame
He sought me—Blessed be His name!

It was a secret path He trod,
From every human soul apart
Known only to Himself and God
Was all the grief that filled His heart:
Yet from the track
He turned not back;
Thus, where I lay in want and shame
He found me—Blessed be His name.

Then dawned the last sad day of dread
When, desolate, yet undismayed,
With wearied frame and thorn-crowned head,
He bore (oh, sin did heritage!)
Went up for me
To Calvary,
And, dying there in grief and shame,
He saved me—Blessed be His name!

Here as I live, my song shall tell
The wonders of His matchless love
And when at last I rise and dwell
In the bright home prepared above
My joy shall be
His face to see,
And, bowing then with loud acclaim
I'll praise Him—Blessed be His Name!

COMMONS DECLINED TO ASK COOPERATION OF AMERICA

Proposal Was Rejected by Vote of 305 to 196—Lloyd George Championed Project to Have England and the United States Investigate Germany's Capacity to Meet Reparations Payments, With or Without League of Nations Action.

London, Feb 19—(By the associated press) The House of Commons tonight by a vote of 305 to 196 rejected the joint liberal amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne proposing an investigation by the League of Nations with America co-operation into Germany's capacity to pay reparations. The debate on the question was lifted above the ordinary by the brilliant speech of former premier Lloyd George, who revealed undiminished parliamentary energy.

Thus, through parliamentary etiquette, which regards an amendment to the address as a vote of censure against the government of the day, the house rejected a proposal which probably had the strong sympathy of the majority of its members, because a contrary vote would have meant the fall of the government.

LLOYD GEORGE SEEKS ASSISTANCE OF AMERICA

London, Feb. 19—(By the associated press)—Former premier Lloyd George tonight lifted to a high level the debate in the House of Commons on the joint liberal amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, calling for the appointment of a commission to pay to an investigation by the League of Nations, with American help and again bringing to the forefront the perennial question of how to get America to assist Europe out of the morass.

Mr. Lloyd George contended that what really mattered was to get America in, with or without League of Nations action. He did not believe, he said, that France, however obsessed, would refuse an offer made by the two greatest powers on earth, that had saved her from being in the position Germany was occupying today.

"I entreat the government," concluded Mr. Lloyd George, "to take the initiative, first by approaching the United States, and then with them approaching France. Then I believe both together will be able to surmount the difficulty."

In the course of his speech the ex-premier said it was impossible for the reparations and restoration program to succeed without America. The Americans, he commented, had the world's gold locked in their chests and were suffering from indigestion and not diet. They had a moral responsibility, he contended. They had shared in the war and had helped to break up Germany. Their president had signed the peace treaty, and although the senate had rejected it, that action was not on the ground of reparations but because it was unable to accept the League of Nations.

On this question there is still a variety of opinions. H. A. L. Fisher, liberal member for English universities, who was president of the board of education in the Lloyd George cabinet, in opening the debate, considered the co-operation of America so all-important that if American participation could not be obtained otherwise she should be permitted to send delegates independently of the league.

Lord Robert Cecil, on the other hand, while not minimizing the importance of American help, thought that a formal invitation to Washington would entail grave danger of rebuffing America, and might cause Washington to restate that government's opinion that Europe must first compose her own quarrels.

Mr. Lloyd George, displaying all his old mastery of apt phrase, took the line that the momentum of French action in the Ruhr had developed beyond anything the French government ever conceived, and that it was the business of England and America to extricate France from an impossible and dangerous position. He repudiated any idea of censuring or criticizing the Bonar Law government, which had done its best as a faithful ally.

Every creditor had to choose between cash and smash, he declared. France was trying both, but she must decide upon one or the other. The French action was ill-conceived, betraying lack of vision. He refused to believe that any military adviser of France had ever committed himself to the opinion that France ought to seize the Ruhr.

POINCARE'S STATISTICS OF RUHR AND RHINELAND

Paris, Feb. 19 (By the A. P.)—The foreign relations committee of the chamber of deputies today heard Premier Poincare for three hours and a half, but the information it wished to obtain was not completed, so the premier will appear again before the committee on Monday next to continue his explanations.

The Ruhr occupation was the chief subject discussed. The premier stated that the French and Belgians occupied 1,800 square kilometres in the Ruhr Basin leaving 500 square kilometres outside the occupation district. The occupied district produced 90,000,000 tons of coal yearly, and the unoccupied part of that territory 8,000,000 tons. The government mines represented only one-fifth of the total production.

Coke ovens numbered 14,500, of which 14,200 had been taken over; these were capable of turning out 50,000 tons daily.

The population of the Ruhr numbers 3,500,000, of whom 3,000,000 are in the occupied area. There are 360,000 miners, of whom 420,000 are in occupied zone. The persons engaged in the management of the mines in the occupied area number from 1,000 to 1,500, he said.

After passing General Degoutte, declaring there had never been any question about replacing him, M. Poincare continued:

"It is not questioned that our mission is purely one of control. This mission is entrusted to sixty engineers, mostly French, some English engineers and volunteers are expected shortly. As a reply to the sabotage we have expelled 283 high officials from the Ruhr and 55 from the Rhineland; these places were taken by officials of lower rank, as we must not replace them with French.

Before our occupation there circulated daily in the Ruhr 585 passenger trains and 630 freight trains; today, owing to disturbed conditions caused by orders from Berlin, there are only 70 trains altogether daily. There were 40,000 railroad employes in the Ruhr and 120,000 in the Rhineland. France has only sent 9,644. There is no French rolling stock in the occupied zone.

"To the present 1,936 cars of coal have been sent to France and Belgium."

The premier dealt with the negotiations with Great Britain regarding transport by train through the British zone in the Rhineland; he gave it as his opinion that the British official feeling was not so opposed to French policy as seemed to be believed in France.

The first part of the meeting was taken up with Memel, where M. Poincare described the situation as serious. The Lithuanians were dissatisfied with the decision of the ambassadors' conference, and a warlike spirit prevailed at Kovno. The information reaching the foreign office from the French minister at Warsaw did not mention that hostilities had begun between Poland and Lithuania; nevertheless certain despatches referred to movements of troops and reported that the sound of cannon could be heard.

BRITISH CONCEDE FRENCH TRAIN RUNNING FACILITIES

London, Feb. 19.—A despatch to Reuters from Cologne says it is understood that although the French have been conceded train running facilities over a short section of the railroad at Grevenbroich, thirteen miles southwest of Duesseldorf, the French are precluded from actually operating the line with French personnel.

Should the Germans refuse to operate trains, British engineers will take the trains through, handing them over to the French at the boundary.

FRENCH SEND TRAIN THROUGH BRITISH ZONE

London, Feb. 19.—A corner of the British zone in the Rhineland, four miles long and a mile and a half wide, passed into French control today, according to a Duesseldorf despatch to the Daily Mail. The ceremony of handing over the strip took place at Harff, 20 miles northwest of Cologne.

The first French train passed through the newly transferred territory at four o'clock in the afternoon, dropping off French officials at various stations.

BRITISH DEBT FUNDING TO SOON BECOME EFFECTIVE

Washington, Feb. 19.—The agreement between the American and the British government under which Great Britain will have sixty-two years for the payment of its $4,600,000,000 war debt to this country will become effective before the end of this month. This was made certain today with the action of the house ways and means committee in instructing Chairman Fordney to move tomorrow in the house to accept the senate changes to the amendment to the debt funding act giving congressional approval of the agreement. The committee vote was unanimous and the house vote is expected to be practically so.

Direct action by the house will make a conference with the senate unnecessary and will save considerable time. Immediately after the house vote the bill will be made ready for President Harding who is expected to sign it in a few days.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED BY THE NORTH AMERICAN CO.

New York, Feb. 19.—Directors of the North American Company today declared a dividend of 1 1-2 per cent on the common stock payable in cash or stock, and at the same time recommended a reduction in the par value of the common stock from $50 to $10, subject to the approval of the stockholders at a special meeting on March 21. The usual dividend of 1 1-2 per cent also was voted on the preferred stock.

The plan for reducing the par value of the common stock calls for the issuance of five shares of the new stock for each share of the present common stock. It was proposed also to double the company's authorized preferred and common stock to keep earnings free for distribution to stockholders as dividends and to enable the company to acquire additional properties.

ANOTHER CLAIMANT FOR "THE BAKER ESTATE"

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 19.—"The Baker estate" in Philadelphia, which claimants have appeared on frequent occasions in the past, is the subject of another claim received today by the state department of internal affairs in the form of a letter from William Lawless South, Boston, Mass. The claim, which in the past has included land occupied by City hall and other buildings in the heart of Philadelphia, is shifted this time to the League Island navy yard.

"The Baker estate has long been the pet theme of certain persons who find an easy living among the so-called Baker heirs," the department said, adding it has no record of any fortune due these heirs.

INVESTIGATING FIRE AT MANHATTAN HOSPITAL

New York, Feb. 19 (By the A. P.)—A day of investigating followed the disastrous fire which early yesterday morning wrecked a ward of the Manhattan State hospital for the insane on Ward's Island, killing 22 mad patients and three male attendants.

Out of all the inquiries started by many different agencies grew expressions of belief that greater care was needed to protect a madman's isle, only two of whose 75 structures were declared by Supt. Marcus B. Heyman to be fireproof.

Coupled with the assertion of Dr. Heyman that a fire many times as terrible as that of yesterday threatens the island at any time, came a statement from the national board of fire underwriters, which in 1920 surveyed the institution, declaring that "the terrible holocaust serves again to emphasize the danger of death from fire that exists in such institutions throughout the country."

The cause of yesterday's blaze—which it developed was the second mysterious fire in the same unit within two weeks—was studied by fire marshal, medical examiner, state architect, district attorney, deputy attorney general, army officers and other agencies. The attendants whose heroic work resulted in the rescue of 300 patients in the ward whoeasily might have perished made a round of the various investigations.

Dr. Heyman and his men stuck to their contention that a blast accompanying dredging operations in Hell Gate, a whirlpool of the East river just south of the island, had been the indirect cause of the fire, breaking the insulation on electric wiring in the building, which caused a short circuit.

FORMALITIES MODIFIED BY THE SUPREME COURT

Washington, Feb. 19.—A notable modification in the formalities of the supreme court was introduced today when the court resumed its sessions.

For many years it has been the custom of the crier to announce the court as the justices filed into the room, with the bar and audience standing, and then after the court had reached the bench, to sound the traditional "Oyez" as the court seated itself, admonishing all having business "before this honorable court to draw near and give their attention because the court is now sitting."

Today an additional touch of dignity was added to this time honored formality. All the members of the court, after reaching the bench remained standing during the "oyez." The crier modified his announcement to conform to the facts that instead of declaring the court "now sitting" stated that the court is "now in session." Then the court, making a formal bow to the bar and audience and seated itself.

GOOD RESPONSE TO FREE STATE'S AMNESTY OFFER

Dublin, Feb. 19.—There has been a good response to the government's amnesty offer, according to reports tonight. It is said that two columns numbering about 00 irregulars are about to surrender in the Tralee district, and that substantial surrenders have been made in other districts. These reports, however, are not yet fully confirmed, and in the meantime a serious campaign of incendiarism is going on.

There have been several cases in Dublin itself, including the residences of Mrs. Eamon Kent, whose husband was executed for complicity in the Easter Week rebellion, and Mrs. Hylld, whose husband is an active supporter of De Valera.

LITHUANIA AND POLAND TO APPEAL TO L. OF N.

London, Feb. 19.—(By The A. P.)—Both the Lithuanian and Polish governments informed the British government today of their intention of appealing to the league of nations to settle the troubled situation in the Kovno district.

Official circles here consider as exaggerated the Lithuanian charges that the Polish forces, after occupying the neutral zone, had invated Lithuania and attacked Lithuanian troops. It is pointed out that the Poles have indicated their intention to withdraw from the zone designated for them by the league of nations, if unable to occupy it without fighting.

$336,347,000 for War Dep't for Year

Provided in Agreement Reached by the Senate and House Conferences.

Washington, Feb. 19—Appropriations of $336,347,000 for the war department for the next fiscal year are provided under an agreement on the annual army bill reached late today in the Senate and House conferences. The amount is about $4,000,000 less than provided by the Senate and $3,000,000 over those of the House.

Only a few differences between the House and Senate had remained for adjustment and the conferees action practically completed the measure, which is the last of the unfinished appropriation bills of the session.

The compromise was accepted by the Senate tonight and now is to be presented to the House. Under it provisions designed to prohibit retirement pay to Major General Harbord. Retired former Deputy Chief of Staff, would be modified to permit General Harbor who is now at the head of a radio corporation, to receive retirement pay, but would prohibit retired army officers from accepting employment with concerns whose principal business is sales to the government.

No substantial changes were made the provision for in army of 125,000 men and 12,000 officers. The conferees also left unchanged the river and harbors funding of $56,589,000. Appropriations for certain harbor surveys were fixed at $456,850, a Senate addition of $50,000 being eliminated.

Compromises on appropriations for the organized reserves, the reserve officers traing corps and civilian military training also were reached. For the organized reserves $900,000 for fifteen day training is provided as against $1,100,000 proposed by the Senate with $250,000 additional for training in excess of 15 days.

For the reserve officers training corps, $3,500,000 is allowed as compared with $4,000,000 proposed by the Senate. For the civilian military training camps $2,000,000 is provided, a reduction of $200,000 in the Senate provision. The conferees retained the amendment of senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, designed to prevent demotion of the revised number of captains.

TO SUBPOENA ANDERSON TO APPEAR IN COURT

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 19.—After an all day hearing in supreme court here today on the action brought by a group of Troy men to force the Anti-Saloon League of New York state to file a statement of election expenses with the secretary of state, as a political organization, Justice Staley, suspended the session until Friday morning. This was done that William H. Anderson, superintendent of the league, might be subpoenaed to appear in court with records of the organization.

Testimony taken throughout the day tended to show that almost all the information sought by Ranson H. Gillet, counsel for the petitioners, was at the command of Mr. Anderson.

On the suggestion of Justice Staley that "the man who knows the facts" be brought into court, Mr. Brackett agreed to serve the subpoena on Mr. Anderson himself and have him in court Friday morning.

Four officials of the league, the Rev. William C. Spicer, vice president; the Rev. George Caleb Moore, secretary; Orville S. Poland, superintendent of law enforcement; and Wallace H. Marsh, field superintendent, were questioned by Mr. Gillett on the alleged political activities of the league. All showed a general lack of knowledge on the subjects, referring him to Mr. Anderson for answers to questions regarding the finances of the organization and its statewide campaign during the last election.

FLORIDA MAN CHARGES KLANSMEN WHIPPED HIM

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 19.—R. O. Darling of Kissimmee, Osceola, Fla., today filed an affidavit with the Osceola county court declaring that high officials of his county were members of the Ku Klux Klan which attacked him and threatened to take his life if he made known their names, according to an official copy of the affidavit published in the Tampa Daily Times.

The affidavit charged that Darling was assaized near where a klan meeting was being held on February 8. It further charges that Darling was whipped and told if he revealed the names of those he saw at the meeting he would be killed.

Darling admitted in the affidavit that he went in search of the klan meeting place with a companion because he had heard that some of its members held a grudge against him and he wanted to know just what was the cause.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 19.—Expenditures for public schools in Connecticut aggregated $21,436,182.03 in the last fiscal year, it was shown by a financial statement completed today at the state board of education. This figure was an increase of $438,543.90 over the total spent on education in the state in the previous year, and $5,763,516.69 over the expenditures for the same purpose in the year ended June 30, 1920.

The expenditures of school authorities in towns and cities for education exceeded their receipts by $2,071,172.93 last year, and loans aggregating $2,291,376.13 were made.

Although administration expenses increase, about $22,000 less was paid in salaries than in 1921, the aggregate of administration expenses being $13,927,117.9, as compared to $12,738,982.03 in the previous year.

TESTING CONSTITUTIONALITY OF "KOSHER" STATUTES

New York, Feb. 19.—Judges Manton, Learned, Hand and Knox sitting in federal district court today, heard arguments in three injunction suits which attack the constitutionality of New York state's "Kosher" statutes.

Plaintiffs are the Hygrade Provision Co., Inc., and other manufacturers and dealers in meat products, Harry Satz, a delicatessen dealer, and the Lewis & Fox Company, provision dealers of Boston. They assert the statutes make it criminal for dealers to advertise food products as "kosher" unless they mark such meat as may not be kosher so that purchasers will not be misled.

Ice Dangers Along the New England Coast

Small Harbors From Maine to Rhode Island Were Frozen During Past Three Days.

Boston, Feb. 19—The New England coast is as nearly ice-bound as it has been in many years. The cold spell of the past three days froze up small harbors from Maine to Rhode Island, and today the United States Hydrographic office sent a warning to mariners by radio that ice conditions were becoming serious, and aids of navigation might be displaced.

In Boston harbor, conditions were the worst in five years. Dorchester Bay and Quincy Bay were frozen over, Fort Point channel appeared to be solid, the fish pier was ice-bound for a time, and East Boston docks were choked. The ice barrier on the Maine coast was most general. Island settlements, and coast towns there have been without communication in some cases for weeks. Coal has been exhausted in many instances and supplies are short. The coast guard cutter Ossipee has been active for a fortnight breaking out harbors, and bringing emergency supplies in.

On the North Shore of Massachusetts similar ice conditions obtain. Salem sent an emergency call for a coast guard cutter to break out a lane in the harbor there today, and Beverly and Marblehead are involvin the same big ice pan.

The Cape Cod canal has been kept open, but the freighter Delaware was held up there today because of the ice. The steamer broke her way through the canal tothe half way point, but could not open a passage further.

On the shoals off Cape Cod, in Nantucket and Vineyard Sounds, and in Buzzard's Bay, heavy ice is fairly general. One of the buoys that mark the new Pollock Rip Slue passage was reported carried far beyond her station by the steamr Transportation. With Vineyard Haven harbor still frozen over, a small fleet of schoomers, tugs and barges is held fast.

A fuel famine threatens the textile manufacturing centers of the Blackstone valley as a result of the continued closure of the Pawtucket river by ice. Attempts by wooden vessels to break a passage through the seven inch thickness for two coal barges frozen at the river mouth with 2,000 tons of much needed coal have failed, and calls are being made to Washington and Boston for aid.

CARLOADS OF COAL SEIZED AT SARATOGA SPRINGS

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Feb. 19.—The contents of two of the nine carloads of anthracite seized in the Delaware and Hudson Railroad yards today by city police and firemen under the direction of Dr. Arthur J. Leonard, public safety commissioner, tonight rested in bins of householders. Preparations were being made to complete the unloading tomorrow. The seven remaining cars are under police guard in the railroad yards.

Detectives are co-operating with representatives of the fuel administrator's office to prevent further seizure of coal at Ballston Spa, where residents today seized a train load of anthracite stalled on a crossing and carried away 20 tons in sleds, automobiles, baskets and bags before police intervened.

The work of distributing the coal seized in the Saratoga yards proceeded quietly this afternoon, volunteer workers, police and firemen carrying the coal to meet emergency needs throughout the city.

FREE MASONRY OFFERS TO RELEASE FASCISTI MEN

Rome, Feb. 19.—(By The A. P.)—The council of the section of the Free Masons, the members of which were ordered by the Fascisti to resign or leave the Fascisti, has published a statement in which it gives all its members complete freedom to leave the organization to remain faithful to Fascism. The statement says it is certain that those who resign "will continue by their actions to prove that in their lodges they learned that their supreme duty is unconditional devotion to their country."

Referring to the campaign against Free Masonry which a section of the press has begun since the Fascisti grand council's request to Free Masons to resign from that order, the statement says:

"Free Masonry, in the name of its ancient, noble and patriotic traditions, denies all the absurd accusations levelled against it, especially the accusation that it is trying in any way to disturb the national concord the country needs."

DEMANDS SEARCH OF LABOR LEADERS FOR WEAPONS

Chicago, Feb. 19.—A demand that Chicago labor leaders be searched for concealed weapons every time they are met by the police, was made today by Robert E. Grove, state's attorney, as a result of the gun battle in a crowded cafe last night in which Steve Kelliher, union official was slain. It was the 24th labor killing in Chicago in the past 13 years.

Meanwhile "Handsome Dan" McCarthy, another labor leader, who was arrested following the slaying of Kelliher and the wounding by a stray bullet of a woman dancer in the cafe, declared he had fired in self defense. He blamed Kelliher's wife for the shooting declaring that she had called him a "rat" and other names.

COAL FAMINE IN NEW YORK STATE BROKEN

New York, Feb. 19.—The backbone of the coal famine in northern and central New York has been broken, fuel administration officials declared tonight, through the delivery today of 118 cars of fuel by the Delaware & Hudson railroad. Other deliveries were reported by the New York Central and Lackawanna Coal company.

Thirty-three more cars of coal will arrive at upstate destinations before daybreak, it was announced.

FORD'S MUSCLE SHOALS OFFER IS SIDETRACKED

Washington, Feb. 19.—By a vote of 6 to 3 the house rules committee refused today to report out a resolution giving Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals right of way in the house. This precludes consideration of Muscle Shoals legislation at this session unless a majority of the house votes to override the rules committee.

R. R. LABOR BOARD'S POWERS ARE MERELY SUGGESTIVE

Supreme Court So Finds in Case Brought by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company—Can Suggest Conferences Between Employers and Employes or Their Representatives—Must Depend Upon Public Sentiment to Enforce Its Decisions, Which Are Not Compulsory on Railroads.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The United States railroad labor board is a board of arbitration, without power to enforce its rulings, but dependent upon the support of public sentiment to give its acts effect, the supreme court today decided in a case brought by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The case was an appeal from the decision of the Seventh circuit court of appeals refusing to grant a restraining order prohibiting the board from publishing its findings with regard to the refusal of the railroad company to conduct labor dispute negotiations with certain representatives of organized labor.

The controversy arose during the recent strikes of the railroad shopcrafts throughout the country and the Pennsylvania railroad, pointing out that it had negotiated its difficulties with representatives of its employes, refused to comply with the ruling of the labor board that it should recognize officers of certain labor organizations as representatives of its employes, and negotiate with them.

Asserting that it was not the intention of congress in providing for the railroad labor board in the transportation act of 1920 to create "a tribunal to determine what were the legal rights and obligations of railroad employers and employes, or to enforce or protect them," the supreme court pointed out that the board can do that." The labor board was created, the court asserted, "to decide not the parties ought to exercise their legal rights so as to enable them to cooperate in running the railroad."

"The only limitation upon the board's decisions," the court continued, "is that they should establish a standard of conditions which, in its opinion, is just and reasonable. The jurisdiction of the board to direct the parties to do what it deems they should do is not to be limited by their constitutional or legal rights to refuse to do it. Under the act there is no constraint upon them to do what the board decides they should do except the moral constraint, already mentioned, of publication of its decision."

The labor board must comply with the provisions of the statute with regard to conferences, hearings and decisions, the court said. Having complied, it is not in its reasonings and conclusions limited as a court is limited, the court declared, "to a consideration of the legal rights of the parties."

The announcement by the board in advance of litigated disputes of the rules of decision was not premature, the court added, explaining that it did not consider it necessary to express any opinion upon the merits of these principles and decisions. It held, however, that they were within the lawfull function of the board to render and, not being compulsory, create no legal or equitable right in the complaining company.

The United States district court at Chicago was wrong in enjoining the labor board from proceeding to entertain further jurisdiction, and from publishing its opinions, the supreme court announced and the circuit court of appeals properly reversed the district court's action. The supreme court refused to pass upon the question whether the labor board could be sued without the consent of the United States and whether the publication of its opinions in matters beyond its jurisdiction could be enjoined.

Referring to the contention of the railroad that the question of who may represent its employes it not within the jurisdiction of the labor board to decide, and that the jurisdiction of the board does not begin until after conferences with the representatives of the employes are held, the supreme court stated that such a construction would give either side an easy opportunity to defeat the operation of the act and to prevent the labor board from considering any dispute.

It was the purpose of congress in enacting the law to promote harmonious relations between the managers of railways and their employes, the court explained, and the importance attached by congress to conferences between them for this purpose is declared equally obvious.

"Congress must have intended," it said, "to include the procedure for determining representatives of employes as a proper subject matter of dispute to be considered by the board. * * * * The act is to be liberally construed to effect the manifest effort of congress to compose differences between railroad companies and their employes, and it would not help this effort to exclude from the lawful consideration of the labor board a question which has an often seriously affected the relations between the companies and their employes in the past and is often encountered on the very threshold of controversies between them."

HEARINGS ON COAL SHORTAGE SUSPENDED

Washington, Feb. 19. — Interstate commerce commission hearings in the matter of the coal shortage in northeastern New York and possible methods of relieving it, were suspended today, but before this action was taken, Edward C. Griffin, deputy attorney general of that state, entered a formal motion asking the commission to declare all anthracite shipments now blocked along the line of the Delaware and Hudson railroad outside of interstate commerce. The effect of such a step, Mr. Griffin explained during argument, would be to give the New York fuel administration complete control over the disposition of such shipments. The motion was taken under consideration.

Commissioner Campbell, presiding at the hearings, said din announcing adjournment that the commission would be ready instantly to reopen the investigation if shortage conditions were not allayed.

"The steps which the commission has already taken to relieve the situation, we believe, will prove sufficient," he said, "but if it shall appear that this belief is not justified, this proceeding will be immediately re-opened, it will be suspended, so far as the taking of evidence is concerned, on that understanding."

REPORT OF $50,000 JEWELRY ROBBERY IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Feb. 19.—Police here tonight were investigating a $20,000 jewelry robbery reported by William Perry of Bridgeport, a salesman for a New York jewelry concern. Neighboring cities were notified of the reported robbery and police have spread a dragnet in an effort to trace the jewels.

Perry reported that four sample cases of jewelry, valued at $50,000, had been stolen from his automobile late this afternoon. He said the jewelry consisted chiefly of brooches and lavaliers. He told detectives that he had locked his car with the sample cases inside in front of a store on Congress avenue here. Five minutes later, he said, he returned and found the car still locked but the jewelry gone.

Perry said that he was a salesman for Berger & Kronsted, 131 Liberty street, New York city.

TWO FIRES IN CATHOLIC SCHOOL IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 19.—State Fire Marshal James L. Loomis, announced tonight that he would start an immediate investigation of the two fires which broke out simultaneously this afternoon in St. Michael's Cathedral High school and which fire department officials believe were of incendiary origin. The first blaze in the basement caused but little damage. The other fire was in a storeroom on the third floor of the building and caused damage estimated at about $500. It is considered probable that the loss would have been heavy but for a fact that a large amount of apparatus was on hand. Firemen had responded to a telephone call for the first fire, but on their arrival found that it had been extinguished by the janitor. At the same moment smoke was seen pouring fro ma window in the third floor and additional apparatus was summoned. All pupils in the school had been dismissed.

SHIPPING BILL OPPONENTS FILIBUSTER IN SENATE

Washington, Feb. Efforts of opponents of the administration shipping bill to kill through a filibuster were renewed tonight in the senate, and brought from Senator Jones, republican, Washington, in charge of the measure, a notice that he would endeavor to hold the senate in session all night tomorrow.

The filibuster as started tonight and ship bill opponents made no effort to have discussion of other than a filibuster—took the form of an address of three hours and a half by Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, on the operations of the league of nations since its organization.

The Texas senator still was going strong when Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican whip, shortly after ten o'clock moved that the senate go into executive session. This was followed by a recess until 11 o'clock tomorrow when ship bill opponents promise to resume their tactics.

NORWICH BULLETIN
81 Church Street Telephone 1062

Willimantic coal dealers are longhugly anticipating the end of the present cold snap, not so much in the behalf of the public, but for their own welfare as well. The dealers are doing the best in their ability to relieve any suffering from lack of coal, when they have any of that precious substance on hand, but they are greatly handicapped by slow shipments, which on arrival here, often prove to be of the egg size, too large for kitchen ranges or stoves, unless broken up. The next size known as stove coal, can be used in both stove and furnace.

The public is always on the watch, and when a shipment arrives in the yard, for a dealer, they immediately pass the word around and the result is a rush to that dealer, and hundreds of appeals over the telephone.

Numerous complaints are sent in to the local dealers, by persons stating that none of the substitutes, especially soft coal, can be used to any advantage in the kitchen range. However, the rule is still in effect that substitutes must be part of the delivery and as the limit is half a ton for the ordinary household, the amount of hard coal received is only 700 pounds with the remaining thirty per cent., made up of either soft or buckwheat coal or coke.

A number of families have kept their stoves supplied during the winter by buying coal by the bag and carting it away themselves. There have always been appeals for coal and now that the local fuel work has been placed in the hands of the state police department, people are registering complaints with the state police.

The first car from Norwich reached the local terminal at 7.45 o'clock and from South Coventry at 8 o'clock. Nearly a hundred commuters to this city from both ends were considerably late in reporting to work as a result of the accident.

Engine Company No. 1 was called out Monday morning about 7.45 o'clock for a small blaze in the office of the Willimantic Lumber and Coal Company building. The fire was quickly extinguished. Cyril Jubin of the yard force discovered the fire and sent in the alarm. Some of the flooring had to be chopped away in order to pour the chemicals upon the blaze.

Two more divorce petitions were filed with Edgar M. Warner, clerk of the Windham county superior court, Saturday, at Putnam. One is that of Ella Reynolds of Willimantic who charges desertion in her suit for divorce against her husband, Herbert L. Reynolds. The couple were married April 29, 1894.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Boston Symphony Orchestra at Willimantic.

Willimantic music lovers will be given a treat when the Boston Symphony Ensemble will appear at the town hall in Willimantic Tuesday night under the auspices of the Community Entertainment association. The Ensemble consists of thirteen pieces direct from the Boston Symphony orchestra which assures the appearance of this fine musical combination in that city.

A few days ago the committee were informed that owing to unsatisfactory transportation facilities it might be necessary for the orchestra to cancel their engagement, as it would be impossible for them to arrive in Boston in time for the morning rehearsal with the main orchestra.

In order not to suffer the loss to the subscribers of the association of this superb treat, the committee arranged for the transportation of the members of the orchestra and their musical instruments to Hartford after the entertainment, from which place, sleeper reservations have been secured to enable the orchestra to keep their morning engagement in Boston on the following day.

This will mean that the association will have to bear a heavy expense and they solicit the hearty support of the public as well as the association members.

The Dangerous Age Now Playing at the Strand.

When we see A John M. Stahl Production flashed on the screen we are convinced, from past experience that we are about to witness a picture that will leave nothing to be desired in the many factors that form the component parts of a perfect photoplay. Mr. Stahl's past productions have been so consistently meritorious that this reviewer concedes him front rank among the master directors of today.

It was with that mental attitude that we went to the Strand theatre yesterday to see his latest offering, The Dangerous Age, which began a three-day run. But we were not prepared for the surprises that were in store for us. We forgot that our visit there was professional; forgot everything, in the magic spell of illusion which Stahl was casting over the audience.

The Dangerous Age is evidence of the tremendous strides which have been made in the realm of the photoplay. Its story is a powerful one, replete with tensely dramatic situations that hold the spectator spellbound. "Big moments" are liberally interspersed among the plot complications, furnishing thrills by the score. Mr. Stahl's magic touch has transformed a strip of celluloid into a living, breathing pulsating thing.

And the cast! Never, in our estimation, has such an aggregation of actors of stellar ability been gathered together into one cast, for among them are Lewis S. Stone, the "grand old man of the films"; Ruth Clifford, Cleo Madison, Edward Burns, Edith Roberts, Myrtle Stedman, James Morrison, Dellorice, Richard Tucker and Helen Lynch.

It is a picture that all lovers of the silent drama will relish—and remember.

A comedy and news completes the program.

On the prettier teeth you see everywhere today

Do you realize how many prettier teeth you see in every circle now? And how many smile to show them?

It is so the world over. There has come a new era in teeth cleaning. You and everyone should learn how much it means.

Why teeth discolor

Film is what clouds teeth—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Old methods did not effectively combat it. So most teeth were coated more or less. And few escaped the troubles caused by film.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Now ways to fight it

Dental science has now found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved those ways effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those two film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

The name of that tooth paste is Pepsodent. Now dentists the world over are urging its adoption. To careful people of some 50 nations it has brought safer, whiter teeth.

Mistakes corrected

Research also proved that former methods reduced Nature's tooth-protecting forces in the mouth.

Pepsodent corrects that mistake. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Watch it for a week

A test of Pepsodent will prove a revelation. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

You will quickly realize what this method means to the people in your home. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Compare it with the old-time methods. Cut out coupon now.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

Mae Murray has succumbed to the popular vogue of costume photoplays, and in her latest, Jazzmania, presented by Robert Z. Leonard the charming Metro star adds another to the rapidly increasing number of spectacular costume plays. Jazzmania is the feature at the Breed theatre today.

The successor in popular favor to the star's Broadway Rose is, from advance reports, totally different from anything she has hitherto attempted. As a matter of fact, it is a combination of the star's most appealing bits; for in it she dances as splendidly as ever, wears gowns as brilliant and awe-inspiring as is her custom, and has lavish and luxurious settings for the background of the action.

Jazzmania is a novel combination of the real and the make believe. The story concerns Queen Ninon, a ruler in a Balkan kingdom, who escapes to America to avoid a revolution in her country, caused by her enemies. The delightful queen is an enthusiast about jazz; and in her apartment in New York she performs for a small, chosen circle. However, when she learns of the desperate plight of the women and children in her country, she returns in time to defeat a huge conspiracy against its people. Once again she is restored to popular favor; and her kingdom becomes the Republic of Jazzmania, with a loud, tuneful accent on the jazz.

The role of Queen Ninon affords Miss Murray her best opportunity in a long time to display her remarkable versatility. She is at times a delightful comedienne, a skilful dancer, and an emotional actress. To each of these she is fully able to do more than complete justice.

Supporting Miss Murray is a cast of genuine excellence. [illegible] Le Rocque is excellent as Jerry Langdon, Ninon's American lover; Robert Frazer, too, does fine work as Captain Almar, one of Ninon's loyal subjects. Others seen prominently are Jean Hersholt, Edward Burns, Lionel Belmore, Wilfred Lucas and Herbert Standing.

Other pictures on the bill include Rudolph aseline in Mud and Sands, and the Pathe News.

Owing to the length of this program the first evening show will start at 6.45.

Broadway Theatre Today.

As was predicted a real fine program was presented at the Broadway yesterday to an enthusiastic audience.

Billy Ruge & Joe Rose opened the bill with a comedy novelty called Aerial Humorists. They spring about and perform the most intricate feats imaginable yet they succeeded in getting a laugh with every turn.

Gene Oliver & Co. which is a capable trio, followed in a very good offering called Words and Music. They sing, talk and dance to the amusement of all.

Bertie Herron and Bonnie Gaylord & Co., also shared [illegible] the honors [illegible] Tony have a few [illegible] comedy of the highest order.

Harry Watkins offered something which is an event in vaudeville, Grotesque Conversations. He is a [illegible] par excellence. His is a [illegible] act, the likes of which has never been seen here before.

Eddie & Earle closed the bill appearing in a whirl of variety dances. A fine assortment of intricate terpsichore made their offering a hit.

For the girl or woman who is dissatisfied with her lot, there is a photoplay of real value at the Broadway theatre this week. It is Rich Men's Wives, a Preferred Picture produced by Chester Bar, maker of Kismet. The play covers a charming girl from her [illegible] school days on through the [illegible] period, then into a triumphant social life marriage, motherhood, flirtation and unhappiness—and a climax that is as interest-holding as it is surprising and unexpected.

Quite as important as the play itself is the cast of artists that has been chosen to interpret the trying roles. House Peters, as the rich man and a believer in the double moral standard for men and women, is his usual impressive self and adds lustre to a career already made notable by many fine instances of superior acting. Other stars are also featured.

Connecticut College Concert.

One of Maria Ivogun's feminine "hobbies" is displayed in her selection of beautiful fabrics for her gowns. Exclaiming on the loveliness of some rare old lace on which she [illegible] in her role of the countess in The Marriage of Figaro, she told the story of the gift of it to her by the nuns of Valenciennes, who are the finest lace makers in the world. The proceeds from this industry support the spiritual and intellectual care of the orphans under their charge.

The lace she displayed, a tiny scrap of which required a week to make, was presented to her in fine appreciation of her services at vesper one day in their little chapel.

On February 22, this young girl who worshipped with the nuns of Valenciennes through the gift of her voice, will make her appearance at New London before what promises to be a capacity audience.

In the deserts of Mongolia there still exist herds of wild horses, which are supposed to be like those of thousands of years ago.

SOUTHPAW NAILS 'EM ..IF THEY LEAN OVER.

Years ago, when Jimmy Callahan was managing the club, the White Sox put on an exhibition game with Omaha.

The minor leaguers were playing a rattling article of the pastime, and were a run ahead at the start of the ninth.

They had a crafty southpaw on the slab named Hicks, who had a deceptive move to first. He had caught one runner asleep at first.

Cal, who was coaching there, raved.

But you can imagine his feelings when Babe Borton singled, only to be nipped off the base a few moments later by one of Hick's puzzlers.

THE GARDNER LAKE ROAD HEARING.

A hearing of no little importance to Norwich and the group of towns to the west is that scheduled for Wednesday of this week before the legislative committee on roads, rivers and bridges upon the bill making the old Essex turnpike from Norwich to the Connecticut river a part of the highway trunk line system of the state.

By this measure there is sought the improvement of a stretch of highway that crosses the Hartford-New London cement highway and serves not only the considerable settlements at Laffingwell and Gardner Lake, but much farming territory in between. There are five towns through which this road passes and no section is one that greatly needs to be given the benefit of improved roads and brought nearer to the trunk line highways of the state.

Highway improvements outside of Norwich in this direction are lacking. Those going to Gardner Lake, and the number is large especially in the summer time, have a rocky, rutty and uncomfortable road to travel, which at certain seasons becomes almost impassable.

It is a road that would also put this part of the state in direct communication by good road with Connecticut river points, but seldom if ever used now because of the deplorable condition.

This opportunity to open up certain sections of the state which have needed improvements of this kind should not be disregarded. The time is ripe to call the importance of the projected change to the attention of those who are seeking enlightenment upon such matters, and impress upon the legislators the need of such an extension of the highway system of the state. The need of giving attention to some who have been severely overlooked in the past is apparent to those familiar with the situation, but it rests with those interested to convey it to the committee and to make the appeal strong.

Norwich is deeply concerned in the betterment of this state avenue to the west and it is to be hoped that it and the other towns will display that concern before the committee.

GOVERNOR OF PORTO RICO.

By the resignation of E. Mont Reily as governor of Porto Rico the way is opened for the clearing up of the unpleasant situation that has existed in the island for so many months. There is no reason to believe but what the president in selecting Reily believed he was naming a man of competence. There is nothing in the history of his governorship that shows he lacked the ability to administer the duties of the office.

It does appear, however, that he lacked or at least failed to display that amount of tact that the office requires. Directing the affairs of Porto Rico is decidedly different than it would be to guide the activities of the same number of people distributed over the same amount of territory on the mainland. This difference seemed to have disregarded. He displayed a manner in dealing with the Porto Ricans that was calculated to create resentment and make trouble, and even though he had not aimed at any such thing there is no question but what it was thoroughly successful in developing it. It was his lack of experience in connection with any such work and his lack of understanding of the islanders that stirred up strife and opposition. Even after the first appeals for his recall were made the situation failed to clear. His task was all the harder but he seemed to lack the temperament. It is not to be regarded as the easiest job in the world to handle those people smoothly even when it is impossible to agree with them, and yet there are those who can and have done it most successfully.

Who the next governor will be has not been intimated but he should be the right man and preferable one who has had some experience along such a line. The name of General Edwards has been mentioned in this connection and it is quite natural that the expressions concerning him should be most favorable. He is an experienced leader and he is not without experience of the kind required in such a position.

OVER MILLION FOR SMITH'S CAMPAIGN.

During the recent gubernatorial campaign in the state of New York there was the belief during the early days that Governor Miller would win without trouble. As time went on there was less certainty. Former Governor Smith appeared to be showing more strength. The latter continued to gain in favor and it was inevitably reflected on the betting odds. At the polls as the result of [illegible] it was shown that the former governor had won an overwhelming victory.

Various reasons were advanced for explaining his great personal popularity and his advocacy of certain issues. An editorial that was published at the time was [illegible] come to light through the filing of the expense accounts of the campaign committees. The chairman of the democratic state finance committee in his statement, shows that he used $1,022,615 to accomplish that turnover, or three times as much money as was spent by the republican committee, which used $350,376.

Was it this financial influence thrown into the state campaign that caused the change in sentiment as the campaign was waged? When such a sum was used it indicated that the former governor's committee was not willing to let his personal popularity be the guiding influence. And at the same time it doesn't appear that the Newberry case was allowed to deter any such use of money to get the governorship of New York state.

There was a modest sum spent in the Newberry campaign compared to what it cost to elect Smith as governor of New York, with the rest of his ticket, but those who were the loudest in demanding the unseating of Newberry will probably close their eyes to the disclosures in this case even though it showed the Newberry campaign under as completely as the weatherman has covered up New England for the past two months. It doesn't come as a sturdy booster of Smith for president.

REORGANIZING DEPARTMENTS

A matter of much importance in connection with the establishment of better business-like conditions in the executive departments of the government is the report that has been made to congress by President Harding with recommended changes. As the result of the investigations which have been underway for many months the plan is to have the army and navy departments devote their attention to matters of defense only and for that reason the departments would be consolidated under the name of the department of defense and other duties distributed among other departments. The department head would have three assistants, besides the chiefs of staff for army and navy and a head of the bureau of material as advisers.

The coast guard would be placed under the department of commerce to which would also go the bureau of mines and the patent office, while the bureau of insular affairs would go to the department of state. There would be a new department, that of education and welfare but that would not increase the cabinet members since that takes the place of the decrease caused by the consolidation of the war and navy departments. The treasury would be concerned solely with fiscal matters.

The task of bringing about an agreement upon the proposed recommendations was by no means easy. It is a radical change that is proposed but one that is based upon greater efficiency and the elimination of much duplication.

There is no hope that the report will be acted upon at this session. It comes too late for anything of that kind but it is going to furnish excellent material for thought during the year until the next session of congress in December. There is no question but what a shakeup is desirable.

TIME TO END IT.

When the president of the Irish Free State declares that the revolt must end at all costs he is fully cognizant of the need of quickly terminating the uncertainty and establishing peaceful conditions.

President Cosgrave doesn't give any encouragement to De Valera and his followers to continue in their course of trouble and destruction. He appreciates the feeling of the people of the Emerald isle in wanting to see an end to the terrorism. It has prevailed for a long time, despite the mistaken views of the rebels. There have been significant expressions by the people which make it clear that they stand enthusiastically behind the Free State government, and that the handful who are still fighting for a republic are pursuing a hopeless cause that is simply causing a useless waste of life and property.

Thus when President Cosgrave lets it be understood again that there can be no toleration of De Valera propositions he voices the sentiments of his constituents. He takes the sensible view and he will be backed up in it. It is now a fight among Irishmen that does more harm than good the longer it continues, and the determination to take steps to clear it up as quickly as possible must certainly be welcomed by the Free States.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, Feb. 19.—Soon after the 4th of March there will be an outgoing of senators and congressmen bound for Europe to make personal investigation of existing conditions there so to be better able to judge what international legislation is needed at the opening of the 68th congress, according to their individual opinions. The senators do not go as a senatorial party, neither do the congressmen, but entirely as individuals and each according to his fancy. Senator Johnson of California, says he is going for a rest; Senator Moses of New Hampshire says it will be the first vacation he has taken in many years, and he intends to travel, rest and have freedom from political cares; Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, who goes a few weeks later, will visit Ireland and see for himself how Irish freedom has affected the island where his ancestors were born and reared. Senators Borah and McCormick, are also planning European trips, and they will of course make the international condition affecting the United States the main object of their visit. Borah, McCormick and Moses are all members of the senate committee on foreign relations and were stout opposers of the league of nations. Probably a number of other senators will make the European trip this spring and summer, and it is known a large number of representatives have engaged passage and will spend much time abroad, feeling certain congress will not be called into extra session.

Senator Moses will sail for Europe immediately after the adjournment of congress and will make an extended trip through England and the continent. Mr. Moses is especially desirous of visiting Greece, where he served as minister from the United States under the Taft administration. It will be the first vacation the senior senator from New Hampshire has taken since he assumed the office in 1918. Senator Moses will need no courier while traveling abroad. As some one recently remarked "Senator Moses can wrap his tongue 'round six different languages and make himself understood in them all." They are telling a good story out here on Senator Moses and his attempt to comply with the urgent request of Senators Kellogg and Pomerene, who are soon to leave for South America as delegates to the Pan American conference in Chile. They speak neither French nor Spanish and urged Mr. Moses to at least teach them how to "ask ham and eggs" in these two languages. Senator Moses said he was much encouraged over their apparent progress and he asked them simple questions regarding ham and eggs, for several days, always putting the question first in French and then in Spanish. One day, however, he changed the order of the questions with the result that when he first demanded in Spanish if they desired ham and eggs they enthusiastically replied "Oui, Oui," and followed it up by answering the same question when put in Spanish by a prompt reply of "Si, Si." And now Senator Moses' faith in his Senatorial School of Foreign Languages is decidedly shaken.

It has become pretty well known here that even the holding back of the passage of certain important bills democratic or republican filibusters will not force President Harding to call an extra session. Other means will be found to put into effect the necessary appropriations for the next fiscal year, by continuing resolutions or otherwise. The president feels, as do also republican leaders in congress, that the country and the business of the nation needs a let up from continued changes in legislation and that it will be better off with congress out of session for the next eight months, than with new laws being enacted and the confusion of changes constantly breaking into commerce.

Only international complications could force an extra session before the regular session the first Monday in December, as matters now stand and no such complication involving the United States are looked for within that period.

This has been a great year for so-called "state societies" here. All the states have some sort of old home societies to which all natives, former or present residents of Washington are eligible. The New England societies stand strong and prominent in this list. Massachusetts and Maine being especially prominent and with large organizations and frequent meetings and Connecticut a close second. The Massachusets society is this year making special efforts to head the list, and has prepared an elaborate programme for its winter and spring meetings, with the vice president, [illegible] secretary of war and other shown, by these as its principal stars. These societies are also-deaths; sentence commuted to 10 purely non-partisan and non-political. They are merely to hold closer the old ties of early days. Massachusetts has here at present more than 5,000 loyal adherents of the Bay state, although of course all do not belong to the state organization. Senators and representatives are always interested in the home societies and frequently preside over the meetings. Social evenings come with regularity and always an entertainment well worth while is furnished.

Distinction of being the instigator of such organizations belongs likewise to New England. That was more than 25 years ago and though it started in a small and modest way, the Bay state organization is now one of the biggest and best in the capitol. Other states quickly followed the idea and now scarcely a state but what has representation along that line, although the state societies, like the states differ in glory.

The Ladies of the D. A. R. are congratulating themselves on the occupancy of the addition to the splendid building known as Continental Hall, and which has served not only its original purpose as headquarters for the society but was used as the meeting place of the plenotary session of the disarmament conference last year. The new buildings will, or rather does, contain the offices for the highest national officials of the order and the intervening lawns will be landscaped this spring and the entire structure completed and utilized.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Depreciation.

While the word "depreciation" is not used in the revenue act of 1921, it provides that in computing net income there shall be allowed "a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence." The deduction is confined to property actually used in trade or business. In general, it applies to capital assets, the cost of which cannot be deducted as an expense.

For example, a lawyer or physician is not permitted to write off as a current expense the cost of his professional library, but may deduct an allowance for its depreciation.

Deductions are not allowed for depreciation of a taxpayer's home, the furnishings therein, his personal effects, nor automobiles used chiefly for pleasure or convenience. Depreciation does not apply to automobiles or autos used in trade, nor to the value of land, whether improved or unimproved.

Depreciation may be claimed on all business property, which includes not only buildings, but machinery of a permanent character, automobiles, farm tractors, mines and mill equipment, furniture and boats.

The value to be cared for by depreciation is the cost of the property. However, in the case of property acquired prior to March 1, 1913, the deduction shall be computed upon its fair market price or value as of that date.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Ernest DeWitt Burton, who today assumes the presidency of the University of Chicago in succession to Dr. Harry Pratt Judson, has been connected with the Chicago institution for more than 30 years. During this long period he has been at the head of the department of New Testament literature and interpretation, in which branch of learning he has an international reputation as an authority. Dr. Burton is a native of Ohio and comes of a family long prominent in educational work. Denison university gave him his liberal education; he then went to Rochester Theological seminary for his theological training, and later went abroad to complete his studies in German universities. Upon his return to America, he taught in the public schools for several years. Before becoming professor of New Testament literature at the University of Chicago in 1892 he had filled similar posts in the Rochester and Newton Theological seminaries.

EVERYBODY HAPPY

"My, my!" exclaimed the sympathetic roommate who had stayed home. "It must have been an awful explosion with plenty of flying glass! You were right in the middle of it, weren't you?"

"I was present," admitted the married but handsome young man who had just come in. "And it occurred this way, as follows: When I reached Margerine's, ready to take her on a nice long afternoon drive to see the Hopscotch family, I found her all alone with the exception of little Givva Ring, whose mamma had left her in Margerine's charge for a week while she went out of town to attend a wedding somewhere. Also there was the little girl's new cat.

"Margerine explained to me, looking slightly pale and weary, that she didn't think she could accompany me on the drive after all because she had Givva to look after.

"'Take her along' said I bravely.

"'Can kitty go?' demanded little Givva.

"'No, dearie,' said Margerine patiently. 'Kitty will stay nicely at home——'

"'She won't!' screamed Givva, beginning to kick. 'I go and kitty goes! Yeowwwww.'

"'Kitty goes,' I decided hastily with masculine breadth of vision. It takes a man to settle these things, no doubt about it. You see, my notion was that little Givva and the cat would entertain each other in the tonneau while in front I would be enabled to repeat a few things to Margerine which I am having difficulty in registering on her mind.

"I did not figure on Givva's firm clutch which nearly strangled the unfortunate cat and whenever the animal could wriggle away from her it clambered all over the shop with a determination and speed which was no less than marvelous. Besides, it did not care for traveling. By the time we reached the Hopscotch house all of us, including the cat, were exhausted.

"Some of these scratches on my complexion I had achieved then and Givva was yelling because of similar attentions, while Margerine was paler and more distracted than when we started. She said that little Givva's mother had remarked on the child's remarkable force of character and decision. 'Always,' her mamma had said proudly, 'Givva knows just what she wants and I consider decision an asset in life!'

"'Well let the kitty stay nicely in this nice closed car while we visit with Aunty Hopscotch,' began Margerine in the kind, sweet tone used by trained nurses, keepers of lunatics and wives about to visit.

"'No!' screamed little Givva promptly, dancing up and down. 'I go in and kitty goes in! Yeowwww!'

"'Kitty goes in,' I said again hastily, once more displaying my grasp of the situation. Closely bunched, the four of us entered the hospitable Hopscotch home and with one grand leap the enraged and terror-stricken cat circled the room like a streak and shot up the fireplace chimney. Hopscotch was first to recover his presence of mind in this emergency. 'What goes up must come down,' he reminded us, hopefully. We waited and it didn't.

"'I want my kitty!' little Givva began to scream and kick. 'My kitty!'

"The child must have her cat,' I decided again in the emergency, but it had no effect whatever. Then Mrs Hopscotch gave me a cane and as every one seemed to expect me to take charge of the enterprise I got down on my knees and rattled up the chimney with the cane. About a quart of soot descended on my upturned face but the cat remained invisible. Totally ignoring the soot the Hopscotches said brightly the cane was too short and pressed a broom into my hands expectantly. Again I rattled around. A peck of soot was what I got this time.

"'I want my kitty!' Givva shrieked, attacking me violently.

"'I know!' cried Hopscotch. 'I read that you can get a cat down from a chimney if you build a gentle fire beneath it!' So we bunched up a sheet of newspaper and lit it. Just as I leaned forward to peer up through the slight smoke the cat came down with the rest of the soot and the entire combination lit on my speaking countenance. However, dear little Givva got her cat!"

"What did the wounded and mangled hero get?" asked the sympathetic roommate with interest.

"Well," admitted the handsome young man happily, "Margerine at last said on the way home that I might pick out an engagement ring. I guess I'll buy a new neck ribbon for that cat!"—Chicago News.

Wives of Famous Men

The Widow Vizelle, Wife of John Wesley.

It seemed a cruel trick of fate that John Wesley, founder of Methodism, should have been denied the one foreordained mate of his life and condemned to spend 20 years in close companionship with a veritable shrew. Wesley, deeply in love with an ardent co-worker for Methodism, lost the girl through the interference of his brother, and was caught on the rebound by the Widow Vizelle, a sharp-tongued, acid-souled scold, and mother of four children. She had a little fortune, but this had no influence on Wesley's marriage to her, for he refused to accept any part of it.

They settled down to nearly a quarter of a century of misery, for the poor divine, at least. Instead of proving the guiding light that a minister's wife should be, she showed herself to be a termagant of the worst kind, scolding all day long, opening his letters, interfering with his plans, spying on his callers, and treating him generally like a prisoner. No clearer picture of Mrs. Wesley can be obtained than by perusing a letter written to her by her long-suffering husband when he had come to the end of his endurance.

"Know me," he wrote, "and know yourself. Suspect me no more, asperse me no more, provoke me no more; do not longer contend for mastery, for power, money or praise; be content to be a private insignificant person, known and loved by God and me. Attempt no more to abridge me of my liberty; leave me to be governed by God and my conscience."

Little good it did him to expostulate thus. A biographer writes that one of Wesley's preachers once came upon the Wesleys in a room of their house in the north of Ireland, where he found the husband on the floor, his wife standing over him foaming with rage. Her hands still held the remnants of hair she had pulled out of his head as she dragged him about the floor.

Ultimately they separated. Wesley's comment, in Latin, in his diary, was simple but eloquent. Translated it read:

"I have not left her, I have not sent her away, I will not call her back."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why Are There No More Raids?

Mr. Editor: Not having read lately of any raids having been made in our city, I am naturally wondering why. Is it because our citizens are becoming more law abiding, or is it because the bootleggers manage not to be caught by the federal prohibition officer who has done much towards enforcing the Volstead law? I am sorry I cannot include all the ministers of the gospel as well as many of the judges who refuse to find a good reason for sentencing these law-breakers to a jail term. Instead of the ministers working in this cause, knowing what a great and good influence they can have in helping the men who are going downward through the accursed rum evil, they feel it more their duty in trying to convince their flock that certain passages of scripture are true while others are false.

I think if Dr. Stickney Grant would put forth his time and energy, towards helping some of the members of his flock to refrain from dringing rum, instead of trying to convince them that Christ is not divine, he would be doing his duty both to himself and to his church.

CHILD TRAINING

BOATS FOR BABY.

By Martina Gardner Owen.

There are two classes of mothers who need to utilize kindergarten principles in the home; those who have children in the kindergarten, that they may co-operate with the teacher in her methods for development of those children; and those living where no kindergarten is yet established and who realize the need of making the most of the golden, quickly speeding, formative years, while still endeavoring to secure a kindergarten at the earliest possible moment. Too much stress cannot be laid upon the importance of this pre-school period. Some child psychologists tell us that the trend of the child's character is determined during the first six years. In any event the problem of keeping the runabout baby happy and busy is the largest one which home life confronted in the home. The average mother has no training for this job. She does one of three things: inundates her child with a flood of "don'ts"; devotes herself to his amusement to the detriment of his character; or leaves him absolutely to his own devices provided he does not "bother" her. By the use of kindergarten methods the mother can so direct legitimate child activity that the child's character will be strengthened while she is left with uninterrupted periods for her own interests and for household duties.

By way of illustration, consider the picture resultant from a rainy day in the average home. Its high lights show tired whining children, a fretful, nerve-frazzled mother, and disorderly rooms. Contrast that picture with this of the home in which the mother has a working knowledge of kindergarten plans.

Drizzle! Drizzle! Drizzle! Drip! Drip! Drip! Mother's eyes searched the horizon in vain for a tiny speck of blue. Undoubtedly this early morning shower was the beginning of an all day downpour, and baby Marjorie was wailing:

"Nasty old rain. Keep baby in the house. No, I don't like my dollies. Tired of my tea-set. Please read me lots of stories."

Mother, keenly conscious of heaped-up tasks, restrained the impulse to exclaim: "Stop bothering me or I'll put you back to bed."

She knew that Marjorie was not naughty, that she merely needed to have her activities wisely directed. She knew, too, that she could easily afford to devote ten minutes to this purpose. She cuddled the disconsolate midget on her lap and read a three minute story. Then she said briskly:

"No more, now, dear. Mother is very, very busy. She must shell the peas for dinner and you may have the pods for boats. See, here is a shiny pan of water on the oilcloth. Here is your rubber apron. And there are toothpicks. Open the pod, so. Put a bit of the toothpick in for a seat and to hold the sides apart. Away it goes across the ocean. Now another. Where is it going and what does it carry?"

Mother's fingers flew nimbly while they talked. They decided that the first boat was loaded with presents for poor children; that the next was bringing oranges for Marjorie's breakfast. The morning harmony was restored. Baby was busy and happy. She was learning to conquer conditions. Her imagination was being trained, as well. And the difference between an untrained and a trained imagination is the difference between the man who is content to remain a hod-carrier and the one who could visualize and plan the Panama canal before a spadeful of earth had been turned.

WATER LEAKING FROM HOTEL STOPS THEATER

Water seeping down through the floor above into the lobby and auditorium of the Strand Theater Monday night caused a postponement of the evening performance. An investigation disclosed that some guest of the Audtorium theater had left the water running in a set bowl in his room, evidently in the early morning, and the floor of the room was covered with nearly an inch of water.

The water had seeped through the oak flooring and down into the lobby and auditorium of the theater making it impossible to hold the performance in the evening. The theater will be open for the regular performance today (Tusday).

OBITUARY

George H. Studley.

The death of George H. Studley occurred at his home at 67 Fifth street early Monday morning. Death was due to hardening of the arteries from which he had suffered for some time, having been a year since he was able to be on the street, but he was not confined to his bed until three weeks ago. He was born in Willington, January 19, 1841, the son of George Manley Studley and Clarissy M. Mowry. When a young man he followed the shoe business, working in shoe factories through eastern Massachusetts and in Providence, and Worcester. He also followed the water for a time just prior to the Civil war.

When the war broke out he enlisted from New London in Co. H, 10th Conn. Vol., and was mustered in at Hartford. He was sent from there to Annapolis, Md., to be drilled and went to Roanoke, Va., in March of the following year. His regiment was put on detached service. He fell to his lot to act as despatch bearer from the fleet to the regiments on shore. His experience as a sailor stood him in well in that particular branch of the service. When his first enlistment expired he immediatey re-enlisted at St. Augustine, Fla., where his regiment was quartered for the winter of 1863-64, securing from there till the war was over and he was mustered out at Richmond, Va. He was twice married. His first wife being Sarah J. Smith, who died in Jewett City in 1892. Ten years later he married Lila M. Edwards of Norwich. In Colchester in 1872 he joined Wooster lodge, F. and A. M., transferring shortly after to Mt. Vernon lodge of Jewett City of which he was a member at the time of his death. A man of kindly disposition and sociable nature he will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter by his first marriage, Mrs. Herman Pukallus and a granddaughter, Virginia Pukallus. His only sister, Mrs. Edwin F. Kent, died in May, of last year.

Mrs. Albert Spotten

Mary L. Donohue, wife of Albert Spotten of 12 Third street died suddenly Monday morning in this city. She was born 42 years ago and has lived practically all her life in Norwich. Besides her husband she leaves one son. There are also four sisters, Mrs. Thomas Galvin of Erie, Pa., Mrs. Jeremiah Berry of Baltville, and Anna and Louise Donohue of Uncasville; one brother, Patrick Donohue of Uncasville.

News of the death of Mrs. Spotten came as a shock to her many friends in this city. She was a woman of fine Christian character and lived for her family. Her many friends extend their sympathy to those left behind to mourn the loss of a member of the [illegible]

SAYS "WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?" IS GREAT QUESTION BEFORE WORLD

The World war disclosed that of the thousands of English Tommies, serving the colors, practically none of them had a true understanding of the living Christ, and this goes to show that the three churches of England are failing to preach the true gospel, said Rev. Dr. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle in his address Monday evening at the Central Baptist church. Without a doubt the same would be found true of the American boys, taught in American churches.

Dr. Jefferson's address was the second of six which he is delivering here under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

What Think Ye of Christ? was the subject chosen by Rev. Dr. Jefferson, who said the question was an old one, that had been asked thousands of times and he could not conceive of the time when it would not be asked, even to the last minute of reported time. Not only is the question being asked in America, but in Asiatic countries, Japanese and Chinese students had people are asking it, in Africa the question is being asked, and on all the isles of the seas.

People today are not asking, What think ye of Alexander, Napoleon, Socrates, or any other of these recognised great men. They do not find themselves interested in these men, but it is of Jesus that they are asking.

Vital Question.

The question, What think ye of Christ is a very vital one in the 20th century. Today with the thousands of important questions it seems that this question would be forced from sight, but instead it is in the foreground. People are wider awake today than ever before. The war made people think, who before never thought. The Mohammedans are thinking, and the black people of the southlands are thinking. The theological question is coming up before the people as never before.

We are living in an age of dissolution. People have had their hopes blasted, seen their aims and ambitions fall, the fact is true, there is no chance for doubt.

Recently we heard a loud crash, and looking, saw that the houses of Europe had crashed to the ground. Immediately people thought of the passage in the word of God and that these countries could be likened to the man who built his house upon the sands, and the storm came and threw the house down with a crash. Europe knew the prophecy full well but paid no heed to it. The old question, What think ye of Christ, simply arises out of it all.

Editors, business men, great thinkers of all kinds now make references to Jesus Christ, as never before. They realize as the people do, that the world is facing a situation such as was never seen in its history, and they are wondering, what is to come out of it all. I tell you that the world will never get back to a real peaceful basis until it realizes that salvation can come only through a wider application of the spirit of the Good Samaritan, which is the Jewish way of saying the spirit of Jesus Christ.

Church Is Needed.

You read letters of editors stating that as never before the church is sorely needed, and unless help comes from them the world must enter a new dark age. It is the need of the cleansing fire of religion of Christ, that will save the world and the church must take the lead.

This spirit is simply covering this world of ours, everyone recognizes the need of a great religious movement which must center around Christ. No other need is given unto men whereby they may be saved, except that of Christ.

We are now on the eve of a period of great theological discussion. We are now going into the era when discussions will hinge on the relationship of God to Christ, of Christ to God, and of Christ to Humanity. Some people think we must not discuss religion. They claim that if one is pious he would never think of disturbing another with a discussion of religion. As an American citizen you can discuss politics, and it is through wide discussions of politics and other things similar that we got our flag. It was the result of internal discussion that thirteen states combined and we got our constitution and government. The League of Nations will come, but it will only come through controversy, which will last through the years. Then when discussion reaches the proper point, the United States will go into the league.

It is the same in science. What everlasting discussions there have been on scientific questions, but out of it all we have our wonderful sciences of today, and proudly say, we are living in an age of great scientific development.

Should Discuss Theology.

Theology has not been discussed to any such extent, people have been afraid to speak their thought on theological questions. The time is coming when people will discuss God, His relationship to nations, communities and to them personally. We can't have any discussions without foolishness, but foolishness never blocked progress for long, for out of foolishness, sometime will come pure thought.

There may be an inadequate conception of Christ, taught by some ministers of the gospel, but don't be discouraged. It was the great Prophet Paul who wrote, men are preaching Christ in the wrong spirit but I rejoice for many are hearing of Christ who never knew of Him before. Wouldn't it be a great day in Norwich if everyone was discussing Christ. There would be many inadequate things said, but God would see to it that His truth would finally come out. Let's not be afraid of controversy, that's the sign of intellectual life in the community.

What do you think of Christ? Have you ever thought on this question? Has it a living form in your heart? Most of us think of Christ as a beautiful Savior, kind, sympathetic. One whose heart goes out to all mankind. Others think of Him as a Teacher. One who knew right from wrong, and arrived at a basis of thought whereby the world might be saved. Others think of Him as a sort of Jewish Abraham Lincoln, an oriental Figure, who gave Himself for the truth.

The Age of the Eye.

That's the way our generations think of Him, because we are in the age of pictures, the age of the eye. As never before the world is feasting its eyes, look to motion pictures for example. The artists today are picturing Christ, and many other beautiful Biblical scenes.

When the war came religion played a great part. One of the greatest things that came out of the war was the book, Religion and the War. This book illustrated the attitude of thousands of young men in the service, and a thorough investigation disclosed the fact that practically none of the men really knew what the expression, The Living Christ, really means. They thought Christ a Saint of those days, they looked upon Him as a Saint or Teacher that lived 1,900 years ago. This fact shows that the British church has evidently failed to get over the real truth.

This is probably also true of the American churches but the New Testament makes it very clear that this conception of Christ is not sufficient. Even the disciples forsook Christ and fled in the last days, shewing that then even they did not understand the Christ. They recognized him as a man far above them, who were sinful, as a Saint and great Teacher. This belief did not save the disciples, but it was later when they really conceived of the true Christ that they were saved. Remember the last words of Jesus, I am not a saint a teacher, I am the word of God, the light of God. This is the religion that overturned the Roman religion, and the religion that will save the world. In all the writings of that man of God, St. Paul, he never mentions the earthly life of Christ. He never speaks of the parables uttered by Christ. Paul did not conceive of Christ as a saint or teacher, he knew Him as the power of God and salvation. He said it is not I, it is the Christ in my heart, it's the power of God that dwells in the human soul.

We sometimes wonder why certain prophecies in the New Testament have never been fulfilled for us. We have not yet the peace that passeth all understanding, the power by which the world is subdued, and the joy, promised by God. I suspect that the reason why these things have not yet come to pass is because we have not recognized Christ as the power of God, the wisdom of God, the life of God living in our hearts.

All sorts of schools have flourished in the past 40 years and often I have felt a fear that the religion might suffer, but always the religion of Christ has lived, and it will always live. The preachers that have power today are only those preaching that Christ is the saviour of the world. Those who remain famous teach that Christ is in God.

The New Testament has come to stay it can never be gotten rid of, cannot be destroyed. As long as the spirit of God within our souls meets with that spirit of God from without we have nothing to fear. When that time comes, when the Christ, the living Christ within, and the Christ without is in the hearts of everyone, then will the prophecies of the New Testament be fulfilled, and all will be joyful and sing, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe offered prayer and read the scripture at the opening of the meeting, and the announcements were made by General Secretary Edwin Hill, who led in the singing of hymns for which the music was furnished by Swann's orchestra.

Daily reports to the state police department on the amount of coal received and sold are asked to be made by coal dealers through a request from Superintendent Robert T. Hurley. Supt. Hurley has sent a letter to all coal dealers of the state in his capacity as fuel administrator under the new state law.

Superintendent Hurley also sent a letter to mayors, first selectmen and heads of charitable institutions, advising them that they should take the necessary steps to prevent any hardships.

Superintendent Hurley's letter to the coal dealers calls attention to sections 4 and 5 of the fuel emergency bill as follows:

4. Every person, firm or corporation dealing in fuel shall make and keep accurate and complete written records of all transactions concerning same, showing each purchase and sale, the date, kind, quantity, price, name and address of the vendor and vendee, and the identity of the agency of delivery.

"5. No person, firm or corporation shall knowingly give any false, deceiving or misleading information, or knowingly engage in any transaction that is calculated to create false, deceiving or misleading information, or knowingly incorporate or permit to remain on his or its books, accounts or other printed or written record, any information that is calculated to create or convey false, deceiving or misleading information essential to the ascertainment of the facts concerning his or its dealings and profit and fuel."

This department is immediately putting into effect a system which, we trust, will work to the advantage of both the coal dealer and the ultimate consumer. Each dealer in the state is at this time being requested to make a daily report to this office containing certain data relating to the coal on hand, the coal in transit and the coal on order. Blanks for this purpose are being forwarded under separate cover.

Arrangements have been completed with the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, whereby the state police will be informed as to the movement of coal on their lines. Dealers are urged to make the fullest use of the facilities of this office for securing information upon coal in transit. All inquiries relating to coal in transit should be referred directly to this office.

It is hoped that dealers will continue to honor those requests made by local relief agencies for special consideration to the poor and the needy.

Details Asked of Dealers

The form with which all dealers will be supplied for daily reports will contain requests for the following information:

1. Coal in stock, kind, quality and retail price.
2. Number of cars received on date, including kind, car initial and number.
3. Number of cars in transit, including kind, car initial and number
4. Number of cars ordered but not in transit, and kind of coal.

Boat coal may also be reported on the form.

One of the aims of the department is to facilitate the movement of coal in transit, and dealers having cars past due are requested to report the facts to the department, and an effort will be made to get the cars to motion.

Letters to Mayors

The following letter was sent to mayors, selectmen and charitable institutions:

"On Friday, Feb. 9, Charles A. Templeton, governor, issued a proclamation declaring that fuel emergency did exist and thereby made operative the provisions of the fuel emergency bill. Under its terms, the superintendent of state police has been given powers calculated to relieve the existing fuel conditions.

"To the end of doing the most good for the greatest number, this department will concentrate its efforts on the basic problems of the delivery of allotments to coal dealers by co-operating with the railroads, of securing the distribution of coal to the consumers at a fair price and the institution of prosecutions for violations of any sections of the fuel law.

"As the season is already far advanced and because of physical limitations, it is necessary to rely on existing local relief agencies to carry on the work of supplying coal to the poor and the needy. Where such relief organizations do not exist, we urge their immediate formation.

"This department wishes to assure all local agencies, private or municipal, that in order to make all relief measures effective, it will support them with all the authority granted by the fuel law. Complaints which call for drastic action can either be submitted to the local fire marshal, to local policemen, to representatives of this department who will make headquarters in towns where the conditions are most serious or directly at headquarters at Hartford."

BOARD OF RELIEF IN LAST DAY FOR COMPLAINTS

The board of relief, Fred G. Prothero, James C. Fitzpatrick and M. Frank Leonard, will today (Tuesday) close the 20 days in which it sits to hear compyaints from taxpayers over the assessments that have been placed on their property for the grand list.

There have been a fair number of complaints received by the board, but not so many as last year, in which a good proportion of the complaints were from automobile owners who did not understand the plan upon which valuations were placed upon their machines. This year the plan has been better understood and owners have recognized that the same treatment has been given to each automobile owner, so that they have been better satisfied.

Between now and the first of March the members of the board will go over the appeals which have been presented to them so that they will be ready to report on such abatements as they see fit to make.

MAN AND WOMAN WILL BE IN SUPERIOR COURT

Peter G. Moshl, 21, who was arrested Monday afternoon where he was working in a Greeneville mill, pleaded guilty to the charge of adultery with Mrs. Lillian Nelson, 16, wife of John Nelson, 55, of Hallville, when he was presented before Justice of the Peace V. P. A. Quinn late Monday afternoon at a justice court at the Norwich state hospital. Justice Quinn bound him over to the superior court under $500 bonds, which Moshl was unable to furnish. He went to jail. The woman in the case was put on probation and will appear in the superior court.

The husband found his wife and Moshl at the Nelson home Monday morning and made complaint to Grand Juror William B. Mitchell. Constable Michael Nolan arrested Mrs. Nelson and then went to Greeneville with Officer John Casey, where they arrested Moshl.

NOLLE IN AUTO THEFT CHARGE AGAINST RODDEN

The case of the state against Thomas A. Rodden of New London, charged with theft of an automobile which he later resold to a Niantic man was nolled in police court in New London Monday. Attorney George Curtis Morgan acted as counsel for Rodden in the case. The state admitted after numerous continuances of the case and conferences with the state police, who made the arrest, that there was no direct evidence that Rodden was in any way a party to the theft of the car.

All that the state was able to show was that Rodden had sold a Ford which at some previous time had been stolen in New Jersey. Rodden was alleged by the state police to have been associated with Singer of Bridgeport, but the proof was lacking.

TEN PLACES RAIDED IN NEW LONDON

Upon evidence secured in New London by Newton Maynard of Ledyard and Francis Paquette of the city, ten arrests were made in the city Saturday evening in charges of violation of the liquor laws and those arrested were presented before the New London police court Monday morning.

Fines of $200 and 60 days in jail were imposed in several of the cases. The accused men took appeals.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Just now the financial world is interested in the offer of a syndicate of bankers representing numbers of cities in the country of $14,505,800 of voting trust certificates of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company with dividend accrued from the first of the year.

Announcements put out Monday in connection with the proffer state that the company's balance sheet on Dec. 31, 1922, adjusted to give effect to certain subsequent capital changes, shows net current assets of $67,766,-[illegible], or $288 per share of the prior preference stock, including the shares under contract of purchase by the company on or before Feb. 1 of this year. Net tangible assets for the prior preference stock are shown to be $72,-[illegible]92,587, or $376 per share.

For the four fiscal years ending Oct. 31, 1918, during which period there was no funded debt, the net income of the company after all charges and available for interest and dividends, averaged $11,493,793 per annum. Since then the company has passed through the nation-wide period of depression, has been reorganized and is again earning a tremendous yearly income.

Although during the past two years the rubber industry has labored under frequent reductions of the selling prices of its products imposed by the continued downward trend of the market prices of principal raw materials, the company has succeeded in making an excellent showing. It has been obliged to use and pay for high priced materials purchased in 1920. These materials have not been taken in and consumed and the company is again operating with inventories the average cost of which is under the current market. With better selling prices now prevalent and sales volume steadily increasing the company's outlook for profitable business is excellent.

Monday afternoon at his home in Attawaugan funeral services for Robert Stott were conducted by Rev. J. W. Marter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at that place, and numbers of relatives and friends were in attendance. The body was taken to Fall River for burial. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

John B. Stears, 51, one of the best known residents of the town of Foster, is dead at his home there. Mr. Stears died Sunday after a very brief illness. On Saturday he was engaged at his daily duties as a mail carrier. During the day he suffered a stroke of apoplexy. He was born in Foster, a son of George and Betsey A. Bennett Stears, and had always lived in that town. He is survived by his wife.

The temperature went to a minimum of 10 degrees below zero again Monday morning, keeping up the unusual record of one of the most long drawn out periods of severe cold this section has experienced in years. On Sunday morning the minimum reading was 9 below. These readings were from the recording thermometer at Woodward's. In other sections of the borough instruments showed temperatures down near 25 below zero.

This (Tuesday) evening Frank Barker of the Casino alleys is going to Waterbury to roll the first of a block of games arranged with Fitzmore of that place. This will mark the opening of the two-bowl series for which the pair have arranged and is certain to stir up tremendous interest among the followers of bowling, which remains a very popular winter pastime for hundreds of eastern Connecticut men.

On Thursday evening of this week Fitzmore will come to Danielson for the second block of games, which are to be rolled at the Casino alleys, and his event will be the treat of the winner for the game in this section.

Funeral services for Senia Morris, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Morris of the West Side, were conducted at the Greek Orthodox church on Water street and the service was attended by many friends of the family. The body was placed in the receiving vault at Westfield cemetery. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

It recently has come to light that two great truckloads of hard coal were stolen some weeks ago from a dump near the railroad in a nearby village. The thieves operated boldly, taking loads on a five-ton truck upon each of their visitations. Evidence indicates that the coal was loaded and carted away during the small hours of the morning. Efforts to catch the thieves on a return trip for more were without result. The coal was stolen a number of weeks ago. Evidently the risk of being tracked on the snow-covered ground has had much to do with keeping the thieves quiet for such a long period.

High winds of the past few days have drifted snow into cleared highway routes and narrowed the traveling space quite materially in some places. This is particularly true, drivers say, on the Little Rest route to Providence. Plows were at work Monday pushing the snow out of the highway again.

Check continues to be kept during the winter period on heavy motor vehicles using state highways in this section. At Hopkins Hill, near Plainfield street, many trucks recently have been weighed on platform scales put in last year by the state highway department.

Numbers of the members of Killingly grange will be at Putnam next Saturday to attend the installation of officers of Quinebaug Pomona grange, No. 2. An interesting program has been arranged for this meeting.

Members of the Fortnightly club are to meet today (Tuesday) with Miss Marion D. Chollar of Broad street.

A dog that disappeared from Goodyear, where it is owned by Supt. C. W. Young of the Goodyear mills, was found caught in a steel trap. Although dog had been held prisoner several days during bitter cold weather, he shows no serious effect of his experience.

The midweek Lenten services at St. Alban's church are to be on Thursdays, with communion at 9:30 a. m., a service for boys and girls at 4 p. m., and the evening service at 7:30.

A committee representing the Chamber of Commerce met with the town school committee Monday evening to discuss in a friendly way the matter of heat in the Danielson graded school and other subjects pertaining to schools.

A surplus of potatoes has broken the price in this territory to $1 per bushel and a canvass for buyers at this price has been on the past few days by some growers who are anxious to reduce their holdings of the tubers.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) brings the last stated session of members of the board of relief who have received quite a moderate number of requests this year for revision of assessments as fixed by the assessors.

Herbert Barber spent Sunday with relatives in Moosup.

Eric Gilbert was a visitor in Worcester on Monday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Auclair, who has had the management of a store here for several years, has removed to Putnam, where she will be employed in a store.

Nearly two score bodies are now entombed in receiving vaults in the town of Killingly. The winter has been so severe that few graves have been dug in the town of Killingly.

Dr. J. F. Renehan, D. D. S., of Manchester, this state, is to locate in Danielson.

William A. Prescott of Fall River was in Danielson Monday on a business trip.

The Goodyear Mills company now operating day and night shifts is increasing the number of its employes.

PUTNAM

Members of town school committees, superintendents of schools and teachers representing numbers of towns in this corner of the state will be in Hartford today (Tuesday) to attend hearings before the committee on education of the legislature.

This day has been especially set aside by the committee for consideration of numbers of educational bills. Widespread interest among educators in the fate of these bills, some of which have been commented upon at length since their introduction, will bring a large attendance at the hearings. There will be a delegation in attendance from this city.

A temperature of 12 degrees below zero was reported Monday morning from the Manbasset village section of this city, a low lying quarter where for years the lowest temperatures in Putnam have been experienced. There was no good haying weather anywhere in the territory Monday, however. Woodstock reported 13 below, Thompson 14 below, Pomfret 11° below and so on throughout this part of the county. On Sunday morning the mercury dropped to within a degree or two of Monday's mark. As the cold weather continues to hang on the fear of many increases over the possibility of a quick break up of winter when the change does come and of damaging floods as the great accumulation of snow and ice moves out. Ice on streams hereabouts is reported as from 24 to 30 inches thick.

Plans now being worked out by the local lighting company will give Putnam a more brilliantly illuminated business section. The first of a series of electric advertising signs has been put in place and more are to follow. This sign will flash out the name of the firm or the business transacted in the buildings from which they are hung and will give the city a more metropolitan appearance. Negotiations were going on between a lighting company representative and the police Monday relative to turning off these lights. All will be connected so that they can be turned off from a central switch. The lights are to burn until about 10 p. m. week nights excepting Saturday, when their flare will continue until 11 p. m.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) will bring the annual Putnam High School night, an event that always provides a programme of pleasure for the hundreds who keep in close touch with the doings of the school. This year a cast from the school will present a play entitled The Florist Shop, the prize play of the Harvard Dramatic club of 1915. In addition the evening's entertainment will include the showing of the screen feature, Cardigan, a story dealing with features of the Revolutionary war and particularly suited to the Washington anniversary period.

Because of the fact that Ethel Mildred Borden of Plainfield at one time was a pupil at North Grosvenordale, there is special interest here in the stories of her disappearance after leaving a Baltic convent, 13 months ago, and the search that has since continued for her. It may now be told, although the ban has been on against revealing this until now for more than a year, that the state policeman on duty in this part of the state have long been engaged upon the case, following up every little clue that their investigation brought them. For many months the state police have known that the missing trio had gone to Montreal.

Grangers from all sections of Windham county will come here next Saturday to attend the installation of the newly elected officers of Quinebaug Pomona grange. Incident to the installation a special programme of entertainment has been arranged and this will be presented by members of Putnam grange, which will entertain Pomona. An address of special interest also is planned for the meeting.

One of the hard games of the season is looked for by the Putnam High School basketball team this (Tuesday) evening when it goes to Plainfield to meet the high school team of that place. Although Plainfield recently withdrew from the Quinebaug Valley Basketball League, the team is playing out games scheduled with teams in the league.

Beginning on Friday of this week and continuing through the remainder of the month a deputy collector of internal revenue is to be at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce to assist those who desire aid in making out their income tax returns. There is to be no charge for the services rendered. The deputy collector is sent here by the government that all who desire advice and assistance may have it without cost. All income tax returns must be filed by March 15, so prudent persons will give their attention to the matter within the next three weeks.

H. S. Lyon, exchange manager, Miss Ernestine Sherman and Miss Rose McGary of the traffic department in the Putnam central office were at Norwich Monday attending a conference of telephone officials and employes.

M. J. Lynch, who recently underwent a surgical operation, was reported Monday as resting more comfortably at the Day Kimball hospital.

Postmaster Archibald Macdonald will be in Hartford Wednesday attending a postal workers' conference to be addressed by Postmaster General Hubert Work. Other post offices in this section will be represented at what is to be a state-wide conference such as is being held in every state.

Attorney Charles L. Torrey will be in Hartford today on a business trip.

Mrs. Charles T. Thayer and son, Aylward, were visitors with relatives in Danielson, Monday.

Work is under way on the construction of a building for a service company that is to have a filling station at the corner of May and School streets, where traffic moving over the big trunk lines moves every day. Land for the station was arranged for several months ago.

There is little change in the hard coal fuel situation in Putnam. The supply continues short, but careful distribution has made it possible to give each family enough to prevent suffering. Great quantities of substitutes for hard coal continue to be used.

It's a far cry to early July, but many young men who were at the County Y. M. C. A. camp at Black pond in Woodstock are looking forward to spending at least two weeks there during the coming summer.

WILLIMANTIC STARTS ON REVISING CITY CHARTER

Willimantic, Feb. 19—A joint meeting of the public works committee and the committee appointed by the common council and the board of selectmen of the town of Windham was held Monday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to discuss the matter of revising the city charter. The meeting was called to order at 7.45 o'clock by the chairman of the public works committee, T. D. Donohue and the following committeemen were present: James P. Bath, Frank P. Rafferty, Valentine L. Murphy, Roland E. Jordan, George M. Graves, Hormidas Dion, H. E. Pollard, William E. Jackson, Edgar W. Jacobs, Michael E. Sullivan, Walter Abbe, Jr., Leslie Hartson, Russell A. Andrews and Corporation Counsel William A. King.

William A. King read two resolutions which were introduced by Alderman W. E. Jackson and adopted by the common council, the first being the establishment of a permanent chief for the local fire department and the establishment of a captain of the police department, the position of captain being between that of chief and lieutenant, and will be for the purpose of having a commanding officer with power to accept bail at the police station at all times during the day and night. The hours of the chief, captain and lieutenant to overlap each other in such a fashion that an official would always be on duty at the desk. The positions of the chief and lieutenant are to remain the same. These resolutions were voted approved by the joint committee.

The first clause taken up by the meeting was the establishment of a permanent health officer for the town and city combined. Mr. King stated that the compensation of the town health officer was fixed by the state law, but that having a city health officer and his compensation was left to the judgment of the city government. It was his opinion that it would be advantageous to combine the salary of the city health officer with that of the town health officer and select him as a permanent official. Mr. King then stated that the present city health officer, Dr. W. P. S. Keating, was doing very efficient work although receiving a very small salary.

It was moved that the clause adopted by the public works committee which called for the abolishing of the present board of engineers of the fire department be eliminated. Each member of the present board receives a salary of $50 per year.

The matter of providing a method of securing better police protection at fires was then discussed but no definite action was taken. The matter of consolidating the city, town and personal tax collectors and enumerators under one head was taken up. It was stated that it would probably take nine months in which to collect the taxes which would leave three months in which to do the enumerating. This act would call for an amendment to the city charter. A resolution made by Alderman Jacobs was adopted, that the chairman appoint a committee of six to include himself, three members from the city and two from the town to bring before a future meeting of the joint committee a number of recommendations in regard to the revision of the city charter and the consolidation of the city and town governments. The resolution went on to state that the sub-committee and every member of the joint committee bring a copy of the city charter and go over it thoroughly with a view of advising such changes as they thought best. The meeting was adjourned at 10 p. m.

The purchase of two new motor-generators for the fire alarm system has been made by the city. The generators will replace the old ones now in use and will increase the efficiency of the present system 80 per cent. The old generators are to be repaired and sold.

MISS GLADYS STUDLEY, beautiful New York society girl, who gives Tanlac full credit for her return to health.

Miss Gladys Studley, a beautiful and popular society girl, residing at 430 West 119th street, is among the thousands of New York City people who are praising Tanlac for the return of their health, strength and happiness.

"For three years past," said Miss Studley, "I have been in a very badly run-down condition and when I began taking Tanlac, I had little hope of ever being my normal self again. My nerves were so undone that at times I could not keep back the tears. Some days I enjoyed my meals and other days I simply had to force myself to eat. I had no energy and the least exercise would leave me completely exhausted. My complexion was becoming sallow and rough and I just seemed to be getting old before my time. Things had become almost unbearable and my whole system seemed to be crying out under its burden of ill health.

"Well, it wasn't many days after I began taking Tanlac until I knew I was on the right road to recovery. My appetite increased, my tired feeling began to leave, my nerves steadied down and before long I was feeling like an entirely different person. My complexion is even better now than it ever has been and everyone is asking me what has brought about such a great change. I am so grateful for the way Tanlac has helped me back to health that I never lose an opportunity to recommend it. It certainly is grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Over 35 millions bottles sold.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

"A chest cold is dangerous," says Dr. Vapor-Eze. "Let me get it before it gets you. One treatment brings great relief."

Not even a little cold is to be sneered at, because it is an infection which may easily spread through the air passages and result seriously, if you don't break it at once.

There are three mighty good points about Sterling's Vapor-Eze—it's quick—it's safe—and it's sure. Just rub it on that sore, tight chest, all around that raw, husky throat, and place a little in each of the clogged, inflamed nostrils. Then go to bed—and simply breathe the cold away.

Vapor-Eze releases healing, medicated vapors continuously for 8 hours. They go directly to the seat of the cold, and break it up before it has a chance to break you up. Be sure it's Sterling's Vapor-Eze—only 25c at family druggists.

JEWETT CITY

A purple finch was seen the other day here feeding with a flock of sparrows. They were making a hearty breakfast on seeds and grain that had been thrown out at a regular place.

Purple finches are not plenty here in summer and are decidedly uncommon in winter. When two or three happen to alight on the snow, one is at first impressed with the thought that perhaps a quantity of raspberry jam had been spilled. In this section, when winters come like the present, there are a great many who delight in putting out a daily allowance of scraps and crumbs for the back-yard birds. The interest of many does not end here. One woman explains that at first she only used to notice that a flock of evidently hungry bird were partaking of her hospitality with much hopping about and with apparent relish.

Now, in the same flock the same woman can identify four birds, daily visitors at her board, and sees every day the English sparrow the junco, the starling and an occasional tree or fox sparrow. In an "items of interest" letter from the Massachusetts first Ornithological society received February 15th, the attention of people in this locality is again called to the unusual movement of heretofore strange birds.

The saw-whet owl may be met with any day, in some sheltered hedge or evergreen tree near one's home. The Richardson's owl is here, too. Both are little fellows and are on a visit here from their homes in Manitoba and North Dakota.

"They are not very showy, but they eat here at the rate of 10 cents worth of staple food daily." Many Jewett City people will well remember the peculiar high keyed call or noise they used to hear for a considerable time during darkness, since Augustus Reed used to saw his big upright saw, at the old saw mill under the hill, near his home in Lisbon. If that sound should greet one's ears now some early evening look sharp, and Mr. Saw-Whet may be seen peering from some nearby shrub. It will answer to the name of Scotiaptex Acadicus and if it were possible he would ask if you could introduce him to a fatty mouse or two. He might also add that he can't see much during the daytime, but at night, nothing gets by Mr. Saw-Whet, when it comes to rapid noiseless flight and keen vision.

In a time like this, when so noted a man as Rev. Charles E. Jefferson is preaching every evening in Norwich, Jewett City people feel more than ever the lamentable fact, that it is not possible to leave Norwich later than 7.45 by trolley. Many borough people would be much pleased to hear this eminent speaker, and indeed, many other times and for many reasons, tarry in Norwich later than a quarter of eight. The trolley schedule makes it impossible for those who haven't personal transportation.

Thermometer readings from several localities hereabouts, proclaimed that Monday morning was the coldest of the winter. Sub cyphers reports were heard from a number of places in the town. From zero at 6 a. m. the mercury rose to above freezing in a few hours.

A Jewett City man went to Providence one day last week. Returning he came out of the depot into the big train shed. He said he wasn't sure where he was. A train went along drawn by a N. H. & H. locomotive. Two other trains followed, one attached to a Central New England engine and the last being pulled by one marked in big letters, Bangor & Aroostook.

Probably considering its area, the farming country round about Jewett City can be classed in the "A" list for poultry raised and eggs produced. Many will attend the public moving picture exhibit and lecture on poultry raising by Dr. O. B. Kent in Rhoun hall tonight. It is said that the excellence of this exhibit has challenged the attention of poultry raisers everywhere.

It is to be understood that it may be more than other organized poultry arrangements that are taking place in Jewett City and Lisbon at this time.

The lecture tonight will go to show the value of feed.

Coincident with the present more than usual poultry raising activity in this section this month, Postmaster D. L. Coit has just received notice of the requirements demanded of postmasters to handle the property of the old chicks by parcel post. This is of especial interest to local people when it is noted thatover 10,000 baby chicks were received at this post office last spring and summer. The requirements: Do not give food or water to the chicks while in transit. Dispatch as quickly as possible and deliver to addresses promptly upon arrival at offices of destination. Do not place packages in mail sacks or cover with other mail matter. Always keep parcels right side up and as near level as possible. Do not stack for any considerable length of time unless sufficient space is left between boxes for ventilation. Do not expose to cold and do not put in a place near hot pipes, stoves or radiators. Protect them from all extremes of cold or heat.

Miss Ruth Cregan and William Beaudry were married Saturday, evening at 7 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. H. T. Wilbur. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Austin W. Harris. After the ceremony the newly married couple left for a honeymoon visiting relatives of the groom.

Two feet of snow did not dampen the spirits of the friends of John Davis and David McElvey of Boston, who gathered at Camp Morro to celebrate the marriage of the former and the departure of the latter. A supper prepared by Herbert Thompson and Louis Bakanowsky consisted of vegetable soup, olives, pickles, roast chicken, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, celery, cranberry sauce, fruit salad, cake and coffee. After the supper an entertaining program was furnished by a Camp Morro radio and phonograph; sleight of hand tricks by William MacLugage, and songs and stories by Walter Benjamin. Those present were Frank Gering, Herbert Thompson, Lennas Hokanowsky, William MacClugage, Walter Benjamin, Rainey Gordon Willis, David McElvey, John Davis and Gerald Wolf.

Four years ago the Children of Mary gave a Mardi Gras carnival for the benefit of the parish and the net receipts were $225. This year at Mardi Gras the Children of Mary gave a whist for the same purpose and netted the magnificent sum of $2,725.95, which was turned over to the treasurer of the parish. The only donations given were $119, which are included in the net sum, showing the faithful work done by the members of the society and the co-operation of the community.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, Feb. 19.—Heavy profit taking, particularly among the usual leaders, failed to prevent speculators for the advance from continuing their operations in other sections of today's stock market, giving the list a decidedly irregular appearance during most of the session. The weakness was most pronounced in shares which have enjoyed the most spirited advance, the reaction in these issues being generally regarded as a natural correction of a weakened technical position.

Further increases in the price of Copper, Zinc and Montana and Wyoming Crude Oils again drew attention of those groups. The improvement in Sterling exchange, demand bills selling at $4.69 15-16th, a new high record since the "pegged rate" of $4.75 was abandoned in March, 1919, also had a cheerful effect on sentiment.

New high records for the year were made by a number of stocks, including Anaconda Copper at 51 1-8, Kennecott at 43 1-4, Inspiration at 91 3-8, Utah at 71, Chile at 30 1-4, Chino at 28 1-8; Callahan Zinc at 12 1-2; American Smelting at 65 3-8, Public Service of New Jersey at 100, 3-4, Stromberg Carburetor at 77, American Bosch Magneto at 43 1-8, General Motors at 15 1-2, Western Union at 119 3-8, Louisville & Nashville at 146 1-2, and Illinois Central at 116 1-4, but a number of these prices were shaded at the close.

North American was sold heavily on publication of the recapitalization plan providing for a reduction from $10 to $10 in the par value of the issue and containing a proposal to double both the preferred and common in order to provide for stock dividends and the acquisition of new properties. The stock dropped as low as 112 and closed at 114, off 2 points from Saturday's close and 1 points from last week's high. Columbia Gas also was heavy. Strength of Public Service of New Jersey was based on optimistic expectation of higher gross and net earnings in the company statement to be published later in the week.

Failure of the American Locomotive Company to earn on the preferred dividend and more of its common results, in some cases of the equipments, but during support was forthcoming on the strength of the unusually large volume of unfilled orders on hand. American Locomotive closed 4 points lower at 124 7-8 and Baldwin dropped 1 1-2 to 135.

The brisk rise in Louisville & Nashville reflected the marked increase in traffic and earnings and speculative expectation of an early and favorable decision by the interstate commerce commission on the roads application for authority to increase its capital stock and declare a stock dividend. The U. S. supreme court's decision upholding the I. C. C. ruling permitting New England roads to secure for themselves a larger division of joint rates on freight moving between the country and the rest of the United States resulted in a rally in New Haven toward the close which carried that stock up 1 point to 20 1-2. Other rails closed firm.

The new high record for sterling, which reflected a scarcity of commercial bills and general satisfaction over the terms of the British debt settlement, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. French checks were sold above 6.00 cents and moderate improvement was noted in the other allied rates.

Call money opened at 5 per cent. and then eased off to 4 1-2 where it closed. Time money was in fair demand at 5 per cent. for maturities of three months and longer. The commercial paper market was slightly firmer, prime names for six months maturity commanding 4 3-4 per cent. with some of the shorter dates selling at 4 1-2.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Feb. 19.—Bond prices moved within exceedingly narrow and irregular limits in today's relatively quiet dealings. Brisk advances in the copper company bonds based on a new high price of 16 cents a pound for the red metal, was the only conspicuous feature. Gains of a point or more were recorded by virtually all the Anaconda, Cerro De Pasco and Chile issues, but some of these were shaded at the close.

Conflicting price movements took place in the foreign group, the chief feature of which was a gain of 1 3-8 in French 7 1-2's. Brazilian 8's and 8's were heavy, each dropping about a point. U. S. government securities were again reactionary, the losses ranging from two to fourteen cents on $100.

Trading in railroad mortgages was quiet. The only outstanding development being a drop of two points in Iowa Central refunding 4's. In the industrial group losses of a point or more were recorded by International Paper 5's, Series E, Wickware Spencer Steel 7's and Eastern Cubas sugar 7 1-2's.

Total sales (par value) were $11,305,000.

Chief interest in new capital offerings today centered in the $14,000,000 issue of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company 8 per cent. cumulative prior preference stock at $95 a share, books for which were closed this afternoon.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Continued cold and unsettled weather conditions during the past week hampered the building progress in Norwich and vicinity to a considerable extent. On a few projects where the operations had reached a stage that cold weather did not interfere, good progress was made. During the past week four building applications have been granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton.

Charles D. Joslyn has been granted permission to erect a building on West Main street. The building will be of frame construction and will be 36x40 feet and 16 feet high with hip roof. The frame will be of spruce frame with novelty siding and slate coated roofing.

From plans drawn by Cudworth & Thompson, work has started on the remodeling of the second floor of the Preston Block on Main street owned by Peter Sellas. A new stairway to the second floor is to be set in and the building so changed that a new store will be made at the west end of the building.

Henry Pukallus has been granted a permit to alter the building at 414 North Main street owned by Martin Rozycki. The building is 37x27 feet. The front of the building will be raised one story and the tenement on the first floor will be remodeled into a store.

Samuel Kadish is to remodel his barn and garage on Elizabeth street into a modern bungalow. The foundation will be of brick and stone and the construction of the building will be frame. There will be six rooms and bath and on the outside will be a piazza. The new building will be 16x22 feet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 15 sales of real estate, or one more than for the corresponding week a year ago. The morgage loans for the respective weeks were $52,100 and $77,875.

There were three sales of real estate in New London during he past week as compared to 17 sales for the same week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $40,900 and $102,250.

STATE BUILDING SITUATION.

Building operations continue inactive, with indications that when the winter conditions loosen up there will be an unprecedented volume of new constructions, at least this conclusion is reached after a canvass of the offices of architects and contractors. Once the frost comes out of the ground a lot of foundations will go in. Only 57 permits were granted in the past week in the larger centers, the cost of the construction being $231,579. The record was not much better in the same week of the year 1922, when there here 96 permits for buildings costing $673,905, and 76 in 1921, the buildings costing $163,228.

NEW LONDON.

Ground has been broken at 94 School street for a house which Leonardo Minucci will erect for himself. It is to be of wood, 26x36 feet, having six rooms, fitted with modern improvements. The cost will be approximately $3,000.

Building Permits.

Max Fabricant, frame garage, Kraut street, $200.

Leonardo Minucci, frame house, 94 School street, $3,000.

WILLIMANTIC.

Doyle & Murphy of Willimantic have been awarded the contract to build a theatre and business block on Union street for Abraham Krug. The proposed building will be of brick and concrete, fireproof construction, with a frontage of 90 feet and a depth of 90 feet. It will have a seating capacity of 1,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Wheat ranged lower in price most of the time today owing chiefly to renewed eastern selling on a large scale. The selling, however, was well absorbed and the market rallied at the last, closing unsettled at 1-4c net decline to 1-2c advance with May 1.20 1-4 to 1.20 3-8 and July 1.15 5-8 to 1.15 3-4. Corn finished 1-8c off, oats 1-8 to 1-4c up, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 7c lower.

At first, the market had an upward slant, influenced more or less by adverse weather conditions for the winter crop, especially southwest. Sterling exchange at the highest point since 1919 was also a bullish factor. Today's initial upturns in the value of wheat, though, were met by heavy selling of the same sort which at times last week brought about numerous sharp setbacks in price. On the other hand, resistance to this pressure developed strongly today at and under 1.19 for May and with commission houses demand becoming quite general, the market showed a good deal of recuperative power in the late dealings.

The fact that an increase of 139,000 bushels today in the United States visible supply was much smaller than had been looked for, acted as a handicap to bears, and so, likewise, did word that a moderate amount of export business had been done.

Another source of disappointment to the bear side was failure to dislodge important selling orders which in some quarters were expected to come in automatic operation as a means of stopping losses when the market touched 1.19 for May.

Corn was weakened by a speculative selling, the effect of which was nevertheless partly counter-balanced by lightness of rural offerings. Oats were firm, primary receipts being scant.

Provisions sagged with hog values, despite an advance in lard at Liverpool.

Day's total sales 1,206,000 shares.

20 industrials averaged 102.96. Net loss .25. High 1923 103.23; low, 96.96.

20 railroads averaged $9.80. Net gain .51. High 1923 $9.80; low $4.53.

FIFTY THOUSAND WOMEN

would comprise a vast army, yet that is the number who have replied to a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn Mass. Ninety-five out of every 100 letters from the women contained positive assurance that they have been benefited or restored to health by taking this old-fashioned root and herb medicine. This is more remarkable evidence of its power over the ills of women. Therefore with 95 chances out of 100 that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will overcome such ailments for you, why should you continue to go through life in pain and suffering?

NORWICH TOWN

Having passed the week-end at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Gurdon P. Bailey of Elm avenue, Mrs. Old Bailey has returned to Hartford. The latter part of last week Mr. Bailey was in New York city, attending the fourth mid-winter conference of the Trust Companies of the United States held at the Waldorf Astoria.

A short time ago Mr. Bailey took up his duties as assistant trust officer of the United States Security Trust Company, an organization formed by uniting three banks. He was formerly chief clerk to Attorney Holcomb in the tax commissioners office at the State Capitol.

William Lee of Toledo, Ohio, is visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Sterry at their home on Lee avenue.

After passing several months in Norwich Town, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington and relatives on East Town street, Mrs. E. K. Knowlton returned Saturday to her home in Mountclair, N. J.

The February meeting of Ever-Ready Circle of the King's Daughters will be held this Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Sarah Chapin of Town street.

At the Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor service of the First Congregational church, Sunday evening, at 6 o'clock Miss Vivian V. Lincoln was the leader.

Sunday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich preached from Psalms 48:12-12. Walk about Zion, and go round about her, tell the towers thereof. Mark ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces, that ye may tell it to the generation following.

The regular Sunday evening service and the Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor service were combined with sermon by Rev. Mr. Aldrich, who was the leader. The topic was $50,000 for Improving Our Community. How Should We Spend It? Gen. 4:9.

The Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms was in charge of Rev. James B. Aldrich, assisted by several young people of the Methodist church choir. Hymns given included: Christ Arose, Jesus Saviour Pilot me, My Saviour First of All, He Leadeth Me, Jesus Loves Even Me, Abide With Me.

Rev. Mr. Aldrich read the Scripture lesson from Luke 15, and offered prayer; which was followed by the anthem, The Glory Chorus, by the choir. Miss Hazel Cruthers accompanied at the piano.

In his address, Rev. Mr. Aldrich touched on the life of the Master, also of Mary and Martha. In connection with this, he said that the Saviour is always in company.

After the close of the service the young people sang several extra songs for the pleasure of the gathering.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

OLD DANNY FOX.

Old Danny Fox with his two little sons
Stood just outside his den.
The snow was nearly two feet deep
In the shady forest glen,
But they didn't care for they each such fun
Making a snowman with a sun.
From a great big stick they ... I found close by,
To stand right up to the cold blue sky.

"I saw Little Jack Rabbit last night, my dear," said the crafty old fox to his wife, as he stuck a piece of coal in the snowman's round head for an eye, "but I couldn't get near enough to catch him. My, but he's a wise little bunny," and then Danny Fox began to whistle:

"If you want to catch a rabbit,
You must have a crafty habit,
For he's timid, very timid.

BERT LUCAS WRITES OF CALIFORNIA CITY

Herbert W. Lucas of this city, who is making a western tour in company with his brother-in-law, David Fitzgerald of Montville, writes The Bulletin as follows from San Diego, Cal., under date of Feb. 12:

Well! We took a ride over to Caronda, San Diego's classiest suburb. It is reached by ferry across San Diego bay, one-half mile across it. We saw the residence of John D. Spreckels, the great sugar king's home. He practically owns this town. He owns the street railway, three hotels, one or two theatres and has given a lot to the city. We attended an organ recital, also held out of doors, which was fine Sunday, Feb. 11. we went up to the stadium, which is the second or third largest in the country, and saw a baseball game between the Balboa team and Golden Hill, local teams, but rain interfered and we saw only six innings. It's a great stadium, takes one think at the Yale bowl. It's a beautiful piece of work. Last evening we went and heard Dr. Frank A. Vanderlip speak on Europe's condition, the second President Harding's policy of inaction and secret diplomacy. What Europe needs, he declared, is a spiritual regeneration. The trouble there is not financial, not political. He said the United States should lend a guiding hand but that we should not enter further loans in money. He said as far as Germany is concerned, the people as a whole appear not particularly well dressed or well fed. Mr. Vanderlip said in Berlin there is evidence of the most wasteful extravagance. The decline of the mark brought an advantage to the manufactured goods for export with the opportunity to sell for cash, profitably into the exchange of the country. He said, concluding: "Buying gold with big notes and carrying on industry under present conditions is not practical." And we said in regard to the high averages in one way France is justified in doing anything to collect the cost of the destruction in the war. But she can't get it out of the country by the billions.

We took a ride over to what they call Tijuana, 18 miles from here over into Mexico. The line has racing. The town there is all crazy about it. Everyone here about bets on the races. Gee, the place is wide open, saloons, cabarets, roulette tables and all the drinks you want. They charge $1.50 to get into the races, and it costs one and one for a drink of whiskey, 35-cent bottle of good beer. The place is wide open. There are about 75 motorcycle cops near the line. It was a great treat to see how wide open gambling is over in Mexico.

Well, this evening we sat up in a little park and heard a band rendering played by a band that is holding a carnival here. It was very nice. The street cars here are run by routes Nos. 1, 2, 3 and so on. The street numbers are in the same [illegible] The town is well lighted [illegible] should think [illegible] the town as to [illegible] The climate here is beautiful [illegible] one gets used to it. We can live very cheap here. Hotel rooms per week $10. We go to one restaurant where you can get all you can eat at 25 cents, one cup of [illegible] and [illegible] Sunday Chicken Soup, Grape Juice, all the bread you want, but I don't care to locate here. We will leave here tomorrow at 7 a. m., on what they call the Motor Transit Co. to Los Angeles, Coast Route. Leave here at 7, get to Los Angeles at 12. All aboard!

Romans as early as 500 B. C. used on the eyelids of blind ones hollow earthenware cups, on which eyes were painted.

WHAT CAUSES HEADACHES?
"Fruit-a-tives" Prevents Auto-Intoxication
Auto-intoxication means self-poisoning. Many people suffer from partial Constipation or insufficient action of the bowels. Waste matter which should pass out of the body every day, poisons the blood.
As a result, there is Headache, Indigestion, disturbed Stomach, lack of sleep, Rheumatism and Eczema.
"Fruit-a-tives" will always relieve Auto-intoxication as these fruit tablets, made from fruit juices, act gently on the bowels, kidneys and skin and keep the blood pure.

STATE GAME PRESERVES MAY PROTECT VERMIN

In accordance with Chapter 183 of the General Statutes, there have been established state game preserves, in which all hunting is prohibited and no trapping allowed, except by special authorization of the commission to trap vermin. One of the preserves in Fairfield county was leased under the condition that no wild life should be killed and for that reason it is impossible to keep the vermin reduced to a minimum. Experience has demonstrated that on tracts where all hunting and trapping is prohibited, the place becomes a refuge for predatory animals and birds which increase in numbers while the more desirable wild life is preyed upon by these creatures and thus the object of the preserve is defeated.

Some of these preserves are of very small acreage. The policy of the present commission is to discourage establishment of preserves of small acreage and to encourage a limited number of preserves of an large acreage as practicable. Some of these small preserves are established from purely altruistic motives while some were evidently established for the purpose of aiding the owner in protecting his property against trespassers and with no other object in view.

New London county has one preserve of 300 acres at East Lyme of which the state farm for women is lessee until 1924.

In Windham county there is a "no shoot" preserve at Pomfret, leased to Casper E. Goodrich until 1924.

By authorization of Section 2166 permits to transport, without the state game lawfully killed and possessed were issued to non-resident licensed hunters to the number of [illegible]. The primary object of the regulation requiring these permits is to guard against the poaching of game by shipment without the state. There are strong indications however, that the law is frequently disregarded by sportsmen and that it does not really act as much of a deterrent to market hunters. It is, however, an aid to the detection of market hunters, and sportsmen generally should uphold the law in their own interest.

Permits to transport fish and game into the state as per Section 3166 have been issued during the years 1920 and 1921 to the number of [illegible].

FRACTURED SKULL BRINGS DEATH OF J. L. SPIERS

James L. Spiers of 43 Granite street, New London, who fractured his skull in a fall last Friday on the sidewalk in Broad street, New London, died late Saturday afternoon, Mr. Spiers, who was the senior member of the firm of Spiers Brothers, manufacturers of boilers, was 67 years of age and had been engaged in business in New London for the past 18 years. At the time of the accident which resulted in his death, Mr. Spiers was going to work. He continued on his way, but became unconscious later in the day and was removed to his home.

He was born in Groton, Mass., but in many years was a resident of New York city, Providence, R. I. and Worcester, Mass. He was a charter member and president of the Rhode Island league of American Wheelmen, a member of the Worcester County Mechanics association and of Brainard [illegible] A. A. of Hartford [illegible] Lodge, and of Ben Hur [illegible] Spiers, and by two brothers, Thomas C. and William R. of New London; Robert M. of Worcester, Alexander of Boston and Charles Spiers of New York city.

"How do you and your wife get along so nicely, Joe?"

"I always let her think she is having her own way."

"But how do you manage to delude her?"

"I don't."—Boston Transcript

ANOTHER MIXUP IN RINGING FIRE ALARM

Fire in a bundle of paper napkins in the basement of the Vellis restaurant brought out the firemen at 4.33 o'clock Monday afternoon. The fire was quickly extinguished, six gallons of chemical being used.

Another case of not knowing how to ring in a firealarm from a box made a confusion in the signal, when a waiter from the restaurant jiggled the hook at Box 23 at the Ferry street corner several times. The first round rang 1:, sending two pieces of apparatus to Thamesville to the corner of Shipping and West Thames streets. The hook and ladder truck that followed them down Broadway was turned towards Franklin square by the traffic officer and its crew worked on the fire. The apparatus that had gone to Thamesville made a quick run back to the city as soon as it found out there was no bell from the Thamesville box.

There are yet in Norwich some fire boxes that are not fool proof and Box 23 is one of them. The new boxes cannot be tampered with for when pulled once the alarm is started and no matter how often the box is pulled afterwards the number will come in right.

The firemen want to render good service to the community but state that if people persist in jerking the lever of old boxes several times, mixing up the numbers, it will be impossible for them to respond to the correct call.

FIREMAN HAD PUZZLE IN SMOKE FILLED HOUSE

A house fast filling with smoke but without any fire that could be seen made a puzzle for the Norwich department Sunday morning at 11 Oneco street, the residence owned and occupied by Miss Margaret Clifford.

A brother of Miss Clifford, who was lying on a couch, had his attention attracted by a crackling sound, and when the house began to fill with smoke suspected that there was a fire somewhere in the house, although he couldn't find it.

He called the firemen, who searched the house from cellar to roof without finding the fire, while the smoke in the house kept getting thicker. Finally the firemen found where a section of pipe had been put in through the partition in a closet into which the kitchen stove pipe led. When the stove pipe was taken down it was found that there was where the fire was leaking through and had cut several 2 x 8 joists in the chase chase.

This is a type of fire which the department is finding quite prevalent now as accumulations of soot in stove pipes become highly heated and when the pipe passes through a partition it offers a fine chance for setting woodwork on fire from the overheated pipe.

TWO COMMON PLEAS CASES WERE SETTLED

Two out of three cases that were down for trial in the common pleas court here Monday morning were settled and the third went over for re-assignment, Judge C. E. Waller presided.

Lawyers Stockwell, Kelly and Desmond conferred in the case of Henry Freeman vs. Abraham Jacobson, and the matter was settled to the satisfaction of all.

The case of Boleslaw Zawacki vs. Louis Rosenberg was settled by Lawyers Quinn and Dudkowski without trial.

The case of Paul A. Schwartz vs. Francis A. Magner was continued for re-assignment.

The court went out to come in here on Saturday for the trial of the cases of Telley E. Babcock vs. Fred J. Apply and others and the borough of Jewett City vs. the Danielson & Plainfield Gas and Electric Company.

Two Day School Holiday.

BELIEVES UNITED STATES.. WILL ENTER THE LEAGUE

Ministers from all parts of New London county attended a complimentary dinner given at the Wauregan House Monday at noon by the directors of the Young Men's Association, that they might meet Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York, who is here to conduct a series of meetings under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. Before the noonday dinner there was a meeting of an hour at which Dr. Jefferson spoke in an especially interesting way of his observations in Europe where he traveled for four months. Rev. Alexander Abbott opened the meeting with prayer and in introducing Dr. Jefferson to the fifty-five men present spoke the gratitude which the ministers of the county felt towards the Y. M. C. A. for bringing to the city a preacher of such prominence.

Dr. Jefferson spoke of his visit to Europe under the auspices of the council of interchange. Three months of the time was spent in Great Britain, then going to the continent. Some of the congregations in Great Britain numbered 2,000 people and in a Danish cathedral he had a congregation of 3,000. There is not a scratch in Great Britain as a result of the war. The only possible change since the war is that of how to get work for its men. In Germany he said he could see no changes from the war.

Continuing Dr. Jefferson said: "All the mills were running, the hotels were crowded and outwardly Germany was the same as before the war. In regard to the treatment of the German people toward Americans I received only the most courteous reception possible. In regard to the stories of overcharging, etc., I had to pay only one cent to get into Germany with what money I had. In hotels the charges were double for Americans as compared to Germans, but even then the charges were only what one would have to pay American hotels.

"In Bavaria we had to pay only 50 cents for a four days' stay at the Passion Play. We then went into France."

"In France I was surprised to find France looking as well as it did. Even at Verdun the depression was not as great as I expected, for I found a great spirit of hopefulness and cheerfulness. Even in the shell-swept fields poppies are very domestic and the spirit is wonderful. Only now and then did I see a woman dressed in black sometimes two or even three women dressed for black."

"I think I had better talk about the League of Nations for I went there to make a study of this. Much to my surprise I found the League of Nations very much alive for I had supposed it had died. All of the people are bound together to support the League of Nations. There are 52 nations in the league and the only principle nations out of the league are the United States, Turkey and Mexico. I found that Great Britain must her best to the league because she could see without the league there could be no stopping of war. The difference between Great Britain and the United States is that Great Britain hates war and that they will not fight, while the United States does not hate war as it should. The only way out is the League of Nations. We will in the future see the need of such a league for the time will come when we will not want to fight. Bye and bye we will be bound to come into the League of Nations. Europe cannot understand why we have not entered into the league. The people of Europe are very conscious of the money made in America during the war. Great Britain is very conscious of the enormous money made in the war. It seems as though America wanted to get all the gold of the world and the people of Europe feel this way. It seems strange that the people of Europe know of the enormous sums made by America during the war. I have as a result of my studies in Europe made up my mind to preach the League of Nations on every platform for I believe the League of Nations will be entered into by the nation.

Following the luncheon, in the absence of Rev. A. H. Abbott, the after dinner program was presided over by Rev. C. H. Ricketts, who called upon Senator William G. Park to lead in the singing of America. Rev. Mr. Ricketts called upon Dr. Jefferson to lead a general discussion on matters pertaining to the church. Dr. Jefferson paid a warm tribute to Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe, pastor of the Park church, this city, the dean of ministers in this vicinity.

During the luncheon, Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church of New London, made a motion, that was carried, expressing the appreciation of the ministers of New London county for the opportunity for fellowship and the get-together of brothers in the ministry through the efforts of the Religious Work committee and the directors of the Young Men's Christian Association.

POLICE GET MURDERERS OF NORWICH MAN

The murderers in New York on Sept. 14 last, of Samuel Kearns, formerly of this city, and Louis Rothstein have been discovered by the arrest of three negroes, two of whom, according to the police have made confessions.

Leon Singleton, his wife, Helen, and Beatrice Pennyfeather, are undr arrest on charges of homicide in connection with the death of Rothstein and Kearns, who own cravats on the roofs of neighboring houses in West Fifty-ninth Street.

According to Detectives Maney, Nally and Lawless, of the West Sixty-eighth Street police station, who made the arrests, Singleton and the Pennyfeather woman have made statements implicating them in the crime. Another negro is being sought.

Singleton and his wife, with the second woman and the other negro, went down to the San Juan section in an automobile the night of September 14, and while Mrs. Singleton remained in the car the others set out to get some money.

The white men, it is alleged, were lured one after the other to the house-top, where the Pennyfeather woman awaited them. According to the statement said to have been made by Singleton, in each instance a dispute arose between the negro woman and her visitor and Singleton and his companion intervened.

In each case the victim first was bludgeoned into insensibility and then garroted with his own tie, after which the negroes went through his pockets. According to the statement Singleton is said to have made, only $2.07 was obtained from the two men.

Singleton was known by the detectives to frequent the neighborhood where the two white men met their death. He is on parole following his release from the penitentiary, but had failed to report as required by the terms of his parole and the police decided he must have something to hide. They picked him up for violation of his parole, let the Pennyfeather woman see that he was under arrest and then told her he had confessed to the murders. The result, the police say was that the woman confessed, and on her statement being shown to Singleton, he broke down.

ASKS RECORD KEPT OF GAME BIRDS SEEN

Supt. J. W. Titcomb of the state board of fisheries and game has sent out the following circular letter:

To All Persons Interested in Feeding Birds:

Many of you have already received communications from this office in regard to the importance of feeding birds, particularly the quail and pheasants during the period that the ground is covered with snow, and I have received some very interesting reports and letters from people who have responded to my request, or through their personal interest in conserving birds, have been feeding them.

This leads me to ask you to keep a diary of each lot of birds you see and also, will you make notes based on past observations of this winter, so that you can report to me at the close of the snow period how many birds you have seen, as enumerated below? Of course, we do not want the same birds reported twice if we can guard against it.

Yours very truly,

NO PHOTOGRAPHS FOR CONNECTICUT DRIVERS

There is no danger that Connecticut motor vehicle operators will be required to have their photographs appear on their operators' licenses, according to the sentiment of the department of motor vehicle officials.

While there is a petition before the Massachusetts legislative committee on highways, which, if granted, will require all motor vehicle drivers to have their photographs on their licenses, it was said Monday in the Connecticut State Capitol office that the officials of the motor vehicle department here have no idea of suggesting such a law for Connecticut.

Representative John L. Fitzgerald of Boston, has presented the petition under discussion to the Massachusetts committee and since its original consideration, protests have been made by a number of automobilists and representatives of automobile organizations. It was stated by one opponent that the next step would be finger printing and Bertillon measurements for motor vehicle drivers if this proposed petition were granted.

HUMANE POSTER CONTENT FOR ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

There is to be $275 distributed in prizes, eight of $10, twenty-five of $5, twenty-five of $2 and twenty of $1.

Children in all grades of elementary schools may enter the contest, for which the posters shall illustrate the idea of kindness to animals or human beings, or point out some way in which wrongs inflicted upon them may be corrected. Each poster is to bear a slogan, should not exceed 24 inches the large way, and may be worked in any material, pencil, crayon or watercolor. In the lower grades colored paper will be accepted, but posters must not be formed from pictures cut from periodicals. No work will be returned.

M'COOK AND MAHER IN CONFLICT OVER STATEMENTS

Executive Secretary Anson T. McCook has denied in effect a statement of Dr. Stephen Maher of the state tuberculosis commission that the commission has been discussing with him and Justice McCook of New York over a year a proposal that they sell McCook Point at East Lyme to the state.

The executive secretary stated that the first inkling he had of the proposal of the state commission to acquire the property as a site for a new infirmary building for the White Beach sanatorium for bone tubercular children, "came in the form of a rumor that the commission was going to 'get' our land."

Dr. Maher is credited with the following statement:

"There must be some mistake about the statement attributed to Anson T. McCook which he is made to say that neither he or other members of the family had been consulted about selling the property in Niantic to the state, and that the first he knew of the matter was when he saw the bill brought to the legislature.

"As a matter of fact the state tuberculosis commission has been discussing the matter with Anson T. McCook and his brother, Justice McCook of New York, for over a year and because of our urging in these consultations a McCook family conference was called in August to consider our question of what price would be accepted. After this family conference Justice McCook wrote us in behalf of the family that the property was not for sale in whole or in part."

Captain McCook made the following comment on Dr. Maher's statement:

"As to Dr. Maher's statement of which you have just told me, the state tuberculosis commission had not been discussing the sale of our place with me for a year or for any other period although there was considerable correspondence about laying pipe across our land. Also a member of the commission had asked me to let him know if ever we wanted to sell, and I told him that I, for onec, did not want to sell. I supposed that that had closed the matter.

"The first inkling of trouble came in the form of a rumor that the commission was going to 'get' our land. At first I refused to credit this. The next I knew, a bill to condemn us had been introduced in the legislature. That condemnation bill was the nearest word to official word that my father or I have had from the commission."

POETRY

IF WE HAD THE TIME.

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
With my better self, that stands so ahaw
In my daily life that rushes so,
It might be then I would see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal;—
I might be nerved by the thought sublime,
If I had the time!

If I had the time to let my heart
Speak out and take in my life a part
To look about and stretch a hand
To a comrade quartered in no-luck land,
Ah, God! If I might but just sit still,
And hear the notes of the whip-poor-will
I think that my wish with God's would chime—
If I had the time!

If I had the time to learn from you
How mine for comfort my word could be
And I told you then of my sudden will
To kiss your feet when I find you ill,
If the tears awark of the coldness feigned
Could flow and the wrong be quite ex-piained—
Brothers, the souls of us all would climb
If we had the time!

A LITTLE BIT MORE.

He says the home's unlike you,
Nobody cares about him,
He hasn't more hearts, or more to-do,
Now anything else we can see.
Yet he really is different. There is something he's seeking,
A something that's more than a high score
For no does all the work that he's paid to do.
Should one ask him what's more than the sum of the same,

Now, one quite right, and he
He draws and paints with a will Add—little bit more.

SENTIMENT FAVORED THE STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

At Hearing Before the Committee on Education Commissioner Meredith Was Frequently Applauded as He Upheld the Policy of the Board—House Leader Buckley Was to the Forefront Among Those Antagonistic to the Policies of the State Board—Matter Under Discussion Was the Laws Governing the Relations of the State Board With Town Schools.

Hartford, Feb. 20.—The state board of education for probably the first time in its existence this afternoon received [illegible] public legislative hearing as the target of criticism which might be levelled against it. The board [illegible] after session, has been in legislative hearings on pending bills, but probably never before did it place itself so squarely before those seemingly antagonistic to its policies.

The committee on education called a general hearing on the matter of policy of the state board. Senator Pickwell, chairman, stated that no [illegible] pending the many bills [illegible] was to be taken up. Those who spoke were to direct themselves to the board's general policy in educational matters. The [illegible] said would be developed [illegible] questions to be asked and the state board would be prepared to answer.

Lieutenant Governor Lyman, acting governor this week, sat with the committee and quizzed Commissioner C. D. Meredith who much of the [illegible] was directed to the board's [illegible] Mr. Meredith replied that some [illegible] were [illegible] the board.

Mr. Buckley questioned Mr. Meredith as to [illegible] authority [illegible] town [illegible] and [illegible] authority town school committees [illegible] expenses and the [illegible] of expenses and the [illegible] or educational purposes.

Mr. Meredith [illegible] laws governing [illegible] relations [illegible] town schools, pointing out that in towns having a grand list of under two and a half millions, the income was not sufficient to meet expense of maintaining such schools as would afford children an equity in educational opportunities." In towns with larger grand lists, he said, relationship was merely of an advisory nature. The state board, he said, came into contact with local school officials through its efforts to see that state money was properly spent—in good buildings, good teachers, necessary equipment and transportation.

Mr. Meredith pointed out that the board did not go into a town unless it [illegible] assistance which was in the nature of expert supervision of its schools. This supervision was a request from the people and was paid [illegible] by the people through forms of [illegible]

The commissioner said the point of [illegible] was not a matter of [illegible] but was more direct in small towns. The board is taking up its responsibilities must be ahead of the [illegible] its progressive- [illegible] and friction.

[illegible] explaining the development of laws which have brought about present conditions, as an answer to Mr. Buckley's first question. On the second question he pointed out that the [illegible] system was an anomalous one [illegible] elimination of the right of creating expense for educational purposes before means for paying that expense was provided had never been brought [illegible] determination. Mr. Meredith [illegible] laws, mandatory, and otherwise, which provide for expenditures for school purposes. He said had the board had never preached the doctrine that it had free scope to spend all the money it wanted.

Mr. Buckley asked whether or not a town school committee should incur expense or obligation before the town, through its town meeting, should sanction that expense.

Mr. Meredith said he heartily approved [illegible] that a town meeting should sanction the expense or contract [illegible]

Mr. Buckley put the question in another [illegible] under the present law [illegible] possible to incur expense without getting the approval of the town meeting.

Mr. Meredith quoted from a legal opinion which approved the right of [illegible] appropriate all the money it [illegible] educational purposes. He [illegible] that under the present law a [illegible] his order on the town [illegible] payment of expenses and the [illegible] must meet it.

Mr. Buckley wanted a "Yes" or "No" answer to his questions to ascertain by what authority town school committees [illegible] spend money for town [illegible] have the town pay the [illegible]

Mr. Meredith said he desired to give answers a "proper setting," and [illegible] reply to the point as requested. Mr. Meredith finally said that [illegible] present town school committees [illegible] without sanction before- [illegible] town meeting.

Mr. Buckley asked if the state board [illegible] a specific statute passed prohibiting that no school committee [illegible] expense in the same [illegible]

After argument, Mr. Meredith inquired: "If the legislature does not [illegible] expenditures [illegible] the responsibility?"

Mr. Meredith referred to the deadlock session of the general assembly [illegible] obligations were incurred without appropriations to meet them and [illegible] decisions by the courts upholding expenditures for schools and other primary purposes, "to explain his position." Mr. Buckley desired the commissioner to give the particular authorities under which towns might incur expense for educational purposes. Mr. Meredith said it was under the [illegible] power delegated to towns. He [illegible] to other questions [illegible] that the law [illegible] to impose [illegible]

[illegible] Chairman Bingham called [illegible] which related to making an [illegible] No [illegible] was submitted, Mr. Meredith said, and Mr. Bingham said he thought it would be a good thing for the state board to observe the law itself. Mr. Meredith replied that the report depends upon the co-operation of 169 towns and without that co-operation a complete report was impossible.

Mr. Bingham called attention to a report submitted in the 1921 session, and the fact that the same report came into this session. Mr. Meredith said it was an absolute mystery to himself and to the board how the 1919-1920 report got into this session.

ANTHRACITE CONSUMERS ARE OVERCHARGED $3.61 PER TON

Washington, Feb. 20.—Producers of anthracite, through [illegible] monopoly organization" of the industry, are taking an unjust overcharge of at least $3.61 per ton from consumers, officials of the miners' union in the Pennsylvania anthracite region charged in a memorial made public today, upon its presentation to the United States coal commission.

Overcharging in anthracite occurs in three separate divisions, the statement asserts, [illegible] per net [illegible] tonnage, added to [illegible] and $1 for transportation and $1 for distribution while it is added that [illegible] owning there is an overcharge which we will not attempt to estimate but which may become the most disturbing factor in the industry in the immediate future. The [illegible] consumer of anthracite [illegible] is charged, "pays from [illegible] dollars to [illegible] overcharge per [illegible] domestic sizes, [illegible] a part of the total anthracite [illegible] unfit for steaming and heating [illegible] over-purchasing [illegible]

Considering the whole [illegible] output of anthracite, the committee says, the overcharges alleged would result in taking $252,700,000 per year from the public in charges which its members "do not believe are inevitable or in any way necessary."

SUGAR CONDITIONS GOOD AND SHOULD SO REMAIN

New York, Feb. 20.—The sudden rise in the price of raw sugar has been gratifying to the Cuban people who feel it will help them out of their financial reverses, Earl D. Babst, president of the American Refining company, declared today on his return from Cuba.

Mr. Babst declared, however, that speculation on the New York Sugar Exchange was greatly to be deprecated, and that those who fostered it and those who followed it "are introducing a gambling element into a good necessity, which in my judgment should be left entirely to the law of supply and demand."

He said sugar conditions were excellent in this country and would remain so unless someone started a stampede in the trade and among the consumers.

For Guidance of Coal Dealers and Users

Suggestions by the State Police Department for Cooperation in Meeting the Conditions.

Hartford, Feb. 20.—The seriousness of the fuel shortage in Connecticut tonight prompted the state police department, now in charge of the situation, to issue a request to the public for co-operation in meeting conditions. The department requested the newspapers to print the following suggestions for the guidance of both coal dealers and consumers:

1—Anticipate needs of the immediate future and make timely application for fuel needs.

2—Avoid unnecessary accumulation of fuel.

3—Utilize substitutes as much as possible considering health and safety conditions.

4—Conserve supplies on hand carefully.

5—Apply to regular dealer first. Accept what he has to offer.

6—Don't expect another dealer to furnish you hard coal in preference to his regular customer who may already be using substitutes.

7—Be fair and reasonable in your use and demand of coal.

8—Those in a position to do so should make concessions and even sacrifices in order not to deprive others in need of actual necessary fuel.

9—Avoid useless interference with dealer's methods of handling and delivering fuel.

10—Avoid asking for small quantity and long distance deliveries of dealers not in a position to furnish it.

11—Remember that the present allotment of coal under which the dealer is receiving his present supply was based, when made, upon less exacting industrial conditions than the present as well as upon expectations of a more temperate season and in addition is forty per cent. short to say nothing of delays in transportation. upon these reasons it is incumbent on every one to share a portion of the resulting inconvenience.

Boston, Feb. 20.—The principals in any alleged inter-state traffic between New York and Connecticut and Massachusetts in stolen automobiles brought to light today by three arrests by federal officers, communicated with one another and with others by radio, according to the expressed beliefs of government officials tonight.

The three men arrested today on warrants charging conspiracy to violate the Dyer act were Louis Schwartz, John J. Silverman and Abraham Elpert. The warrants, with another sent to New York, were issued as a result of a secret indictment returned by the grand jury here.

According to government officials the three prisoners were overheard after their arrest discussing their methods of communication by radio. Government officials refused to make known whether the radio communication system had figured in the gathering of evidence or in the making of the arrests.

3,000 GARMENT WORKERS ON STRIKE IN BOSTON

The strike call, which labor unions declared was obeyed by more than 3,000 and manufacturers said affected but half that number, was issued in an announced effort to enforce a wage increase and shorter hours. The change sought is a wage of 95 cents an hour for piece workers instead of 60 cents; a minimum weekly wage of $30 instead of the present minimum of $15 to $20; double pay for work on legal holidays and a working week of 44 hours instead of the present 43 to 52 hours.

To Bring Charges Against Anderson

Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League to be Accused of Irregularities in Financial Affairs.

New York, Feb. 20.—Acting District Attorney Pecora late today announced he would place before the grand jury charges against William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York connecting him with alleged irregularities in the conduct of the league's financial affairs.

The letter asked Mr. Brackett to advise the district attorney's office as speedily as possible whether or not Mr. Anderson was willing to testify before the grand jury under a written waiver of immunity.

Mr. Pecora also announced abandonment of his intention of interrogating the Rev. Dr. David James Burrell, president of the league, at hi shome in Madison, N. J. He said he had decided to have the clergyman appear before the grand jury.

The decision to lay the case before the grand jury was precipitated by a letter from Mr. Brackett, declaring Mr. Anderson was ready to face grand jury action in connection with the investigation of his conduct of the league's financial affairs rather than voluntarily give information about the $24,700 "publicity" expenditure for which he was reimbursed without an accounting.

FILIBUSTER IS COMPLETELY BLOCKING SHIPPING BILL

Senator Sheppard of Texas Has Spoken a Total of 10 Hours and 45 Minutes, Continuously for 6 Hours and 40 Minutes—Senator McKellar is Prepared to Read an 11 Hour Address—Other Speeches Are Listed to be Made in Blocking the Bill—Proponents of the Shipping Legislation Are Powerless to Stop the Flow of Words.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Republican managers in charge of the administration shipping bill capitulated soon after 11.30 o'clock tonight to obstructionists who had been waging a filibuster against the measure and on motion of Senator Jones, republican, Washington, in charge of the bill, a recess was taken until 11 o'clock tomorrow.

Single-handed, but with the cooperation of a group of determined opponents of the ship bill, composed largely of democrats but including several republicans, Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, for hour after hour during the day and into a night session held the floor in continuation of his speech, begun last night, on the league of nations. He concluded his address shortly after six o'clock tonight. His associates in the filibuster remained at his side continually ready to take up the task should he falter. On concluding he had spoken a total of ten hours and forty-five minutes, and continuously for six hours and forty minutes.

Proponents of the shipping legislation, powerless to stop the flow of words, conferred from time to time but the conferences for the most part came to naught and they bided the time when those waging the filibuster might become exhausted or some opening develop for the use of strategy.

Slight hope of exhausting the filibusters appeared, however, as they formulated their plans for carrying on their long promised fight. These plans, they said, contemplated lengthy speeches by a dozen or more senators and the estimate was made that sufficient strength was at hand to carry on the fight through speeches alone until the end of the week, even if the senate remained in continuous session.

The speeches listed to be made in blocking the ship bill were varied Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, was prepared to read the eleven-hour address made in 1915 by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, a supporter of the pending bill in the famous filibuster that killed the Wilson administration's bill to authorize a government capitalized corporation to buy, build and operate ships in foreign trade, and said he proposed to intersperse the reading "with frequent endorsements of my own." Others planned addresses varied from the discovery of King Tutenkhamun's tomb to the history and principles of cooperative [illegible]keting.

The necessity of other opponents getting into the battle, however, was deferred hour after hour as Senator Sheppard proceeded in one of the most remarkable demonstrations in the history of the senate.

Senator Sheppard opened the active filibuster last night, beginning to speak at 6.27 o'clock and stopping only when a recess of the senate was taken at 10.10 o'clock. Although he suffered an attack of grip early this month, he appeared fresh when the senate met today at 11 o'clock and immediately a quorum was obtained resume[illegible] his speech consisting of a digest of the record of all activities of the league of nations probably the most complete history of the league that has been compiled. Most of the address had been written in long hand and consisted of a stack of papers nearly a foot high.

Senator Sheppard spoke slowly and in a moderate tone, never moving more than two or three feet from his desk. He waved away pages who offered to bring him a glass of water, and refused offers of his associates to make a point of no quorum, thereby allowing him a respite. He sat down for a minute or two several times during the day when by unanimous consent committee reports and several minor bills were taken up and passed without debate.

The Texas senator on concluding his speech was congratulated by Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, the leader in many historic filibusters, and a number of other senators. After a quorum call Senator Williams, democrat, Mississippi, who retires from the senate next month after twelve years of service in the body, took the floor.

Senator Williams said that filibustering was justifiable in two situations: to protect state rights and "when an accidental, incidental, temporary majority tries to forestall the future and defeat the will of the people as expressed at the last election."

The Mississippi senator referred to the "lame ducks" as "mis-representatives" owing to their defeat, and said that everybody know the shipping bill could not pass in the next congress.

The cry of filibustering was hurled back at the republicans by Senator Williams, who said that Senator Jones, in charge of the shipping bill, was the "chief and head of the filibusters by denying other legislation that the people are in favor of."

An endeavor to bring about a recess through an offer to vote at 12 o'clock tomorrow on the pending add motion to displace the shipping bill with the filled milk measure was made by Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, but Senator Jones objected, saying he believed the senate should continue in session.

Senator Reed, democrat Missouri, then took the floor after instructing pages to bring in two large maps, and began a discussion of his resolution authorizing the president to negotiate with Great Britain and France for the purchase of their Caribbean possessions.

The proceedings tonight attracted crowded galleries and long lines of persons unable to get seats extended far down the corridors.

Senator Reed was given a rest in the midst of his speech by a string of roll calls forced by the democrats with motions of no quorum and to adjourn. Senators were routed from dinners and offices, some appearing in evening clothes. Mustering of a quorum, however, was prevented by a number of democrats who, with Senator [illegible], Brookhart, republican, Iowa, remained in a democratic cloak room and peered through the glass doors but refrained from answering to their names.

But even filibustering reached a complete standstill at 10 o'clock when democratic and a few republican absentees broke a quorum.

The senate instructed its sergeant-at-arms to request absent senators to return, but a large number could not be found. Some were seen about the corridors, but a long search by assistant sergeant-at-arms, pages and other atendants, who delved into nooks and corners failed to locate a considerable number. During the search the senate was idle, republican leaders chatting and others taking their ease on the floor and in the lobby. The crowded galleries buzzed with excited conversation over the situation.

After the loss of a half hour a quorum was obtained when an order for the arrest of absentees was voted. The missing members, however, suddenly appeared before the exercise of any extraordinary measures. But the filibusters immediately retaliated by forcing another series of roll calls.

AGRICULTURAL CREDITS BILL READY FOR HOUSE

Washington, Feb. 20.—A comprehensive agricultural credits program, based on the Capper bill passed by the senate, will be reported by the banking committee probably on Thursday and taken up for passage in the house Saturday, under plans disclosed today by republican leaders.

The final drafting of the measure was begun today in the committee. At the same time Representative Dowell, republican, Iowa, presented to Chairman Towner of the majority conference his petition for a party meeting for tomorrow night for the purpose of speeding up consideration of the legislation. Chairman Towner returned the petition, explaining that it lacked the required number of signatures, but stated that in any event he would not issue a call for tomorrow, for there was not sufficient time to notify all members.

Meantime the house today passed and sent to the senate another farm aid measure. It was the Strong bill, [illegible] the federal farm loan system by increasing from [illegible] $10,000 the maximum of loans to individual borrowers, with an additional provision for loans up to $25,000 in exceptional cases and subject to the approval of the federal farm loan board.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Adoption by the assembly today of the amended Walker-Donohue resolution intended to memorialize congress on the modification of the Volstead act to legalize wine and beer, was characterized by Governor Smith tonight as just another bit of the history of prohibition in this state that further proves New York's dissatisfaction with the whole affair.

The measure as finally adopted was amended to require the governor's signature and to provide that individual copies be sent to every senator and congressman. The amendments were recommended by the assembly committee on judiciary when the resolution was reported to the lower house. Adoption resulted by a vote of 78 to 64, in which fourteen republicans voted for the measure and two democrats against it.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
31 Church Street Telephone 1023

Only about three-quarters of the members of the Willimantic Rotary club attended the regular meeting and luncheon Tuesday noon. President Valentine L. Murphy presided. George Slswick of Stafford Springs was a guest of the club.

After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, Secretary Charles W. Hill read a communication from the Connecticut Forestry Association asking for the cooperation of the members in the work of the association. The secretary then announced that at the next meeting he would present registration cards for those wishing to attend the spring conference of Rotary. John Ahern then spoke in regard to the meeting of February 27th when District Governor Donald A. Adams would be here. He stated that the committee in charge had chosen the Hooker house and that members of the Norwich and New London clubs would be present. A number of business men from Putnam who are interested in the organization of a Rotary club in that place will also be present as guests of the local club. Mr. Ahern stated that the committee had hired an orchestra and that there would be decorations. He hoped to make a 100 per cent meeting.

Frank H. Foss said that the work of organizing a Rotary club in Putnam was progressing rapidly and had all the indications of being a success.

A resolution offered by Frank H. Foss was adopted by the members, that a committee of three, including the club's secretary, be appointed to make arrangements for a 900 per cent attendance contest.

The club voted to cooperate with the chamber of commerce in their moral support of the survey of this city with the idea of installing a first class hotel here.

A committee of three will be appointed by the president to act as a joint committee with that of the chamber of commerce in backing up the project.

The secretary stated that there was a boy in town who should be confined to some hospital but that his parents did not have the necessary funds to send him to one, as all those in Connecticut were filled up and all had a long waiting list. It was the opinion of the secretary that the club could be influential in securing a place for the boy. The matter was referred to the boys' work committee.

The matter of raising funds to pay for the expenses of the delegate to the St. Louis international conference was then brought up and it was voted to assess the members one dollar each for four months.

President Murphy then announced that this week marks the 15th anniversary of Rotary and the secretary read two messages to the members of Rotary International from President Harding and Speaker Gillette of the house of representatives in relation to good citizenship.

The meeting was closed with the singing of one stanza of The Star Spangled Banner.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel, sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Connecticut College Concert.

On Thursday evening, February 22, the program to be given at the armory by Maria Ivogun closes the most successful group of concerts ever given in New London. It is the second series promoted by the concert committee at Connecticut College, and the fact that they wisely decided to expend $1000 more than last year for talent has made this series more successful artistically than that of last year.

Miss Ivogun, coloratura soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, is in her particular sphere, the equal of any artist ever presented in New ondon. Her voice is not a powerful one but is exquisitely beautiful in its purity and velvety quality, and is ample in timbre for an auditorium as large as Carnegie Hall, New York city, or the state armory where she will be heard on the evening of Washington's birthday.

On the evening of a holiday when everybody is free, it is expected that the armory will be filled.

Tickets for this concert are now on sale at Chidsey's.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Special Feature Coming to Strand Thursday.

Preferred Pictures and the Al Lichtman corporation, which distributes this brand of motion pictures, are to be congratulated on the fact that they have made the most of all of their opportunities in Shadows, which opens at the Strand theatre Thursday.

When B. P. Schulberg, the producer, selected Ching, Ching, Chinaman as the basis for Shadows, he picked one of the best stories of 1917 by an American writer in the list compiled by Edward J. O'Brien.

Tom Forman directed the picture. The cast includes Lon Chaney, Marguerite De La Mote, Harrison Ford, John Sainpolis, Walter Long, Priscilla Bonner and Buddy essenger. Chaney in Shadows gives another striking characterization as Yen Sin.

The picture has been given considerable scenic investiture. The storm scenes are particularly effective and all through the production there is a sea twang that is unmistakable. From a production standpoint, there is nothing to be desired. The settings are all appropriate and fitting for the character of the story. The detail is faithfully carried out. Forman has paid a good deal of attention to the small points which the movie fan is quick to notice. The climax is a powerful one, and is worked up to in an exceedingly effective and satisfying manner.

A Mermaid Comedy and News Weekly will also be included.

The Attractions at the Broadway Thursday.

The B. F. Keith vaudeville scheduled for the Broadway theatre is as follows: The Elm City Four present an up-to-date vaudeville offering; Bender & Armstrong, comedians; Clifton & Rodelle in The End of a Perfect Day; Eddie White in Why Girls Leave Home; and O'Brien & Josephine in The Song Salesman.

William Duncan is at his very best in The Fighting Guide, which will be shown at the Broadway theatre on Thursday. Duncan's treatment evolves a novel admixture of straight drama and comedy, with a setting grandeur that would do credit to the best efforts of the scenic feature producers. The ensemble proves a usually pleasing combination you can imagine a rather hard-boiled, though intensely human north woods guide, nursing a petulant bobtailed and his va... over the trails, you have the key to the situation which finally exasperates this guide pursuit.

Norwich Y. M. C. A. Course Change of Date.

The third concert in the local Y. M. C. A. course will be given on Saturday, Feb. 24, instead of Wednesday, Feb. 21, as scheduled. On this occasion the Famous Scotch Highlanders will present a fine program. Every race has a sense of humor characteristic of itself. There is no race whose humor is more famous through the English speaking people of the earth at least than the Scotch. The Scotch are credited with many sterling qualities but it is their dry wit and songs which endear them to the majority of people.

The Scotch Highlanders who will appear in the Norwich Y. M. C. A. course are real genuine Scotch artists. Two of the three are nationally recognized, having toured the country for clan concerts or with big Scotch productions. Neil Patterson is a natural born comedian with a splendid singing voice. His wardrobe excites special interest both for its variety and elegance. Mary Bows, soprano and comedienne, toured the continent for three years with the famous Kin Kaid Kilties. With them is Mildred Naleen who acts as accompanist.

No burlesque is attempted in the programme; instead it will consist of genuine material, all in the true dialect clearly understandable: Scotch jokes and stories, Scottish folk songs, modern Scottish songs of the better grade, bagpipe selections, and an interesting feature, brief descriptions of Scotland's most famous clans, how and why they were formed. The programme is interesting, instructive and entertaining. "Hoot Mon! Don't miss it."

Tickets for this concert are 75 cents, obtainable at the Y. M. C. A. office.

Slater Hall Musical Course.

The London String Quartet aptly designated as the premier quartet of Europe, will appear on Friday evening, Feb. 23rd in Slater Hall.

The present members of the quartet are Arthur Beckwith, a finished violinist from London, who is taking Mr. Levey's place until he has recovered his health. Thomas W. Petre, second violin; H. Waldo Warner, viola, and C. Warwick Evans 'cellist.

In New York and other cities where this organization has appeared, it has met with the highest praise from both critics and public, and sold out houses has been its greeting at every performance.

Only superlatives are adequate in expressing the beauty of tone produced on magnificent instruments, each handled by a master. The lovely organ-like tones proceeding from the 'cello, played by Warwick Evans, the rich background provided by the viola, played by H. Waldo Warner, and the exquisite playing of the magnetic leader as first violin Arthur Beckwith and the finished work of Thomas W. Petre, second violin, these are the four players whose ensemble work makes one long to hear them again.

Tickets are on sale at The Cranston Co. Tickets $2.00, tax exempt. Mail or phone orders will be given prompt attention.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON BACK IN BASEBALL THIS TIME AS OWNER OF THE BRAVES

Boston, Feb 20—(By the Associated Press)—The Boston National League club was sold today by George Washington Grant to a syndicate headed by Christy Mathewson, former pitcher of the Giants. Associated with Mathewson are James MacDonough and Emil Fuchs, both of New York. The price paid was not announced. Mr. Grant said it was stipulated in the deal that Fred Mitchell continue as manager of the Braves.

President Grant announced the sale of the club tonight at a dinner attended by the new president, Christy Mathewson, Mr. Fuchs and manager Mitchell, of the braves. Mr. MacDonough, a New York banker returned to that city after the completion of the deal.

The first act of the new owners was to organize and they selected Mathewson as president of the club. Mr. Fuchs who was elected vice-president is a former judge and a former deputy attorney general of New York. It was said that the new owners intended that the board of directors should be composed principally of Boston men.

Mathewson's return to major league baseball as president of the braves marks also his return to the scene of his debut in professional baseball. He embarked on his career as a pitcher with the Taunton club of the old New England league.

The deal that was completed today took from George Washington Grant the majority interest in the baseball club, but left a minority interest of approximately 30 per cent. still in the hands of Boston people. It leaves undisturbed the ownership of braves field by James E. Gaffney, of New York, who was president of the club when the braves won the world's championship in 1914.

Got His Price, Says Grant

The price involved in the transfer of the majority interest was not made known but Mr. Grant said that he got his price to the last penny on his demands." This was confirmed by the new owners. Mr. Grant added that notwithstanding the many rumors of sales and negotiations of sale of the club in the last four years this was the first time anybody had ever mentioned a definite sum to him and the only time any proposal was seriously considered.

It was announced by Judge Fuchs that while New York men would now control the club financially Boston interests would be given preponderance on the board of directors.

Matty Gives Talk

Christy Mathewson signalized his return to baseball by a talk to Boston fans through newspapermen. Referring to his illness, convalescence and recovery during which he virtually exiled himself in the colony at Saranac Lake, N. Y., he said that for the past two years he had been wondering how he could satisfy his desire to get back into baseball.

"I decided for myself that the managing end was too strenuous for me for some years yet, if ever again," he said. "My two years in Cincinnati and several years of association with John McGraw in New York satisfied me that the managing end would take too much out of me in the present state of my health, so I decided it was best to try some other means of getting back in the game. I considered the possibility of taking over some minor league club. On the outskirts of my mind there entered the possibility of major league associations. Recently my good friend Judge Fuchs conceived the idea of buying the braves, convinced me there was a real place and a real future for the club, and here I am."

Mathewson said that after nearly a quarter century in baseball he was glad to be back in Boston where he saw his first major league game in 1899 and where there was an opportunity to develop a team and watch it grow. He said his physicians had sanctioned his assuming the duties of club executive, although he admitted that he still had to take orders from doctors. He said he was not certain whether he would go south with the club.

At this point Mr. Grant interjected the remark that he was going south with the club, "First, as their friend, and secondly, as a fan."

Has Substantial Interest

Judge Fuchs said "Matty has a financial interest here. That interest is substantial. He is president of the club, in full control, and there will be no interference with him. Anyone who would put Christy Mathewson up as a figurehead in baseball would break faith with the fans of the country."

The spirit of the club, Judge Fuchs said, would be that of Mathewson, himself, which he described as "honesty and fair play, a will to win, with hopes of success, but satisfied with good endeavor."

In discussing the team's possibilities president Mathewson said he felt he would take no great responsibility in predicting that the Braves would rise above last place where they finished last season. He added that negotiations were now pending for a deal that would be surprising and pleasing to Boston fans. These negotiations he said were already under way and in the hands of president Grant when ownership of the club changed. Beyond stating that the pending deal was not with the New York Giants, president Mathewson would give no information about it, preferring, he said, to have the fans await developments.

When George Washington Grant purchased the Braves in January, 1919, he said he would retain ownership longer than any of his predecessors, he did. James E. Gaffney previously had held the record of four years.

During Grant's ownership the Braves attained no extraordinary heights of success in the league. The club made the best showing of the Grant regime in 1920 when under Fred Mitchell's management they finished fourth, although the team had not been rated high at the beginning of the season by the prognosticators.

All the other three years of Grant's ownership the team finished in the second division. In 1919, the club finished ninth; in 1921 seventh, and in 1922, eighth.

BARBER OUTCLASSES FILLMORE IN $200 BOWLING MATCH

Bowling with perfect control at all times and with a steadiness that piled up the count for Frank Barber, of Danielson snowed under Roy Fillmore, local pin splitter, and won eight out of eleven strings of the first block of the 33-string match for a purse of $200 at the Acme Alleys on Tuesday evening. The record block of two strings will be rolled at Danielson on Thursday evening.

Barber rolled consistently throughout the match with the exception of the ninth and eleventh strings when he fell down below the century mark. Fillmore got bad breaks all the way through with the exception of the fourth string when he hung up the high single of the evening at 140. Barber's pinfall was 1220 for an average of 110.10. Fillmore's pinfall was 1132, for an average of 102.90. Barber said after the match Tuesday night that he would bowl anyone in Connecticut or the state for anything up to $400 a side and for nothing less than $200.

VILLA KNOCKS OUT KID WOLFE IN THIRD

Philadelphia, Feb. 20—Pancho Villa, flyweight champion, tonight knocked out Kid Wolfe, of Philadelphia, in the third round of a scheduled eight round bout.

Although the local boxer put up a good fight he was no match for the champion, who landed frequently in the first round after a series of rights and lefts. Villa sent his opponent to the floor for a count of nine.

Wolfe came back strong in the next round, but his aggressiveness counted for little against the champion's skill and experience. In the third round the Philadelphian was knocked down twice before the blow which caused his seconds to throw a towel in the ring when the referee had counted nine. Wolfe made no attempt to regain his feet. The final blow was a straight right to the jaw.

Villa's weight was announced as 110 and Wolfe's 112 3-4.

In the semi-final Carl Tremaine, Cleveland, beat Tommy Murray, Philadelphia, in eight rounds.

CANADIAN HOCKEY CLUB WITHDRAWS FROM LEAGUE

New Haven, Feb. 20—The Canadian Hockey club of New York, will withdraw from the United States amateur hockey league after their game with the Boston Athletic association, Thursday, T. J. Saucie, manager of the team, announced tonight. Mr Saucie said that the poor showing of the club had led him to make this decision.

His announcement came shortly after the New Haven Hockey club had defeated the Canadian club 6 to 3 in a league game tonight. The general team work of the local club has proven too baffling for the visitors.

Mr. Saucie said that tonight's game had demonstrated to him the futility of continuing in the race.

The order issued by the Giants barring all unsigned players from training camp has brought at least one holdout back into the fold, it was revealed today by announcement that Jess Barnes, veteran right-hander, had departed for Marlin. The club had not received Barnes' contract today but it was assumed he had accepted the terms offered him for 1923.

WAGNER MEETS DILLON AT DANIELSON FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Feb. 20.—A card that promises the fans 35 rounds of boxing if all of the five bouts go the limit has been arranged for Friday evening of this week at the town hall here and there is every reason why the manner in which the boxers are paired up to furnish a full evening of fireworks with the mitts.

The show appears to be the best of the series arranged here since last fall for it brings together some of the fast and fier professionals of certain classes as well as some of the ambitious boys who represent eastern Connecticut communities and are anxious to step into the spotlight by knocking some equally spirited youngster for a goal and a half. This week there seems to be fully as much interest in the outcome of some of the preliminary matches as in the star bout and the semi-final.

Honey Gil Wagner of Hartford will face Jack Dillon of New Bedford in the star bout of the evening—a 10 round go at 158 pounds. Fans who saw Honey Gil in action here a few weeks ago appreciate what he can do inside the squared circle and are assured that in Jack Dillon he will have an opponent who will force him to the utmost of his ability. It should be a great bate.

In the semi-final Young Stanley Ketchel of New Bedford will face Terrible Terry of Danielson—8 rounds at 120 pounds. Terry has never fought here, but has a long record of successful ring battles fought in Massachusetts. Ketchel is a fast boy with a fine record.

In what may be termed the local bouts Willie O'Dowd of Central Village is scheduled for four rounds with Yuong DeForest of Danielson. They will weigh in at 118 pounds.

A six other fast affair should be the bout between Tommy Woods of Plainfield and Young Alder of Danielson, 120 poundsers who will battle for home and native land.

And then there is Battling Jakey of Dayville, scheduled to go four rounds with Young Choquette of Danielson, at 138 pounds.

This big bill is stirring the imagination of the fans and they will be on hand in droves from all of eastern Connecticut. The bouts will be staged under the regulations prescribed by the state boxing commission.

"Y" Seniors at Plainfield Tonight

The Y Seniors are scheduled to play the Plainfield CCommunity Club team tonight at Plainfield. The "Y"ers will take over all their regulars and the game will probably be an exciting one, since the Plainfielders made a pretty good showing when they met on the local court sometime ago. The Seniors have not lost to any team, except on one occasion when the Seniors were represented by a substitute team.

HIGH SCHOOL FACILITIES FOR NORWICH.

Looked at from any angle the high school situation in Norwich is one which must get early attention. For more than a half century Norwich has not been obliged to give much thought to this question. To a very large extent it has had its high school education provided for it. Nothing would probably please the Academy trustees more than to be able to continue this great service without seeking additional support. But they are limited as to their financial ability to do so, and it is not improbable, if the facts were known, that they have continued to provide high school education for a greater number than the means within their control actually warranted.

It isn't a question now of continuing the same educational opportunities, but of providing for the increased facilities required to take care of the steadily mounting entrance list.

There is the possibility of letting the Academy continue its work under such restrictions as are imposed by the endowment funds of the institution, and have it return to the status previous to the time when the town undertook the payment of the tuition fees. This would mean a greatly reduced number of pupils for that institution, or such as the endowment and tuition fees would permit.

It would then be necessary to take care of those who could not be accommodated at the Academy in a separate high school under such management as the town itself might provide, necessitating an entirely new school and teaching force. The latter obviously calls for the much greater outlay.

Early action is called for because of the present overcrowded conditions.

Careful consideration must be given to the matter for the future welfare of the educational situation.

Proper attention is demanded that under the present conditions the outlay may be no greater than is actually called for.

It is a matter which needs to be thoroughly looked into, and possibly more so than can be done in one town meeting.

HOUSING INSANE IN FIRETRAPS

The fire in the insane hospital on Ward's island, New York, is one that certainly invites investigation, both for the purpose of determining the cause and to disclose what steps might have been taken to give better protection to the inmates of such an institution.

There has been revealed in this fire one of the strongest reasons for insisting upon the construction of fireproof buildings when they are intended to house sane or insane men and women, or when they are to serve as orphan asylums or homes for children.

It will probably be shown that the buildings were old and of construction entirely unsuitable, according to the present day views, for an institution of that kind. If it is demonstrated that the fire resulted from causes entirely foreign to the hospital it may be possible to avoid any charge of heedlessness, and yet it would appear that close inspection could not have prevented a fire from such a cause, or after the fire had been kindled that more adequate means of fighting it could not have been provided.

The large loss of life reveals a situation that is distressing. It must necessarily not only direct attention to that hospital but to all others, if the warning is to bring about preventive measures in the future. It is well to have it established what are the conditions there are characteristic of such institutions. Caring for the insane and getting them away from danger are surrounded by no slight difficulties, but that of course only emphasizes the need of having them subjected to the least possible peril of that kind. Without a doubt there are other states which can well take a lesson from the situation that has been revealed by the Ward island fire.

GETTING BACK TO JUSTICE.

In the past few years there have been several notable murder trials in which women have figured as the accused. In spite of the fact that some women have admitted killing husbands or other men there has been an unwillingness on the part of juries to find them guilty. For one excuse or another they have been given their liberty until the impression has grown that the taking of life by women is beyond punishment. In fact it has occurred at many times that the female murderer actually escaped that such cases were bound to create the impression that little need be feared under these conditions.

The verdict in the case against Mrs. Hazen, who took into her own hands the punishment of a doctor whom she felt had done her, as she thought, a great wrong and guilty of the crime and to have been sane when she committed it, is another decidedly different attitude on the part of the jury. Conditions were not so different in this case than they were in others, but this jury was apparently not swayed by anything except the evidence. They were furnished the facts and understanding their duty proceeded to carry it out, as if for the purpose of letting it be understood that laws against such crimes actually mean something, and that the unwritten law cannot always be regarded as protection.

It can be appreciated that there are plenty of instances where wrongs are committed that may seem to justify the lynch spirit, but the injustice of such methods is as great, if not greater, than in the original matter, where punishment in keeping with the crime rather than murder should have been resorted to. The verdict in this case should do much to bring a realization of that fact. Certainly it is time that a jury let it be understood that self administration of capital punishment carries serious penalties, and that the time has not expired in which such penalties are dealt out.

DOING AS IT WISHED.

During all the time Germany has been failing to pay what it promised the allied nations the claim has been put forth that it could do so if it desired to, and that it was not making an effort in keeping with the requirements of the situation. It has also been insisted that inasmuch as it had been able to get modifications as the result of various pleas there was a preference for a continuance of that policy rather than a knuckling down to the actual task of getting the money with which to pay.

Germany piled up large quantities of coal at advantageous points and yet it insisted that it could not meet the demands of the French for coal under the treaty requirements. It didn't produce the limit of what it could for the settlement of this demand.

It has likewise been maintained that Germany never resorted to taxation on the scale that was warranted, or that it failed to do as much as the other nations of Europe did in the way of obtaining revenue in this manner.

Now it is being shown that during the past year Germany constructed over a half million gross tons of ships, or more than four times as many as the United States, and more, both for that year and the year previous, than it built during the year before the war, which made it possible to add more than a million tons to its merchant marine.

This of course represented an expenditure of a large sum of money. It was used for the securing of that which Germany greatly needed, but it was also used in that manner when it was making the claim that it could not pay its debts or keep its promises. It indicates that those who insisted Germany was bluffing and better able to pay than it maintained were not given to exaggeration.

Not being able to pay bills and do other things, Germany apparently decided the debts could be overlooked. It has been doing as it wished rather than as it promised.

SEIZING FUEL.

When communities are unable to get any coal with which to meet the requirements of the individuals, it is no more than should be expected of the authorities when they direct the seizure of carload lots that may be sidetracked in their locality. Resort to such a course needs to be fully justified. The fact that a coal train en route to other points, where relief may be quite as necessary as where the seizure is made, happens to be temporarily halted does not warrant the laying in of the entire supply.

Should the idea of raiding trains be put into general operation there would be little hope for the community the farthest from the mine or at the end of the line. Unquestionably there are times when seizure may be justified but it is plain that emergency conditions should prevail before resorting to that method.

It doesn't seem probable that authorities would refrain from seizing coal if no other fuel was available. It would in fact be unusual for a community to be so neglected that neither the usual fuel nor substitutes could be secured, but with a fair distribution of the coal that is being sent into this part of the country less hardship is likely to result if it is permitted to go to the designated point than if the general practice of seizure is begun. Once established as a means of getting coal there is no telling where it would stop.

TRAGEDY AVERTED

"You look worried," commented the guest who had arrived early. "Wouldn't your gelatin jell, or did you forget the baking powder in your biscuits?

"Neither," answered the hostess. "But you see Naomi Withers and her mother are also coming here to-day, and you know the old lady doesn't drink either tea or coffee, so I decided on chocolate."

"That's good," encouraged the early guest. "Everybody likes chocolate."

"Yes, but now that I have the chocolate half made, I remember that Naomi can't drink chocolate. She told us all at my cousin's last week that chocolate made her very ill, and that she enjoyed cocoa, but I forget all about it and made chocolate. There's no cocoa in the house!"

"You go ahead and serve your chocolate. She won't know the difference."

"What makes you think so?"

"I'll tell you. You remember that big, good-looking Mrs. Bates I introduced you to in the meat market that day? Well, I had her and her husband over for Sunday evening supper a few weeks ago. I decided upon a salad for the main dish of the meal. I always make my own salad dressing the day before the company comes, but that Saturday it happened that I didn't have a minute's time to make it, so I flew down to the store and bought a bottle of mayonnaise.

"Well, when they arrived Sunday everything was spick and span, and the dining table all set and ready. When I brought on the salad, priding myself on it's gorgeous appearance, Mrs. Bates looked rather dissapointed, I thought.

"'Oh, dear,' she wailed, 'that salad looks so tempting, but I'm afraid to eat it. I usually get sick after eating salads, because most salad dressings have oil in them.'

"I hastened to assure her that I always made my own dressing and never use oil in my salad dressing, but butter. At that she looked immensely relieved and said she was so glad, because she doted on salads, but if she ate of a dressing that had so much as a drop of oil in it she became deathly ill."

"How silly!" said the hostess.

"I again assured Mrs. Bates that it contained only butter. Thereupon she helped herself generously, and Mr. Bates, who had been busy eating during his better half's explanations, declared he had never eaten such delicious salad dressing in his life. And after a while she also added her share of complimentary remarks about that dressing. So the eating went merrily along.

"Well, my dear, it was as I was changing the plates for the next course that the awful thing happened. That is, I mean I realized that it had happened! For on the kitchen table stood the empty bottle which had contained the salad dressing. Horrified, it had dawned on me that I had entirely forgotten about having bought this particular dressing! I snatched up the bottle and looked at the labels—yes—there they were in the list of ingredients the words, olive oil.'

"My first impulse was to rush in and announce the terrible truth. But I hated to confess.

"As I went back into the dining room with the dessert the thought came to me that, while oil dressings might make her 'deathly ill,' at least they had never killed her. There was some comfort in that even while I waited for developments."

"Heartless" exclaimed the hostess.

"Yes, wasn't it?" agreed the guest. "Well, we went from the dining room to the living room. Mrs. Bates still apparently enjoying the best of health. We had a nice, congenial, cozy time, with me watching her like a hawk waiting for the first sinister symptom to appear.

"At midnight they arose to leave, and as Mrs. Bates was getting her wraps on she asked me: 'How do you like my new hair dress? I noticed you looking at it so often during the evening.'

"Seizing upon the new hair dress as the logical excuse for my searching gaze all evening, I told her it was simply wonderful, and so becoming! Finally they departed, both asserting that they had had a most delightful time, and Mrs. Bates declaring that never had she enjoyed a salad like mine."

"Well, that was a good joke on her," said the hostess. "Still, you don't know. She may have been seriously ill the next day."

"I don't think so," smiled the guest. "Because she phoned me the next day and said she would like my receipt for that salad dressing. So go ahead and serve your chocolate, but—call it cocoa."

INCOME TAX FACTS

Income Tax Facts.

To compute the amount of depreciation in the value of property, the taxpayer should determine the probable life of the property, then divide by the number of years it will be usable in the business in which employed. For example, a frame building, the probable lifetime of which is 25 years, cost $5,000. Divide $5,000 by 25, and claim $200 each year as depreciation.

While each taxpayer may determine the probable lifetime of his property without regard to the following figures, it has been estimated that the average usable life of a frame building is 25 years; a brick building, 35 years, a stone or concrete building, 50 to 100 years.

When in the course of years the owner of property has claimed its full cost no further claim for depreciation will be allowed. Intangibles, the use of which in trade or business is definitely limited in its duration, may be the subject of depreciation allowance. Examples are patents, copyrights, leases and franchises.

Deductions for depreciation must be made as a separate item on the taxpayer's return and must be explained by showing separately each class of property, its cost or value at date of purchase, (fair market value as of March 1, 1913, if acquired prior to that date) depreciation charged off during the taxable year and total depreciation charged off for prior years.

Wives of Famous Men

Antonia Miljukova, Wife of Tschaikowski.

It is an amusing thing, and a perfect characterization of the artistic temperament, to learn that the fascinating Peter Tschaikowski, great musician of the 19th century, who had flirted with the most brilliant women of his day, finally married a perfectly commonplace woman because he felt sorry for her.

The composer of the "Symphonie Pathetique," and "The Nutcracker Suite," a charming bachelor at the age of 37, after having escaped almost unscathed from several scorching love affairs was married to Antonina Miljukova, in July, 1877. His reason for wedding her, he confessed to his brother, was not that he loved her but that she had told him of her love and he "didn't have the heart to disappoint her." To one of his adorers, Frau von Meck, he wrote:

"One day I received a letter from a girl I had known for some time. I learned from it that she loved me. The weighty alternative posed itself. Either if got my liberty at the cost of a life (the girl had threatened suicide if he refused her) or I married. The latter was my only possible choice. So one evening I went to see her, declaring openly that I could not love her, but that I would always be her grateful friend. Then I asked her if she wished to be my wife. Naturally her answer was 'Yes.' To live for 37 years in congenital antipathy to marriage and then suddenly to become a bridegroom through the sheer force of circumstances—this is something horrible.'"

Under those circumstances they were married. It is only too obvious that no happiness could result from such a union. Tschaikowski could compose not a single note, the poor little Antonina was miserable because he did not love her. Things got worse and worse. He left her constantly to get some peace that he might compose his beloved music. He tried to return to her but could never tolerate the union for long. Finally it affected his reason and he tried to commit suicide but lacked the courage.

He fled from his home for the last time on Sept. 24, 1877. But he never blamed Antonina for anything.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Can Find Wisdom and Peace.

Mr. Editor: I am very sorry for the poor blind world, who cannot see that God's work is all that they need, with a contrite heart, to show them their sad plight. If they come to Him earnestly with prayer asking wisdom from Him through His word I think they might find it there, both wisdom and peace. They need not listen to any man's, or woman's ideas on these Revelations, as they are perfect, and one who has taken them for his guide need never be confounded. We know that some gifts were conferred at the hands of the apostles upon all who confessed Christ by immersion. The power of conferring those gifts was vested by our Lord in His twelve apostles, of whom, by divine arrangement, Paul was one. None others in their day or since have been able to confer these gifts which Paul describes. "Hence they did vanish away." (1 Cor. 13:8). It was this apostolic privilege of bestowing these gifts upon others, which Simon Magus wanted to purchase with money; for which, he was so sharply reproved. Get the good old Bible (not Mrs. Eddy's text book) and read about the experience of Simon Magus, the first great would be Christian Science teacher in (Acts 8:13-20). All careful Bible students know also what the last twelve verses of the book of Mark, are wanting in the Sinaitic and Vatican manuscrip, the oldest and most authentice copies of the New Testament in existence. It is evident that Mark's Gospel was completed about four centuries after he wrote it for the Alexandrine manuscript, written in the fifth century, is the oldest Greek manuscript which contains these verses.

Now I will give some Hebrew words and their definition by Mrs. Eddy, which will show to anyone how very unscholarly and unscientific her teaching of the meaning of them is:

Adam—A Damn or Error; Eve—Is real. God—Good principle; Mary—Sweet.

Now that all may see just how childish is this method of twisting words, I give the exact meaning of each of the foregoing words in the Hebrew from which they were taken.

Adam—Of the ground; Eve—Life giving or life sustainer; God—Mighty one; Israel—Ruling with God; Mary—Bitter.

In the case of the meaning of the word Mary, Mrs. Eddy has made a ridiculous mess, for the word was taken from the Hebrew word "Marah" and its only meaning is bitter. Turn to Exodus, 15:23, and read about it yourself.

"Oh" wonderful, wonderful word of the Lord!
Our only salvation is there;
It carries conviction down deep in the heart,
And shows us ourselves as we are.

A Little Talk on Thrift

Thoroughness.

Almost any business man will tell you it is the little leaks that constitute the great dangers of a business. "Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains," wrote the poet Goethe.

Failure often comes both individually and in business through willingness or incapacity to eliminate small instances of waste.

There is a value in thoroughness that it is above computation, and this applies alike to the affairs of the individual as well as to a business concern.

The successful executive so builds his organization that leaks and lost motion will be done away with to the greatest possible extent. It is true, of course, that men fail many times because they try to carry too many details, but this does not mean that such details are not worthy of attention. The fault in these cases lies in inadequate direction.

The man who is at the head of a great business cannot attend to all the details of that business, excepting indirectly through his various executives. But these small details must be looked after adequately or there will be no success.

Thoroughness is an essential of business development. And thoroughness also is just as necessary to individual success and attainment.

There is need not only of watchfulness in financial matters, but in every other phase and activity in life. If for example, one is thrifty in matters of money, but is neglectful of one's health, or does not keep up with the spirit of the times in which we live, or develops habits of selfishness there will be no great success.

To be truly thrifty one must be thorough. And thoroughness means taking pains in all essentials.—American Thrift Society.

NEW BOOKS

A History of Connecticut. By Elias B. Sanford. Revised edition; illustrated, cloth, 450 pages, with index. Published by The S. S. Scranton Co., of Hartford. Price $3 net.

Back in 1857 Mr. Sanford wrote his first history of this state for the purpose of producing the story of Connecticut that would be interesting to both young and old, and with the idea of providing a textbook to meet possible needs.

For the purpose of covering the intervening years and bringing the volume up to date the author has produced a new edition in which eleven chapters are added dealing with the religious life and church growth, the educational progress, political and civil life, the literature, fine arts, music, manufacturing, agriculture, insurance, banking, newspapers, parks, forests, state institutions, historical and patriotic societies.

It is a volume that deals briefly with the important and highly interesting facts connected with this commonwealth from its earliest days to the present. Produced in textbook form and on good paper, it is filled with valuable data and carefully indexed.

Man's Country. By Peter C. Macfarlane. Illustrated by Charles D. Mitchell. Cloth, 343 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York. Price $2.

There is a great country, largely inhabited by men to which most women, particularly wives and mothers, are strangers. Every morning husbands and sons go down to it; there they spend their days, their energy, and, in proportion as they succeed, their love.

It's name is Business: it is a despotism, demanding submission to its laws; but it is a delectable country to those in its favor, luring them on and on.

There are kings there are princes—and it is the story of one of the princes who grew up to be a king that the author tells. That it incidentally visualizes the growth of a modern giant—the automobile industry—only adds zest to the story itself, which is really about a great love of which business was jealous.

It is in fact immensely real and stirring picture of the early days of the automobile industry in Detroit, finely illustrated and told in the inimitable Macfarlane style.

Feathers Left Around. By Carolyn Wells. Cloth, 12 mo. 352 pages. Published by the J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

This is one of the author's "Fleming Stone" detective stories concerning a dreadful crime so veiled in mystery as to baffle the cleverest detectives. It is laid at a country place near New York owned by a young lawyer. Several of a house party at this home are discussing murders when the desire to meet a mystery story writer is expressed. This prompts the host who is somewhat acquainted with the writer to invite him to a week end party which is done together with others.

Action commences at once by the finding of the writer dead the morning after his arrival. The matter is shrouded with mystery with suspicion in one direction by some and in another by the sister of the dead man who was called to the country place. With the finding of the writer's watch in the room of one of the women guests suspicion shifts, strengthened both by the finding of her picture in its case and her later disappearance. Stone, the famous detective is then called in, the missing woman is located and it is shown how the truth was established from "Feathers Left Around."

IF KIDNEYS BOTHER TRY DOSE OF SALTS

Drink Quart of Water if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Isabel Blanchard, one of Killingly's oldest and best known residents, died during Monday night at Dayville, where he has been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Carrie Bailey. He became ill a week ago and went to bed with an attack of the grip. It was feared that this would develop into pneumonia, but instead Mr. Blanchard's heart weakened and carried the end.

Mr. Blanchard was a native of the town of Plainfield, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Blanchard. For a great many years he has been a resident of Killingly and had lived at East Killingly as well as at Dayville. He first came here from Moosup Valley, where the early years of his married life were spent, to take the superintendency of the town farm, a position which he filled for years. After relinquishing this work he built a home near Dayville, Four Corners. By trade Mr. Blanchard was a carpenter, as have been various other members of the family from which he came, and for many years this occupation claimed his attention. He was one of a family of 21 children, his father having been married three times.

He leaves a son, Henry Blanchard, [illegible] Mrs. Carrie Bailey, with whom he made his home, a granddaughter, Mrs. Frank Bowen of Danielson, Hazel and another granddaughter residing in New Haven. Blanchard of Danielson and Mrs. [illegible] for many years a resident of Killingly Hill, died many years ago.

Tuesday morning the funeral of Mrs. [illegible] wife of Marshall Hall, took place from their home in Wauregan, directly with a requiem mass at St. [illegible] church at 10 o'clock. Rev. John Kouzi, pastor of St. [illegible] church of Moosup, and Rev. [illegible] of Wauregan were celebrants of the high mass of requiem. Many relatives and friends were present and [illegible] was placed in the church. Those from out of town who were present were Patrick Riley of Moosup, James Monohan of Moosup, Selma Gauthier and [illegible] Louis E. Kennedy of Putnam had charge of the funeral arrangements.

First prize and the blue ribbon for [illegible] and [illegible] Hamilton was awarded to Miss Anna [illegible] of Westminster Station, Windham county, at the Madison square [illegible] show. There were [illegible] this class, [illegible] of Berwick, England, a [illegible] number of entries. [illegible] is indicative of how popular the hardy little Scot is becoming in the dog world.

Nothing much developed from the conference Monday evening between members of the town school committee and members of the grievance committee of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the matter of how the schools have been heated during the winter except to establish that no school in Killingly has been without fuel this winter and that the same difficulties in heating schools have been experienced as are commonplace in heating dwellings during the periods of such severe weather as this season has brought.

The conference was the outgrowth of complaints aired at a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce that it has been unusually cool in rooms in the graded school building. Here at times during the winter and the suggestion then made that such complaints should be made direct to the town school committee.

Little was added by the representatives of the Chamber of Commerce on Monday evening to what was said in a letter addressed to the town school committee relative to the subject considered.

Chairman T. E. Cunneen of the school committee pointed out during the conference that Killingly has been as fortunate as any town in the state in getting coal of one kind or another for its schools this winter, and that it has not been necessary to close any school of the town because of lack of fuel, as has been the case in numbers of Connecticut communities. It has been found more difficult to heat the graded school buildings since soft coal has been in use and during several severe cold spells when temperatures have been experienced over weeks on end; but all things considered Killingly has been particularly fortunate, he said.

The weather bureau's prediction of slowly rising temperature was fulfilled Tuesday morning, when it was only 6 above zero here.

Leon M. Farrow, superintendent of Killingly's schools, will leave Friday for Cleveland to attend a national conference of school superintendents and principals. He will be absent about a week.

Superintendent Amos Morin of the Connecticut Mills and Roland H. Gray of the executive department of the company left Tuesday on a business trip that will take them to Akron and Detroit. They will return at the end of the week.

Mrs. James Deliada, a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, is making a fine recovery after undergoing a major surgical operation and is expected to return to her home here at the end of the week.

As attesting the present strong financial position of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, financial papers announced Tuesday morning that the issue of $14,505,100 prior preference stock, advertised in Monday's papers, has been heavily oversubscribed. This quick snapping up of such a heavy block of securities speaks very plainly as to how money interests feel toward Goodyear.

Much of the complaint that fishermen hereabouts have made for several years over being forbidden to fish in Quinebaug lake, south of Danielson, and Alexander's lake four miles to the northwest will be largely overcome by the plan of seining the fish out of both lakes during the coming summer and placing them in bodies of water not closed to fishing. Both lakes referred to are reservoirs respectively supplying water to Wauregan and Goodyear. Quinebaug lake is known to abound in bass and pickerel, many of these huge specimens of their kind, as well as in perch and pout, and Alexander's lake always has been a favorite place for fishing, many fine strings having been taken from its waters. Mooarup pond and Old Killingly pond offer fine locations for such fish as is removed from Quinebaug and Alexander's, in following out the policy of the fish and game commissioner of the state in clearing as far as possible fish from bodies of water used as reservoirs closed to fishing. Crystal lake and Black pond are other bodies of water in which the seined fish might be placed.

PUTNAM

Tons of fish are expected to be removed from Alexander's lake a few miles south of this city and as many more from Quinebaug lake, south of Danielson in carrying out a state plan of removing fish alive from bodies of water now reserved for reservoir purposes, but formerly free fishing grounds. It is anticipated that this work will be undertaken by the state during the coming summer, it was stated Tuesday, and the fish will be placed in other bodies of water hereabout where no restrictions are placed against fishing.

What a sight the fishermen will see when the seines bring up their loads of wriggling fish from the deep waters of Alexander's! It is expected that the most amazing tales fishermen have told about what they have caught in that body of water will be eclipsed by the banks that will reveal the finest specimens the lake holds.

There will be acute curiosity, too, to see whether any salmon are brought to the surface, for many sportsmen hereabouts have not forgotten that thousands of young salmon, some of them 8 to 10 inches of length, were released several years ago in Alexander's and insofar as is generally known none ever have been caught, though they should weigh 7 to 10 pounds each in many cases at this late day. Then there was an allotment of rainbow trout placed in the lake several years ago and a quantity of white perch also released. A few white perch, splendid fish weighing in some case more than a pound, have been caught out of the lake and a rainbow trout or two, but they have never been caught in any quantity, though many believe these fish still inhabit the lake in numbers. Failure to catch them has been attributed to lack of knowledge of methods of angling for these fish, while some feel that the large bass and pickerel have killed them off. But the seines will tell the story.

Bass weighing more than 6 pounds have been taken from this lake in the past and fish of that variety and fully as heavy have been seen there within the past few years—but the few who have been allowed to fish the lake found they would not bite. Monster pickerel also are there, as was proved the past month when one weighing nearly five pounds was taken out.

It will be great sport for those who are interested and have the opportunity to watch the clean out when the time arrives. The state has been seining lakes in the central and western part of the state the past year, so the work will not be new excepting as it applies to this section. It is not likely that all of the fish can be taken out, but the bulk of them will be. Alexander's lake approaches 100 feet in depth in certain places, though shallow in others and it is going to be a big undertaking to clear a lake like that of its finny residents.

Quinebaug lake has as many or more fish than has Alexander's, for it always was regarded as the better fishing of the two bodies of water and it has been closed for nearly a decade.

Tomorrow, Washington's birthday, the Putnam postoffice will be open from 6 a. m. to 11.30 a. m. only, and there will not be any deliveries by city or rural carriers. Cold weatner was said to have been the chief factor in playing havoc with the running schedule of the state of Maine express Tuesday night. Those night trains are seldom seen by residents of Putnam, though they run through this city daily. Other Girls Had Dozens of Fellows — I Was a Wall Flower

My Cheeks Were Pale and Sallow, My Neck Scrawny, My Lips Colorless: Today I Am as Popular as Any of the Other Girls Because I Have Learned the Secret of Health and Beauty and Have a Well-Rounded Face and Figure.

Try making this slight change in YOUR MEALS for two weeks and watch for the astonishing results it so often gives.

For years I was so unattractive that I almost cried when I looked at myself in the mirror. Oh, how I envied other girls, whose dance cards were always filled and who were always popular and sought after by boys, who would not look at me twice. Just two weeks ago I read an article in the paper which told of a slight change in the daily diet which often changed women who had been thin, pale and unattractive, in some cases even for years, so that they got back that magnetic charm of radiant health. This article stated that the most important element in building a strong, beautiful body full of grace and magnetism with sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks was a peculiar form of iron found in the husks of grain and the seeds and skins of certain fruits and vegetables. But modern methods of cooking throw these important things away so that probably 19 people out of 20 lack 100 per cent. in their blood. I tried mixing a little of iron, this peculiar form of iron, with my meals for two weeks. I feel and look years younger with natural color in my lips and cheeks.

The above is a typical hypothetical case. It would seem that every woman whose attractiveness is impaired by lack of that magnetic charm that comes only with radiant health, would try adding a little of this newer form of iron to her daily food. It is comparatively inexpensive and may be obtained from your druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron, which should be mixed with your food as directed on each package. Amazing results are often secured in only two weeks' time. For sale by all druggists, including Lee & Osgood Co., Geo. G. Engler, H. M. Lerou, and A. McLaughlin.

BURGLARS TAKE TELEPHONE AND PAY STATION BOX

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Feb. 20.—Burglars jimmied a door to the passenger station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at Central Village about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning and made off with the telephone and pay station box in the booth owned by the Southern New England Telephone company in the waiting room. No one heard the burglars at work as far as had been ascertained Tuesday afternoon, but the approximate time of the robbery has been fixed by other means.

It is apparent that the burglars spent no more time about the railroad station, which is open until after 11 p. m. than was necessary. They ripped the telephone off the background to which it was attached and took it and the pay station box containing the money along with them.

Deputy Sheriff Tillinghast of Central Village and railroad police were making an investigation of the case during Tuesday.

PROMISES BUSY WEEK AT HARTFORD ON MATTERS BEFORE LEGISLATURE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 20.—Despite the zero weather this morning there was a good attendance when the speaker called the house to order.

The calendar contained the largest number of matters started for action of any day so far this session seven-teen in all. All of the important committees have a large number of hearings assigned and the outlook is for busy week. A bill that has attracted considerable attention, House Bill 104, introduced by Mr. Rogers of Middletown came before the house for action this morning in the form of a substitute bill from the finance committee. The bill is short and clearly understood. The property of the Skull and Serpent society of Wesleyan university would be subject to taxation, any property of the charter of said society to the contrary notwithstanding.

The explanation came today when Chairman Chrest of the finance committee, said that the general assembly of 1921 granted a charter to this society which contained a provision exempting it from taxation.

It was the opinion of the committee that exemption should not be granted, and the bill was passed.

The bill introduced by Mr. Schatz of Hartford which repeals the personal tax came from the finance committee with unfavorable report. Mr. Schatz asked that action be withheld till he had a chance to confer with the committee which as had not been able to do as he had been away for over a week on account of illness.

The bill introduced by Mr. Rogers of Middletown which exempted from the personal tax members of the Home Guard State Guards, as explained by Mr. Chrest, was already covered by existing statute.

Mr. Hyde of Brooklyn called a bill from the table where it was placed last week and on his motion it was recommitted to the committee on roads, rivers and bridges that he might be heard further on the bill providing for the trunk line system of highways leading from Brooklyn center to Pomfret.

By consent, House Bill 132 amending an act concerning the Borden indebtedness of municipalities was taken from the calendar and passed as was also House Bill 47, an act authorizing the city of New Haven and the General Hospital Society of Connecticut to amend a contract.

Motions entered for favor taken from the calendar and passed were the following: Amending the charter of the Underwood Trust Company; amending the charter of the Pine Orchard Association; amending an act concerning participation in caucuses or primaries; extending the time for the acceptance of an amendment to the charter of the Insurance and Title Guarantee Company; amending the charter of the Merchants Trust Company; amending the charter of the Fairmount Association authorizing cities, towns and boroughs to contract for the use by others of their sewage system; concerning filing of reports by state banks and trust companies with the bank commissioner; concerning definition of the Westerman Company; concerning the Worthington Fire District; amending the charter of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company; amending the charter of the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Indemnity company; concerning lease monies by cities and boroughs of institutions under the supervision of the board of charities; concerning rebates of loans, discounts and charges by banks; concerning the New Haven Banking Company; incorporating the Hartford Disabled Veterans' Camp Fund.

Reports of Committees.

The finance committee reported favorably on H. B. 344 which places the tax property in Brooklyn in the grand list for taxation by the county. As explained by the committee the bill had merit and he had requested the tax commissioner could the interest and that the would probably agree to enactment bill later. Also the recommended rejections of H. B. 94 abolishing boards of relief.

H. B. 282 to include in the township of Union from the center of village of Cromwell to East Berlin bridge was rejected. H. J. R. No. 49, concerning the colonial records reported from the Memorial Society was sent to the committee on appropriations as it carried an appropriation. The resolution concerning the portrait of Governor Templeton was sent to the committee and so was Senate House adjourned at 1:50 till 11 o'clock Wednesday.

SENATE

The state senate today by a party vote of 5 to 3 rejected the bill reestablishing a Connecticut civil service commission. The democratic minority voted unanimously for the measure.

The bill was recently rejected by the house.

Senator Wilder explained the unfavorable report of the committee on judiciary on the bill. He feared the acceptance of the report and the rejection of the bill. Senator Wilder said it was not right to the various committees that heads of departments had appointed persons to positions who were not competent. There was no reasonable reason given for the enactment of the bill.

Senator Stedman moved that the report of the committee be tabled for December. The motion was carried.

Senator McGrath said the bill would mean a great deal to the state in effecting economy. The best argument for the bill was that the republican national platform had a plank for civil service reform. It had been advocated by former President Taft, who was now chief justice of the United States.

Senator Brooks said that the bill would be used for political strength. At the present time was a question of pull and push. No one should be appointed to a public position who was not qualified to fill it.

Senator Brooks said the civil service law that was repealed in 1921, was not needed in the administration of Governor Baldwin, nor in the administration of Governor Holcomb, nor of Governor Everett J. Lake, nor would it be needed in the administration of Charles A. Templeton.

When the state broke loose on some civil dogs, it would be time to have a civil service law but the law was not wanted now.

Senator Rudd said the civil service merit system was adopted 1913, but it was amended by allowing exemptions from its operations until it became a jest. He was frank to say that he was no in favor of the absolute repeal of the law of 1913 at the last session, but the general assembly repealed it. He did not question that the heads of departments would prefer their friends for positions. That was true whether the heads were democratic republicans or prohibitionists. It was the effect of human nature. He pointed out that at the last campaign the administration of state affairs was [illegible] and while it could not be claimed that the administration was one hundred per cent. perfect, it was as near perfection as that of any other state. The heads of departments were careful to select efficient subordinates. He would vote to sustain the committee's report.

The report the committee on the judiciary was accepted and the bill rejected by the following aye and nay vote

Ayes—Senators Doty, Bidwell, Cogert, Cristoph, Bakewell, MacDonald, Beers, Golden, Beisiegel, Rogers, Park, Wilder, Challenger, Atchison, Platt, Behre, Keneally, Child, Ash, Brooks, Rudd, French, Pierson, De Peyster and Allen—25.

Nays—Senators Suisman, Digman, Tone, Clyne, McGrath, Johnson, Gibbs, and Harter—8.

Absent—Senator Ells.

Not voting—Senator Trumbull (in the chair.)

The committee made favorable reports on the following matters: Senate bill No. 353, amending the charter of the city of Meriden; concerning the duties of the deputy judge and assistant clerk of the borough court of Naugatuck; senate bill No. 545, amending the charter of the city of Rockville. The bills were tabled for calendar.

Unfavorable reports were received from the committee on the judiciary on the following bills: Senate bill No. 281, relating to the weight, size and marking of canvass goods; senate bill No. 384, concerning the sale of wood by the cord, senate bill No. 245, requiring that coal sold in bags shall weigh not less than 100 pounds. The bills were rejected.

On the recommendation of the committee on state library, the bill to provide portraits of Chief Justice George W. Wheeler and ex-Chief Justice Samuel O. Prentice for the supreme court room was referred to the committee on appropriations

Calendar

Passed—Bill repealing section 2463 of the general statutes concerning the marsting of eggs; giving the Hartford Connecticut Trust company the power to act as conservator's asinee of estates, etc., leaving it to the state highway commissioner to determine the location of the proposed trunk line between Cornwall bridge in the town of Cornwall to Falls Village; codifying the charter and amendments to the charter of the Aetna Life Insurance company and authorizing the company to increase its capital to $20,000,000; concerning an attempt to commit statutory crime by providing that, unless otherwise expressly provided, every person who shall attempt to commit any crime or misdemeanor prohibited by the general statutes shall be subject to the same penalty as provided by law by the commission of such crime or misdemeanor; authorizing the town of Groton to issue water bonds to the amount of $150,000 and other water bonds for the same borough, amounting to $75,000; authorizing the Groton Savings bank to receive deposits from one person amounting to $5,000 in three years.

On the motion of Senator Rudd the senate passed in concurrence the bill to allow municipalities to include in their grand lists, for the purpose of bond issue, the property exempted from taxation except such tax exempt real estate in the town as may be owned by the United States, the state of Connecticut or the county wherein the town is situated. The senator corrected an error, appearing in a morning paper, which stated editorially that the bill allowed the property of the United States, the state or county to be included in the grand list. The bonded indebtedness of a town is limited to five per cent. of the grand list.

On the motion of Senator Brooks the senate, as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Colonel William H. Hall, of Willington, whose funeral took place one year ago today, adjourned to Wednesday at 11:15.

Day's total sales, 1,076,000 shares.
20 industrials averaged 103.56, net gain .60. High 1923, 103.56; low, 96.96.
20 railroads averaged 90.17; net gain .87. High 1923, 90.17; low 84.53.

MARKET CONTINUES ACTIVE.

New York, Feb. 20.—Speculators for the advance continued to mark up prices in today's stock market, choosing new leaders from among the railroad, motor accessory and chemical shares when their operations in standard industrials were hindered by profit taking sales, which were again heavy in volume. While trading was on a sharply reduced scale, it was the 11th consecutive full session in which total sales had exceeded the million mark.

Average of 20 industrial shares and 20 railroad shares each stood at new high levels for the year at the close of the session. The industrial average today stood at 103.56 as against the high mark of 103.43 for last year, established in October. Today's railroad average of 90.17 was still well below the high mark of 92.99 last year.

Switching of professional speculative interest from the industrials to the rails was predicated on the belief that the January earnings statements, soon to be published, would be unusually favorable. Illinois Central, which established another new high for the year at 117 3-4, up 2 3-4 points from yesterday's close, was one of the leaders. Other strong spots were Louisville & Nashville, Norfolk & Western, Chicago & Northwestern, St. Louis-Southwestern preferred and Baltimore & Ohio, all up a point or more.

Industrials were taken in hand again in the late dealings, American Can being pushed up more than 4 points to a new peak price at 100 1-2, then reacting to 99 at the close. Unconfirmed reports of an early increase in the dividend rate from $3 to $7 sent Stromberg Carburetor soaring to a new high at 89 1-2, or nearly 15 points above yesterday's low. Other motor accessories improved in sympathy Timken Roller jumping 10 points to 141 in Dixie Magneto touching 49 1-2 and then slipping back to 46 1-4, where it was up nearly 4 points on the day.

Maintenance of the 16 cents a pound rate for copper and announcements of higher prices for gasoline and automobile tires were the principal items of trade news. Establishment of a new high record for sterling within 16 cents of parity and only 3 1-2 cents below the "pegged rate" of 4.75 maintained by the British government during the war had a cheerful effect on sentiment.

Buying of the chemical shares was due to reports of the steady improvement in that industry, gains of 1 to 2 1-2 points being registered by American Agricultural, Davison and Virginia Carolina common and preferred. United Fruit made a quick response to rumors of an extra dividend distribution, jumping from 173 to 181 1-2.

Phillips Petroleum turned heavy on the announcement that the directors had deemed it advisable to amend the certificate of incorporation in order to provide for a 100 per cent. increase in the amount of authorized capital stock.

Call money opened at 4 3-4 per cent. continued to 5 during the noon hour and 5 1-2 just a few minutes before the close. Time money was quiet with funds available for all maturities at 5 per cent. The commercial paper market held firm.

The features of the foreign exchange market were the continued strength of sterling and the renewed weakness of German marks which dropped to .0041 cents as against the recent high of .0044 and the extreme low of .0020 established last month. French, Belgian and Italian rates all showed improvement.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Feb. 20. — Bond prices again moved within narrow limits today's relatively dull and uninteresting dealings, chief interest centering in the continued strength of speculative railroad mortgages and the further recovery of foreign securities. United States government bonds were irregular, Liberty 3 1-2s and the Victory 4 3-4s gaining 8 and 4 cents on $100, respectively, while the other active issues registered losses of 4 to 10 cents.

Frisco income 6s established a new peak price on a net gain of 1 point and were followed into higher ground by Southern Pacific 4s, New Haven 6s and some of the other low-priced issues. New Orleans, Texas and Mexico 1, were the strong spots of the list 6s dropped a point.

Seine 7s, up 1 1-2, and Prague 7 1-2s, foreign group. British 5 1-2s of 1919 made a new high price for all time in reflection of the further advance in Sterling exchange.

The demand for industrial company issues was most effective in the sugar, copper and independent steel groups. Kingsbury Spencer Steel 7s and Cuba Cane Sugar 8s being the outstanding features.

Total sales (par value) were $11,115,000.

There were several new offerings today, the largest of which, a $7,000,000 issue of 4 1-2 per cent. equipment trusts of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, being placed privately by J. P. Morgan & Company at a price to yield 5 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Sellers had the advantage in the wheat market the greater part of the time today, owing largely to a statement issued by a conspicuous authority that the world's probable carry-over July 1 would equal the pre-war average. Offerings however, became scarce during the last part of the day, and the market rallied. Closing prices were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4c lower, May 1.20 1-8 to 1.20 1-4 and July 1.15 1-8 to 1.15 5-8. Corn closed at a shade net decline to 1-4 @ 3-8c advance, oats off a shade to 1-8c @ 1-4c and provisions showing a gain of 2c to 7c.

According to the statement dealing with the predicted big carry over of wheat, the United States and Canada are piling up supplies and maintaining prices when stocks should be rapidly decreasing. Meanwhile, European needs, reduced to a minimum by disorder and financial distress, are being met by the European potato crop, the statement says, and by wheat bought at concessionary prices from Argentina and Australia. With world takings much less than had been expected, the July 1 carry-over was estimated at 225,000,000 to 250,000,000 bushels practically the same as when Russia was contributing to the world supply.

Renewal of eastern selling had a further decreasing effect on wheat values in the first half of the day and so, too, did better for winter wheat.

As on numerous occasions, of late, however, declines encountered stubborn resistance when the market touched 1.15 for May delivery. Then with the volume of selling diminished throughout the remainder of the day, the market reacted, helped somewhat by upturns in sterling exchange rates off selling lower quotations on wheat at Liverpool.

Scantiness of rural offerings kept corn and oats relatively firm. Provisions reflected strength in hog values.

JEWETT CITY

Local people are beginning to sit up and take notice in Jewett City and are enjoying their annual spasm relative to the income tax returns that must be made before March 15. The question is being asked everywhere of pretty much everybody: "Who is the one to help us make it out right?" The facts are, primarily, that Mr. Charbonneau of Norwich is the man assigned to this section. Any person may make out his own and must then make oath to the same. One feature in this plan that in Jewett City has not proven altogether satisfactory is that a large per cent. of those "self-filled ones" made later complications of a very disagreeable nature for the "fillers." It is believed that Mr. Charbonneau will set a day, or possibly two days, when he will come to Jewett City and be at the town clerk's office.

Monday evening in Sylvandale was a sort of free for all celebration for people with birthdays falling on Feb. 19th. The original surprise party was planned to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Herbert Jeffers. During the festivities Miss Doris Fitch and Rev. E. E. Scates were found to have been born on the lucky 19th, so were invited in to share in the celebration. With songs and pleasant chat the evening proved of unusual enjoyment. Second to no other arrangement was the bountiful supply of ice cream, fancy pastry and coffee. Statements made relative to the ages of the celebrants were not given under oath. Miss Doris is 14, and said so. Those present were Rev. E. E. Scates, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Cheney, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jeffers, Francis Bugbee, Doris Fitch, Paul Geist, Jr., Miss Julia Sayles and the Misses Gladys, Marion and Grace Jeffers. A very pleasant celebration at the home of Paul Geist in Lisbon for Miss Fitch preceded the Sylvandale event.

Officer John McDermott was called to Glasgo Tuesday, where he placed John Sobolewski under arrest for assault upon his partner, John Siluk. The two men, both operatives in the Glasgo mill, are owners of a farm near Bethel. An altercation relative to some disputed matter of ownership grew to such an extent that Sobolewski drew a revolver upon Siluk, it is said. No shots were fired. Officer McDermott secured the revolver and ammunition which the assailant had in his possession. Sobolewski is under $50 bonds to appear at a future session of the Griswold town court.

At present Judge A. M. Brown is in Washington and Deputy Judge F. E. Robinson is with his wife in Holyoke.

The Pachaug Community club are planning for a fine meeting with unusual attractions to be held at the town hall Thursday evening. The committee in charge are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, Miss Esther Prink, Simon Brewster, Jr., and George Palmer. To supplement other pleasures, there will be community singing and games both old and new.

F. X. Casavant of Mathewson street, Jewett City, and Mrs. Carmelite Cassavant of Worcester were married in the bride's city of residence Monday. Lionel Boucher, a grandson of the groom, and R. E. Hamm, a son-in-law of the bride, were the witnesses. Mr. Boucher is the son of the groom's daughter by a former marriage.

Washington's birthday is half holiday for the business places of the borough. They will be open in the forenoon as usual.

Postoffice closed from 8 a. m. to 6.30 p. m. Lobby open for 11 a. m. mail. The mills will run as usual.

Very many Jewett City people were sorry to read in Tuesday's Bulletin of the death of George Henry Studley, for many years a resident of Jewett City. Many friends will remember his boot-making and cobbling establishment here and will recall the interesting stories he used to tell the boys when who found it one of the greatest of pleasures to call in and see Mr. Studley.

A delegation from Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M., will meet the funeral party here, proceeding to the Jewett City cemetery, where he will be laid to rest among his kin.

The schools are closed Thursday of this week, as it is a legal holiday, and also Friday. The latter partly on account of fuel, and also that the teachers may visit other schools that may be in session on Friday.

The interior of the Congregational vestry is being repainted, the work commencing on Monday.

Train accommodations are so prohibitive that none from the postoffice or the teachers will attempt to go to Hartford to attend important meetings this week.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church met at the home of Mrs. B. W. Albertine on Thursday afternoon with 26 present. The directresses for the year are Mrs. F. D. Ballou, Mrs. L. G. Buckingham, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. E. A. Faust, Mrs. Edw. Gallup, Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst, Mrs. Walter Marshall, Mrs. Alex McNicol, Mrs. Andrew McNicol, Mrs. H. E. Paul, Mrs. S. R. Waters and Mrs. Abraham Zegeer. Mrs. Walter Richardson was appointed chairman of a committee to serve the supper for the Masons' annual ladies' night on March 9th. Mrs. Albertine was assisted in serving by Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. H. E. Paul, Mrs. J. T. Stewart and Mrs. John Whalley.

Special meeting Mt. Vernon lodge, F. dan A. M., Wednesday, 2.30 p. m., to attend funeral of late Brother George H. Studley.—adv.

CHARLES R. STARK HAS WRITTEN GROTON HISTORY

A local history of genuine worth appears in the volume written and recently published by Charles R. Stark, covering the settlement of his native town and its growth up to 1905. The book bears the title, "Groton, Conn., 1705-1905. The author evidently preferring not to carry the record beyond the second century mark.

Within this two-century limit, however, there is a mass of interesting material into which Mr. Stark has painstakingly delved. He has had the advantage of access to the manuscript histories of the late Judge William H. Potter of Mystic and Rev. Frederic Dennison of Providence, R. I., neither of whom ever printed these valuable papers, leaving them in Mr. Stark's hands instead. Mr. Stark has made free use of them, thus perpetuating many facts that would otherwise gone unrecorded. He has also included in his volume, by permission, the account of the Pequot fight at Mystic in 1637, as given by Captain John Mason, the English commander, himself. This is a naive and thrilling document.

Mr. Stark lays stress on the ecclesiastical history of the town, following faithfully the records of the churches of all denominations, including those of the present town of Ledyard, which was originally within the borders of Groton. A great deal of space is given to the strange sect of Rogerenes of which the present generation knows little, but might learn much.

There is a full account of the highly important shipbuilding industry, of the schools, stagecoaches and the railroads and various other interests. Naturally, the author goes at length into the story of the Revolutionary war, as it touches Groton, for it was here that Benedict Arnold returned with a hostile British fleet (he was born in Norwich), and here that the bloody massacre of the American garrison at Fort Griswold occurred.

Groton has a large share in the Civil war and World war. Great Britain and the Civil war and nowhere outside this volume can there be found such a comprehensive record of the towns share in these conflicts. The book contains, including the index, 444 pages and shows careful and conscientious preparation throughout. Mr. Stark has published the volume, not as a money making enterprise, but out of affection for the town of his birth, and he and his fellow Grotonians have reason for satisfaction in the result of his filial labors.

Driving Danny Fox Into His Den

"Creak, creak creak,
Pin old and very rusty
Why don't you wait till summertime
When it is hot and dusty"
This is a time to pull a nail.
When Mr. North Wind sends a gale."

This is what one of the rusty nails said when Danny Fox tried to break off the loose board on the back of the henhouse as I mentioned in the story before this.

"S-s-s-sh" said Danny Fox "you'll wake up Old Sodem, the farmer's dog!" but he needn't have been afraid for Old Sodem was dreadfully deaf and besides he was on the mat in front of the kitchen stove and how could he hear a nail say anything way out in the Farmyard. I should like to know.

Well, anyway, Danny Fox stopped and looked around and just then Mrs. Cow looked out of her shed and when she saw that old robber she gave a loud "Moo!"

"Keep quiet, can't you" whispered Danny Fox and he showed all his white teeth, but that didn't frighten Mrs. Cow. Oh, my no, she just lowered her head and mooed again.

"I'll run my horn right through your tail
If you don't listen to that nail.
The farmer fixed that board to keep
Folks just like you who want to creep
In through the hole to steal a hen.
And maybe come around again."

"Goodness me!" said Danny Fox, "won't you be quiet and let an honest man get his supper?"

This made Mrs. Cow laugh so hard that the little bell which hung on her collar began to ring like everything and the farmer heard it and thought something must be the matter, so he opened the kitchen door and looked out, and then the Weathercock pointed at Danny Fox who was hiding behind the henhouse, where the farmer couldn't see him and when that old fox saw what the Weathercock was he turned tail and ran and

CONSTRUCTION COMPANY PAID KING $25,000 FOR GETTING FRANCHISE

John T. King of Bridgeport was able to get a charter from the legislature for the Bridgeport and Danbury electric railway over the veto of Governor Rollin T. Woodruff, he testified here in the superior court before Judge Allyn L. Brown, Tuesday. Mr. King is defendant in a suit brought to compel him to pay up a stock subscription for 1,996 shares, par value $199,600, which it is alleged he has not paid and which he assigned on Oct. 15, 1919 to A. William Sperry of New Haven.

In the course of testimony by Mr. King it was brought out he was paid $25,000 in October, 1909 by the Aetna Construction company of New Haven for getting the charter for the trolley road which the construction company built. It is one of the claims made by the plaintiffs that King was paid by money drawn from the treasury of the Bridgeport and Danbury Trolley Co.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Charles R Butts, shareholders agent of the First National bank, which had five $1,000 debenture bonds of the road, estate of Thomas S. Hamilton, late of Groton, owning four bonds, and James R. Linsley of New London, owning one bond, none of which have been paid.

It is claimed in the suit that King by his political influence obtained issue of the charter over the veto of Governor Woodruff, who had refused the request on representation that the ground that the capital stock should be paid in whole or in part before the corporation began business. In May 1905, King signed a subscription for 1,996 shares of the 2,000 shares of the capital stock of the company and by virtue of that was elected a director of the company that he had no intention to pay for his subscription and that an assignment made to Sperry on Oct. 15, 1909 was for the purpose of evading payment; that this transfer was made in contemplation of the issue of $300,000 debenture bonds and was a fraudulent transfer and void as to all creditors.

It is claimed furthermore that the procuring of the charter by King and the claimed assignment to Sperry was either a fraudulent scheme of King's to enrich himself by the creation of a fictitious corporation, or the shell of a corporation and by the subsequent sale of the franchise to Sperry and his associates or was a fraud scheme of Sperry and his associates to obtain the charter and franchise for themselves as undisclosed principals through and by King as their agent and representative and by the means of the well known political influence and affiliation of King.

Testimony for Plaintiff.

Mr. Butts was the first witness and he presented his five bonds and later he went back on the stand and had the other bonds. They were not laid in as exhibits.

Mr. Butts told what he knew of the [illegible] and he said [illegible] Mr. King [illegible] and [illegible] and the business of the Aetna Construction company and the Bridgeport and Danbury road.

[illegible] question from Attorney [illegible] he never paid to King [illegible] for stock issued from the Bridgeport and Danbury road.

Frank [illegible] accountant from New York, testified to an examination he made of the books of the Bridgeport and Danbury Electric Railway Co., and to its methods of doing business and [illegible] for the issuing of stocks and for construction. Amounts of various kinds, amounts paid were testified to but nothing was found in connection with Mr. King.

Non-Suit Motion Denied.

J. M. Ives, receiver for the trolley company, testified briefly and then Attorney W. H. Comley, of New Haven, who appeared for Mr. King, argued for a non-suit and was opposed by Lawyer W. H. Wiggin of Danbury for the plaintiff.

The motion was denied and then Mr. King took the stand.

Mr. King testified that he had been a stockholder in the road but had transferred all his interest to Mr. Sperry. He denied any fraudulent intention or action. Since the transfer he had not attended any meetings of the trolley road. On cross-examination the evidence as to obtaining the franchise and the payment by the construction company was brought out.

Can't Produce Books

The defense rested after his testimony and Attorney Wiggin called Mr. Sperry as a rebuttal witness. He said he had been president of the Aetna Construction Co., from about 1905 to 1914, but he was unable to produce any of the books of the company although he had made diligent search for them through a mass of business books in his possession.

Were you in financial condition at the time of the assignment of stock or at any time since then to respond [illegible] for about $250,000? was a question put to him by Attorney Wiggin and objected to by the court over the objection of Attorney Comley.

No, sir, was the answer.

Have you now in your own name any substantial amount of property? No, sir.

Bethel Man Testifies

Henry A. Gilbert, one of a committee of citizens from Bethel, who went to the railroad committee hearing on the franchise to see that the interests of Bethel were taken care of, testified that he saw and talked with Mr. King whom he asked whether the charter was to be traded with or for building the road. Mr. King assured him the money was in hand and the road would be built in the spring. He made the same statement before the railroad committee, the witness said.

John M. Walton of New Haven, treasurer of the Aetna Construction Co., testified he had also been in charge of the Bridgeport and Danbury trolley books. Attorney Wiggin questioned him as to the record of payments that appeared in a trial balance book on the organization account, endeavoring to connect a payment with the name of Mr. King, but the Bridgeport man's name did not appear in the books. Mr. Walton said he could not recollect any payment to Mr. King in 1909.

Mr. Sperry was recalled and in answer to a question from Attorney Wiggin said that Mr. King [illegible] and Sperry assisted [illegible] and the Bridgeport and [illegible]

The case will be concluded in court today (Wednesday). Attorney Wiggin has two more witnesses to put on and a deposition from S. W. C. Jones to be read.

TRUE MEASUREMENT STANDARD TOPIC AT MEETING

The usual weekly noon meeting held by representatives of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. at the Richmond Radiator plant Tuesday was a meeting of real interest. A large number of the employes were in attendance and they listened with close attention to Rev. C. H. Ricketts as he addressed them on the topic, The True Standard of Measurement. The speaker said in part:

The other day I ran across this statement in the Old Testament: "The Lord is a God of knowledge, and by Him actions are weighed." Here is the assertion of a principle. It tells us that God deals with man according to a plan. The manner in which he tests the value of human actions is by weighing them. In the last analysis we are not approved nor condemned by outside appraisals, not by what others think and say about us, neither by what friends applaud nor enemies regret, but by the condition of mind and heart which God alone understands.

After reading this verse and thinking about it, I recalled a spectacular instance where this weighing process was put into action. It was when Belshazzar was holding his impious feast. God's great name was blasphemed; all decency was trampled under foot; the king and his courtiers had gone to the limit of beastiality. Suddenly the handwriting appeared on the wall and the weighing process began. This was the writing: "Thou art weighed in the ballances and found wanting." Here was a visible expression of the statement that the God of knowledge weighs the actions of men.

As these words have a very wide application let me call your attention to the following:

Weighing is characteristic of our daily transactions. The word "weigh" in its various forms appears 46 times in the Bible, the greater part of which applies to the weighing of gold and silver. No other process establishes the value of gold so accurately as weighing. The value of gold in the bulk is deceptive. It never comes out of the ground unmixed with the dross. A cubic inch of pure gold has a standard weight. While gold is not the heaviest of [illegible] coming the standard of measuring the materials we buy, such as grain, [illegible] are we pay for the sand, but when we buy by weight we get what we pay for. To judge correctly we must weigh the human personality. The inner life is the basis of judgment; not appearances, not size, not his fine clothing, not his wealth, not cash, not that his ancestors came over in the Mayflower; I think the Mayflower business is overworked. It is not his social status; not his family name, but what is the totality of [illegible] the correct standard of judgment? Alas we are not always careful in our judgment; we do measure men by false standards; we let such fripperies as money, fine clothes, social status, belong to the real of the soul. The size of the body has nothing to do with the mental and moral worth of a man. I have known a large man, physically, to have a large brain and I have known a very small man to have a large brain also, and I have known a large physical body to have a very small brain. Years ago in Boston the great Phillips Brooks of Trinity church was the largest man, physically, I ever saw in the pulpit, and he had a wonderful brain; at the same time in Tremont Temple Dr. Lorimer was the preacher; he was a very small sized man physically, but he also had a large brain.

God judges men by how they tip the spiritual scales. Our mode of measurement at the beat is narrow. A silk hat and broadcloth neither make a man nor mar him; the fact that you wear overalls and jumpers neither make nor mar you. The crown worn by the king never makes a man; it is what is under the crown. You recall the story of Dives and Lazarus was it the sores of Lazarus that sent him to Abraham's bosom? Not at all; was it his rags? Not at all; was it the fact that the poor fellow had to beg for a living? Not by any means. It was not because he wore good clothes; it was not because his table was laden with good things, no, no, but because he had no heart to help the poor beggar, but threw even the crumbs to the dogs; he was mean, and selfish. He was a skunk and he deserved his fate. Remember, God sees us as we are, and He is a God of justice, and He measures every one of us."

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

I often muse what lot I'd [illegible]
Which I [illegible]
And earth [illegible]
Has none [illegible]
It might [illegible]
To stay [illegible]
If I could leave some night in May
As fades the Star of Mora.

Perhaps [illegible]
When all [illegible]
And happy birds [illegible]
Their lays of love and light;
I cannot tell—it well might be
Regret were keener [illegible]
To turn from all so fair
And face the strange [illegible]

Or eve? What meeter [illegible]
As soft the West [illegible]
And shadows lengthen on the grass
And sweeter smells the rose?
Or when the summer day is done,
And all is calm about,
How fit another life begun
Just as the stars come out!

I do not know, I can't be sure
What hour I'd choose to die
South heaven hath a wondrous lure
When moonlight floods the sky;
When dimmer grows the earth I love
And all I hold most dear,
My soul might face the north above
With [illegible]

But of all [illegible]
Would choose [illegible]
I do not [illegible]
Just when I've [illegible] days
And, happy, gone to sleep

The long, last tryst to keep.

Until ye start, as if the sea-nymphs quired!

THRONG ATTENDED POSTAL CONFERENCE IN HARTFORD

Postmaster General Work Advised Business Men to Let Postmasters Help Them Solve Mailing Problems—Declared the Present Postal Rates Are Too Low—Parcel Post Now Represents 67 Per Cent. of the Total—A Feature of the Convention Was an "Open Forum" on Suggestions for Betterment of the Postal Service—First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett Condemned Congress for Continually Paring the Postal Budget—Not Carriers Enough, He Asserted.

Postal employees [illegible] post service [illegible] represented [illegible] about seven [illegible] of the total [illegible] it now represents 67 per cent. [illegible] of the total.

First Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett, claiming that the post office department is better able to estimate its needs appropriations than is congress, and hailing the attitude of certain congressional committees in constantly paring the postal budget said:

"We are talking like this because the government by the people, the people should understand and when the people understand congress understands, for the members of congress are wonderful listeners to the people.

"Often the discontent which permeates a system is due to a misunderstanding. We have to present our case to a committeeman of congress with great thoroughness in order to make them understand the needs of the post office department.

"We are the only department of the government that is unable to control the amount of business it handles. When the department of agriculture gets $30,000,000 for killing bugs and it has todo so to kill 5,000,000 worms and flies and stuff. We have many more [illegible] letters thrown in our hoppers every hour of the day. Thus we are doing a far more business with but 2 per cent. more help.

"We haven't carriers enough in the country and we know it. I told a committee of congress the other day with all the vehemence I possess, enough so that they almost resented it, that we need more carriers. We are going to have more, and more clerks, too, but not before July 1. Until then we have to be hardworked."

SCHWAB'S OPINION IN REPARTIONS TROUBLE

[illegible] (By the A. P.) [illegible] debt is [illegible] the greatest piece of [illegible] financial achievement [illegible] Every-body will inevitably have a [illegible] teaching effect in stabilizing [illegible] economics, declared Charles [illegible] in a chat with [illegible] Supervisor this afternoon [illegible] of American Am[illegible]

[illegible] forwardness which [illegible] negotiations, he added, demonstrated the solidarity of the German reparations problem. If only the statesmen would really get together and deal with the matter along businesslike lines.

Emphasizing that he was speaking purely as a business man, Mr. Schwab briefly outlined a plan which in his opinion would solve the reparations trouble.

The first step would be the appointment of a small international commission of disinterested economic experts who would go into Germany and there determine what the country could pay.

That having been done, there should be appointed a supervising commission [illegible] German govern[illegible] and see that a proper proportion of the national expenditures was applied to liquidating the reparations.

Germany, knowing definitely what she had to pay could float an international loan, which should be subscribed by all the nations to help stabilize her industry.

TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES MADE BY GEN. CRONKHITE

Washington, Feb. 21.—An investigation of charges made by Major General Adelbert Cronkhite relative to [illegible] official documents dealing with the death of his son, Major A. P. Cronkhite, had been tampered with, was ordered today by Secretary Weeks. The secretary directed Major General Bethel, the judge advocate general, to submit a full report.

Secretary Weeks said the charges were serious in nature that the [illegible] Cronkhite would be [illegible] and would extend to files prepared before he became secretary of war, in connection with the death of Major Cronkhite, killed at Camp Lewis, Washington, in 1918.

The charges were first made by General Cronkhite in November, 1921, in a letter to President Harding, appealing from the action of Secretary Weeks, who had refused the general's request for a court of inquiry.

New York, Feb. 21.—The Hippodrome, famous New York playhouse, with [illegible] opening [illegible] spring and a $1,[illegible] [illegible] erected in its place, it was reported today. The U. S. Realty company, which controls the property, admitted negotiations for its sale were under way.

Poincare, the French prime minister, in which the ministers of finance, war, public works and of liberated regions and also Marshal Foch took part.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The army appropriation bill, carrying over $336,000,000 and last of the annual supply measures before the present congress, was put in completed form tonight when the senate without a record vote adopted the conference report as it came from the house. The senate, in giving its approval, receded from those amendments which the house by its vote today had insisted upon.

ASSEMBLY IN SECRET SESSION IN ANGORA

Constantinople, Feb. 21.—A despatch from Angora says that the great national assembly is holding secret sessions to hear Ismet Pasha's report on the Lausanne conference. Remington, who was shot and killed in the driveway of his home here last Thursday night and the questioning of a man, who, according to Captain Home, admitted that he operated the stills for Remington, gave the police investigation of the slaying a new turn today.

About a week before his death Remington, personally dismantled the stills and placed them in storage where they were found, according to Captain Home. The stills were dismantled, the police said, they were told, only after Remington had a supply of more than one hundred gallons of liquor on hand. The liquor was found in the basement of the Remington home, Captain Home said.

While the investigators refused to make known all of the facts obtained, they declared they were investigating the theory that Remington was killed as the result of a bootleggers' war.

WASHINGTON

Dust of the gray years cannot dim thy name,
Nor changes chill thy country's pride in thee;
Thou art as some bright fire that steadily
Burns high above the little crackling flame
That lesser men may kindle, dreaming fame
Is one with party's brief idolatry.
On the low altars of humanity
Glory is quenched by the first breath of blame.

While the log's heart glowed with a living heat
The fabled Meleager knew not death,
But when it cooled his own must cease to beat—
He to the envious gods must yield his breath,
But children's children keep alive for thee
The brand their sires' love kindled reverently.

Data Withheld on Embassy Liquors

Secretary Mellon Declines to Inform House the Amounts of Intoxicants Imported.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Secretary Mellon declined today to furnish to the house of representatives information as to the amounts of intoxicating liquors imported by foreign embassies and legations in Washington since the prohibition amendment became effective on Jan. 20, 1920.

The information was asked for in a resolution adopted by the house last Friday after the treasury secretary had refused to give similar data to the house judiciary committee. The resolution was introduced by Representative Cramton, republican, Michigan, a "dry" leader, who told the house that publication of the data would furnish one remedy for the "menace" of embassy liquor charged by the Washington police after raids in several fashionable apartment houses.

"In view of the principles applicable to international intercourse," said Mr. Mellon's letter to Speaker Gillett, "and the existing immunity to which diplomatic representatives of foreign governments are entitled under international law and other statutes, I am not in a position to transmit this information to the house of representatives for the reason that it would be incompatible with the public interest to [illegible] it."

[illegible]'s letter, under date of [illegible] was written after he had [illegible] consultation with [illegible] [illegible] been from the view of the matter outlined by the treasury secretary in his communication to the house. Mr. Cramton said today he had no comment to make on the letter at this time, desiring first to give it "thorough consideration."

Specifically the Cramton resolution asked the secretary for the name and office of the consignee of each diplomatic liquor importation: the country to which he was accredited; the kind and quantity of liquor in the shipment; the place from which it was shipped; to whom it was delivered, and the date of delivery.

The resolution also asked what rules and regulations governing the importations of liquor by foreign diplomatic representatives had been promulgated by the treasury and the authority under which they were issued. Mr. Mellon furnished copies of these regulations with the statement that in permiting free entry of liquor importations he had acted in accordance with "the established principles of international law and the statutes of the United States."

Under the treasury regulations providing the "privileges of free entry and exemption from examination of baggage and effects" the following officials, their families, suites and servants are enumerated:

"Foreign ambassadors, ministers and charge d'affairs.

"Secretaries and naval and military and other attaches at embassie sand legations, high commissioners and consular officers accredited to this government or en route to and from other countries to which accredited and whose governments grant reciprocal privileges to American officials of like grade accredited thereto.

"Similar representatives of the government abroad, including consular officers, returning from their missions.

"Other high officials of this and foreign governments."

NATION-WIDE HUNT NOW ON FOR 1,000 COUNTERFEITERS

Secret Service Operatives Have Made 64 Arrests—Gang Has Had Printing Presses Turning Out Hundreds of Thousands of $2, $5, $10 and $20 Bills—Also Spurious Quarters and Gold Coins—Floated Fake Internal Revenue and Postage Stamps, Whiskey and Champagne Bottle Labels and Bogus Drug Permits—Headquarters in a Basement in the Italian Quarter of New York—Sources of Supply Were Guarded by Gunmen.

New York, Feb. 21.—Secret service operatives today rounded up 64 counterfeiters involved in a plot of international scope whereby between $1,000,000 and $10,000,000 in spurious money has been dumped into the trading marts of a score of nations.

A nation-wide hunt is being carried on, it was discovered, for the capture of 1,000 members of a gang which maintained its headquarters in a basement in the Italian quarters of New York.

Government operatives in Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco and other large cities, with the details of the elaborate plot at their fingertips, are prepared to raid counterfeiters' dens in the foreign quarters of their cities. Police of South and Central America and Western European nations have been informed of the haunts of the foreign agents of the gigantic crime ring.

The plot was bared after the capture last night of three men alleged by the authorities to be the leaders of an organization with international ramifications and the discovery of the printing presses which turned out hundreds of thousands of United States $2, $5, $10 and $20 bills, American silver quarters, gold pieces, Austrian kronen, Italian lire, International revenue stamps and certificates, postage stamps, water-marked prohibition papers, whiskey and champagne bottle labels, and bogus drug and liquor permits.

Raids in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Long Island City and New Jersey, resulted in 28 arrests in the last 24 hours, and ended successfully an eight months' search for the international gang leaders. Joseph A. Palma, chief of the special service squad of the federal revenue department, announced, thirty-six prisoners had been taken in secret raids during the last two weeks, bringing the total to 64.

Two raided places were found, Palma said, stocked with bundles containing $110,000 in counterfeit American money, tens of thousands of dollars worth of postage stamps, whiskey labels, revenue stamps, license cards, as well as piles of memoranda, press moulds and dies and a number of engraving boards.

Twenty-four of yesterday's round-up victims were arraigned bef re federal commissioner Hitchcock today and held in bail ranging from $2,500 to $5,000. Three were sent to Newark, N. J., for arraignment.

The counterfeiters, Palma arrested, were chiefly a combine with tradesmen in drugs and other rem The bought huge quantities of drugs and liquor from smugglers and resold the contraband in American cities while they paid the smugglers with counterfeit money.

Palma declared thousands of dollars worth of bogus money found its way into foreign ports, especially in Cuba and the West Indies, through members of the boat crews in the run fleet which, hailing from alien ports, sojourned off the New Jersey coast for nearly a month.

The headquarters and manufacturing plant of the gang, Palma reported, was in a basement at 29 Cornelia st., in the heart of Greenwich Village. There were seven wholesale distributing agencies in New York city and surrounding territory, the principal one in Broome street, a stone's throw from police headquarters.

The traffic was organized on an elaborate business basis with wholesalers and their agents, retailers and their agents, hired gunmen and liaison officers. Each branch of the trade operated independently, the necessary contracts being maintained through the liaison officers.

Italian and Jewish colonies were said by the secret service agents to have been the particular victims of the counterfeiters who with few exceptions were, themselves, of Italian and southern European origin.

Investigation of the activities of the gang, Palma explained, began late in August when the treasury department decided to suppress reported traffic in bogus money.

Palma said that when the supposed sources of supply were traced to New York, it was discovered that each place was guarded by a score of gunmen, most of them ex-convicts. Agents surreptitiously bought bogus money at 50 cents on the dollar. As the rate diminished, the agents knew they were approaching the source of supply. The manufacturer, it was found, sold at from 17 to 20 cents on the dollar.

When the plant in Cornelia street was captured, the presses were found dismantled and those men, said to be the directors of the international scheme, were absent. They were Dario Materazzo and Antonia Fotior of Brooklyn and Vito Mellerini of New York and Manhattan, it was stated, was arrested eight years ago and given a short sentence for having counterfeited internal revenue stamps.

The overt act charged against the group arrested yesterday was that Luigi Sorentino on December 9, gave to Gabrie de Fiore several counterfeit bank notes. Sorentino, it was stated, is out on bail on a charge of raising checks, made against him in New Jersey. Palma said he was on parole on a murder charge.

Sorentino, Palma said, was the agent for John Di Rosa, who kept a wholesale distributing place in his coffee house in Broome street near police headquarters.

"The way we broke through the counterfeiters' defense," Palma said, "was by the discovery that Sorentino was to deliver $10,000 to George Jackson and Salvatore Fabrizio, Pittsburgh and Michael Trantino and John Galana in a house in Brooklyn. Our agents were on the spot and caught all five. During the raid later last night in Long Island city, we arrested John and Earnest Jakopino, who were engravers of a printing shop called the Radio Press.

TO PROCEED AGAINST THE FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY

Washington, Feb. 21.—The federal trade commission will proceed vigorously in its case against the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and subsidiary concerns charging unfair competition and monopolistic policies, it was announced today. The case, in which charges were brought first in 1921, has been set for trial at New York city on April 23 and it is expected that counsel for the commission will call as witnesses many prominent in the motion picture world.

The original complaint was amended last week and charges the corporation, its subsidiaries and certain of its officers, including Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Jules Mastbaum, Alfred S. Black, Stephen A. Lynch and E. W. Richards Jr., with conspiracy to hinder competition in the production, distribution and exhibition of motion picture films and to create a monopoly in the motion picture industry.

The amended complaint recites in detail numerous alleged acts which form the basis of the commission's charges that Messrs. Zukor, Lasky and their associates have built up and now possess and exercise a dominant control over the motion picture industry, which fcontrol, the commission contends, has a dangerous tendency toward a complete monopoly.

The complaint also charges that threats were made to build or lease or operate theatres in competition with exhibitors who refused to sell or lease their houses to the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

HAD NERVOUS INDIGESTION

COULD NOT SLEEP—LOST WEIGHT ONLY WINCARNIS HELPED HER

"Let anyone who may question the truth of your claims for Wincarnis come to me and I will soon dispel their doubts.

A year ago I had a very bad spell of nervous indigestion and although my doctor did all he could for me, nothing he gave me relieved me of the dreadful attack.

I lost my appetite, I could not sleep, my nerves got worse and I rapidly lost weight.

I had read about your wonderful tonic Wincarnis and decided to give it a trial. Almost immediately my appetite came back and soon I was able to get a refreshing night's sleep. My nerves grew steady, my indigestion disappeared and I began to put on flesh. In fact, I gained 8 pounds while taking Wincarnis."

A very large per cent of the poultrymen and egg producers all through this section and Lisbon, are interested in the recent organization, under the mutual cooperation laws of the state of the Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers Association. F. L. Kanahan, of Lisbon, vice president, a very large egg producer and all 'round poultryman, has been interested in the plan for some time, and is explaining the benefits of the association, points out the fact that it is the primary solution of successfully competing with western egg producers.

Of the 25,000 hens included in the contract, the quota for this section is oversubscribed.

The Providence Farmers' Exchange is to handle all the eggs produced by this association, which will mean from 150 to 200 cases each week.

Th remains of George H. Studley, of Norwich, were brought here for burial Wednesday afternoon. Arriving at the cemetery, the committal service was performed by Mt. Vernon Lodge, No. 75, F. & A. M., of which Mr. Studley was a member. The bearers were E. M. Gray, F. C. Whiting, Harold Field and E. H. Hiscox. At the close benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. H. Ricketts of Norwich.

News of the death of Mrs. Harriet Tyler, which occurred Feb. 10, at Hiawatha, Kansas, has been sent to Mrs. Paul Geist. Jewett City people are interested because Mrs. Tyler's late husband, J. S. Tyler, who died in 1917, at the advanced age of 92, was the great grandson of Gen. John Tyler, a locally famous man, and a prominent figure in Griswold's history. General John Tyler was one of the leading Revolutionary generals, and Griswold has always felt pardonable pride that he was her native son.

Mrs Harriet Tyler's husband was Mrs. Geist's uncle, thus establishing indisputable lineage for Mrs. Geist as a descendant direct from General John Tyler.

Mt. Vernon Lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M., Norman B. Parkhurst, master, conferred the Master Mason's degree on two fellowcrafts at a stated communication Tuesday evening. Visiting brethren were present from New London, Moosup, Whiting, Mass., Phoenix and Arctic, R. I., and a large delegation from Somerset and St. James of Norwich.

Worshipful James C. Fitzpatrick of Norwich supplemented the work of the degree team, in his own inimitable style, giving a color to the floor wrk, that can only be furnished by the style that is all his own. One hundred Masons viewed the work with pleasure.

At a regular session of Reliance Lodge, No. 29, I. O. O. F., held Monday evening, the committee were appointed for the annual banquet and Ladies night. The committee consists of W. J. Robertson, Jr., Joseph Wharton and David Bothwell. The date is not decided upon.

Odd Fellows and those eligible to join the order, may expect a fine entertainment next Monday evening, which has been arranged by the committee, Norman B. Parkhurst, Louis M. Carpenter and Walter Benjamin. After the entertainment there will be refreshments and a smoker. These monthly evenings of entertainment are growing in popularity. A large attendance helps to make the good time that is desired by the committee.

Jewett City people are not a little interested in the thickness of the ice reported, on the several lakes and streams about the town. Where Shea Brothers cut 12-inch ice a few weeks ago, the ice is again a foot thick.

Some campers on the upper Asptnook tapped the pond for water the other day and were obliged to cut through a full 20 inches.

Judging from reports that were proven in other exceptionally cold winters, the ice on Reads saw mill pond is considerably over two feet, if not three. Hardly any sun ever reaches this pond. It is deep below protecting hills on all sides except the north.

From that end it is subject to the steady cold winds of a long winter.

June 1st after the severe winter of 1919, people hunting for trailing arbutus on the adjacent hillsides noticed ice, in considerable quantity still in the dark upper end.

THREE C. V. FREIGHT TRAINS WRECKED IN WILLIMANTIC YARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Feb. 21.—Three Central Vermont railroad freight trains, south bound, were wrecked in two collisions shortly before noon, Wednesday morning in the local yard. The freights lay along a stretch from the line limit, opposite the Willimantic cemetery to some distance beyond Wilson street. The caboose and a freight car on the first train were smashed and the caboose was demolished and a steel car derailed on the second train. There was no one in the cabooses at the time they were wrecked and no one was injured.

The trains were running at twenty-minute intervals with cargoes of miscellaneous freight and some "empties," on all three trains.

No. 400, the first freight train, with Engineer Thurston and Conductor Beyer, consisted of thirty-two cars and came to a stop some distance east of the yard limit about 11.20 o'clock. Engineer Thurston uncoupled his engine and ran it to the Columbia Junction roundhouse for coal, and at the same time switched off several of the cars from the freight. It was reported that no flagman was sent to protect the rear of the train.

At 11.40 o'clock, Train No. 404, Engineer Bennett and Conductor Ryan, came around the bend at the yard limit and plowed through the caboose of train No. 400, just opposite of Winter street. A freight car, loaded with grain, was also damaged and one of the trucks ripped off. Parts on the front of the locomotive were torn off, including the smokestack and the engine was covered with splintered timber which caught fire. The blaze was extinguished by members of Engine Company No. 1. The remainder of the broken wood flew in all directions and was picked and carted off by residents of the Brick Row.

At 11.55 o'clock, train No. 401, Engineer Stanley and Conductor Howard, sped around the curve at the yard limit and crashed into the rear of train No. 404. The force of the impact demolished the caboose of the latter train and derailed a steel car. The locomotive of train No. 401 was derailed and thrown to one side so that it blocked the New Haven railroad, which is but a few feet away. The front of this engine was damaged to some extent and the rails were broken in two places.

Officials stated that a flag had been set for train No. 401 but that owing to the curve it was not seen in time by Engineer Stanley, who lost no time in applying the air brakes but the momentum was so great that the train could not be brought to a stop in time to avoid a crash. Engineer Stanley told a representative of the Norwich Bulletin that his train was coming at a very moderate rate of speed due to the poor condition of the engine.

The stove in the caboose of train No. 404 was upset as a result of the collision and set fire to the demolished "buggy". A still alarm was sent in to Engine Company No. 1 and in the meantime a bucket brigade was formed to hold the fire under control. Upon the arrival of the fire company a line of hose was connected to a hydrant in Arnold's lane and a stream of water was turned on the burning timbers. Several gallons of chemicals were also used and the blaze was soon extinguished.

After arriving at the scene of the wreck the pump truck of Engine Company No. 1 became imbedded in snow and mud on Wilson street and after futile efforts to free it a pair of horses were finally secured to pull the heavy machine out onto solid ground.

The tool train crew of the Central Vermont Railway arrived shortly after 1 o'clock and began the work of removing the wreckage. The wrecker from East Hartford was sent for and was used to place the derailed locomotive of Train No. 401, and the steel car of Train No. 404 back on the irons. The work of clearing the tracks lasted until late in the night.

NOANK

Gerald Chester, the oldest son of Mrs. Phoebe Chester of the village, was injured Sunday morning at the T. A. Scott company yard in New London. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Shadows, the Prize Story, Opens at the Strand Today.

When Wilbur Daniel Steele, the celebrated writer, was asked what interested him the most, he answered, "People."

"No matter where I go I always find interesting types I have never discovered before. Human nature is a suoject too vast to be fully comprehended in one short life time but in my books I strive to give honest pictures of men as I find them."

Steele's pen characters are replete with an endowment of human qualities which sums up the author's art. Mr. Steele has traveled widely to gain his knowledge of people. He was born in North Carolina, educated in Colorado, studied painting in France, journeyed to India to write special articles for Harper's Magazine and after settling down for a few ywears in Provincetown, Massachusetts, he has set out again for an extended stay in Europe with no objective in view.

Editors are intensely interested in the results of this most recent jaunt of his abroad. While living in Provincetown Steele wrote the most remarkable stories of his career, a series of tales about the village to which he gave the pseudonym of Turkey. One of these "Ching, Ching, Chinaman" was named one of the prize stories of 1917 in American literature. B. P. Schulberg of Preferred Pictures, recently transferred it to the screen. The film version is called Shadows and will be shown at the Strand theatre beginning today. Its all star cast which Tod Forman directed, includes olin Chaney, Marguerite De La Motte, Harrison Ford, Walter Long and John Sainpolis.

Many a hearty laugh is sure to be obtained from the Mermaid comedy, Casey Jones, Jr., which will also be on this program. A News will round out the program.

Slater Hall Musical Course—London String Quartet, Feb. 23d.

The London String Quartet, the premier quartet of Europe, will appear on Friday evening, Feb. 23, in Slater hall, the second concert in the Slater Hall Musical course.

The members of this quartet are Arthur Beckwith, first violin; Thomas W. Petre, second violin; H. Waldo Warner, viola, and C. Warwick Evans, 'cellist.

For years, England and the British Isles have looked with exceptional pride upon this famous organization, while Spain, Paris, Holland, Norway, Sweden and other countries look upon their visits as gala events. Last season America welcomed the London String Quartet with outstretched arms.

Their phrasing, blending and sustaining qualities are particularly fine, although each artist has a distinct part to play in the musical picture, still their exquisite blending in tones make the four instruments sound as one.

The London String Quartet is booked for a coast-to-coast tour and is meeting with remarkable success.

Tickets are on sale for this concert at the Cranston Co., Broadway. Tickets $2, tax exempt.

Cooling of the earth will reduce the temperature 18 degrees in 100,000,000 years, according to Tait, late Scottish scientist.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Today is celebrated as the 191st anniversary of the birth of George Washington—who, by the way, was born on February 11.

The change of the date to February 22 took place in 1752, when Washington was 20 years old, at the time of the reformation of the calendar.

Sixty years ago today Sacramento was the scene of interesting ceremonies at the breaking of ground for the construction of the Central Pacific railroad.

Sir Frederic Kenyon, Director of the British Museum is to deliver the principal address today at the formal opening of the new building of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, in New York City.

Two unknown soldiers of Washington's army, whose bodies were recently unearthed from a forgotten grave in Westchester County, N. Y., are to be reburied with military honors today in the village of Tuckahoe.

High Masonic dignitaries from all over the United States will gather today at Alexanderia, Va., for the annual meeting of the George Washington National Masonic Memorial Association, which has for its object the erection of a magnificent Masonic temple as a memorial to Washington, who was a member of the Alexandria lodge.

AMUSEMENTS

Dr. Jefferson Topics Thursday and Friday.

While the large crowds who have heard Dr. Jefferson in his great series of addresses at the union meetings at the Central Baptist church have been charmed with each address, it is safe to state that the last two of the series tonight and tomorrow night will in all probability, be the best of the six. The topic this evening will be The Chivalry of Jesus, which has been eagerly listened to by many large audiences, and is certain to greatly impress his Norwich audience. On Friday, the closing meeting of the series, the topic chosen, is Religious Ambition, taken from St. Paul's writing Press On. Dr. Jefferson's presence in Norwich is making a deep impression, and it is expected that the two remaining sermons will be heard by very large congregations. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Connecticut College Course.

It was one of the mitigating acts of Providence that sent Maria Ivogun to lessen the hours of war, when she made her debut at only 18 years of age. This at any rate was the verdict of critics and music lovers of suffering Europe. Miss Ivogun today is completing her second season in America and rapidly singing her way straight into the hearts of its people.

Her program on Thursday evening will bring joy to those who appreciate not only the more florid roles of coloratura but also the divine melodies of Mozart and Schuberi which she interprets as few young singers of today do.

As evidence of America's appreciation the Boston Globe said recently:

"At the end the people refused to go home until she had sung several times more. Yesterday's concert showed that Mme. Ivogun can win and hold a big popular audience as well as please the critics."

On Thursday tickets for this concert will be on sale at Starr Bros., after 7 p. m., the sale will be transferred to the box office at the armory where the concert closes the last of the series at New London.

Breed Theatre.

A dramization of a popular novel by a famous director with a strong and well known cast in the actual setting of the original story, that's The Spanish Jade, a Paramount picture which was successfully presented at the Breed theatre last evening. Readers of popular fiction will recognize in the title the Spanish Jade of Maurice Hewlett, and they will be further pleased to learn that the interpretation was in the directorial hands of John S. Robertson. The company which included such popular players as David Powell, Marc MacDermott and Harry Ham traveled to Spain in order that the story might be filmed in the actual settings of which the author wrote. Most creditable performances were given by everyone connected with the making of the picture and the story is one of genuine charm.

Spanish Jade will be shown at the Breed again today and for the second feature Shirley Mason will be seen in Lights of the Desert. Movie Chats completes the bill.

De Luxe Vaudeville at the Broadway Theatre.

Another fine vaudeville program of five B. F. Keith acts are promised for the last half of this week at the Broadway.

The Elm City Four are headlined in an up-to-date vaudeville offering.

Art Clifton & Ray Rodelio present The End of a Perfect Day which is a comedy acrobatic novelty.

Eddie White sings songs and tells stories in a different way that is sure to win instant favor.

O'Brien and Josephine appear in The Song Salesman. This is a comedy offering replete with laughs and good singing.

Unice Miller and Bys offer a very good novelty dance act that promises to be the best that has been here for some time.

William Duncan will be shown at Broadway theatre today, Friday and Saturday in A Fighting Guide. The picture deals with the experiences surrounding a titled Englishman who finds himself with his valet in the northwest regions of America during the summer time. William Duncan, as Ned Lightning, a guide for wealthy tourist sand sportsmen, opens the picture, wearing a beard. Later he determines to pose as the nobleman in order to ferret out what he senses to be villainy at headquarters of the nobleman's company. In order to accomplish this he drafts the services of the Englishman's staid valet, who takes a liking to the rollicking scout. William McCall, as the valet, and Harry Lonedale, as the nobleman, combine with Duncan to produce an effect that reaches high peaks of clean and convulsive comedy.

Edith Duncan, co-star of Duncan, is cast as the heroine. She falls in love with Duncan, who saves her father from an undeserved execution at the hands of an unscrupulous conspirator.

Naugatuck.—Mrs. Vincenza Tangredi, 104 years old, died at the home of her grandson here. She was born in Italy in 1818 and she leaves nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

McINNIS GIVEN UNCONDITIONAL RELEASE FROM CLEVELAND CLUB

New York, Feb. 21.—By the Associated Press.—The deal which a New York syndicate headed by Christy Mathewson yesterday purchased the Boston National League Club from George Wright, involved more than $1,000,000, it was disclosed today. Charles Mellonogue, New York banker who with the former Giant pitching star and former Judge Emil Fuchs also of New York, acquired all of Grant's interests.

Mr. MacDonough who is vice president of the Columbia Bank, refused to discuss financial details except to admit that he held a small interest personally. He confirmed the announcement in Boston that Mathewson held a substantial interest and added that he and Mr. Fuchs would serve as trustees under the new control.

"Our prime interest," Mr. MacDonough declared, "is to put the Braves back on the baseball map as pennant contenders and we are anxious to have Boston interests take a leading share in the club's organization."

Mr. MacDonough accepted that while he had no intention of disposing of his interest in the club now, he would be willing to allow Boston interests desirous of backing the Braves to come into the enterprise. It was the name of the syndicate which had taken them over he said, to have Boston men in control of the board of directors.

The banker denied emphatically that officials of the New York baseball or any other major league were connected with the syndicate.

Mathewson he said, is now and will act as treasurer as well as president of the Braves and would have a free hand using the knowledge gained in his long baseball career to co-operate with Manager Fred Mitchell in team affairs in addition to handling executive matters.

Mr. MacDonough has been an baseball fan for many years but has no previous official connection with organized baseball. He was interested by former Judge Fuchs, he said in the deal to purchase the Braves, and influenced no little by the fact that Mathewson, whom he had long admired as a player was to become the executive head of the club.

JOIE RAY OUT TO BEAT MILE RECORD

Somerville, Feb. 21.—To run the fastest mile credited to man is the ambition of Joie Ray, the little Illinois A. C. athlete who has been fairly burning up the boards with his speed on indoor tracks this winter. Until he has had a serious fling at the attempt under proper conditions he will give no thought to retiring, he says.

Ray ran 4 minutes and 10 seconds as one of the leading mowers for the mile relay. The fastest mile ever run by which Ray could record stand, is the credit of Norman S. Taber then student of Brown University 4 minutes 12 3-5 seconds. Ray is confident that he can better this time. Coaches of college and club track teams familiar with the "little red-dyed" running hobby, agree with him, and hope he has the endurance that Taber had.

"The Brown engineer broke all records current on the track at the Harvard stadium in 1910 against picked opponents who acted as his pacemakers. Such an arrangement is regarded as necessary to bring a better performance from Ray, and they indicate that it would welcome competition making such an attempt sometime during the coming season.

The Harvard meeting, however, probably will not be held early enough in the season, unless one of the games now scheduled is changed.

In his campaign this season, Ray has shown himself a fast speed breaking the record for the mile and one-half at New York recently, and three days later jumped over to Boston and making away with the Hunter Mile again, a new record for that event, 4 minutes 7 seconds.

"After breaking the two world's record for the mile and a half indoors at New York January 20 with a performance of 6 minutes 41 1-5 seconds, Joie went back to that city on February 3 and the night broke three indoor world records 1 3-4 miles 7,360 metres and 2 miles and established a mark for the 1 1-2 mile run. His 1 mile time of 3 minutes 8 4-5 seconds, that night surpassed all records for that distance indoors or out.

"Ray talks he is still within the limits of his running possibilities indoors. He holds the indoor record for the mile, 4 minutes 10 2-5 seconds which he made four years ago, but says he is running better now than ever before. Joie will make a drive against this mile mark of his in the American Legion games here tomorrow afternoon.

Ray attributes much of his success to his ability to judge his pace. A year ago he dropped out of the event in the starting heats of the Hunter Mile, after he could not make 3 minutes 20 seconds, the best he ever had run. This year he would have made a new record of 4 minutes 7 seconds. This year he would run it in 4 minutes 10 seconds. He says it matters little to him if he has a furlong ahead of the best opponents do, for he is sorry, being confident little Joie says because he is thus able to set his own standards, and his legs sustain the task assigned to them.

Joie became a runner while he was training to be a boxer, and still harbors the ambition of gaining ring greatness some day.

(Special to the Bulletin)

Danielson, Feb. 21.—Killingly High School decisively defeated Tourtellotte High School of North Grosvenordale by a score of 64 to 24, in the town hall here tonight. In the first quarter the score was 20 to 4 in favor of Killingly, in the second quarter Killingly continued to gain, the score at the end being 37 to 5. In the third quarter all the first team of Killingly except Reeves were replaced by the second team. This improved the game somewhat, but Tourtellotte did not have a chance to win. In the fourth quarter Sambrauski substituted for Reeves. The K. H. S. second team put up a good game and outclassed their opponents in both floor work and shooting. The Tourtellotte team averaged a good many pounds less than either Killingly teams. This partly accounts for their severe trimming. The lineup:

Williams, Conklin	g	Robbins
Mounier, Downs	g	Kenney

BOSTON WHIRLWINDS TO PLAY DANIELSON FIVE

Owing to the wonderful Basket Ball Team that Danielson now boasts it was been necessary for Mgr. Wood to go out and get the best teams in New England in order to give his men something to work for. So he is taking on for his first big game the Boston "Whirlwind" champions of New England. This will no doubt be one of the fastest games ever seen in this territory. The Whirlwind manager has promised to bring his regular line-up, the same five men who have defeated about every strong team in New England. The Danielson Five have yet to be beaten, winning all their games by a large score. Mgr. Wood will use his regular line up for this game, as this game proves a success the Celtics of New York, champions of the world, will no doubt be seen in Danielson in the near future. For a preliminary game the Plainfield "Ruddies" one of the fastest amateur teams in the state will be on hand to defeat the Danielson "Tigers."

In order to give every one a chance to see this game, the manager has decided to have it on a Wednesday night, February 28th.

By DAVID CORY

GETTING AWAY FROM WICKED WOLF.

Oh, dear me, how Mr. North Wind did blow! He rocked Mrs. Oriole's nest that hung from the willow tree over the old Duck Pond back and forth till Little Jack Rabbit thought it would come off and drop to the ground. But, it didn't for Mrs. Oriole knew how to knit, let me tell you and her stocking-like nest clung to the Old Willow Tree like a spider clinging to his web.

"Well, I guess I'll let it alone," said Mr. North Wind. "Maybe Mrs. Oriole will want to use it next Spring."

Mr. Wicked Wolf opened one eye, just a little bit you know, and then he opened the other one a little bit, but he couldn't see the little rabbit anywhere, so he opened both his eyes, blink, just like that.

"Where can he be?" said and then he looked down [illegible] the hollow stump there wasn't any little Jack Rabbit there. No Sireeman and no sireebus and no siree, Mr. Prohibition Man.

RELIEF FOR NEW ENGLAND ROADS.

The interstate commerce commission did the right thing by the New England railroads when it allowed them an increase of 15 per cent of the joint revenue in the opinion of the United States supreme court by its recent decision.

This is relief which the roads had sought, which they produced evidence to prove they were entitled to and which had been fought by the more prosperous lines.

Seven million and a half yearly for the benefit of the New England roads may not be sufficient to remove all their burdens but it will help. It will give them at least what they have insisted they were entitled to. It will aid in that uphill struggle that has been going on for some time.

The court decision in sustaining the action of the commission points out that there was the possibility of having the New England roads increase their rates. The court recognizes that the commission did the wise thing in deferring the relief since such a step would have meant the driving away of business.

When attention is called to the fact that the transportation act sought to give adequate transportation service and that special provision was made for avoiding burdensome rate increases, emphasis is also placed on the joint revenue arrangement for the protection of the public. Instead of permitting the prosperous to take the cream and leave the remainder for the struggling lines, or to look to the jacking up of rates to get increased revenue, the proper division that would protect the weak and at the same time the public was provided for. The interstate commerce commission upheld the contention of the New England lines concerning the increased percentage of such revenue, and its approval by the supreme court must therefore be highly pleasing to that part of the country. And yet it only appears that the New England roads are getting what they are entitled to, after a long fight for their rights. Which is enough it may not clear the skies for the roads it improves a dubious situation.

FIGHTING THE MOSQUITOES.

Those who are deeply interested in the effort to eliminate the mosquitoes can point with pride to the improvement in health conditions that has been accomplished in North Carolina, where at Rosemary and Roanoke Rapids the percentage of the population affected by malaria has been reduced from 45.3 to one-tenth of one per cent through the successful fight on the mosquitoes.

It has required persistent effort for a period of ten years to improve the situation there. It has been necessary [illegible] and not a little in the Canal Zone, to accomplish results through the draining of swamps [illegible] involved without productive expense and the application of crude oil to those which could not be consumed. Towns have been freed from this pest, and what these have come to mean [illegible] in the region.

There are without a doubt many other communities which are standing in the same position that those two villages did. Certainly there are to be found plenty of places that are seriously bothered with mosquitoes. Just what effect the mosquitoes may have upon the health conditions may not be established but whether they carry disease germs into the homes or just make a nuisance of themselves by [illegible] in North Carolina is the way for those seeking relief.

It is certain that the real fight against the mosquitoes must be waged in the breeding places and not on the wings. Slapstick work doesn't count. They multiply faster than it is possible to think about them.

Such efforts as are directed at the elimination of the breeding places are destined to get results if they are given the proper amount of encouragement. It will be a happy day when the breeding places for the mosquitoes along Connecticut shores and in swampy places can be as successfully treated as those in the North Carolina villages. It bids fair to be some time, however.

THAT BILLION FOR GERMANY.

Just how any member of the United States senate could imagine that congress would authorize the loan of a billion dollars to Germany, or any other country, for that matter, is difficult to understand. Just what was to be expected was the unanimously adverse report that was made by the judiciary committee to the bill which had been introduced by Senator Burnam.

We haven't as yet completed arrangements for the repayment of the billions that we have already loaned to European countries. We will get some of them back with interest, but there is no certainty that all of the ten or eleven billion will ever be returned.

We have made a separate peace with Germany, the provisions of which it is expected will be carried out, and it is expected that this country will be reimbursed for the keeping of its forces on the Rhine, but we are not overlooking the attitude that Germany is taking regarding other promises it has made.

We have good reasons for hoping that Germany will fully recover and prosper but it doesn't appear to be the duty of this government to provide the money to bring about such conditions.

This government isn't in the business of lending money. It hasn't any such sum to lend, and but for the emergency conditions in which it was concerned it would not have loaned what it has. The committee well understood that there was no chance for this government to appeal to the people to support any such proposition. If there are bankers or individuals who want to loan that or any other sum to Germany there is nothing to prevent, but it cannot be expected that this government will guarantee the payment or act as the collector. It is a far different proposition for Germany to raise a loan in this country than to have this government become involved in such an arrangement.

WASHINGTON'S ADVICE.

This is the day when the country again gives special thought to our first president and great patriotic leader. It is a day when renewed attention may well be given to the noble stand he took in behalf of his country and the equally decisive position against becoming involved in foreign entanglements.

There are those who would have this country assume the role of settler of all disputes, regardless as to whether it is invited to do so or the misinterpretations that would be quickly applied to any such efforts.

Long ago was it established that this country has plenty to do in this hemisphere without undertaking to tell Europe how it should run its affairs. It would be entirely possible to become involved in all sorts of difficulties should we undertake to guide those who are unwilling to be guided. Europe hasn't gotten to the point where it regards governmental affairs through the same eyes that this country does. When there is evidence that it is undergoing a change, it doesn't take long to have the fact established that the change is not far reaching. The disposition to get back to the old methods is quickly displayed.

Washington knew well what he was talking about when he advised this government to avoid entanglements abroad. It was some years ago, and much water has run over the dam since that time, but it doesn't take any great search to establish the fact that we are bound to be much better off by attending to our own affairs. We can set an example without mixing into the hidebound policies of Europe when we are not directly concerned. Washington's advice may be aged, but it still holds good.

THE GASOLINE TAX.

In connection with the problem of obtaining sufficient revenue with which to meet state expenditures there is under consideration in a number of states the question of levying a tax on gasoline, along the lines of such a tax existing in this state. Invariably the amount proposed is one or two cents a gallon and in at least 16 of the states where such a tax does not exist, but is getting some consideration, there does not appear to be any very strong opposition.

Wherever the tax is advocated it is invariably urged on the ground that the proceeds be applied to some phase of the road work.

Where state expenditures are mounting an important part in such increases is played by the outlays for better roads. With big appropriations for road building it is natural that attention should be turned to those who are getting the use and benefit of the roads for additional revenue. There cannot be any disposition to tax the autos out of existence, but there cannot be very strenuous opposition to the idea of a gasoline tax when the proceeds from such are to be devoted to purposes which are especially beneficial to those who pay it.

To a very great extent gasoline is consumed by those who participate in the wear and tear of the highways, and with such tax on it as they pay going back into the [illegible] on which they depend there is not likely to be any great objection. To turn such revenue in any other direction would meet with a much different reception.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There are more comfortable jobs in February than directing traffic on Shannon corner.

Throw out your flags today in the observance of Washington's birthday anniversary.

King Tutankhamen will not feel it necessary to hold his breath any longer for fear of being discovered.

The man on the corner says: This is the day that reminds you to make only the proper use of the little hatchet.

There certainly is no violation of the speed laws when it comes to entering the tomb of the former Egyptian ruler.

One week more of February and the popular inquiry "Cold enough for you?" will soon give way to "hot enough for you?"

Coal may be scarce but you wouldn't think so from the way it is thrown out on the sidewalks amongst the ashes.

Carry in mind the importance of the special town meeting Friday night when the question of increased high school facilities comes up for consideration.

There is nothing that requires an embargo on housecleaning until the snow has disappeared. Delays will only change the complaints from "too cold" to "too warm."

There's a shortage of coal and yet much is being exported. The lumber supply of the country is fast being depleted, and yet the exports [illegible] more large than the year before. 'Twas ever thus.

SAFELY PACKED AWAY.

"If we ever move from our present place of abode," began the man from Hyde Park as he edged into the seat beside his friend from Woodlawn, "we are going to be amazed at the things we discover. I shouldn't be surprised if in the upheaval of packing we'd find Charley Ross, several ships that were never heard from after they sailed, the "Lost Chord" and the missing will! I shouldn't be in the least amazed to find that Imogene had packed them neatly away and forgotten all about them."

"Move over," said the man from Woodlawn. "I've got my pocket full of birthday cigars I have been giving away to the poor and needy today, and I'm afraid you'll smash them! Do you suppose Imogene could pack away a few boxes of them for me so they wouldn't be remembered till the year of the next big wind?"

"He who suffers does not jest," reproved the Hyde Park man. "Of course I don't mind Imogene's habit of folding sheets of the wrapping paper which comes around packages and putting them away, or untangling twine and winding it into pretty balls.

"There!" she will say, standing back from her hour's toil enraptured. 'Just see this nice pile of wrapping paper! Some one is always wanting wrapping paper and these are such large sheets! Now where can I put it so we'll know where it is? I guess up on top of the top shelf in your closet on top of those books we don't know what to do with! And the twine I'll put in the machine drawer!"

"She does so immediately and the location of the nice wrapping paper vanishes from her mind. When the laundryman is stamping at the door waiting for the shirts and collars, there isn't a scrap of wrapping paper in the house. Imogene looks back of the piano, under the icebox, in the drawer where the summer underwear is packed, in all her hatboxes and in the hall coat closet and then in despair grabs the latest edition of the newspaper and jamming the laundry into it hands it to the laundryman, who drips collars all the way down the front steps because the parcel isn't tied. But that's the way of women with wrapping paper the world over and I do not complain.

"Sometimes she packs away my second best summer suit, which she says is good enough for me to wear next season when I sprinkle the yard or go fishing or motoring. Then when I want that suit we sit around with our fingers to brow, brains scrambling.

"Did she, Imogene asks, did she by any chance put it in the second trunk behind the screens in the basement? Or in the third packing box in the attic? Maybe it is in the dining room window seat where the moths wouldn't get it, or perchance it is tied up in that khaki bag that is so nice to hold things.

"But, wherever it is, we never do find the suit. Imogene declares that she is positive she put it in some perfectly sensible, safe place and that she tied it up most painstakingly in a box wrapped in paper, neatly, and it is most puzzling where it possibly can be! Well, wherever it is, it remains, neatly and safely, while I go motoring in the good suit and wreck it.

"Every husband is accustomed to situations like this and bears them patiently and heroically. What really alarms me is another matter. Each years subsequent to the holiday season Imogene goes around the house, gathering up pasters, stickers, holly and gilt cord and ribbon, and large sheets of tissue paper, which she says can be ironed out to look like new, and what a waste and shame it would be to throw it away!

"She toils hours ironing the 10-cent tissue paper, and days rolling up the ribbon and twine and piling up the Christmas stickers and then she packs all the plunder into a box with the Christmas cards sent up that year by our friends. This is so that the next holiday season she will be able to refer to them as a mailing list. Then she puts the box away in a safe place—a very safe place. It is so safe that mortal man never see it again. It may be a box with red paint all over it, or fire bells that ring, but nobody ever sees or hears anything about it. All those dozens of posters and stickers left over, that she had counted on using, all that cord and tissue paper—[illegible] tissue paper is so high, too—all are demurred.

"A new holiday outfit must be purchased and is. And the next year—but why go on?

"Only you know after a thousand years more or less, of this, some day the shelf or the beam or whatever it is that is ladened with the accumulation of Christmas stickers is going to cave in from the weight and we shall die a miserable death beneath several tons of tissue paper and fixings——"

"Well, you'll die happy, because you will have discovered what became of 'em," soothed the Woodlawn man. "That's something."—Exchange.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Income Tax Facts.

Within certain limitations interest and taxes paid during the taxable year may be deducted from gross income. Such items include interest upon a personal loan and taxes on a dwelling, as well as interest on business debts and taxes upon business property. The federal income tax, however, may not be deducted, nor may there be included any special assessments for local benefits tending to improve the value of the property, such as paving or drainage assessments since they are, in fact, the cost of a permanent improvement.

Obligations of the United States issued prior to September 2, 1917, are wholly exempt from the federal income tax. Hence interest paid or accrued or indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry such obligations is not an allowable deduction from gross income.

Personal indebtedness includes not only money borrowed to defray personal expenses—clothing, food, etc.—but also money borrowed for the purchase of real estate. If a person owes money secured by a lien or mortgage on his home, the amount of interest paid on such indebtedness may be deducted. Moreover, interest paid by the taxpayer on a mortgage upon real estate of which he is the legal or equitable owner, even though the taxpayer is not directly liable upon the bond or note secured by such mortgage, may be deducted as interest on his indebtedness.

Wives of Famous Men

Saskia Van Ulenberg,
Wife of Rembrandt

Into the history of most famous artists the names of many women are woven like a brilliant pattern in the poetry of their lives. But into the life-fabric of Rembrandt, that greatest of all workers with pigment, there is but one bright thread of a love story, the story of his affection for Saskia van Ulenberg, his wife.

Always a sober, quiet young man, Rembrandt met Saskia at the home of an art dealer who was her cousin. The dealer desired Rembrandt to paint a portrait of his charming relative, and during the sittings the young painter fell desperately in love with his young model.

Fortunately for him, she returned his affection, and soon they were married. Sun never shone on a happier union than this one, and it was largely Saskia that made it so, for an artist, no matter how kind and thoughtful he may be, is bound to have his moments of temperment. It was at these times that Saskia proved that great beauty and great understanding may dwell side by side in the same person. She was his model for scores of pictures. He never tired of painting her, and we can see Saskia in red and gold embroidered velvet robes, Saskia dressing her hair, Saskia as a bride, Saskia as a shepherdess. He showered her with gowns and jewels, and as one biographer has it, "Saskia strutted about decked in gold and diamonds, till her relatives shook their heads in alarm and amazement at such wild goings on." In fact, they commented so unfavorably upon her extravagance that Rembrandt, in a rage, sued them for slander.

However, their domestic life must not be overlooked. Saskia bore four children to Rembrandt, three of whom died. Shortly after the death of the last child, Saskia herself worn with grief, passed away. This removed the finest influence from his life. He was a broken man, and never entirely recovered. A last portrait of her, painted from memory, shows her a delicate, spiritualle creature, as though the painter had brought a model from another world.

Stories That Recall Others

Wrecking George Washington.

"Did you ever hear about the time I made George Washington a total loss in a patriotic exhibition?" said one citizen to another. "Well, it was when I was in school. The teacher had made a lot of big pasteboard letters that spelled George Washington. We were celebrating the birthday of the Father of Our Country and teacher picked me to be the first G in George. That meant I had to start the show. Each of us had four lines to recite, the line beginning with the letter we represented.

"The hour for the exhibition came. Little I stood at the head of the line and, on signal, proceeded to blurt out something about G.

"Talk about a blowup. Say, I didn't even get started. The result was disastrous, for all the other kids proceeded to forget their lines, too, and George Washington was an awful failure for the first time."

English As She Is Spoken.

"I guess a new customer," announced the laundress-by-the-day when a visitor came in to call. "I guess I'll be making out pretty good now. With six washings a week I oughta do."

"And who is your new customer—one of the neighbors?" asked the visitor.

"No, she's a foreign lady. Anyway she don't speak good English like me and you."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SUGGESTS EXCLUSION OF OUTSIDERS AT ACADEMY

Mr. Editor:—I have read with much interest the recent letter of the executive committee of the Norwich Free Academy, published in our daily press; have read also reports of the discussion of the matter.

The Norwich Free Academy has been a very precious asset to the town of Norwich during its past history. It was a most valuable personal gift on the part of the Nortons, Blackstones, Greenes, Gulivers, Osgoods, and others in providing for the higher education of the young men and women of Norwich, an inspiring foresight supplemented with liberal donations by those loyal citizens of Norwich.

We must assume it to be a gift to Norwich alone and not to the inclusion of surrounding towns; at least, it must have been their wish and intent that no outsiders should be admitted to seats to the inconvenience or disadvantage of our Norwich students or applicants. But, unmindful of the intents and purposes of these valuable gifts, many hundreds from outside have in past years crowded the halls of the institution, often to our disadvantage, which would not have been tolerated during the lifetime of the donors.

It is quite evident that if the intents and purposes of the donors were lived up to, and the doors closed to outsiders, at least for the present, there would be ample room and facilities for all our own students. Would not the readoption of the orginal plan and practice answer the whole question of "What shall we do?"

I have no sympathy with the thought that Norwich taxpayers are under direct obligation to the surrounding towns for the full or any part of the schooling of their children. We are striving to provide for our own under tax burdens that are appalling; a fate that puts savings-bank interest in the shade.

It would seem rather exceptional if, in the fifty years' operation of our cherished institution, some of its well favored recipients should not be able and disposed to reciprocate in the manner and spirit of the original donors. Is it too optimistic to hope for such events, so common among the alumni of colleges?

An education to some extent is the privilege and duty of every human being within the realm of our domain; but not every human being is receptive to an education in any degree, while a large percentage are only capacitated or willing to receive a crude education, choosing rather industrial occupation, and shirk school privileges at the earliest age the law allows. Another percentage of high school students of both sexes are kept, or allowed to squander their four years in an aimless, uninterested pursuit which should be turned to usefulness at home, or answering some of the urgent demands of liberal paying employers, but prefer to hang around the institution for popular, social reasons, to the hindrance of diligent students.

It might be a wise innovation to the curriculum of the higher schools and colleges for the faculty to discriminate between the worthy, diligent, aspiring student and the aimless, slothful, unappreciative idler, and provide for the elimination of the latter from the institution, which would to a large extent relieve the congestion. Still another means is feasible as well as advisable: to raise the educational standard. These two methods would sift out the nonprofiting class who are wasting the best preparatory period of their lives when they are needed and wanted in worthy, legitimate pursuits much better adapted to their limited capacity.

To attempt to high-school and college educate the masses is as futile as training ducks to roost on poles, for they have instinct enough to seek a safe level. One of the most important prerogatives of a young man or woman is to find their inherent, dominating talent, if they possess one; if none can be pointed out they will remain floaters in various avocations without signal success in any except by chance. The logical outlet for the unspecialised class of seekers for livelihood is to the soil. There is no limit to its wholesome allurements.

We have just completed, and wisely, I judge, a new school building at a cost of nearly one-quarter of a million dollars; not a dollar of it paid for from our own individual means, but the whole remains a legalized obligation against our tangible effects and must be met in the near future. Now, to think of anticipating twice that amount under the same conditions is a poser.

If recent statutory laws are inflicting us with measures not applicable to neighboring towns, simply because we out-number them, it is up to us to seek a solution that serves our individual purpose to the exclusion of all outsiders, and under the lightest pecuniary burden that can be devised. We ought to feel competent to amply provide for our own, under terms and conditions in perfect harmony with those of the original donors of the Norwich Free Academy, inviolate.

GAINS IN U. S. EXPORTATION OF COTTON MANUFACTURES

The cotton goods manufactuers of the United States are showing a marked success in their fight to retain the hold upon world markets which they gained during the war period. Of the dozen great manufacturing industries which are seeking world markets, that appertaining to cotton goods shows a larger percentage of gain in the exports of 1922 than any other. The total value of cotton manufactures exported in the 10 months ending with October, 1922, is $115,600,000 against $93,200,000 in the same months of last year, while most of the other manufacturing industries show declines in the value of 1922 exports as compared with those of 1921. Iron and steel manufactures, exclusive of machinery, show a total in the 10 months of 1922 of only $158,080,000 against $295,000,000 in the same month of last year; machinery and vehicles $297,000,000 against $481,000,000; refined mineral oils $264,000,000 against $310,000,000; electrical machinery $43,000,000 against $80,000,000; chemicals $43,000,00 against $45,000; and wool manufacturers 5½ million dollars against $8,000,000. In a limited number of manufactures including india rubber products, lumber and other manufactures of wood, and automobiles, there is a slight increase but the percentage of gain is in most cases below that of cotton goods which seem likely to show a grand total of approximately $150,000,000 in the calendar year 1922 compared with $117,000,000 in 1921 and only $56,000,000 in 1913.

This increase in the cotton goods exports occurs in nearly all of the important classes. Cotton cloths alone amount to $71,000,000 in value for the 10 months of 1922 compared with $50,000,000 in the like period of last year, and the number of yards exported is 500,464,000 against 458,261,000 in the 10 months period of 1921. Cotton wearing apparel shows a total of approximately $20,000,000 against 16½ millions in the same month of last year; hosiery 7½ million dollars against 5½ millions.

The increase in cotton cloths exported occur especially in the higher grades, bleached cottons $13,000,000 against 9 1-2 millions; printer goods 12½ million dollars against 8¼ millions; piece dyed goods $16,000,000 against 13 1-4 millions; and yarn or stock dyed $12,000,000 against 8½ millions, though it is proper to add that the unbleached cottons exported show a slight decline in value. The increase in the higher grades of cotton cloths occur in quantities as well as manufactures, the bleached cottons showing a total of 86,000,000 yards against 68,000,000; printed 96,000,000 yards against 71,000,000, and other grades corresponding advances in quantity as well as value.

Our cotton goods are going to all sections of the world except Europe, our chief rival in the cotton manufacturing industry. The quantity of unbleached cottons going to South America in the 10 months ending with October is 43,000,000 yards against 27,000,000 in the same months of last year; bleached cottons to South America 7,000,000 yards against 6,000,000 in the same period last year; printed goods 21,000,000 yards against 8,000,000, while the other grades to South America also show increases. The Philippine Islands took in the 10 months of 1922 9,000,000 yards of unbleached cottons against 3,000,000 in the same months of last year; 33,000,000 yards of bleached cottons against 12,000,000; 20,000,000 yards of printed goods against 12,000,000, and in the other groups corresponding increases. To British territory the exports show increases despite the activities of cotton manufacturers of the mother country; the quantity of unbleached cottons to Canada in the 10 months of the current year is nearly 7,000,000 yards against 4,000,000 one year earlier; to Australia 2½ million yards against one-half million; to Egypt nearly 4,000,000 yards against less than 2,000,000 a year ago, and of the finer grades Canada took 8¼ million yards of bleached cotton against less than 5,000,000 a year earlier, and British South Africa over 3 million yards against less than one million in 1921.

In the Letcham house, which was built in Bethany Harbor, Me., in 1776, there is a fireplace made of stones collected from all parts of the world. The shingles were all made by hand and lasted ninety years.

PROPOSES SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON HIGH SCHOOL SITUATION

It is understood that the special town meeting Friday evening on the high school situation is to have a resolution introduced for the appointment of a special committee to take the whole situation into consideration and make report at an adjourned meeting.

Those interested in the solution of the situation as regards the Academy and high school education for the town, look upon the matter as of such importance that it deserves the fullest study before action is taken, and too important to be decided upon snap judgment of a town meeting which would be without the fullest information.

The suggestion as to the special committee has been broached to citizens in different sections and different walks of life, meeting with general approval as a way of treating such a highly important subject for the future of the town's educational obligations.

SUES FOR $1,100 FOR PLANS FOR POLISH CHURCH

Trial of a suit for $1,100 against the Polish National Catholic Church of the Divine Providence for services in drawing plans for a church building on Golden street was begun in the superior court here, before Judge Allyn L. Brown Wednesday afternoon. The plaintiff is architect and Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher.

He was the only witness Wednesday and when court adjourned Judge Brown conferred with the attorneys and announced that he would hold a Washington's birthday session of court in order to continue trial of the case.

Attachments have been filed on cemetery property in Montville that the church owns and on the church building on Golden street in this city which was built on other plans than those drawn by Mr. Pitcher.

Attorney John H. Barnes appears for the plaintiff and Attorney Edmund W. Perkins for the defendant.

Mr. Pitcher testified that the priest of the church and another man first saw him in November, 1921, and went with him to see a tract of land at East Great Plain that they were thinking of buying for a cemetery. He made a survey of the land for them and calculated the area. Mr. Pitcher couldn't tell the name of the priest or the man with him.

In December of 1921 or January of 1922 the witness said he met the priest and eight or ten young men at the Ryan plot in Montville which they were thinking buy for a cemetery. Mr. Pitcher made a survey of this lot and a description of the property for the deed, which was to be made to the trustees, of whom one was to be the priest. On Feb. 4, 1922, the witness said the priest introduced a man as treasurer of the church and they wanted to know how big a floor space would be required to seat 500 people. They also asked the size and cost of such a church, built as cheaply as possible, which the witness said would be $7,500 or more, meaning a wooden building. Then the priest asked about brick or cement construction for which Mr. Pitcher drew a plan. Then four school rooms were added at direction of the priest. The whole building was about 106x40 feet. Later on several occasions, five or six men, who were said to be the building committee, came to see the plans on a number of different afternoons. Finally the blue prints were turned over to these men in April, 1922.

Mr. Pitcher explained the blue prints to the court.

Three days after the plans had been delivered they were returned to Mr. Pitcher and the priest then presented a sketch of a church in the form of a Maltese cross. The witness said he had told the committee that a church on the other plans would cost $25,000. The priest asked Mr. Pitcher to work up plans after the Maltese cross sketch, which was done, taking about two weeks. The priest came in nearly every day in that time. The priest saw the plans after they were finished and said he would have the building committee come to see them, but they never came and Mr. Pitcher has never been paid for his work.

Nothing was ever said at any time as to the compensation which the witness was to receive, but he was told to make the plans. He charges 4 per cent on the estimated cost of the large church and 4 per cent on the small church. Mr. Pitcher said his whole charge was $1,100 which was under the usual rates as the regular charge would have been 6 per cent. on the first set of blue prints and 4 per cent on the lead pencil plans for the second church.

On cross examination by Attorney Perkins, Mr. Pitcher said nothing was ever said to him about the fact that the congregation could afford to put into a church. The first time the committee made any comment about price was when they heard it would cost $25,000 to build on the suomitted plans, which the committee said was too much. He didn't know anything about any powers which the committee might have.

WORLD NEEDS SOMETHING IT DOES NOT HAVE TODAY SAYS DR. JEFFERSON

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson of New York, speaking at the Central Baptist Church, Wednesday evening, in the fourth of six addresses given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., chose his subject from two verses in the scriptures, Job, 23rd chapter, 3rd verse, "Oh that I knew where I might find him, that I might come even to his seat," and from Matthew, last chapter, last verse, "teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I command you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

The world today, said Dr. Jefferson, is in need of something it does not possess. Crime waves sweep over this country, and in all countries in the world. The vice wave too, vices of the human heart are flourishing, the divorce vice grips this country, and grips England the same. Lawlessness is increasing, there is an indifference to civil legislation, and hatred is seen in the world today as never before. There is a worldly wave flowing across the world. Recently two great English preachers gave addresses on the topics, "The Crumbling Foundations of Morality," and "Old Paganisms are Rising From the Grave." Surely this world needs something it hasn't got now.

All the gods of the human race have failed. Progress; we used to spell it with a capital P, people believed that progress would save the world, they thought that the clock of life was set to strike twelve and nothing could change this. They later discovered that the world could retrogress, go back to the days of barbarism, the days of the savage. The great war proved this, for men became savages and sent their arrows down from heaven murdering women and children in their beds. No, progress will not save humanity.

Science, that wonderful word to many, people thought science a sort of diety that would relieve the distress of the world. Jesus Christ was passe, thre was a new wizard. Scinece has done great things for us, wonderful things for mankind. Science has sharpened the razor so sharp that it is possible for humanity to commit suicide. No, science cannot save the world.

Education Will Not Save

Education, that is called the golden age of higher learning but this will not save the world. Germany was the highest in education in the world. Scholars went to Germany to sit at the feet of its professors. Nowhere was learning so high, nowhere were the common people so well educated. But, it was the graduates of German universities, learned men, who trampled into Belgium into blood, it was the seat of learning in Germany that boiled the broth of learning until it flowed over the edge of the bowl and scalded the world.

Law, people thought that law would solve the problem, that law was sacred, but when we see the laws written on parchments torn up and called scraps of paper we know that law cannot save humanity.

Wealth, yes, we Americans have bowed to the god of wealth, but wealth, has not improved the conditions, gold has been a millstone about the neck of many a nation. Ah, where can we look for salvation.

Patriotism, nationalism, did this solve the problems. Italy joined the warring factions but Italy is not happy today. It was thought that if the peoples of the German race could be brough together it would solve their problem. Bismark brought them together, but alas only to give them power to burn Europe to ashes. Edith Carvel was right in saying, "I now see that patriotism is not enough."

Decline of Aeligious Spirit

There has been a decline of the religious spirit in the past 50 or 75 years. The spirit of science is great, of education, of patriotism, all great, but religious spirit is weak. People say we are in a commercial age, and they are right. Never before have merchants and manufacturers scoured the earth for raw materials to satisfy the demands of the people. People say the whole world is commercialized, that the press is commercialized, in other words been degraded, that art, literature, and even the church has been commercialized, have gone back, are not of the best. That commerce has left its mark on all. Yes, they call it the commercial age, but you hear little of the spiritual age.

The social spirit is great within us, we cannot speak without using the word social. People today are social, there are more organizations and societies in the world than there are blackberries in July. They have drives, raise funds as though they were out to found an empire.

Bible Reading Fallen Off

How often do you read of the great doings in the religious world, of miracles. Take Bible reading, one great philosopher claims the Bible is read less today than at any time since the reformation. Young people especially do not read the Bible as it was read in New England 50 years ago. Family prayer, how few families today meet their God in the morning in prayer before the work of the day. Fifty years ago it was common. Prayer meetings are being attended dless and less and in many places have been given up. People simply do not attend them. Look at your Sunday evening service, few attend, people say they need but one sermon a week, and evening service in many places have gone.

The Sunday morning service is not even well attended. Sometimes when the preacher has great command of the English language people will flock to hear him, but this is only because everybody likes to hear a fine speaker. The common place preacher gets a meager congregation. In the English speaking world the spiritual life is going out, and as Christians we must find the way out. Our hearts are not in the Sunday morning service. We can't have worship without devotion, if the hearts of the people are not moved. They sing the hymns in a half hearted manner, the preacher prays and there is no devotion beating on his words. That's why people stay at home, and say they're just as well off there.

Where there is no admiration, no devotion the interest fails. People look on religion like a hobby horse, interest gone, the toy goes to the attic. This makes others say we are improving, people are getting away from superstitution, and are taking a reasonable view of the invisable world.

Then there is the love of thetruth. Thousands have no love for the truth, they don't care about the truth, and can't understand about Jesus who came to stand for the truth. Humanity loves through these people and goes further back, back to the lower civilization, nearer to the animal.

Then there is the instanct for goodness, some have that sense, but criminals have not retained it. Criminals despise the Graces. Would you exchange places with the criminal and aid to drag humanity down to lower civilization?

Where is God? That is the burning question on the lips of thousands in the world today. They ask the same as did Job. "Oh that I might know where to find him." That's what has confused thousands in the world today. A great war came in 1914, and thousands of people who had been taught from boyhood and girlhood that God was tender, merciful, and filled with compassion, prayed him that the terrible war might end. Deaths went to five millions, and they prayed for the end, and God did not answer their prayer. Up went death, wounds, and the figures reached ten millions and still God did not heed the prayer of his people. The question thousands are asking today is why did God hide his face, stand afar, in their time of trouble, why did he do nothing.

The Mind of God

Look to Jesus Christ and you see the mind of God, look to Jesus Christ and you see the heart of God, God is not above the stars, if he is not in our hearts he is nowhere, if not in your city he is nowhere. Philosophy has given us the wonderful message that there is a diety dwelling in the souls of man. I am in you; where two or three are assembled there I am also, lo, I am with you alway even unto the end of the world.

It was the call of two British admirals that sent all England into prayer to God. The admirals told the nation it must look to God for victory and aid. Today merchants, manufactures and all thinking men are telling the people to come back to God. Bow down before God, talk to him, he will hear, meet him spirit to spirit for closer than breathing is he, and nearer than hands and feet.

The service was in charge of Edwin Hill, general secretary of the Y, and the scripture reading and prayer was by Rev. Richard R. Graham of Christ Episcopal Church.

It was announced that Dr. Jefferson would speak on Thursday night on "The Chivalry of Jesus."

NORWICH-ESSEX TURNPIKE HEARING DRAWS CROWD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 21.—The hearing on Representative Rogers' bill making the old Norwich-Essex turnpike a part of the trunk line system drew a large attendance from the towns through which the road passes.

Mr. Rogers ably presented the merits of the bill and explained the character of the territory.

There were present from Norwich Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, Compensation Commissioner James J. Donohue, Charles E. Smith, Senator Hermon J. Gibbs and W. N. Ives. All of them gave strong endorsement to the proposed road.

Others appearing and speaking in its favor were E. H. Geer, C. D. Hungerford and F. E. Browning of Hadlyme, Brockway of Lyme, A. P. Randall and Samuel Samuels of East Haddam. More than a score registered as being in favor, including C. V. Pendleton of Norwich, Ambrose Sullivan of Montville and Proctor of Bozrah. The bill was given an unusually hearty support by all who spoke and seemed to make a good impression on the committee. If reported favorable it will yet have to go to the committee on appropriations.

The highway involved in this movement is one of the oldest in the state. It begins at Norwich and goes west through Bozrah and the upper part of Montville into Salem and then into East Haddam, passing by North Plains and Brockway's Four Corners in Hadlyme and thence to the Connecticut river, where it connects with the ferry, or the bridges, as the traveler desires. As the highway comes along it crosses important highway connections. For instance, in Salem after skirting Pairy lake it connects with the new Hartford and New London pike.

Then as the highway enters East Haddam and is laid out in the direction of North Plains, it strikes the cross road which leads to the famous Devil's Hopyard, in East Haddam, one of the most unique playgrounds of the state, filled with remarkable scenery. This park is the second largest in the state with 860 acres.

From this cross road the highway runs along to the settlement known as Brockway's Four Corners, where it crosses another road, including the connecting routes through Hamburg and so on down to Old Lyme and the Saybrook bridge on the one side, while it can connect north to East Haddam and the bridge which crosses to Haddam. Another Connecticut road goes to the old ferry.

This highway is recognized as important both for the agricultural interests and for business men. Middletown parties are much interested in it because many of their trucks go down that way to deliver goods.

E. W. Backus of Norwich also was heard in support of making the highway from Norwich Town to the New London turnpike at Trading Cove a part of the trunk line system.

The petition of Louis Sternlieb of Norwich for restitution of forfeited rights was advocated by Miss Julia Corcoran, state factory inspector, and Representative O'Leary of Norwich who made his bid appearance for the session.

NO POLITICS IN THIS BILL SAYS BUCKLEY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 21.—When the house bill concerning the holding of other offices by members of the state board of finance came from the judiciary committee, with a favorable report, it was supported by Mr. Bell of Salisbury as being for a good, sound and economic government. It was opposed by the representative from Saybrook and favored by Shepherd of Portland. House Leader Kenton opposed the bill saying that when he first read it that it appealed to him, but upon mature consideration he was opposed. He considered it poor legislation to legislate out of office competent and valuable men. The board has worked satisfactorily. The bill will not benefit but will be a detriment.

Representative Faulkner of New Haven asked Leader Buckley who this bill, if passed, would affect and he replied E. Kent Hubbard of Middletown. He denied there being any politics in the bill, but that it was a measure tending to good government as it was the opinion of the committee that no man should be allowed to pass upon matters of appropriations in which he was interested. The committee were indifferent as to whether the bill passed or not, but they had given their best judgment in the matter. A motion to indefinitely postpone was lost and the bill was then adopted by a rising vote of 117 yeas to 67 nays.

The bill providing that owners lending automobiles to others, should be responsible for any damage done by the borrower, provided a lively discussion. It was opposed by Representative Wall of Torrington and championed by Leader Buckley and others.

A rising vote was requested and the bill as reported was adopted.

Five cars, containing anthracite and bituminous coal were on the trestle at the time. The blaze was soon out, twelve gallons of chemical being used.

Engine 5 of West Main street was called to the fire in case extra help was needed, but the men from the central station had the blaze nearly out when they arrived. The damage fwas slight.

PRETTY COLONIAL DANCE BY B'NAI BRITH AUXILIARY

Rose of New England Auxiliary, No. 40, I. O. O. B., held a Colonial dance Wednesday evening at the Wauregan house ball room which was decorated with American flags and a single picture of George Washington draped in an American flag. There were about 125 couples present and was most successfully and enjoyably carried out.

At intervals during the evening there were many novel features. The chief attraction was an old fashioned minuet danced by eight of the younger members. The girls were in colonial costume and wore their hair powdered. They were Esther Shershevsky, Helen Lowenberger, Beatrice Ableman, Lucy Gilman, Dorothy Pasnik, Miriam Goldberg, Madalene Thune and Sarah Nowick. A Colonial Surprise was danced by Miss Dorothy Pasnik in costume. There were also a Virginia reel and Paul Jones. The music was by the Philharmonic orchestra.

During the evening the gathering was called to order for a brief time by Alex Pasnik, who introduced Max Hanover, who was applauded enthusiastically as he spoke as follows:

"Sisters of the Rose of New England Auxiliary, No. 40, I. O. B. B., Ladies and Gentlemen and Fellow Citizens of Norwich: I began my address in this manner in order to embrace you all. My life in Norwich for the last twenty months has been a revelation. I have been ushered into an ideal sphere where man respects his fellowmen and everyone measures up to the highest standard of morality. And I must reveal a secret, that I fell in love with the community, and whenever I find an opportunity to serve the people of Norwich I feel that I am privileged to pay my duty for the happiness which I enjoy here.

"Tonight is the second time in about two weeks that I have been invited to speak to an organization conducted by ladies. You cannot fool the ladies anywhere and the ladies of Norwich particularly. They have an intuition to single out their friends and admirers. I do not know whether "admirers" is the proper word to use for what I mean to imply. I made it my business to study the people with whom I come in contact and I found the Norwich women so lovely, so modest, so chaste and charming, and feminine and ladylike that I will have to coin new words not found in our dictionaries to express my regard for them.

"No wonder that you have such wonderfully fine men here. Good husbands, good fathers, good citizens, enterprising Americans and with noble civic consciousness. They cannot be otherwise, as they have such fine women to emulate and to measure up to in manners and character.

"Now that I have paid my respects to our exemplary community I may be permitted to turn to the Ladies of the Rose of New England Auxiliary particularly. As a B'nai Brith ladies organization you had me on your side since your very inception, but I find fault with your name. Why call it an auxiliary? You ought to be called a "Initiatory" as you initiate things and you work them out wonderfully well. I know that this dance was initiated for the initial purpose to bring together the community in one harmonious evening. In one harmonious of entertainment, where all have a good time and then go home and feel drawn closer to each other. Harmony among human beings is the ideal goal of mankind. Harmony among all citizens is the ideal of true democracy. This ideal has been propagated by our liberal American nation and protected by our noble flag the Stars and Stripes. Our very emblem is a harmony of so many states each represented by a white star upon a blue field.

"It is fitting this evening in our happy moments when our hearts are filled with joy and on the eve of Washington's birthday to dedicate ourselves anew to the principles of harmony and loyalty to each other, to our city, to our state, to our nation and to our flag.

"The B'nai Brith subscribes to all American principles and precepts and our city has been enriched by the addition of your organization."

The committee in charge comprised Mrs. J. Manes, chairman, Miss Lena Shershevsky, Mrs. Israel Rabinovitch, Miss Ethel Goldberg, Miss Lena Nowick, Mrs. A. Pasnik, president, Miss Augusta Shershevsky, secretary.

There were guests present from Worcester, Willimantic, New London and Westerly.

HAMDEN'S OLDEST MAN DIES HERE, AGED 89

George M. Alling of 12 Prospect street, Highwood, known as Hamden's oldest man, died early Tuesday morning in the 90th year of his age at a Norwich institution, where he had been invalided for the past two weeks, following an acute illness. Ailments incident to old age are attributed as the prime causes of Mr. Alling's death. He was a member of Admiral Foote post, G. A. R., being a veteran of the Thirteenth Connecticut volunteers, having enlisted in Company H of that regiment March 17, 1861.

Mr. Alling served in the war of the rebellion for three years and following his discharge in 1864 he married Miss Caroline Atwater in Westville on June 14 of that year. He was a native of Hamden, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leverett Alling, and is survived by two sons, William Alling of Hamden and Harry Alling, member of the Hamden school board, with whom he resided. He is also survived by two grandsons, George and Frederick Alling.

He was born Aug. 28, 1832, and for many years following his service in the Civil war was employed at the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., but for the past 18 years has not done any active work.

EKONK

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gallup, Mrs. Clark Gallup, Mrs. Charles Hopkins and son Harold spent Wednesday, the 14th, at E. B. Gallup's. It was Mrs. Gallup's birthday. A bountiful dinner was served. The menu included oysters, chicken, cakes, pies, doughnuts and cheese, fruit and nuts. The birthday cake had seven candles around the edge, each representing ten years, with four smaller candles in the center, each representing one year. During the day a comforter was tied. Mrs. Gallup received many cards and valentines.

Hamilton Wilcox is still confined to the house, suffering with rheumatism.

Rev. H. B. Sloat of Hartford delivered an address in the Sterling Hill Baptist church Sunday morning which was listened to by an appreciative audience.

The children of the Sterling Hill school will give a patriotic entertainment Thursday evening, Feb 23, in the church to celebrate Washington's birthday.

Florence and Arthur Gallup spent the week end at their home here.

ROCKVILLE

Eight in the family of Everett Keney are ill with grip. Early in the winter several of the children were ill with diphtheria, one dying with the disease, and it is only a few weeks since the quarantine was removed from the house.

Ernest Ross is on the sick list.

Miss Elsie Charnley is confined to her home by illness.

The many friends and patients of Dr. E. J. Knerr are glad to see him out again after his being confined to his home by illness for some time.

Several from this place have secured work at the quarry below Bradford and motor back and forth each day.

$130 VERDICT FOR BLUMENTHAL

A verdict for $130 and costs against both defendants was returned in favor of Constable Myer Blumenthal by a jury in the superior court at New London, in his suit against Louis and Betty Rosenberg of this city for assault and battery.

The case went to the jury at 10:35 after Judge Christopher L. Avery's charge and they returned with the verdict at 12:35 after deliberating two hours and 20 minutes.

Constable Blumenthal claimed that he was assaulted and battered by the defendant's on Nov. 14, 1919 while he was levying an attachment upon their grocery store in West Main street, Norwich. He claimed damages of $3,000.

The testimony was completed and the arguments made Tuesday afternoon.

The only witnesses for the defense were Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg and their young son, Harry. The defendants denied assaulting Blumenthal, but declared he assaulted them, striking Mrs. Rosenberg with a billy. Harry Rosenberg testified to hearing a fracas in his parents' store and when he arrived there he found Blumenthal striking his mother and he ran for his father.

Attorney John H. Barnes for the plaintiff made the first argument and he was followed by Attorney V. P. A. Quinn and H. H. Pettis for the defense after which Attorney Barnes made the closing argument, at the conclusion of which court adjourned for the day on Tuesday.

CLARK BROWNING'S PRIZE GOOD CITIZENSHIP ESSAY

The following is the essay on Citizenship by Clark Browning of the Norwich Free Academy, which won the prize offered by the Norwich Rotary club and which was read by Mr. Browning at the Rotary meeting Wednesday:

When we hear the term "good citizenship" I wonder if we stop to think of the vast importance that it has in helping the progress of a nation. If we examine the foundations on which a government is established we, no doubt, find certain privileges that the citizens of that country have. If the citizens do these things they are doing all they can to influence good citizenship. On the other hand if they do not obey the laws and are always taking more privileges than is granted to them they are destroying the idea of good citizenship.

Of course, we know that no nation would stand idle and have its laws disobeyed. Therefore, in order to enforce them the nation has to spend large sums of money which might be used for other purposes if good citizenship was carried out by the people.

Now let us take a democratic government like the United States and see how good citizenship is carried out by the people. I take the United States instead of any other democratic government because we, as citizens of this country, are very familiar with its government.

Let us look into the constitution of our government and see whom it considers citizens and what privileges it gives to them as citizens. This is what it says in relation to a person being a citizen of this country: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they live. All infants in the United States are citizens and are entitled to the privileges at home and abroad, but they cannot vote." Concerning the privileges that citizens receive we find that they enjoy more rights and privileges in this country than in any other.

You would think that the people who have these rights above with many others, which I have not mentioned, would be law-abiding citizens—that is, that their influence would be for good. Is this so? No.

There seems to be more crimes committed in this country than in any other. This is because many people do not understand what good citizenship is. On the average it is not the true American but it is the person born in a foreign country who commits most of these crimes.

Now comes the question, how can we prevent this? One way is to teach the foreign born what citizenship is. When this is done no doubt the crime wave will decrease instead of increase.

We will now consider a government which is ruled by an absolute monarchy. To the people have very many privileges and do they have very much to say about the affairs of the government? The answer is, No! That is why they do not know what is meant by good citizenship.

Every year thousands of people from these countries come over to our land. Many of these people never become very familiar with our government. Therefore, their children who are born in the United States are not very well acquainted with the laws of our government.

The American government has discovered this and is doing all that it can to influence them to become good citizens.

We, as Americans, hope they will be successful and forever establish the importance of good citizenship in the mind of every person who makes the United States his home.

ST. PATRICK SCOUT TROOPS MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Scout Executive F. A. Benton on Tuesday evening paid an unofficial visit to Boy Scout Troops No. 1 and No. 3 at St. Patrick's church, and found their training under the direction of Rev. Roger J. Cherieny and Scoutmaster Alfred Ash. There were over 70 boys present and they carried the maneuvers of lines and squads to perfection.

Scouts in the troops have been given a chance to earn half of the money needed for their uniforms, the other half to be paid from money in the troop treasury.

Scoutmaster Ash reported that 12 scouts had passed the tenderfoot test, and these boys can now secure their uniforms, equipment and such like. As soon as the weather conditions permit the scouts are to be given more outside work.

Three new scouts were registered on Tuesday night raising the total number of scouts in Norwich to 305. The scouts are working hard to put the St. Patrick's Scout troop on the map in scouting.

The scouts of Norwich need more camp equipment and other things for scout work and it is hoped that the generous citizens of Norwich will contribute and help the scout campaign find over the $5,000 mark.

Several new scout troops are ready and will soon be formed sending the scout enrollment far over the 300 mark. The goal for February has already been passed, and the work will be carried on as fast as leaders are secured for the troops and boys.

BROKE PLATE GLASS IN TRUCK COLLISION

A motor truck of the New London Glass company that was on the way to this city early Wednesday afternoon with a 80-inch sheet of plate glass for Norwich store window was sideswiped by a small skidding truck that was coming in the opposite direction about half way between Norwich and New London. When the glass company truck pulled off to the side of the road to see what the damages were, it was hit again by a big truck of the Connecticut Products Co. which was coming along behind it.

Not much damage was done to the trucks but the big plate of glass was broken. It is said to be worth about $90.

CITIZENSHIP ADDRESS IS MADE BEFORE ROTARIANS

One of the largest meetings in the history of the Norwich Rotary club, marking the 17th anniversary of the Founders' of Rotary, was held at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday noon when the educational committee, Homer M. Loton, chairman, put on a citizenship program. This week meetings are being held in the country well to discuss the citizenship. The Norwich club was fortunate in having Dr. Charles L. Jefferson of the Broadway Tabernacle of New York as the speaker on this engrossing subject.

The 125 present listened with rapt attention while Dr. Jefferson delivered his highly interesting and inspiring talk on the principles of good citizenship and Democracy. Dr. Jefferson said in part:

I am glad you have asked me to speak on this subject of Citizenship and like the subject. Citizenship coaxes one away from the small things of life and leads them to consider the broader fundamentals of our nation. Some think that service to the community and to your neighbor means shoveling snow from your sidewalks, but it means more than this. It does us all good to consider this subject. We find that we are related to the community, the state and to the country and it is appropriate that we bring up at this time this subject, when in February we celebrate the birthdays of two great Americans, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

Democracy is causing much thought and concern now. It is not turning out as well as was expected. Skeptics are doubtful of the future welfare of democracy but no one has any other form of government to offer. But we can say that it has not turned out as well as anticipated. It has its failures and there is much lawlessness. When over across I have actually been shamed at the reports coming from America. Reports of lynchings, mob violence and other things that have taken place here are known in every land. Down in Palestine I was invited by a Mohammedan Arab about the number of people at the stake. We have 46 counties and when I told them we have more than one case among more subberies and open lawlessness. There is open desecration of the 18th amendment by people of high repute. We cannot think of these things without concern.

Democracy has existed for 150 years, a short space in the world's history, but what about the next 150 years? What is in store for democracy in the shadows future? Many critics say that you cannot put Judas Iscariot and Paul on the same plane. You cannot give every Tom, Dick and Harry the vote without knowing what sort of people they are, and that their principles are of the right sort. Everything depends on the people, the character of the men and their belief in right. It behooves us all to think well. As we look to the flag, this nation and the principles this nation founded by Washington and saved by Lincoln? Despotism is not so bad provided there is the right kind of despot in power. It is better than democracy where the people have the power but not the right understanding of democracy.

Need Peace Time Courage.

What is to become of this country unless the people are willing to make sacrifices? What will become of it if the men are working each for his own selfish ends? Many good people neglect to register and there are ever so many who do not consider it a duty to vote. Not to vote is wrong, but if he does vote and sell his vote it is a crime. This vote is a sacred privilege. In some countries it is considered beneath the dignity of the so-called higher class to run for offices and there is more or less that feeling among the so called "best citizens" of America. They do not want to be dragged through a political mire as they call it. But there must be these sacrifices of democracy is to stand. In time of war there is something glorious in the sacrifice but in these not equally if not more so. In time of peace there is great need of equal courage. In peace as in war, courage is called out for sacred principles and demand good citizenship. And only when we have such a courage to demand good will it be easy to be courageous in time of war. First there is the obvious danger, the exhilirating excitement and the martial music. It stirs us and makes our hearts beat faster with courage. Then we march with the mass of troops are assembled and moved by the thousands and millions and it is easy to have courage then. And again, every exhibition of courage is recognized and there are records of men for the deeds of bravery. But in the peace time courage there is no outward danger, although there may be danger lurking in hidden places. Each man is a hero by himself, he stands alone without the plaudits of the mass. The reward is negligent, there are no medals, and even he is suspected and hated if he stands out against the popular clamor. What we need in peace time courage sufficient to meet the demands of peace. If we had this courage how many things would be pulled down, how many false gods toppled over? Courage to stand for right, clean living and right thinking as demanded by the American people.

Some say they are working for citizenship in other lands and neglecting their citizenship here on earth. I hope there are none so poor as to work for none. We must be careful in living that citizenship of heaven does not unfit us for citizenship on earth. We must do everything to keep the freedom of God here and then will we be prepared for the citizenship in heaven. We must be more ready to serve God and to every right, that is rather than to be two great cowards that we are now in America has given to the world, Washington and Lincoln. They were strong men, they never flinched nor shirked, they were good true and faithful in time of tempest never looking for personal glory or profit. That is the kind of men that America needs to preserve her democracy and make it stand down through the ages as a guiding light to the world.

At the conclusion of his talk the speaker was given a rising vote of hearty appreciation.

The speaker was introduced by James C. Macpherson, president of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. under whose auspices Dr. Jefferson is speaking in Norwich. In introducing Dr. Jefferson Mr. Macpherson referred to the speaker as a citizen of America whose life is dedicated to the service of His Lord and Master and in rendering service to his fellowmen.

Another feature of the interesting meeting was the reading of the Rotary prize essay on citizenship by the author, Clark Browning of the Norwich Free Academy.

At the business session Vice President Hugh B. Campbell presided in the absence of Senator William G. Park, and Joseph C. Worth acted as song leader. There were two pleasing solos by Frank R. Murdy, assisted by his quartete. Secretary J. Nelson Wentworth announced that on Friday evening Ray Havens, president of Rotary International, would broadcast by radio a message to all Rotarians in the country. The announcement to be broadcasted about o'clock. Secretary Wentworth also announced that the Norwich club had the 50th district to attend... in the past month. The meeting closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and Banner.

ROTARY WEEK CELEBRATES ITS EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY

With presidents, prime ministers, chief justices, and heads of national legislative bodies throughout the world contributing brief statements of their ideas of the responsibilities of the individual citizen for the kind of government he gets, ninety thousand members of the Rotary International throughout the world are observing this week by thorough understanding of these responsibilities as part of the celebration of the eighteenth anniversary of the founding of the first Rotary club.

President Harding, Speaker F. H. Gillette of the house of representatives and Attorney General Daugherty, are the authors of the ... messages. Both ... of the United States ... their ... people of their communities. President Harding tells in his statement of the responsibilities of the individual citizen for the execution of the laws and declares no citizen can consider himself a good citizen who does not do all in his power to make careful selections from among the candidates for office and then vote for the person he has deliberately selected—when the president remarks particularly the ... several millions of ... citizens of the United States regularly fail to do by failing to vite at all.

Speaker Gillett also pleads for careful selection of the candidates for legislative office and states that the quack and the demagogue belong to the same category, in that they arouse sympathy by telling the victim of his real troubles and then offer their own remedies as the only panacea for the trouble.

Attorney General Daugherty declares that ... cannot succeed ... is not possible unless the individual citizen first acquaints himself with and obeys the law himself.

The three basic statements of the principles of citizenship being used in the United States are duplicated in similar messages from the heads of the main branches of government in most of the twenty-odd countries in which Rotary clubs have been established. The educational work the Rotarians are doing has nothing to do with partisan politics nor are the statements from the three distinguished government officials partisan. They principles are devoted entirely to the broad principle of the responsibilities of citizenship.

The text messages are being used in addresses to schools, industrial plants, civic organizations, etc., wherever the Rotarians think they can find a good audience. They are being broadcasted from thousands of radio stations and will form the subject of talks at every Rotary meeting during the week.

The first Rotary club was organized in Chicago, February 23, 1905. There are now 1,325 Rotary clubs with a membership of approximately 90,000 in twenty-seven countries. The clubs are organized for the purpose of practicing and spreading the principles of service through the adoption of codes of ethical practices in all lines of business and professions, through work among boys to prepare them for citizenship and through unitilizing the service idea in aiding and abetting all movements for the general good of the communities in which the clubs are established. The main idea of Rotary is to train the individual member in the service idea and through him reach his business or professional associates. This is one of the reasons why there is a limit of one man from each business or profession in the Rotary club in each community. The Rotary club does not seek to enter civic activity as an organization, but rather through its individual members to assist and stimulate other organizations formed for specific purposes, to reach their highest development.

RAILROADS IN THE RUHR TO BE UNDER FRENCH DIRECTOR

German Railroad Administration to be Replaced by an Allied Civil Administration—Action Result of Conference Between Premiers Poincare and Theunis—All German Manned Trains Reaching the Edge of the Ruhr Are Obliged to Leave Their Engines Behind and Await Locomotives From the Unoccupied Territory—Heavy Penalties Are Being Inflicted on Germans Because of Resistance to Allied Authorities—One German Killed, Two Severely Wounded by Two French Soldiers in Front of the Law Courts at Bochum.

Paris, Feb. 23.—(By the A. P.)—A decision to replace the German railroad administration in the Ruhr with an allied civil administration was officially announced tonight as one result of the conference here between Premier Theunis of Belgium and Premier Poincare.

Representatives of the French ministry of public works and the state railroads are leaving for Duesseldorf tonight to confer with Generals Degoutte and Payot and Paul Tirard, president of the International Rhineland commission.

The civil administration will hold the same position as regards its relations with the military occupational authorities, as did the German administration. The director of the railroads will be French, with two deputies one French and the other Belgian.

FIRED POINT BLANK INTO CROWD OF GERMANS

Bochum Feb. 22.—(By The A. P.)—Two French soldiers this afternoon fired point blank into a crowd of Germans in front of the law courts, killing one man and severely wounding two others.

The trouble occurred while French troops, with tanks, were engaged in occupying the Law Courts building and the neighboring prison on suspicion that certain Frenchmen had been incarcerated as spies. During the course of this operation one German official was arrested and placed under a guard of five French soldiers.

Some of the bystanders hooted the soldiers whereupon several of them fired into the crowd. The scene was witnessed by several foreign newspapermen. The crowd had not made the slightest attempt to molest the soldiers and the shooting apparently was due to the nervousness of young and inexperienced French soldiers.

The populace was greatly angered over the shooting, and one body of the townspeople, finding a French civilian interpreter alone in the street, beaded and manhandled him. The Frenchman was removed, battered and bleeding, to the police station.

FRANCE DETERMINED TO GET HER REPARATIONS

Paris, Feb. 23.—(By the A. P.)—France is determined to protect her security and her just reparations, President Millerand declared at a banquet tonight of the republican committee on commerce and industry. However, he added, France in the present Ruhr difficulties had no thought of annexation.

The president said that if Germany were flattering herself with the illusion that France, which conquered at Verdun, would yield before financial difficulties, she was making a fatal error in psychology.

He emphasized that the Ruhr developments had betrayed to the world the secret plans Germany had been cherishing, and that in pursuing their just ends France would never waver until her purposes were achieved. France during the war asked her children to sacrifice their lives; now France was asking them to make financial sacrifices to complete the victory of peace.

France, which held so many years during the World war, he declared, would continue this struggle so long as necessary. No people since the end of the World war had given more proof of mental health and equilibrium than the French. They understood that prosperity could come only with security and there still was left enough courage to obtain the necessary security.

HOW ALLIES ARE DEALING WITH GERMAN RESISTANCE

Essen, Feb. 22.—(By The A. P.)—Gelsenkirchen having been evacuated by the French forces after their several days of punitive occupancy, the spotlight on the Ruhr valley developments rested today on the penalties the Franco-Belgian courts-martial and the border control bodies are inflicting on the Germans because of their resistance to the allied authorities. The latest move of the occupiers to offset German obstructions to the maintenance of railroad transportation has been a ban against any locomotive leaving the occupied area. All German manned trains reaching the edge of the Ruhr, eastward bound are required to leave their engines behind and distant locomotives from the unoccupied territory to pull them further.

Reports from Waltrop, and other points indicate that the ejection of German railway men from their dwellings and offices is also being conducted on an intensified scale.

At Castrop a courtmartial dealt with eleven German officials and others all in one day, the charges being of a wide variety.

The sentences ranged from 10,000 marks fine against an inn keeper for failing to show a menu to military guests to two months' imprisonment and 200,000 marks fine against a small town official because certain supplies were not specified. A Sharpsburg railway inspector received a fortnight's confinement because a railway engineer was allowed to drive a loaded coal train through this station at full speed into uncontrolled Germany.

In the meantime the German Red Cross is making an effort to intercede for the Germans already sent to jail, their efforts are especially in the interests of two of these men. One of them is Vice Lord Mayor Schaefer of Essen, sentenced to two years' imprisonment and fined 10,000,000 marks for failing to supply automobiles for the troops. The other is Recorder Guyzen of the Essen Retail Grocers' association, charged with signing the circular urging merchants to refrain from selling to the French, and sentenced to two years and a fine of 5,000,000 marks.

These two men are alleged to be confined together in one cell which the Germans claim is seven cubic metres smaller in dimensions that the cell prescribed for individual criminals of the lowest type. The Red Cross is said to have been refused the privilege of having representatives visit them, despite several applications to General Degoutte.

Dr. Gruetmer, president of the district, from the headquarters he established at Elberfeld after his expulsion, has notified the lord mayor and diet of Essen that he forbids the formation of any police force to replace the one recently dissolved there.

It is reported that Woermeiskirchen in the Lennep district of the English occupied zone, that the French troops at Bergisch-born are preventing food shipments going into unoccupied territory. WHAT HE HEARD AT KU KLUX KLAN MEETING

Springfield, Ohio, Feb. 22.—The state sprung a surprise in the W. M. Cartner case, in which the defendant charged with riotous conspiracy in Ku Klux Klan headquarters, when it called Edward McDonald to the stand in police court this afternoon.

McDonald testified that two speeches were made on the night that he was initiated into the klan, which he said, was February 12. One of these, he said was made by Rev. C. O. Woodward, pastor of Broadstreet Church of Christ, of Columbus, whom he testified, talked on Catholics, Jews and negroes. Asked what he remembered of the speech made by Rev. Woodward, Mr. McDonald declared:

"He said 85 per cent of the offices were held by Catholics; that we ought to stop foreign immigration. He said it's time for us [illegible] per cent. Americans to step in and do something."

"What did he say about the Jews?" asked Attorney Malone for the state.

"He said the Jews were getting too strong, too. He didn't say very much about the negroes," said the witness.

McDonald testified that Rev. R. C. Moon, pastor of the St. Paul M. E. church of Springfield, also spoke. The witness was not called upon to tell what Rev. Moon said.

COOLIDGE TRACED CAREER OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Tracing in the career of George Washington proof of his contention that the foundation of civilization, of liberty, of freedom and of organized society rests upon religion, Calvin Coolidge, vice president of the United States, paid tribute to the nation's first president in an address here today.

"The example of Washington will never be outgrown," he said, "for the wisdom of the principles of which he advocated and established does not change. He was and is a great teacher—inevitably termed 'the Father of his country.'"

"He molded into the institutions of government the religious principles of the people. Throughout its historical development, religion has supplied the foundation of government. Its teachings has always been finally on the side of liberty and justice, established through the maintenance of the orderly processes of law.

"This is pre-eminently true of our American political system," he said, "it neither seeks nor claims any justification for its existence save righteousness. It found its inspiration, it had its beginning in the religious beliefs of the men who settled our country, made it an independent nation and established and maintained its constitution and its laws."

SEIZURE OF DSTILLING APPARATUS VALUED AT $200,000

New York, Feb. 22.—After a hand to hand fight in the darkness of a subcellar, lighted only by the fires under the two immense stills, three prohibition agents today arrested two men for violation of the Volstead act and and seized liquors and distilling apparatus valued at $200,000.

To outward appearances the premises raided were occupied by a trucking company. When the government men bargained for a shipment of rum, they were led through underground passages to a sub-cellar where a 100 gallon and a 500-gallon still were in operation. Liquor in kegs and casks filled the room. When they disclosed their identity the lights went out and there was a sharp fight before the two bootleggers were made prisoners. A printing press and a quantity of counterfeit labels of all kinds were found.

GLIMMER OF HOPE FOR BONUS BILLS SOON DOUSED

Washington, Feb. 22.—Soldiers bonus advocates in the house were given a glimmer of hope today by Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee, author of the measure vetoed by resident Harding, but it proved short lived.

Mr. Fordney, addressing the house on the British debt settlement, said Secretary Mellon had told him that he had no objection to the use of the money received from the foreign debt, principal and interest, in financing a bonus for former service men after the money had been obtained.

Mr. Mellon, when his attention was called to Mr. Fordney's remarks said he had no recollection of having made the statement and it was reiterated at the treasury that he adhered to his position that the government was obligated to apply at least the interest from the debt to the retirement of Liberty bonds.

The treasury secretary communicated with Mr. Fordney by telephone and the Michigan representative stated later that evidently he had misunderstood Mr. Mellon and would strike his remarks from the record of the house proceedings. He added that at the first opportunity he would make an explanation of the matter to the house.

GERMANY CONTRACTS FOR 35,000 TONS RUSSIAN GRAIN

Berlin, Feb. 22 (By the A. P.).—It is reported from Hamburg that the German federal grain bureau has contracted for 35,000 tons of Russian grain to be loaded at several Black sea ports, including Odessa. No record can be found here of any arrivals of Russian grain by sea, but about 15,000 carloads of barley and vetch has come by railroad through Libau and Riga.

It is known privately that the bolshevist government permitted 3,000 tons of grain to be shipped to Helsingfors some time ago and it was reported that Russian grain also was contracted for in Stockholm. On receipt of this news, the Swedish Red Cross announced that it would not attempt further relief work in Russia, as the public would not buy grain to send to a country which was exporting grain.

This statement was disconcerting to Dr. Fridtjof Nansen and other promoters of relief work who are engaged in campaigns for funds in various European countries and Argentina, which have been greatly hindered by the Russian grain exports and prospective exports.

Bolshevist leaders say the old Russian government exported grain in famine years to keep up the gold fund but this is denied by anti-bolshevist Russians outside Russia.

N. Y. GARMENT WORKERS TO RETURN TO WORK

New York, Feb. 22.—Eleven thousand workers employed by members of the Association of Dress Contractors will return to work Monday as the result of a vote by the union today to settle the three weeks' strike in the industry. The union was said to be negotiating a separate settlement with the unorganized contractors which would lead to 12,000 more workers returning to work within a few days.

The terms of the agreement between the union and the contractors include a forty-hour week, piece work, double time for overtime of not more than four hours, a ten per cent increase for piece work and week workers receiving the same for a 40-hour week as they formerly received for 44 hours.

There are still 6,000 workers out on strike against the open shop in the industry. The increased cost of labor in the industry will be met, it was announced, by a ten per cent increase in the contractors' prices to the jobbers in the trade.

DISAPPEARANCE OF 476,000 GALLONS OF MOLASSES

Baltimore, Feb. 22.—An investigation by customs inspectors and internal revenue agents into the mysterious disappearance of 476,000 gallons of "black strap" molasses from the cargo of the steamship William Isom has so far proved unproductive. Today, according to Galen L. Tait, collector of internal revenue, the disappearance of the molasses in just as much a mystery as ever.

Neither the captain nor the agents of the vessel could explain how a half cargo of molasses could disappear from the steamer and if it was stolen, why.

Counterfeiting Plot Was International

Fifteen Persons Have Been Arrested in England, Egypt, Germany, France, Cuba, Austria and the Bahamas.

New York, Feb. 22.—With the international counterfeiting system wrecked by secret service agents who laid its workings bare yesterday and with 500 to 600 persons connected with the ring in a dozen countries, under arrest, federal legal authorities today prepared for a court fight to send the counterfeiters to jail for the maximum term of 45 years.

While court evidence was being set in order, the dragnet of the secret service was extended to most of the large cities of the United States to catch hundreds of "passers" of counterfeit money, implicated by clues captured in Tuesday's raids here, who will be treated the same way the manufacturers were treated.

Joseph A. Palma, chief of the special secret service squad, which for eight months tracked the makers and distributors of spurious money, gave evidence of the widespread international ramification of the plot by announcing that 15 persons had been arrested in England, France, Egypt, Germany, Cuba, Austria and the Bahamas, as a result of information furnished by the American secret service.

New York police who began an independent investigation, professed to find a direct connection between the counterfeit plot and scores of hitherto unsolved gang murders of the past few years.

Several of the murders, we believed to have resulted from passage of bogus money, and from double dealing in the ranks of the counterfeiters. A number of crimes, was said, had been committed in a near the Broome street cafe owned by John Di Rosa, arrested yesterday as one of the ring's large wholesalers of counterfeits.

Palma agreed that scores of important criminals were in the ranks of the counterfeiters. "Some of them were the 'scum of the underworld,' because they did not attempt to pass their spurious money on banks or alert people, but preyed upon the ignorant.

Immigrants unfamiliar with American money were the easiest victims, but the gang also hunted out small stores kept by old women, and stores left at times in charge of children.

Mr. Palma said it was probable the counterfeiters themselves had nothing to do actually with the importation or sale of contraband liquor or narcotics, but that the bootleggers and dope smugglers bought fake money from them with which to make their purchases abroad.

Secret service men are ploughing up on all possible sources of information thrown open to them by yesterday's round-up to ascertain whether the counterfeiting conspirators turned over the vast quantities of narcotics they bought to independent gangs or whether they used their own nation-wide organization for their distribution.

Seizure of large quantities of counterfeit internal revenue stamps, physicians' liquor prescription blanks and Quebec liquor stamps in yesterday's raids indicated, secret service men said, that the counterfeiters, in addition to making vast purchases of liquor from international rum runners, were also in league with illicit manufacturers of whiskey in interstate traffic.

Some of the dies used in making spurious specie were smuggled here from Italy in large cheeses, officials said today.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS BET AT HAVANA RACES

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 22.—Bookmakers and pari-mutuel receiving tellers at Oriental park have been on the hook out for months as an outcome of attempts early in the season to put counterfeit American bills into circulation through races on the track, it was learned today at the Cuba-American Jockey and automobile club.

Police headquarters tonight the belief was expressed that counterfeit American paper money which has cropped up from time to time during the last year was circulated by native victims of American contraband runners who are engaged in smuggling drugs, aliens and liquor into the United States.

No comment was made at the headquarters of the detective force on the report that tips from the American secret service had resulted in the arrest here of alleged members of the counterfeiting gang being rounded up in the United States.

Bridgeport, Feb. 22.—Reports on the fuel shortage in this city and southern Connecticut tonight revealed what is regarded as the most serious situation thus far this winter. Stamford was the only city reporting a fair supply of fuel, enough coal being on hand to last a week, with further shipments in sight.

SHIPPING BILL NOW SEEMS DOOMED BY THE FILIBUSTER

No Abatement in Filibuster in Senate Which Began Monday Night—Unless Action is Taken by Saturday It is Probable That Other Legislation Will be Taken Up—At 11:38 Last Night a Recess Was Taken Until 11 O'Clock This Morning.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Buttressed by another day of filibuster in the senate, the administration shipping bill tonight appeared headed toward its doom. The end seemed likely not later than Saturday on a motion to recommit the legislation or to displace it with another bill.

The filibuster which began Monday night, continued unabated through the day and into the night. During its progress there were a number of private conferences between republican senators and later between republican and democratic leaders in which negotiations were conducted for definite action by Saturday night so that the final week of the session might be left open to the consideration of other pressing legislation.

Opponents of the ship bill, after canvassing the strength of their forces openly said for the first time that they had enough votes to get the measure out of the way unless its supporters could obtain some action upon it within the next two days. The prospect of the supporters being able to do this appeared dark, and grew darker with each hour that the flow of talk continued.

Several senators who have been mildly favorable toward the bill, privately admitted during the day that they would not continue their support of the measure much further, if it continued to block other legislation. One senator, Willis, republican, Ohio, stated on the floor that he desired to ascertain if the bill was to be killed by filibustering, or if not, he said, there were many other bills, including some he was interested in which should be taken up. Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, later plainly told the senate that it was the intention of those opposed to the legislation to kill it by any legitimate means and that he considered filibuster legitimate.

The opinion of senators as to the means of bringing the filibuster to an end differed. Some opposing recommittal and favoring displacement by another bill. Either methods, it was generally conceded, meant the death of the ship measure. General agreement seemed to prevail, however, that nothing should be attempted until the bill was given at least another day of life.

President Harding had not been apprised of the proposed move late in the day so far as could be ascertained, but it was thought likely that a number of republican senators would be called to the White House for conference tomorrow.

The filibuster today consisted for the most part of a speech by Senator McKellar, begun at 1.15 o'clock and continued through the afternoon and into the night. He first read a recent editorial in a Washington newspaper, which he described as "the administration organ," condemning the filibuster, and then bringing forth two huge volumes of the newspaper read at length editorials published in 1915 approving the filibuster then conducted against the Wilson administration's ship purchase bill. He also read liberally from the speeches made by Senator Jones, republican, Washington, in charge of the pending bill, and Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, both of whom participated in the filibuster of 1915.

The Tennessee senator, as he continued, seemed to be after the record set Tuesday by Senator Shepard, democrat, Texas in speaking consecutively for about seven hours. Half a dozen other opponents of the bill were awaiting their turn to take the floor, Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, announcing that he was next in line.

Senator McKellar concluded early tonight, having held the floor for five and one-half hours, but he gave notice that he expected to speak again on the subject of filibusters.

Senator Brookhart, who followed Mr. McKellar, said he considered the day auspicious for a fight of the the character then progressing, since it was the "natal day of George Washington, the world's greatest filibusterer."

Frankly declaring that a filibuster was on, Senator Brookhart, in his speech addressed to the wide expanse of vacant chairs on the floor and the [illegible] galleries, outlined the plans of what he referred to as the "battle of death." A half dozen republican senators, he said, "mixed up" about [illegible] then republican [illegible] with democrats fighting in all the time were cooperating in the filibuster.

He named Senators Couzens, Michigan; Ladd, North Dakota; Norris, Nebraska; LaFollette, Wisconsin; and Borah, Idaho, as republicans having speeches ready for delivery, together with Senator Fletcher, Fla; Heflin Alabama; Harrison, and other democrats. The opposition group also had won the support, by "miracles," he said, of Senators Lenroot and Gooding.

An unusual feature of Senator Brookhart's speech was his direct addressing of the gallery crowds. He advised them to read certain books if they desired to obtain more information on the subject he discussed and promised to inform the speakers if the senate door keepers would not "let 'em get away."

Senator Brookhart said that Senator Couzens planned to discuss the question of subsidy and "start about the time of Noah's Ark." The speech of Senator Ladd, the Iowa senator said, "was going into the scientific side" of the question, while Senator Norris would present "geological and prehistoric phases." Senator La Follette, the speaker added, was to take up political phases.

"But we cannot possibly make our records before March 4, unless these night schools run longer than midnight," he declared.

Senator Brookhart predicted that farm bloc senators would wear overalls in the senate. Referring to his recent statement that he preferred overalls to evening clothes, and to editorial quips that overalls might be worn in the senate, he said:

"The farm bloc is going to do that some of these days, so look out for it."

Efforts were promised by Senator Brookhart to get a few more sets of overalls" in the senate and house.

He said he had two desks full of material for speaking and planned to [illegible] another section of the speech another day of filibuster or in the senate the day after tomorrow got in ahead to complete some phases of it before sunrise. He waved away a glass of water brought by a page, stating that he never drank anything stronger, and not even water when making a speech.

Railroad questions, including financing, alleged efforts during the war to discredit government operations, high rates and other phases of the subject were discussed at great length by the Iowa senator. He referred to to railroad officials as "bird dogs" in recalling that they had called him a "bolshevik."

Toward the end of the third hour of Senator Brookhart's speech, Senator King, democrat, Utah, arrived with his arms loaded to the chin with books and paper, which he spread out in careful preparation for an onslaught at the first favorable opportunity.

After Senator Brookhart had spoken for nearly four hours, leaders arranged privately for a recess until 11 o'clock tomorrow, but a hitch developed and roll calls began on a democratic point of no quorum. Meanwhile telephone calls went out summoning absentees.

After a half dozen roll calls on proposal of Senator Curtis, Kansas, assistant republican leader, a recess was tomorrow. The concluding hours of the taken at 11.38 o'clock until 11 o'clock long session of more than 18 hours showed no change in the situation with reference to the bill. Provision was made in voting a recess for an executive session tomorrow to consider confirmation of nominations before proceeding with the shipping bill fight.

DEBT FUNDING BILL READY FOR SIGNATURE

Washington, Feb. 22.—The British debt funding arrangement today was one step nearer completion, congressional approval of the act ratifying the recently negotiated settlement with Great Britain having been completed today. Only the signature of President Harding is required to permit the treasury to exchange formal settlement agreements. Congressional action was completed when the house accepted senate changes in the British settlement bill without modification.

As a result of the congressional approval and with the signature of the president assumed to be certain, treasury officials began the drafting of the indentures which are to be exchanged between the United States and Great Britain and which will put into operation the program for refunding over sixty-two years the British war time debt of $4,600,000,000.

The indentures will embody the terms accepted by the British government and prescribe the methods of payment, all of which were tentatively worked out between the two debt funding commissions in their recent negotiations. British internal bonds covering the amount of the debt will be deposited with the United States treasurer.

Decision as to the denomination of the bonds which this government will hold has been held in abeyance until it can be determined what sizes will best suit the convenience of the government which is to pay them. Treasury officials however, declare that several of them will be the bonds of largest denomination ever produced.

FRENZIED CAREER OF ABSCONDING BANKER

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(By the A. P.)—An immigrant from Italy of a dozen years ago who made West Side leader in Chicago, is at the stage to-night along the Mexican border while bankers on state officials in the east and middle west trace his career in frenzied finance, a career which has already cost investors from a half million to a million dollars or more.

The missing banker is Joseph M. Marcino, or Joseph B. Diata, a dapper man, 37 years old, just a little over five feet tall, and remarkably broad. "If you see a man about five feet two, and almost three feet broad, it's Marcino," a Burns detective who is directing the search said today.

While detectives are searching for Marcino, who disappeared in Buffalo, N. Y. last Friday after he is alleged to have peddled nearly $500,000 worth of stolen securities, Frank L. Taylor, ex-railroad president who rose to the position of [illegible] president of the First National bank of Warren, Mass., when Marcino obtained control of the institution, is awaiting arraignment tomorrow on a charge of embezzling national bank funds.

Taylor told Burns agents who arrested him that he at one time worked for the Burns agency and also had been a secret agent of the department of justice.

Burns agents here figure the known losses from Marcino's operations at $1,591,000, and say that they expect much more to appear before the investigation is completed.

LEGISLATURE'S HOLIDAY SESSION PRODUCED MANY EMPTY SEATS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 22.—Judging from the way senators and representatives attended the sessions of the senate and house today, the holiday session was not a very popular one, for there were many vacant seats in both senate and house. The session of the general assembly was a short one and the action taken was on minor bills.

The house was called to order by Speaker Nickerson and prayer was offered by Chaplain Coolidge and was appropriate to the day.

No bills on the calendar were ready for action but on motion of Representative Talcott of Vernon, H. B. 263 allowing the First Baptist church of Shelton to amend its charter by increasing the number of trustees and H. B. 585 concerning a tobacco research commission and H. B. 198 concerning a grant for poultry exhibitions were sent to the committee on appropriations. H. In connection with the senate unfavorable reports on Senate Bill 264 concerning the taxation of estates, Senate Bill 393, concerning exemption from the succession tax of gifts, Senate Bill 257, concerning inspection of public institutions, for fire prevention, on the public welfare committee which does that power and Senate Bill 390, concerning the establishment of a town court in East Haven were rejected.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the following bills: Concerning reimbursement to towns for support of paupers in humane institutions; exemption of gifts from the succession tax; inspection of institutions regarding fire protection, concerning the town court of East Haven. The reports were accepted and the bills rejected. Under suspension of rules the bills were transmitted to the house.

JEWETT CITY

The class of '23 R. G. S., held its mid-year social in the assembly hall Wednesday evening. About 40 couples enjoyed themselves during the evening. The following program was given:

Grand march, fox trot, rug drill, victory waltz, fox trot, Virginia reel, waltz, broom drill, fox trot, marching through Jerusalem, waltz, fox trot, good night waltz.

Refreshments were served. George Washington programs were furnished by iss Irene Warner the art instructor.

A man moved away from Jewett City the other day. He was a man close to 70 and this town had been his home for many years, it being his birth place. Among other pertinent remarks, he said: If the banks through all my boyhood and when I was a young man, had offered the savings devices and inducements, that are given today in Jewett City I would have been a rich man. The local banks are telling of the save a dime a day plan. There are silent tellers here and there to stimulate the savings idea, also handsome little portable banks, where loose silver is to be kept until a book is started.

Old Cluey Watson, says he has an idea that he has a pretty good invention, and he may soon apply for a patent on it, if he can get one of them Washington fellers up here to see how it works. It is a device for sheltering a set trap from snow and he figures on plenty of more snow yet.

When Cluey tells one of his lynx stories, he always has plenty of interested listeners. And he says, he likes to read them himself in The Bulletin, a pleasure that is evidently shared by many of his friends.

He says: One "time I was trapping in the Moosehead region, I recollect coming out one night into an opening known as Dolman's Clearing. The place had a bad name and was generally shunned by hunters. A murder was said to have been committed there some years before; and there as the usual booth about the old log house being haunted. It was a dismal sort of place. Commonly I should have preferred camping out to spending the night there; but it had been raining several days, every bush was a shower bath, and I was thoroughly soaked, a fact which made any kind of a shelter where a fire could be kindled, look inviting.

"The old house was in a very tumbled down condition. The doors and windows, if there ever were any, were gone. But there was a loft, having a loose floor with a trapdoor hole, where there had probably been a ladder some time. Well, I built a fire, cooked my supper, dried my clothes, and, being pretty well tired out, soon went to sleep. I don't know how long I had slept; but some time along in the night, I found myself wide awake with a terrific screech ringing in my ears, such a pealer, that I was on my feet before I was fairly awake.

My fire had gone down, and it was dark as Egypt. I confess I was a little scared. All the nonsense I'd heard about old Dolman's ghost popped into my mind; and there, in the night I felt half inclined to swallow it. I hadn't seen a single human being for more than three weeks; and had got kinder lonesome, I suppose. All was still enough now. It had slacked up raining, and the fire flies were flitting about. I went out and listened. Everything seemed quiet and regular; and, after poking and barking around for a while, I thought that perhaps I had been fooled by a bad dream. So I lay down again, and by and by dozed off into a drowse; for I thought I was being charmed by a black snake, and, starting, found myself staring up at the hole in the chamber floor where I saw two bright spots, about a hand's breath apart, that shone and glowed like coal of fire.

"It took me a moment to collect my wits, and then I knew it must be some animal of the cat kind. I put my hand out for my rifle, and the moment I stirred, there came another yawl. The gun wasn't where I thought I had put it; and knowing the creature would jump, I sprang up just as he leaped down through the hole. If I'd only got hold of the gun I might have shot him, for he stood glaring at me a moment, with his back up, making a queer wheezing noise, then bounded through one of the window holes and disappeared. I knew it must be a lynx by his peculiar screech. He was probably up in the loft when I came in, and had been watching me all night, until, getting uneasy or hungry he began to scream."

FOUR FAST BOXING BOUTS FEATURE WASHINGTON SMOKER OF B'NAI BRITH

Four fast boxing bouts, three resulting in a draw and one in a decision for Young Bruso, featured the smoker of the B'Nai Brith held in the spacious store of Schwartz Bros., on Main street Thursday evening. Boxing was not the only attraction there being solos by local talent and a contortionist act by Harry Watkins.

The four round bout between Battling Falcone and Young Bruso opened the evening's entertainment. Both boys showed lots of pep and go with the advantage being with Bruso throughout the four rounds.

One of the most interesting and snappiest bouts of the evening was the four round go between Ike Cohen and Pat Nolan, two boys of tender age who have ambitions to become champs some day. For aggressiveness and willingness to mix things up these two lads had much on their older brothers for from the first tap of the gong until the last these lads slugged, punched and slammed each other about the ring until they were weary. Neither had much on the other and the go was declared a good draw.

When Frankie Busch and Young Bruckner mixed it in the sim-final the audience was treated to some real heavy boxing. Although the bout was merely a friendly exhibition it developed into a great slugging match. Busch showed that he has the making of a fast light-heavyweight with a little more experience and even today would give some of the professional boys a tough battle. Busch has a wicked punch and is in such condition as to take some good wallops without damage. His footwork was good and showed a good knowledge of the game. Bruckner was a little slow and was weak on the infighting but managed to land frequently with a right to the head and a left jab. Both boys fought at top speed over the four round route and the bout was declared a draw.

The star bout of the evening was a six round go between "Kid" Miller, of this city and Tommy LaJester of North Adams, Mass. LaJester substituted for Battling Roberts of Fitchburg, and outweighed Miller by an easy 25 pounds. The bout gave local people a chance to see the local bantamweight in action for the first time and the majority were pleased with the exhibition. Owing to the wide difference in weight Miller was not able to show up as well as with a boy of his own size but his showing was very creditable considering the odds. The bout was fast and interesting, Miller being plenty willing to mix it with his heavier opponent and his aggressiveness won a draw for him. LaJester hit with heaving swings and jabs that crashed through Miller's guard time after time but did not seem to bother the lighter boy. Miller resorted wholly to a left and right swing and landed frequently but without damage. With a little more experience Miller should stand out among the amateurs in this vicinity as a clever boy. He has good footwork but lacks some of the finer rudiments of infighting and defense.

Alex Pasnik was referee and Rube Hyman was timekeeper.

After the bout refreshments of sandwiches and soda were served by th ecommittee in charge. The other entertainment of the evening included two tenor solos by Eddie Connelly, local Irish tenor, and a few stories. Frank R. Murdy rendered two pleasing selections, King of the Winds, Am I, and that catchy ballard, Oh, How I Envy McGinty. Vincent Dixon and Alex Pasnik entertained during the evening with stories and dancing. Another pleasing feature was the contortionist act by Harry Watkins, the human pretzel. Mr. Watkins also told a number of good humorous stories.

JOIE RAY ADDS ANOTHER CUP TO HIS COLLECTION

Boston, Feb. 22.—The Boston mile trophy was added to the collection of Joie Ray, Illinois A. C. when he easily out-stripped a fast field at the annual track meet of the Massachusetts American Legion. Although competition was lacking in the last two laps of the race, Ray was able to finish in 4 minutes, 26 seconds, the fastest time recorded in races for the trophy. In 1921 Ray's time was 4:32 and in 1922 it was 4:26 1-5.

Bob Brown, former Cornell star and once two mile intercollegiate titlist, who finished second, gave Ray his only competition after the race was well under. He fell back in the final two laps and finished about a quarter of a lap behind.

Walter Kopish of Columbia University won the first leg of the Colonel William A. Gaston trophy at 600 yards. Joe Tierney of Holy Cross, pressed him hard.

The Finnish-American A. C. easily carried off honors in the two man team race, defeating Dorchester Club, St. Alphonsus Association and Holy Cross. This contest was run off after the manner of a six-day bicycle race, each man running as long as he wished before his team mate would take up the burden. Willie Ritola, and his partner, Prim, had almost lapped the field before the three miles were up.

The relay race between the New York and Massachusetts American Legion team suplied a real thrill. It resulted in a win for Massachusetts, despite Miks Devaney's great finish for New York when he almost overtook his rival after trailing by a quarter of a lap.

FIRPO WILLING TO FIGHT HIS WAY TO MATCH WITH JACK DEMPSEY

New York, Feb. 22.—Declaring confidence in his ability to fight his way to a match with Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship, Luis Angel Firpo, giant South American pugilist, reached New York today after a voyage of 21 days from Buenos Aires.

Accompanied by his secretary, Alfred Guerrieri; sparring partner, Carlos Seaglia, a promising light-heavyweight; and an interpreter, Firpo was welcomed by an enthuiastic delegation of his countrymen, headed by Ernest C. Perez, Argentine Consul General. He faced a battery of cameramen at the pier for more than two hours after his arrival.

After a conference with promoter Tex Rickard at Madison Square Garden, he announced he would begin active training tomorrow, at the garden gymnasium for his bout March 12 with Bill Brennan, of Chicago.

"I know Brennan will give me the hardest fight I've ever had," Firpo declared, "but I am sure I can whip him. Mr. Rickard has promised me a match with Dempsey, if I defeat Brennan, but I am willing to fight other contenders before meeting the champion. Today I received a telegram from Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, saying he could not sign me before six or eight months. That suits me perfectly. I will want that much time to prove my right to challenge him."

Rickard declared he regarded Firpo as the most promising of the younger heavyweight contenders and looked for him to emerge as a logical contender for the crown.

"If he defeats Brennan," continued the promoter, "I may match him with the winner of the Floyd Johnson-Jess Willard contest, scheduled at the Yankee stadium on May 12."

Rickard asserted that Firpo resembled Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champion, more closely than any other fighter he had ever seen. The South American bronzed and massively built, weighs between 225 and 230 pounds now and is close to 6 feet, 3 inches tall. His normal fighting weight is about 220.

Jimmy Deforrest, of Jersey City, who trained Jack Dempsey for the bout in which he won the heavyweight title from Jess Willard, at Toledo, and who also handled Firpo when the latter was in the United States last year, may take charge of the South American's conditioning again.

Miss Cottet is driving well but she is weak around the greens as her recent defeat at the hands of Mrs. Caleb Fox, 62 years old, evidenced at Belmar. Wiseacres say that Miss Cottet should delay her entrance in the British open as she is too much of a youngster and the game is not certain as yet.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Now, I suppose you've been wondering since yesterday what became of Little Jack Rabbit after he jumped into the old hollow stump to get away from Mr. Wicked Wolf. Well, you haven't wondered nearly as much as that old wicked wolf has, let me tell you. Why, he was so puzzled that he sat down and took an almanac out of his pocket and read it all through, but even then, he didn't know as much as he did before.

"Goodness me!. Where has that little bunny gone?" he said and then he jumped right into the old hollow stump, head first, ker-plump, just like that, down, down, he went, until all of a sudden, he landed somehow, he didn't know just where.

"Goodness me! Where has that little bunny gone?" he said.

And then, all of a sudden, a voice said:

"You robber bold, how can you dare To jump down here from way up there?"

"I beg your pardon," said Mr. Wicked Wolf, and he fixed his cravat, which was all loose and not tied in a nice little knot. "I'm sorry to trouble you but the fact is, I was anxious about a little rabbit who jumped in here before I did. Have you seen him? I can't see you, but maybe you saw him."

"I'll let you see me pretty soon," said the voice and then Mr. Wicked Wolf began to get afraid. At first, you see, he wasn't scared a bit, but when he heard the voice say that, he began to tremble and wabble and his long bushy tail to droop on the ground.

"Let me out, please do," he said and I'll never trouble Little Jack R. Bbit again."

"Very well, then. Cross your heart and say:

"I'll never break my word,
For fear I'll break my heart,
So, I'll give you my promise,
And then, we'll kindly part."

And when Mr. Wicked Wolf had done that, the voice said again:

"Now turn to your right and you'll see a little ladder."

And sure enough, there was a little ladder running right up the inside of the old hollow stump and goodness me, as soon as Mr. Wicked Wolf saw that ladder, he went up it even faster than a bricklayer with a hod of bricks on his back and in less time than I can tell it, he was out on the Sunny Meadow and off for his home in the Shady Forest, for he lived, you remember, not very far from the Big Brown Bear's Cave.

And now, I suppose you are still wondering where Little Jack Rabbit was, but I had, to get rid of that dreadful wolf first before I could tell you. Well, as soon as Mr. Wicked Wolf was out of the stump, which was very dark inside, you know, somebody turned on the electric light way down at the bottom and who do you suppose it was? Why, Mr. Miner Mole. It was he who had been talking to Mr. Wicked Wolf all the time and in the next story you shall hear where Little Jack Rabbit was, for I haven't a bit more room in this one to say another word.

Harding To Restore Ousted Employees

KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK

James L. Wilmeth, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who was dismissed in March, 1922, may be reinstated following the announcement that President Harding has taken up personally the question of reinstating the division and section chiefs of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who were dismissed last March. "For the good of the service" under circumstances of much mystery. In connection with the announcement it was disclosed that while the President thought there might have been some petty dishonesty in the bureau, he is now convinced that there has been no conspiracy to defraud the Government through the duplication of war bonds, but that it was due mainly to mechanical errors and carelessness.

GET AT THE FACTS.

Much is to be said in support of the idea of having a committee appointed by tonight's special town meeting for the purpose of digging into and getting the facts concerning the high school situation in Norwich for presentation to an adjourned meeting.

The matter has been brought to attention by the trustees of the Academy because the crowded condition of that institution calls for action of some kind in the immediate future and naturally they are desirous of knowing what the town figures doing that they may be able to govern their activities accordingly.

There doesn't appear to be any doubt as to what the trustees are willing to do. But there isn't anything of any definite character concerning alternative propositions, as he there would be if the whole situation had been carefully gone over by a committee and a report on the matter was available for consideration.

From all indications it is the purpose of those who are backing the committee idea to have all the facts set forth, and that is certainly desirable. It is in the interest of a thorough understanding and sound judgment.

Whatever is done tonight the meeting is one that ought not to be neglected. It concerns a matter of supreme importance. It should be dealt with on its merits with the future welfare of the town thoroughly in mind, both educationally and financially.

It is not to be overlooked of course that Norwich is floating a quarter of a million dollar bond issue for schools next month and that such additional outlays as are made from necessity should get the businesslike treatment that they deserve.

The citizens of Norwich cannot afford to neglect so important a question as that which is before tonight's town meeting.

FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION IS NEEDED.

What the fire at Ward's island insane hospital has done is shown by the special message of the governor of New York to the legislature in that state asking for a referendum on the issuance of $50,000,000 for the construction of fireproof buildings for the housing of the insane.

The situation is, all probability isn't any worse than it was last year or three or five years ago, except possibly the failure to provide for the steadily increasing number who need the benefits or restraints of such institutions, and yet the dangers of overcrowding and unsafe buildings have been clearly set forth by the loss of life through the fire at Ward's island.

Not only was the demand for fireproof buildings emphasized by the large loss of life, but there was also accentuated the great need for much better fire fighting facilities for that institution. And, if it is a fact that it was not electric wiring that was responsible for the fire but dirt and other accumulations that resulted from spontaneous combustion that condition is something that calls for attention until new buildings can be obtained.

Public institutions are much like the highways in that it pays to erect buildings that will overcome apparent dangers quite the same as it does to build roads that will withstand the wear and tear and not have to be replaced every few years. The preventive and protective value of the fireproof building where the lives of large numbers of irresponsible inmates are at stake cannot be safely disregarded.

The New York fire comes at a time when it is certain to set other states to thinking about overcrowded conditions concerning the insane, and the provisions that are taken against fire where such patients are concerned. It has taken a large loss of life to get New York aroused to the seriousness of such a situation. Their need is for more buildings and fireproof construction.

APPLYING RULES WITH REASON.

When the law was enacted which restricted the number of hours a train crew is permitted to work it was done for the protection of the employes and the traveling public. There were certain provisions concerning the carrying out of the requirements but it was anticipated that they would be applied with a dash of common sense.

No one will see any great amount of injustice in making it unlawful for railroad employes to be kept in continuous employment for over 16 hours. Those who have been at work that long are certainly entitled to relief. It is for the good of the railroads, the protection of the public and the rights of the employe. But it is to be expected that it will be applied with reason.

Recently in Ohio a freight crew had been at work for 16 hours. When that time arrived, according to the reports, the freight train was stopped on the main line without any warning signals being displayed and the crew went into the caboose and went to sleep. Not long afterwards an express came along and there was a rear-end collision resulting in deaths.

For the protection of others, but also for the protection of themselves in the caboose, the other train should have been flagged. Such a proceeding would have caused some delay but would not have been open to criticism had it occurred an hour's distance or so from a turnout or a railroad yard, but in this instance the train had been left on the main track within a few minutes run of a railroad yard and regardless of the fact that crews are expected to take trains to points of safety under such conditions.

The 16-hour law was established to avert just such conditions as that referred to, and without question it would have had there been a proper regard for the provisions of the safety law. A case rather than the improper application of the rule would have averted a wreck and saved lives.

THE GRAND TRUNK EXTENSION

Hopes are again revived by those who have been anticipating the completion of the Grand Trunk extension from Palmer to Providence that the work which has already cost seven million dollars will be carried to completion.

Possibly the day will come when that piece of road will be in operation, but there is nothing to indicate that it will be soon, and there is no certainty that it will ever be finished.

New encouragement is given to the supporters of the idea by the fact that the chief engineer of the Grand Trunk has appeared before the legislative committee of the Massachusetts legislature seeking an extension of three years as the period in which it can be completed. That move is what was made before and it is what can be expected to be repeated. There is no likelihood that any other would undertake the task and in view of the fact that such a large sum has already been spent in getting the right of way and grading there would seem to be no serious objection to the continuation of the charter as sought.

Seeking an extension, however, doesn't mean the early resumption of the construction work. It was not long ago that efforts were made in Canada to have that government dispose of lines outside the country. It was a move that had little to commend it but, when it comes to making expenditures, the prospects are that the Grand Trunk under government operation will find plenty of ways for utilizing its funds elsewhere than in this extension, even though it may not be ready to write it off as a total loss.

STOPPING AID TO RUSSIA.

When the Swedish Red Cross makes the announcement to the effect that it would attempt no further relief work in Russia, because of the news from Germany to the effect that it had contracted for 35,000 tons of Russian grain, it is the first of just such decisions as were expected.

Russia may claim that such steps are being taken for the purpose of building up a gold fund or securing funds with which to maintain the government, but it is an apparent case of looking to the world for the support of famine stricken people without properly shouldering the responsibilities that fall upon the Russians themselves.

Whether the Swedish Red Cross will be followed by others remains to be seen, but the statement to the effect that the public will not buy grain to send to a country that is exporting it is logical.

Conditions in Russia have drawn heavily upon those in other countries who were anxious to relieve the distress there. When Russia takes the position that its own people can starve unless outsiders help them, and utilizes what can easily be gotten to them, and gotten to them much cheaper than from other countries, for the purpose of bolstering up the soviet government it is natural that a halt should be called by relief agencies who have reason to feel that they are being relied upon to sustain the Russian government, which has not as yet been able to get the recognition of many others.

Raiding the pocketbooks of those throughout the world who are disposed to aid suffering humanity certainly does not make a good impression. A government which neglects those which it is able to help simply falls lower in the estimation of others. And yet there are those in this country who are continually pleading for the recognition of such a government.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Tonight's town meeting is one in which everyone should be vitally interested.

If Tutankhamen could have had more things placed in his tomb would he have been any happier?

The man on the corner says: A barking flivver may never bite but how it can spatter the water and mud!

Sympathy naturally turns to that robin whose song has been heard at different points in the past two weeks.

It is well to remember that even though the income tax is not far distant, there's a reduction in trolley fares also coming.

What if Canada should go and stop the smuggling of liquor to this country just because of the talk of embargoing coal for the dominion!

Great Britain has decided not to tax Americans. But that was before it was known so many congressmen were headed for Europe.

If this country should attempt to settle all the foreign problems that come would have us, there wouldn't be any time to look after things at home.

Maine isn't the only place where the icehouses are full, great stacks of ice piled outside and many of the sidewalks and streets are still filled with the slippery stuff.

If the idea in spending $30,000,000 for the junking of warships is to realize a larger sum from the junk it should be adopted. If it means a direct loss to the government the ships should be taken out and sunk or sold to the junkmen as they are.

GREEN PASTURES.

The elderly Mrs. Paxton read the last word of the twenty-third psalm and laid aside the book. Her hands roughened and enlarged with years of hard work, dropped into the lap of her black silk dress and wearily smoothed out the rich folds. She turned in her luxurious chair beside the east window and looked across the drive, black with automobiles, at the lake, misty and uncertain in the shadows of the winter day as were her longing eyes.

"And there is no way to get back to my 'green pastures.' "

The words came hopelessly with tears. The next instant with slight figure straightened. "But fight them as she might the unbidden thoughts would come. Her memory flashed back to the "green pastures" of well-filled, useful days in the home of Robert, her second son, before he had been taken to the hospital and Madge and the children had gone to Wisconsin.

All that seemed years ago. Yet it was only two months!

Two months? Why, it must be years that John's wife had been buying silk dresses for her husband's mother, that she might be correctly dressed on all occassions. For years that grandmother had been sleeping in this spacious, elegant room, where she might not lift her hand to make the bed; for years she had been escorted from the bottom of the wide, polished mahogany stairway, by the preoccupied, bald-headed man, who used to be her open-hearted, curly-headed Jack, to the dining room large enough to seat forty. Only two months?

A knock sounded on the door and the white-capped maid stepped noiselessly into the room. "Mrs. Paxton left word that the second chauffeur would take madam for her ride this afternoon," she announced.

"—I think I'll stay in today," the elderly Mrs. Paxton said half pleadingly. The second chauffeur, she remembered was the one who drove so recklessly that it made her heart beat uncomfortably fast.

"Yes, madam. And Mr. and Mrs. Paxton are giving a dinner party this evening before the opera. I am to help madam dress for dinner, in the gown that came yesterday," finished the maid, as she closed the door.

The elderly Mrs. Paxton's hands again became idle. How could she live through that dinner with all those strange folk who did not talk her language, and who were as foreign and strange as though from another country? "But John's wife would never excuse me from the dinner unless I was ill. She is that set on paying me all the honor she thinks is due me, now that I've come to live with them. Caroline aims to be kind and good to me, I'm sure of that," she said. Then she again closed her eyes.

There came a second knock at the door.

"Granny dear!" Grandmother Paxton shook herself a little, but did not open her eyes Truly she was getting into her dotage to imagine that she heard Madge's sweet voice. But when soft lips touched her cheek, light as thistledown, she suddenly opened her eyes and sat bolt upright "Madge child!" she cried. "Whatever brought you here?"

"You! You've just got to stand by Robert and me a bit longer." The visitor dropped on the low window-sill and two small, gloved hands reached for grandmother's. "I can't stay home with the kiddies any longer. Mr. Jones wants me to work for him again. I've found a dear little flat on a side street—it's so very reasonable. I've made all arrangements. Will you—can give up all this?"

The elderly Mrs. Paxton arose quickly and pressed an electric button. "Caroline likes to have me take a ride every afternoon at this time," she said, stepping briskly into a closet and reappearing with her wrap and bonnet. Isn't this sealskin coat a beauty? Caroline bought it for me. You are welcome to it whenever you wish. We'll go right over and see the flat and arrange about getting the furniture out of storage. John's been awful good to me about money, although I never have occasion to spend a cent. Those blessed babies, I can hardly wait to see them!"

Two weeks laster Mrs. John Paxton rang the door bell of the little flat on the side street. Her mother-in-law opened the door, trim and neat in her blue-checked gingham dress, wiping her floury hands on her snowy apron.

"Now Caroline, this is nice of you! I wish Madge was home. She's working later than usual today. She says it's wonderful how her shorthand is coming back to her. Betty, Bobby—come see Aunt Caroline. Can't I make you a cup of tea—the biscuits are just about done."

"They do smell delicious," Mrs. John Paxton said graciously. "John and I have just come from the hospital, and we've got good news. Robert will be able to be home next week. It is not going to be too hard for you, Mother Paxton?" There was a solicious note in Mrs. John's well bred voice.

Grandmother Paxton removed the from the oven. "No Caroline, I had such a good rest at your home," she said gratefully.

She disappeared for a moment in the pantry and murmered, a contented smile lighting her sweet face. "Nothing is hard when your'e in the 'green pastures' of your heart's desire.—Chicago News.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Income Tax Facts

Since interest paid may be deducted from gross income, it follows that interest received is subject to the income tax, and should be included in gross income of the recipient. Interest need not be received in cash, but it is constructively received when it is credited or held subject to call, as in the case of savings deposits and bonds. The interest on certain securities, such as United State bonds issued before September 2, 1917, the obligations of a State, Territory, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, and securities issued under the Federal farm loan act, is entirely exempt from the income tax, as is also interest credited to postal savings accounts on moneys deposited in postal savings banks. Interest, which is not taxable, however, must be reported, as indicated by questions on the income tax return.

Bonds of private corporations operating public utilities and the bonds of foreign governments are not exempt.

The interest upon United States bonds of the First Liberty Loan and all prior issues, and upon the 3½ per cent. Victory notes, is wholly exempt from normal and surtax. All other United States bonds are exempt from the normal tax, but the surtax applies to interest upon any of such bonds held in excess of certain amounts of principal, as provided for by the revenue act.

Wives of Famous Men

Josephine De Beauharnais, Wife of Napoleon

Josephine De Beauharnais, a widow, and six years his senior, was the first woman whom the great Napoleon really loved. It was her exquisite beauty that attracted the "Little Corporal" rather than her intellect, which was far inferior to his. His great love for his wife is shown by the fact that, although to everyone else with whom he came in contact he was severe and forbidding, he melted in the presence of her whose charms and grace so entered him.

But she was more like a china doll than a wife, for though she had external loveliness, she was also cold and unfeeling. She never returned in any degree the passionate love of her husband. She was frivolous and shallow, and was too intent upon Parisian gaieties to remember Napoleon when he was away.

Extracts from his letter to his wife, written when he was on his Italian campaign, demonstrate poignantly his intense devotion and his great hurt.

One letter said:

"When I am weary of the worries of my profession, when I mistrust the issue, when men disgust me, when I am ready to curse my life, I put my hand on my heart where your portrait beats in unison, I look at it, and love is for me complete happiness; and everything laughs for joy, except the time during which I find myself absent from my beloved."

From Modena he wrote,

"Your letters are as cold as if you were 50. What more can you do to make me indeed an object of compassion? Love me no longer? Eh: that is already accomplished! Hate me? Well, I prefer that!"

She was always on his mind, tormenting him with her coldness. From Verona he writes, and it seems pitful from this great man:

"I write very often and you seldom. You are naughty and undutiful; very undutiful, as well as thoughtless. It is disloyal to deceive a poor husband, an affectionate lover."

Despite his one-time ardent love for Josephine, Napoleon later divorced her, and married Marie Louise, obviously for reasons of state.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thinks School Board Should Do Investigating.

Mr. Editor: It is generally understood that a resolution will be introduced at the special town meeting for the appointment of a special committee to investigate the needs of the school education for the school children of Norwich and report at an adjourned meeting of the town. The question that the people of Norwich should give due consideration to at this time should this procedure be carried out is how, by whom and in what manner shall this special committee be appointed. Obviously it will be a hard task to pick out a committee or to authorize the selectmen to pick out committee that will function properly. In the first place this question should be decidedly purely upon its merits and in an absolutely unbiased manner. Prejudices either for or against the Academy should not be tolerated by the townspeople of Norwich. This is a matter that affects the town of Norwich and not a chosen few. Therefore the question is, who is to appoint the person or committee and what will be their special qualifications for this important work?

We have a town school board, regularly elected by the voters of Norwich to handle all matters pertaining to education. If this school board is not competent to investigate this matter then it becomes a reflection upon the voters of Norwich. It would seem that it would be hard to find, certainly a better board could not be chosen by any individual or individuals, than the present personnel of the town school board. Walter F. Lester, chairman, James C. Macpherson, Robert McNeely, Dr. Edward J. Brophy, Thomas Kelly, Esq., and William P. McGarry constitute our present school board. They were duly elected by the voters of Norwich to handle educational maters. The voters of Norwich had enough confidence in the abilities of these gentlemen to entrust this important matter, the education of our youth, into their hands. Certainly no special committee could be better qualified than our school board because the question of education is purely and primarily their function.

Nor should the town school board be allowed to quibble or to evade their responsibility in this matter. Theirs is the duty and the task of providing proper educational facilities and theirs is the duty and the task to provide high school education for the graduates of the grammar schools of Norwich. It does seem that this matter should be put squarely up to the town school board. That the people of Norwich should not cast any reflection upon the ability of this board to handle this educational affair; that the town school board should not evade this trust and its responsibility in this important matter and that there is no necessity or there should be no necessity for entrusting this matter to any special committee to be appointed or suggested by any group or coterie of politicians. Either the town school board should handle this matter or they should resign and no one could blame any member of the board for his resignation after his integrity and his ability had been questioned. We have our town school board, properly organized and properly functioning and that body alone should be commissioned, as servants of the body politic of this community, to carry out this proposition.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Job E. Hedges, who is to be the honor guest at the annual dinner of the Society of the Genesee in New York city tonight, has been prominent as a lawyer and politician in the metropolis for several decades. But it is as a public speaker that he is perhaps best known. His faculty of presenting questions in a humorous light has given to him a wide reputation as a humorits and he is in great demand as an after dinner speaker. Mr. Hedges is a native of New Jersey and a graduate of Princeton. For two years from 1895 he was private secretary to Mayor Strong of New York. For a few months he acted as a city police magistrate, and in 1900 he was made deputy attorney general of the state. In 1922 he received the republican nomination for governor of New York, but was defeated in the election. In 1910 he published a book entitled "Common Sense in Politics," in which he defended party government and made a vigorous attack on shams and fads in politics.

Stories That Recall Others

A Wise Bride.

A young husband had taken his wife to get a new hat. The clerk remembering her extravagance before married days began to show her very expensive hats, much more than the girl could afford to pay. One especially was a beautiful royal purple and orchid bonnet. The bride adored it, but knew it was more than she could afford to pay. So she bravely refused to try it.

But still the clerk persisted. "Well," at last the bride capitulated and her eyes were full of longing, "I'll try it on, but I'll tell you right now that I hope I look like the devil in it."

The Rest of the Outlay.

Pretty Aunt Grace received for valentines fro mher many admirers three books of poetry as well as some candy and flowers. Six-year-old Ben who had just started to school thought the books, so decidedly different from his first reader, decidedly queer in form. His mother told him they were the sort of books people gave for valentines.

The next day the principal brought some little books of childhood rhymes to their room to be used as supplementary readers. For a little while Ben looked at the one handed him, and then he waved his hand at the principal. "Where are the flowers and candy that came with these?" he asked.

LABOR AND LOVE

Labor and love! There are other laws
To rule the liberal action of the soul
Which fate hath set beneath they brief control,
Or lull the empty fear that racks and gnaws;
Labor! Then like a rising moon, the cause
Of life shall light thine harbor from pole to pole,
Thou shalt taste health of purpose, and the roll
Of simple joys unwind without a pause.
Love! And thy heart shall cease to question why
Its beating pulse was set to rock and rave;
Find but another heart this side the grave
To soothe and cling to—thou hast life's reply.
Labor and love! Then fade without a sigh.
Submerged beneath the inexorable wave.

The nozzles from which they issue are about one and one-half inches in diameter, and the water, the pressure of which is nearly 1,000 pounds to the square inch, is so hard that a strong man armed with an iron crowbar would be unable to drive it through the thin jet of water.

Address Upon Washington.

After another selection by the Garden City Trio, Attorney Charles L. Stewart was introduced by Toastmaster Murray for an address upon the life of George Washington.

Mr. Stewart covered the life of Washington and the great services he rendered to his country in an instructive and interesting way.

In concluding, he said:

When Washington left the presidency March 4, 1797, no one would have supposed that he had less than three years to live, but there came a time in the earthly affairs of men when they must adjourn their activities without day. That time now awaited Washington.

Falling ill of a heavy cold on Dec. 12, 1799, he developed quinsy sore throat, a malady that today would yield to modern medical science, but which in Washington's day baffled the skill of the ablest practitioners. Doctors Craik, Dick and Brown were hurried to summon [illegible], but their remedies were without avail. Bleeding was frequently resorted to, but to no result. Washington had no disillusioned regarding his condition; he knew that his end was near. He was dying. Calling his physicians and family to his bedside, he expressed regret that he was causing them so much trouble and anxiety, but remarked that it was a common duty which mankind owe to one another. In his final hours he still had his thoughts, for who will deny that phantom-like, in final review, there passed before his fading mind the memories of the long ago—Barbadoes, that beautiful isle in the southern sea where summer reigns supreme; the benumbing cold and desolate hillside at Valley Forge; the dusty road to Alexandria; the rhythmic murmur of the ox when, 25 years before, feeling hands bore him across the river and forever from the sight of his comrades in arms, and the peaceful shade of his Mount Vernon home.

When death came at twenty minutes past ten in the evening of Dec. 14, 1799, Dr. Dick, one of the three doctors in attendance, with the aid of his pocket knife, cut the cords holding the leaden weights of the clock upon the mantle in the room where Washington lay. The clock is today the priceless possession of Alexandria lodge, No. 22. The hands of the clock have never been moved from that day to this, pointing to the moment for all oncoming generations of men, when dissolution came to the great founder of this mighty nation!

My countrymen! Never in the flood of time, did the man, the country and the opportunity meet as it did in the case of Washington. How precious our inheritance this gift of a marvelous country, from our great forebear. How valuable the natural resources of our nation! How mighty its rivers! How vast its plains! How fertile its soil! How rich its mines! How abundant its forests! And with what wisdom and foresight did the fathers

Mrs. John O'Donnell.

Funeral services for Mrs. John O'Donnell were held Thursday morning at 8:15 o'clock at her late home on Central avenue, followed by a solemn high requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Father Murphy was celebrant, Rev. Father Gallen of St. Patrick's church, deacon, and Rev. C. O. Bellerose of Sacred Heart church, Taftville, sub deacon. Henry J. GREENEVILLE HOOKS' BANQUET CLOSES 35 YEARS OF FIRE SERVICE

Greeneville Hook and Ladder Co., No. 2, a volunteer company long popularly known as the Greeneville "Hooks," celebrated the close of 35 years' fire service in a blaze of all the glory possible Thursday night with a farewell banquet at the Wauregan house, singing "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," with a gusto that shook the red carnations which were used for the table decorations. But the gang was not all there, and in loving memory to one who had been a moving spirit in their annual Washington birthday banquets in the old firehouse at Greeneville the banqueters stood in silent tribute to the late Joseph H. Henderson for a moment before they sat down to eat.

For the first time in the many years these banquets have been held, the Hooks came to the Wauregan house, as the old headquarters were not available since they are now occupied by a company of the paid city fire department.

Mayor Milo R. Waters, Chief Howard L. Stanton and the three fire commissioners, Alderman Anson B. Grover and Councilmen Edward Crooks and W. H. Aldrich, were special guests, and the Washington address was eloquently given by Attorney Charles L. Stewart.

Covers were laid for 75 and the following menu was served:

Mock Turtle Soup.
Celery. Olives.
Roast Vermont Turkey, Stuffed.
Oyster Dressing. Cranberry Sauce.
Mashed Potatoes. Mashed Turnips.
French Bread.
[illegible]politan Ice Cream.
Assorted Cakes.
[illegible] Tasse.
[illegible] Cigarettes

Fancy caps and carnation boutonnieres were provided at each place and Charles W. Pearson was the song leader, music being provided by Hein's [illegible] orchestra. The singing of America opened the evening and Auld Lang Syne closed it.

William S. Murray, an ex-foreman and chairman of the arrangements committee, filled the place of toastmaster. He expressed a cordial welcome to the guests and the members of the company at the banquet, speaking of the farewell character of the event. The company was organized Sept. 26, 1888, and had annually made an occasion of the Washington birthday banquets, where the fraternal spirit that had always prevailed had been a distinguishing feature. At the 20th anniversary they had had Congressman Lilley as the special guest and always the chief executive of the city.

Mayor Waters Speaks.

Toastmaster Murray introduced Mayor Waters, who was enthusiastically applauded as he rose to speak, and the banqueters rose and sang a [illegible] to the mayor.

Mayor Waters gave expression to his pleasure in being present and congratulated the company on its years of [illegible] and upon the [illegible] spirit in preventing the [illegible] had fallen for the [illegible] of the Hooks."

The Garden City Trio from Boston gave [illegible], consisting of piano, a blackface performer with a guitar and ukulele, and a tenor in a "hop" character part, furnishing entertaining interlude before Alderman Anson B. Grover chairman of the new commissioners addressed the gathering.

Three cheers for "Ance" were given for the alderman, who responded by telling the "Hooks" that the commissioners intended to make the Greeneville firehouse one of the best in the city of Norwich.

Charles S. Twist, a charter member of the company, and an ex-foreman, spoke upon Reminiscences. He was given cheers with a tiger and he related something of the organization of the company, describing its first piece of apparatus, the formation of the company with 41 members, and some of the incidents that had made history in the past years.

Address Upon Washington.

After another selection by the Garden City Trio, Attorney Charles L. Stewart was introduced by Toastmaster Murray for an address upon the life of George Washington.

Mr. Stewart covered the life of Washington and the great services he rendered to his country in an instructive and interesting way.

In concluding, he said:

When Washington left the presidency March 4, 1797, no one would have supposed that he had less than three years to live, but there came a time in the earthly affairs of men when they must adjourn their activities without day. That time now awaited Washington.
